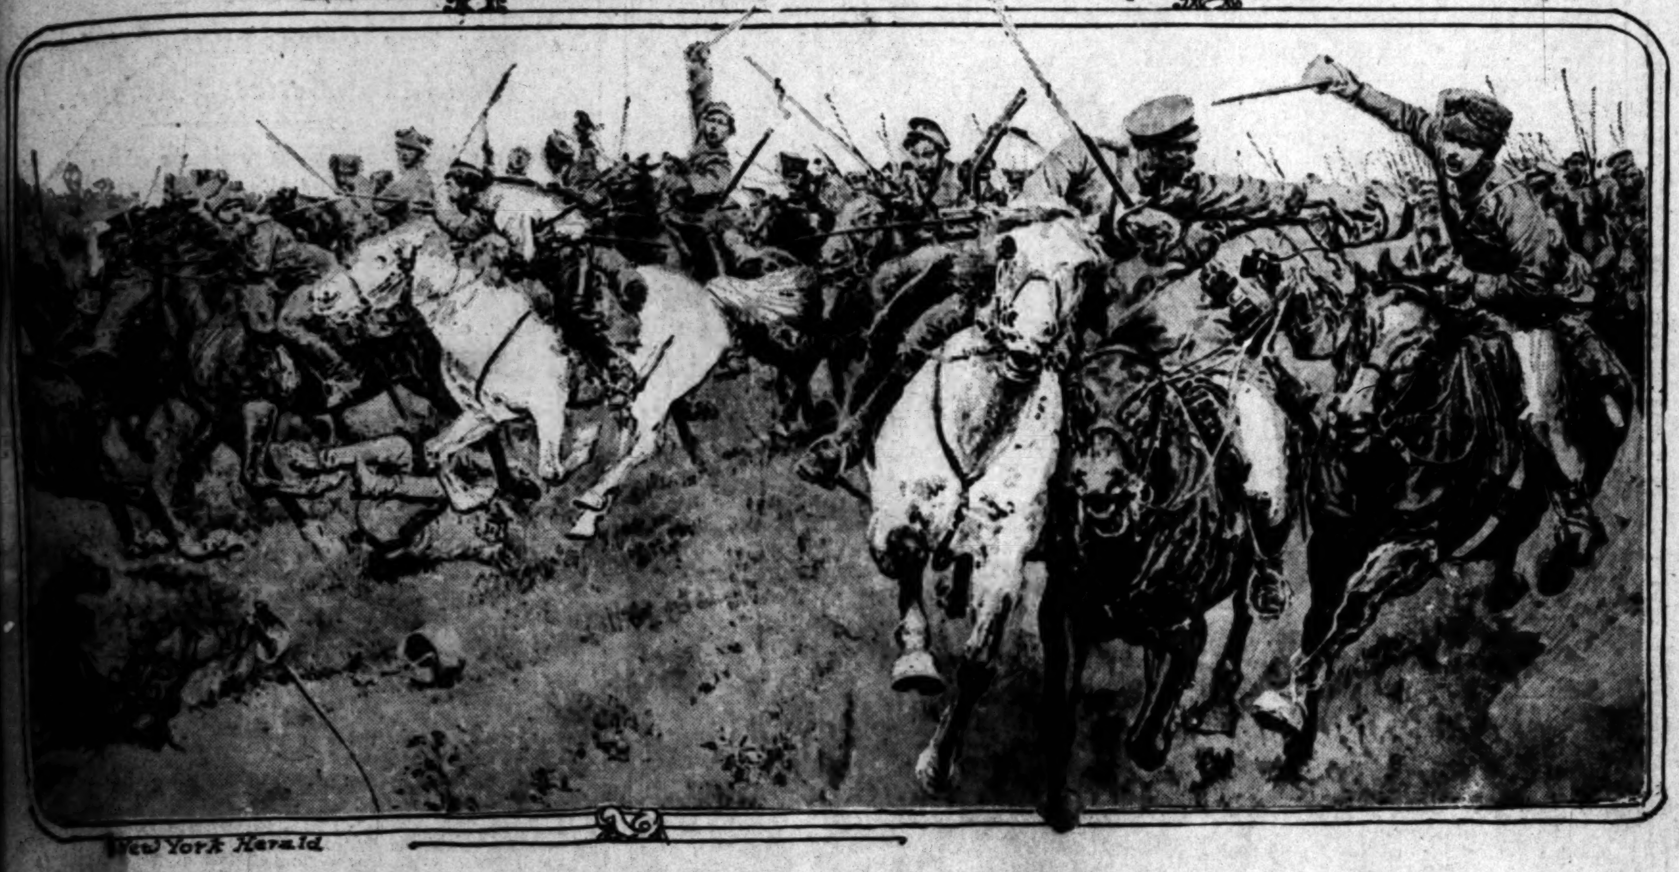
DUTCH MAY NEXT BE DRAWN INTO GREAT WAR.

Antwerp Defenders Escape; 2000 British Enter Holland.

Cossacks Charging the Death's Head Hussars of the German Army.



New York Herald

[Copyright by the New York Herald.]

A sortie between Korschen and Bartenstein, East Prussia.

B. V. [illegible] who was the English manager of a large estate in East Prussia, personally described the incident depicted in the picture to F. Matama, special artist for this newspaper, the New [illegible] and the London Sphere, upon his return to England. "On the evening of August 26," he says, "I saw the flames of burning villages round me, and at Schwansfeld, between [illegible] and Bartenstein, saw through my glasses a battle taking place between about ten thousand Germans and fifteen thousand Russians. On the German left were the Death's Head [illegible] I saw the Cossack cavalry charge them full tilt. There was a tremendous impact and hand to hand fighting, and then all of a sudden the whole German line began with one accord [illegible]. This quickened, and when the Hussars disappeared from my sight toward Bartenstein they were in a rout, with Cossacks pursuing and killing them in large numbers."

SUMMARY.

THE SKY. Clear. Wind at 5 p.m., south; velocity, 12 miles. Thermometer, highest, 76 deg.; lowest, 56 deg. Forecast: Fair. For complete weather report see last page of Part I.

THE CITY. That the titanic European war will last about a year was the consensus of opinions of military men of the West. Opinion was divided as to the outcome.

That Los Angeles city and county are growing rapidly is shown by registration figures. There are 300,596 voters in the county, or an estimated population of from 700,000 to 900,000.

The colonist season, that brought more than 10,000 new settlers to Southern California, formally came to an end.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. The son of ex-Gov. Francis of Missouri eloped with a Pasadena girl.

A South Pasadena trolley car was captured in a runaway flight.

Riverside county is prepared to pull off its annual fair this week.

PACIFIC SLOPE. Capt. Fredericks spoke before an enormous crowd at Oakland last night, several hundreds being turned away, and denounced the crimes of the "Progressives."

GENERAL EASTERN. The Austrian embassy in the East has given out a report that the Austrians have met with success in their advance through Galicia and that the Russians have been repulsed in their attack on Przemysl.

WASHINGTON. The lie was passed in Congress yesterday during a debate which followed an amendment of Congressman Mann of Chicago for a suffrage amendment to the Philippine independence bill.

MEXICO. The troops are likely to remain indefinitely at Vera Cruz, inasmuch as Carranza refuses to give any assurance of what his policy will be after the Americans evacuate.

FOREIGN. Cardinal Ferrata, Papal Secretary of State, died in Rome yesterday.

THE GREAT WAR.

THE SITUATION TO DATE. Encounters between the cavalry forces in the battle of the Aisne are reported in the French official statement issued in Paris last night.

Vigorous attacks by the Germans on the heights of the Meuse are reported by the French.

The first official admission that the British participated in the defense of Antwerp was made in London last night.

COMMENTS ON THE SITUATION.

In France, according to the official French communication issued last night, the allies are maintaining their positions in spite of the violent attacks on them by the German forces. North of the Oise the French are said to have achieved a real advantage.

On the eastern frontiers the Germans and Austrians are stubbornly resisting the Slav incursion. The Russians, it seems, are advancing slowly and the Germans have sent reinforcements to prevent another invasion of East Prussia.

Antwerp, city and forts alike, are in the hands of the Germans who, in Brussels, are trying to force German money on the Belgians. They are reported to be having some trouble to make it pass—trouble of the sort that Gen. Villa experienced in making Villa money pass on the American frontier.

London reports a "serious German check" at Quatrecht, near Ghent, where 20,000 Germans have been repulsed by French and British troops.

Opinions as stated in the dispatches seem to agree that London is the next objective of the German offensive.

The reader who would do justice to himself will not depend wholly upon the foregoing summary, comprehensive though it is, but will take in the complete news reports, which cannot be [illegible] summarized, epitomized or classified.

HUSSARS, DRAGOONS, CUIRASSIERS, LANCERS IN DREADFUL CLASH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

FROM THE BATTLE FRONT (via Paris) Oct. 10, 11:51 a.m.—Saber and lance came into play many times today. The French, British and German hussars, lancers, dragoons and cuirassiers in enormous numbers came into contact near Lille. There were no brilliant charges by long lines of horsemen to record, but the British squadron in khaki and the French in their light and dark blue uniforms often crossed swords with the blue-gray-clad Germans.

There is not an inch of ground hereabouts which does not show traces of the awful character of the battle. The town of Albert is a mass of ruins, only a church steeple remaining standing. Roye has disappeared under constant bombardment. It was the center of the German effort to break through the allied lines. The German artillery had taken advantage of many quarries in the vicinity where they placed guns which were beyond the reach of the French artillery.

Reconnoitering parties, seeking to discover the strength of their opponents, frequently came in conflict. In these engagements the soldiers would take shelter behind the many bodies on the field, or occasionally make smart dashes across the open where their arms glittered in the sunlight. But nothing occurred which could be called a general battle.

The vicinity of Arras, however, was the scene of very vigorous encounters between infantrymen, who engaged in close fighting with the bayonet after the artillery duel ceased. At some points along the line numbers of Germans approached the trenches of the allies without their rifles and offered to surrender if given food, saying that the rations at that part of the German position had run out.

Beyond Roye, where the fighting has been exceptionally severe for fifteen days, as possession of the place means control of the railroad lines and also the road to Amiens, the allies continued their efforts to dislodge the Germans, who held on with wonderful tenacity. It was necessary for the allies to conduct regular siege operations to get at them.

Farther east the French made a considerable advance in Alsace and captured some territory on the heights of the Meuse, where the Germans attacked them repeatedly, but always were beaten back. Night attacks appear to have ceased for the present except in a few isolated instances.

Gen. Sibille, a French infantry commander, has been killed by a fragment of a shrapnel shell.

Co-operation.

LOS ANGELES' HEARTY SUPPORT IS PLEDGED TO THE EXPOSITION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 10. — The great sympathetic heart of Los Angeles throbbed today in quickened unison with San Francisco, when 100 captains of industry from the Southland metropolis put their comforting arms about the exposition builders and assured them that the California big fair in 1915 will have the loyal, earnest support of every business enterprise and every individual south of the Tehachepi.

The Chambers of Commerce of Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco met upon common ground with exposition officials, the southern prosperity promoters bringing every assurance that the rest of California is satisfied with San Francisco's wonderful direction of California's great exposition, and that this satisfaction will be made still more manifest next year in the continued co-operation and support of the rest of the State.

The visit of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce members was for a double purpose. They wanted to strengthen their grasp upon trade in the great valleys that lie between the bay and the Tehachepi, and they wanted to see the exposition. All California has an interest in the exposition, which is not a San Francisco show alone by any means, and the Los Angeles business men wanted to see for themselves the exposition as it stands today.

Having given the marvelous enterprise a close inspection, the Los Angeles boosters gloried in the tremendous task that has been accomplished and resolved to return south with renewed determination to stand at the back of the builders, as they have stood in the past, only with more supporting strength and greater effectiveness to make the exposition the success it so richly deserves to be.

RECEPTION AT OAKLAND.

The Los Angeles boosters arrived in Oakland early this morning and were met by a delegation from the Chamber of Commerce, headed by President Jonas. A long line of automobiles followed the Long Beach band around Oakland, the Los Angeles business men being taken over the main streets and through the residential district. The Kilties, too, let the Oaklandites know somebody was in town.

From the roof of the new City Hall the visitors had a panoramic view of the East Bay shore, and saw the seven cities that are hewing their way to commercial greatness by getting close to the maritime trade and traffic. Seven cities, linked together in common purpose with a population of 350,000, loomed up through a scurrying fog, and across the bay they saw the exposition and the pulsing city back of it.

Out of the monotony of the trade of making money there issued a heart-touching scene when the revenue boat Slocum warped into the estuary of San Antonia. A great crowd of Oakland business men forgot business this morning, joined the 'informal reception to Los Angeles' busy men at the Oakland Hotel and then marched down to the wharf. The Slocum had on board a big delegation from the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. With the band playing, the two crowds met with a cheering enthusiasm that aroused the water front.

The Slocum, directed by Commandant Woodward, the exposition naval aide, went south into the bay and traversed the whole water front of San Francisco, landing its passengers at the exposition grounds.

In machinery palace several hundred of the representative business men of California met at luncheon. The table was set in the center of a nine-acre expanse that soon will be filled with the wonders of the machinery world. President Michaels of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce presided and greetings were extended the visitors by Supervisor Kortick, in the name of Mayor Rolph; Exposition Director McNab, Director Vogelsang and others.

The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce had played no small part in laying the foundation for San Francisco's present-day greatness, and it was the early support of the southern body that drew from Mr. McNab a hearty "thank you" today.

Director Vogelsang told the visitors that the war in Europe will not materially affect the 1915 fair. Not one of the great countries involved in the European war has canceled its space and arrangements are going on here just the same as if there was no conflict abroad. Italy is just finishing its pretty building and other countries are doing the same.

VOGELSANG OPTIMISTIC.

NEUTRALITY OF SCHELDT BECOMES VITAL ISSUE.

Fall of Antwerp May Embroil Other Nations in Titanic Struggle.

London is the Next Objective of Boastful Germans. Ferocious Fighting Continues in the North of France. Russians Make Further Advances — Reinforcements Hurried into East Prussia.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Many authorities are of opinion, now that Antwerp has fallen, that Holland may be drawn into the war. The expectation is that Germany will violate the neutrality of the Scheldt and force the issue. A prominent Dutch politician is quoted in a Paris dispatch as saying it is not the business of Holland to block the Scheldt to the Germans, who now claim the same rights over the river as the Belgians claimed.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—A statement by a prominent Dutch politician printed in the Figaro today regarding the attitude of Holland toward the possible relief of Antwerp from the sea along the river Scheldt is now of supreme interest. The interviewer put the question:

"Do you consider the Scheldt estuary, of which you hold the key at Flushing, free and open to international navigation?"

The Dutchman replied:

"We ought to watch that belligerents do not seek in our ports harbors of refuge for fleets or points d'appui (points of support) and naval bases for warlike operations. A squadron operating on our coast ought not to use the excellent harbor of Flushing or any other, but we don't consider there is any obligation on us to oppose the entry or exit of ships at the port of Antwerp. If such navigation of the Scheldt caused unforeseen difficulties, they might always be submitted to an arbitration court at the conclusion of the war."

Beyond expression of the opinion that to shut off Antwerp from access to the sea would be a hostile act on the part of the Dutch, the Figaro makes little comment on the statement. The Scheldt at Antwerp is big enough to admit a modern trans-Atlantic vessel, and consequently able to receive British battleships.

LONDON, Oct. 10, 9:35 p.m.—Antwerp and the forts surrounding the city are now in complete possession of the Germans, but the greater part of the Belgian army has escaped.

It took the Germans just eleven days to capture the strongest fortress in the world.

The fall of Antwerp is evidence that even the most powerful forts are no match for the colossal howitzers which the invaders have successfully employed against every fortified place that stood in their way. These huge guns open gaps through which the besiegers find an entrance for their field artillery and infantry.

The Germans, after shelling the city itself, for many hours, making it untenable, entered the town through the suburb of Berchem to the east. They had made a breach in the outer line of forts, some of which were destroyed by their big guns and others blown up by the defenders. The Germans followed similar plans in dealing with the inner belt of forts and at the same time threw shells into the city which set it afire in many places. The inner forts, like those further out, soon succumbed to the enormous shells, and on Friday morning several of these forts had fallen, opening the way for the Germans into the city. By mid-day they were in occupation of the town and at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the war banner on the cathedral was replaced by a white flag, indicating surrender.

A few forts continued to hold out and it was not until 11 o'clock this morning that the Germans, according to their own official report, were in complete possession of the city and fortress. When they arrived yesterday they found that the Belgians' field army and at least part of the garrison had anticipated them and, like the King and royal family, had escaped.

THE DEATH ROLL.

The death roll resulting from the attack on and defense of Antwerp, has not been compiled and probably the full details never will be known, but all accounts describe it as being terribly heavy. The Germans, although their big guns cleared a path for them, had to sacrifice many lives in crossing the rivers and canals and in driving out the defenders, who held the intrenchments until the last.

The stubbornness of the Belgians and of those who went to their assistance, cost them dearly also, so that the Germans will have long casualty lists. There is no estimate as to the loss of life in the city, and the damage there.

REFUGEES.

Crowds of refugees arrived in London today. Most of them left Antwerp Thursday night and their accounts of the attack are confused. The Belgians, themselves, besides destroying forts, blew up steamers at the docks and set fire to the petrol stores and everything that could be of use to the invaders. They also took away what the transport could carry.

Berchem, where the military and other hospitals, the orphanage and some public buildings are situated, is reported to be entirely destroyed. Even if this is an exaggeration, it must be badly damaged, as it was burning at least two days.

The Antwerp railway stations also made marks for the shells from the big guns, but, according to some of those who have reached here, the cathedral, which is on the other side of the city nearer the Scheldt, while struck, was not badly damaged. The inmates of the hospitals and other institutions were removed on Thursday, or earlier, so that they were well out of the way before the Germans arrived.

AS TO THE FUTURE.

A question which is now arising is as to the effect upon the general campaign of the German occupation of Antwerp. The Belgian garrison, or the greater part of it, escaped and is reported to be engaged with the Germans.

The strategic importance of Antwerp consisted in its menace to the German lines running through Belgium. Now matters have been re-

THE OVERSEAS PAGES TODAY.

THE Overseas Pages of today's Times, pages 1 and 2, of Part IIIa, will be found to be an interesting storehouse of judgments, views and opinions from the greatest possible variety of sources under the circumstances, of the European war on the subject of the war itself. The cartoon on page 1, taken from a weekly publication in New York called "The Fatherland," edited and conducted by a pro-German coterie, is intended by them to symbolize the Germanistic interpretation of the action of England in resorting to arms to redress the violation of the neutrality of Belgium. The reading matter will be found to present the views of leading thinkers of various nationalities on the subject of war and peace. Taken all in all the Overseas Pages will be acclaimed a valuable adjunct to the news of the day from the seat of war.

TERMS OF PEACE AS DEFINED BY VISCOUNT HALDAN

LONDON, Oct. 10, 4:50 p.m.—"The terms of peace will be that the dominant spirit of militarism which has perverted every talent of the German nation [illegible] crushed and broken so that those who come after us shall be free from such terror."

This was the concluding remark of a speech delivered today by Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor, at a meeting to influence recruiting. Viscount [illegible] claimed that Great Britain was fighting because it was a sacred duty. He paid a tribute to the great qualities of the German nation, but said they had been [illegible] military uses and this war was to end that spirit of militarism. He continued: "If Germany should annex Belgium and crush France and annex Holland [illegible] Russia, then this country would be doomed. Rather than see that accomplished, I would see the British empire perish honorably."

Comment.

"ENGLAND AND FRANCE MUST AVENGE BELGIUM"

"Our National Honor Involved," Says the Editor of the Daily Mail.

Crowning Disaster of the Campaign, However, is Not of Vital Military Importance, According to the Military Correspondent of the "Morning Post"—Other London Editorial Opinion.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 10. — The Daily Mail editorial says of the fall of Antwerp:

"With Great Britain and France it rests to see that Belgium is avenged. Seeing that she has not been succored, our national honor is involved."

The Morning Post says: "It is with profound regret that we hear of the fall of Antwerp after the gallant defense. It is impossible adequately to express the sympathy of our countrymen for the Belgian people in this calamity. That sympathy can be made practical only by increased exertions for the prosecution of the war and the delivery of Belgium from her invaders."

The Morning Post military correspondent says: "This crowning disaster to the unhappy Belgians, who have played their part so nobly, is not of vital military importance, if, as it is still possible to hope, the Belgian army has made good its retreat, though the moral effect is unfortunate. The German force which will be released probably will be of no great account in the field."

The Daily Chronicile's editorial anticipating the fall of Antwerp says: "Its fall will not affect the fortunes of war strategially. Its possession would not benefit Germany. Its capture would be merely a spectacular success, which might console Berliners for the failure to take Paris, but it would have no military significance.

"If Antwerp should fall we shall deplore it, not because it would be a German military triumph, but because it would be a hard, bitter blow to our devoted ally, Belgium. Though Antwerp may fall, Belgium will rise from her ruin. Let it be our sacred duty as a British nation to assist Belgium in her sorrows and enable her to rebuild her shattered national life."

The Times editorial says: "The change at Antwerp can have little present direct effect upon the general military situation. If it releases the German troops which were attacking Antwerp it will also place in the field an equal number of troops on the other side. The Germans can at best only obtain an emtpty seaport, from which they can maintain no communication with the outside world.

"The British navy will see to it that they make no effective use of the sea route."

Denunciation.

ENGLAND BEHIND BELGIANS, SAYS BERLIN NEWSPAPER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM (via London) Oct. 10.—The Berliner Tageblatt makes the fall of Antwerp the text of a violent denunciation of England.

"Behind the Belgian defender," the newspaper says, "stood England, one may say, with whip in hand. When the thought rose in Belgian hearts to avoid useless destruction by capitulation, Britannia pronounced her veto. All were obliged to obey, even the King.

"This is the reason why the town, so full of life and industry, is severely damaged, and one day the maledictions of thousands will fall on the seducer across the channel."

CALLS IT BLOW TO ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—"The capture of Antwerp in ten days carries the germ of the capture of Paris," says the Deutsche Tages Zeitung, according to a dispatch from Berlin by way of Amsterdam to the Reuter Telegram Company.

"The fall of this fortress," adds the newspaper, "not only means the overthrow of the Belgians, but it is a most serious blow to England. It proves that it is only necessary to break down a large section of even the most extended fortresses in order to render the remaining part untenable."

Woman War Correspondent.

LOUISE MACK'S REPORT ON ANTWERP BATTLE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Louise Mack, the only woman war correspondent at the front, author of "When the World was Round," cables the following account of the siege of Antwerp under date of Antwerp, October 8.

"The last train has just left Antwerp and a young man has just stated that the Germans will be shelling the town within twenty-four hours.

"'They will never shell the town,' said a clerical old Englishman. 'It would not be permitted.'

"The rumor is going around that Antwerp will surrender rather than risk being destroyed like Louvain, Termonde and Aerschot. The people are beginning to rush from the city in motor cars and all sorts of vehicles."

Miss Mack's friends have been unable to get word from her since Antwerp fell.

Stirring Scenes.

ANTWERP REFUGEES CROWD INTO LONDON.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10, 5:45 p.m.—Great crowds of refugees cross and recross the Dutch frontier in a frantic endeavor to get out of the Antwerp danger zone. Steamers coming to England from Ostend are crowded. Rich and poor are huddled together. Some remain at the ports of their debarkation, but many are proceeding to London, where relief committees provide lodging and food.

Many stirring scenes have occurred. A woman who had thought her husband was killed met him here.

Middle-aged couple from the aristocratic quarter of Antwerp were without means of any kind. One woman remarked:

"Last week we were rich. Now we are dependent on charity."

A great many of the poorer refugees are being brought to England on government transports.

Exodus.

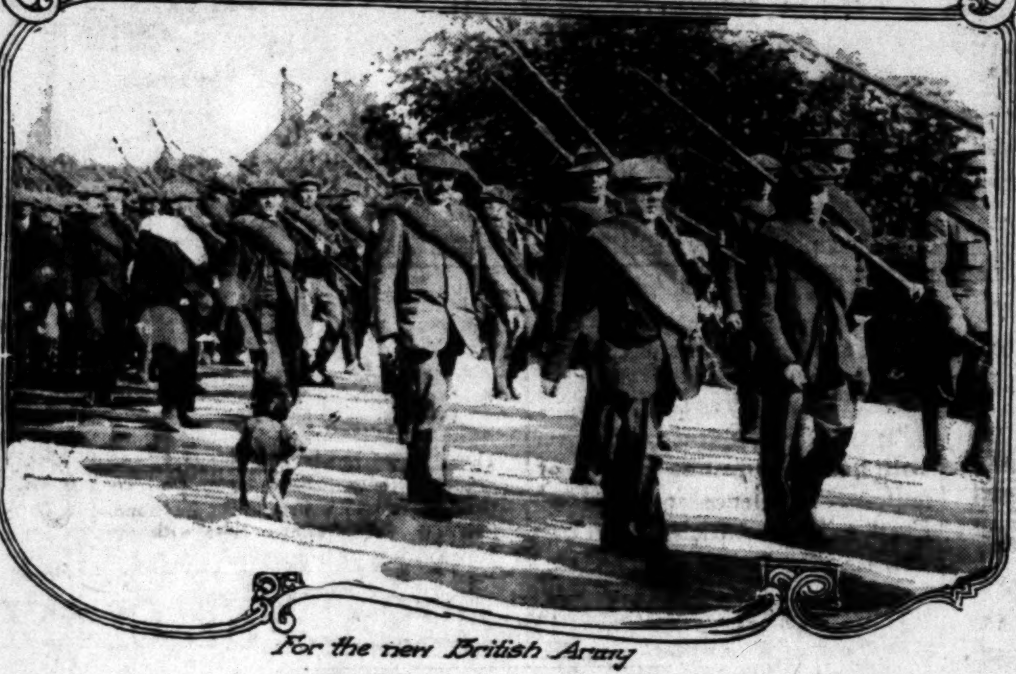
FUGITIVES HARASSED BY ESCAPED LUNATICS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10, 3:45 p.m.—The correspondent of the Central News at Amsterdam describing the wild flight of the people of Antwerp into Holland, says that one of the most distressing features was the large number of insane persons released from the asylum. Many of these are now roaming about the country inciting disorders. Many Dutch towns are filled with Belgian refugees. Flushing, Breda, Rotterdam, Rosendaal, The Hague, Amsterdam, Ternouzon, Maestricht and Dordrecht are so crowded with strangers that the streets are almost impassable. And still they come.

Ceaseless Military Activity in England.

Lord Roberts at work.



For the new British Army

The old and the young hard at it.

Lord Roberts, the best-loved man in the British army, is working night and day, despite his advanced age, to help the British army. He is shown inspecting a detachment of King Edward's Horse, composed of Colonials, at Langley Park. Opinions differ as to the period necessary to whip Kitchener's new forces into shape for service against the Germans. It is hoped to send them to the continent within six months, but many experts think eighteen months' training will be necessary. The photograph shows some of the men drilling at Aldershot, the great English army camp.

CALLS THE FALL OF ANTWERP SERIOUS LOSS TO THE ALLIES.

BY AN ASSOCIATE EDITOR OF "THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL."

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE THE TIMES, Oct. 10.—The capture of Antwerp is a serious loss to the allies, not that it will serve the Germans as a fort, but because it will turn loose this German army to strengthen their right wing and possibly to check for a week or more the further advance of the allies into Belgium. The immediate interest in the campaign lies in the question of the escape of the Belgian garrison. It is retreating to the west to join the British force in the defense of Ostend, but at Termonde the Germans have crossed the Scheldt and threatened to take this retreating army in flank.

The reference in the dispatches from Europe to some of the ports of Antwerp being held by the Belgians probably refers to those on the west side of the Scheldt. They would naturally leave that garrison in these forts in order to delay the German pursuit. The Belgians can afford to lose the small number of men required to garrison these forts in order to improve the chances of the escape of their main army.

It will take this army three days march to get beyond the German force at Termonde. Tomorrow they will decide the question of whether the Belgians can escape to the west to join the general line of the allies or, caught in flank by the German advance from Termonde, they must halt and give battle.

It was by a move similar to that which the Germans are now attempting that Gen. Grant forced the surrender of the Confederate army on its retreat from Richmond in 1865. Sheridan's corps was pushed forward by forced marches. It passed beyond the Confederate flank, turned against them [illegible] checked their retreat. This corps was too weak to do more than delay the Confederates, but this was sufficient to enable the corps of the pursuing army to catch up and to compel the surrender of the Confederate army at Appomattox Courthouse This is the role which the Germans from Termonde are attempting to play.

The successful assaults on the Antwerp forts called for the presence in this part of the field of the major portion of the German besieging forces so it is very unlikely that the detachment operating from Termonde is of strength equal to that of the Belgians. However, if they can delay the Belgian retreat sufficiently to let the German corps from Antwerp get into action, the safe retirement of the Belgians will be made doubly difficult.

In this attack on Antwerp the Germans seem to have caught the allies napping. Their army, reported as five corps, could not have been concentrated against Antwerp at the same time that the line from Arras to Belgium was also strengthened unless the strength with which the Germans are holding the center of their line has been reduced to figures well below those with which the allies are opposing them. By their interior lines the Germans have been able to send a force of 150,000 men against Antwerp and to reduce this fortress in time to turn loose the corps to strengthen the main line in France.

The activities of the allies in the next few days will determine the destination of the army of Gen. Von Vessler. If the allies attack in force, this army will be rushed to the threatened point to stop the French advance. If the allies continue their inactive policy, this army will be able to move westward, and possibly to fill the gap between the North Sea and the right flank of the army of Gen. Von Boehm. Such a move by the Germans would confront the allies with an intrenched line all the way from the coast to the Vosges Mountains in Alsace. Only on the extreme southern flank would the French have opportunity to gain ground by fighting in the open.

If Great Britain intends to use Ostend as a base for landing additional troops on the continent, she must get them there promptly or else give up this plan of operation.

Official Advices.

PART PLAYED BY THE BRITISH IN THE DEFENSE OF ANTWERP.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11, 12:40 a.m.—The first official admission that the British participated in the defense of Antwerp is contained in an admiralty announcement that three naval brigades, with heavy guns, had been sent there during the last week of the German attack.

The announcement adds that in the retreat from Antwerp two of the British brigades reached Ostend safely. The other, however, was cut off to the north of Lokeran (a town in East Flanders, twelve miles northeast of Ghent,) and 2000 of the men were interned in Holland.

The retreat of the Belgian army was accomplished successfully.

The losses of the British naval brigades probably will be less than 300 out of a total of 8000 men.

The Secretary of the Admiralty makes the following announcement:

"In response to an appeal by the Belgian government a marine brigade and two naval brigades, together with

Description of British Eyewitness Shows [illegible] and Counter-moves of the Allies are Offset [illegible] of the Germans—Mine Gallery Workers [illegible] Blowing up Invaders' Guns.

LONDON, Oct. 10. — The official news bureau issues the following descriptive account communicated by an eyewitness with general headquarters, which continues and supplements the narrative published October 9 of the movements of the British force and the French armies in immediate touch with it:

"Comparative calm on our front has continued through the fine and considerably warmer weather. The last six days have been slightly misty with clouds hanging low, and conditions have not been very good for aerial reconnaissance.

"In regard to the latter, it is astonishing how quickly the habit is acquired, even by those who are not aviators, of thinking of the weather in terms of its suitability for flying. There has been a bright moon also, which has militated against night attacks.

"On Saturday, October 3, practically nothing happened except that each side shelled the other. Towards evening on Sunday there was a similar absence of activity. Opposite one portion of our line the enemy's bands played patriotic airs, and the audiences which gathered gave a chance to our waiting howitzers.

"Not only do their regimental bands perform occasionally, but with their proverbial fondness for music, the Germans have in some places gramophones in their trenches.

"On Monday, the 5th, there were three separate duels in the air between French and German aviators, one of which was visible from our trenches. Two of the struggles were, so far as could be seen, indecisive, but in the third the French airmen were victorious and brought down their opponents, both of whom were killed by machine-gun fire.

"During the day some men of the Landwehr were taken prisoner by us. They were in very poor condition and wept copiously when captured. One, on being asked what he was crying for, explained that though they had been advised to surrender to the English, they believed they would be shot.

"On that evening our airmen had an unusual amount of attention paid to them both by the German aviators and their artillery of every description.

"One of our infantry patrols discovered 150 dead Germans in a wood, one and a half miles from our front. We sent a party out to bury them, but it was fired upon and had to withdraw.

"On Tuesday, the 6th, the enemy's guns were active in the afternoon. It is believed that the bombardment was due to anger because two of our howitzer shells had detonated right in one of the enemy's trenches which was full of men. Three horses were killed by the German fire.

"Wednesday, the 7th, was uneventful.

"On Thursday, the 8th, the shelling by the enemy of a locality on our front which has so far been the scene of their greatest efforts, was again continuous. Opposite one or two points the Germans have attempted to gain ground by sapping in some places with the view of secretly pushing forward machine guns in advance of their trenches, so that they can suddenly sweep with cross-fire the space between our line and theirs, and so take any advance of ours in the flank.

"It is reported that at one point where the French were much annoyed by the fire of a German machine gun which was otherwise inaccessible, they drove a mine gallery fifty meters (about fifty-five yards) long up to and under the emplacement and blew up the gun. The men who drove the gallery belonged to a corps which was recruited in one of the coal-mining districts of France.

"The German machine guns mounted on low sledges are inconspicuous and evidently easily moved.

FRITZ KREISLER WOUNDE STOOD OFF A COSSA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—A letter and a clipping from a Vienna newspaper, confirming a report of the wounding of Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, were received by a friend here today from Mrs. Kreisler. The musician, who is an officer of the Austrian army reserve, received a bullet in the right arm in a night attack by Russian Cossacks, September 6. He was in a trench with his men when the Cossacks charged and rode him down. The newspaper clipping gives Kreisler's own account of his mishap.

"Through the force of the impact," he wrote, "I was thrown into a ditch. Before I lost consciousness, and while lying on my back, I had enough strength and time to divert a thrust of a Cossack lance by a pistol shot."

His orderly found [illegible] er he regained [illegible] vented his capture.

WILL DISCUSS COTTON MARKET

Two English Financiers to Confer with McAdoo.

Members of Federal Reserve Board to Take Part.

British Exchange Situation will be Considered.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Conditions in the exchange dealings between the United States and England and the situation in the cotton market of the world will be discussed at a conference here next week between Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Sir George Paish and Basil Blackett, representing the British Chancellor of the Exchequer and the British Treasury. The Englishmen are coming to this country at the invitation of Mr. McAdoo and are expected to reach New York next Saturday on the Baltic.

The conference will probably include members of the Federal Reserve Board and officials here hope that it will lead to co-operation between the financial interests of the two countries which will clear up the situation in the financial foreign exchange. So far, no invitation has been extended to Germany to participate in this conference. It was stated tonight that any balance between this country and Germany was so slight that there was no need for such a conference.

It was said tonight there was no intention at present to create any sort of a financial bureau to handle international credits, though this may come later. The recently-formed committee of New York bankers, which will take care of about $80,000,000 of American obligations to Europe and the $100,000,000 gold pool to carry obligations amounting to that much more has done much, in the opinion of officials to clear up foreign exchange conditions.

COTTON FUND NOW ASSURED.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD OK'S THE PROGRAMME.

Hundred and Fifty - Million-Dollar Loan to the Planters and Growers Given the Sanction of the Federal Banking Authorities. Trade Will be a Benefit.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Federal Reserve Board announced its approval tonight in principle of the plan for a $150,000,000 loan fund to take care of the surplus cotton crop.

Members of the board, in a letter to Festus J. Wade of St. Louis, one of the backers of the plan, said that while the board could not express itself upon details, it was of the opinion that the just administration of such a fund would benefit those interested and the rest of the nation as well. He expressed the hope that the banks and merchants would subscribe.

The letter in full follows:

"The Federal Reserve Board has given careful consideration to your suggestion that a fund of $150,000,000 be raised by subscription from banks, trust companies, bankers and merchants for the purpose of rendering assistance to the cotton growers and merchants of the United States until the present abnormal conditions caused by the European war have been terminated and normal conditions restored.

"I am directed by the board to state that while it cannot, very naturally, express itself upon the details of the plan as to personnel of management, commissions, interest rates, etc., it is of the opinion that the creation of such a fund of the amount suggested, and its admission justly and equitably upon reasonable terms and conditions, would go far towards the restoration of normal conditions, and would redound to the benefit not only of those interested in the production, handling and manufacturing of cotton, but as well to the entire people of this country.

"The board notes with gratification your assurance that a large number of southern bankers and commission firms have already signified their willingness to subscribe to such a fund and your expression of confidence that the entire amount will be promptly subscribed. The problem involved is not local but national, and, as well, international in its scope and importance, and I venture to express the hope that the subscriptions to such a fund be made by banks, trust companies and bankers throughout the country."

THE ALASKA COAL BILL.

Senator Meyers Declares it will not be Passed After Rejection of Conference Report.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The administration Alaskan coal land leasing bill was returned to the Conference Committee of the two houses today by the Senate. By a vote of 26 to 23 the Senate sustained the point of order raised by Senator Lane, holding that the Conference Committee had exceeded its authority by inserting a provision limiting the regulatory powers of the Interior Department over the coal lands.

"This means that there will be no coal land leasing bill passed at this session of Congress," said Senator Meyers, chairman of the conference, after the vote was taken. "If such a point of order had been raised on the recent Clayton anti-trust bill report, there would not have been much of that bill left to light."

SUFFRAGE FOR PHILIPPINES CAUSES ROW IN HOUSE.

Representative Mann's Amendment to Bill Granting Independence Brings Down Wrath of Southerner, Who had Once Insulted Women by Speech.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — Bitter personalities were exchanged in the House today between Representative Mann, the minority leader, and Representative Heflin of Alabama during discussion of a woman suffrage amendment offered by Mr. Mann to the Philippine independence bill. In the heat of debate Mr. Heflin called Mr. Mann a liar and the latter charged that the Alabama member had made a speech in the House against suffrage which was an insult to womanhood.

After strenuous debate, which for a moment seemed to threaten physical encounter, a portion of Representative Mann's remarks were ordered expunged from the record by a vote of 152 to 66. The matter ordered expunged was a remark made by the minority leader when Representative Heflin recalled a speech Mr. Mann had made two years ago at the time of the suffrage parade in Washington when a girl was insulted.

Mr. Heflin declared that Mr. Mann had insisted the young woman should have remained at home.

"I thought it was better for the young girl to be at home than in that parade," said Mr. Mann in reply, "for fear the gentleman from Alabama should have seen her. He would have been sure to have insulted her."

After the remark had been expunged from the record, debate ensued on the Mann amendment which would provide suffrage for women in the Philippines and in this a colloquy occurred between the Illinois and Alabama members during which Representative Heflin declared:

"I pronounce the gentleman from Illinois a liar."

The suffrage amendment was defeated by a vote of 84 to 58.

HOLDS COTTON NON-CONTRABAND

MAY BE SHIPPED TO HAMBURG, SAYS WASHINGTON.

State Department Takes View it is not Subject to Seizure When in Neutral Bottoms and Can be Consigned Even to German Spinners.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — Continuing its policy of forging out a complete code for regulation of shipments of American products, not only to neutral but to belligerent countries, the State Department today announced a decision relating to exports of cottonseed oil. The decision marks a distinct advance in the exemption of contraband goods from seizure when carried in American bottoms.

This declaration in effect is that American trade in cottonseed oil in neutral bottoms is not subject to seizure or detention not only when destined for neutral countries, but when shipped to Germany, if not intended for military use. The British government has assented to so much of the proposition as relates to shipments to Holland of neutral goods, such as foodstuffs which the Netherlands government has embargoed for exportation.

The solicitor's opinion goes beyond the mere matter of cottonseed oil, and lays down the principle that cotton is non-contraband and is not subject to seizure even when shipped to a belligerent country, providing it is on American or other neutral ships. Therefore there is no impediment to the shipment of American cotton to Hamburg consigned to German spinners.

BALTIMORE (Md.), Oct. 10.—Madison Marine, who has been in Los Angeles seven years, is visiting his mother, Mrs. William M. Marine, here. He is accompanied by his wife whom he married in California. The visit was the occasion of a reunion of the family last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Marine of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Terry B. Rowe of Long Island, and Dr. and Mrs. Nicholas L. Dashiell of this city and Miss Harriet P. Marine were present.

FIANCE'S DEATH A SHOCK.

Young Woman of Plainfield, N. J., Who Figured in Romance, Swoons at News from Los Angeles.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PLAINFIELD (N. J.), Oct. 10.—Miss Olive Schreibweis of this city, who last night received telegraphic advices from Los Angeles telling her of the sudden death of her fiance, Dr. William G. Browne, of that city, following an operation for appendicitis, is improved in condition today. She was overcome by the news of Dr. Browne's death and swooned. It was several hours before she regained consciousness.

Miss Schreibweis, who is a trained nurse, met Dr. Browne several years ago while she was attending a patient of Dr. Browne's in Los Angeles. It was a case of love at first sight. The pair were to have been married at Greenwich, Ct., on November 1.

THE REVENUE DEFICIT BILL.

The Gabfest on the Wilson Apology of the Democratic Platform Has Started in the Senate.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Debate on the administration War Revenue bill opened formally in the Senate today by Senator Simmons, chairman of the Finance Committee. Senator Simmons explained the measure in detail and urged its early passage.

While debate on the bill was begun on the floor, the finance sub-committee continued its consideration of the domestic wine tax section. Contending wine growers have reached an agreement whereby grape brandy, when used for fortifying wines, would be taxed five cents a gallon. This would tax sweet wines about eleven cents a gallon on the grape brandy contained. The agreement contemplates a flat six cents a gallon tax on all domestic wines and taxes on liquors, cordials, carbonated waters and champagnes.

The sub-committee turned the proposed compromise over to treasury officials for estimates on the amount of revenue which would be raised under it.

KANSAS TORNADO KILLS FIVE.

TWENTY ARE INJURED BY A CYCLONE AND PROPERTY IS DAMAGED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHANUTE (Kan.) Oct. 10.—Five persons were killed and twenty injured in a tornado which swept a path eighteen miles wide through Wilson and Neosho counties early today.

The territory devastated by the storm follows the general direction of northwest to southeast. Much property damage was done, the amount being difficult to estimate, because telephone and telegraph service in the section is demoralized.

The wind was accompanied by heavy lightning and hail, but little rain fell.

CARDINAL FERRATA DIES.

Papal Secretary of State Passes Away in Rome and Vatican is in Mourning.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Oct. 10.—Cardinal Dominic Ferrata, the Papal Secretary of State, died today.

The immediate cause of the death of Cardinal Ferrata was peritonitis, an outcome of his protracted illness. Because of this peritonitis it was considered imprudent to operate.

The death of the Cardinal was not unexpected. The news was conveyed to the Pope by telephone and his comment was "God's will be done, but it takes from me a dear friend and my right hand."

The Pope immediately retired to his private apartments, where he prayed for the repose of the soul of the deceased Cardinal.

The Secretary of State passed away surrounded by faithful friends. He was conscious to the last moment. His last remark was:

"I am so tired; I go to join my Savior."

Cardinal Ferrata was stricken with appendicitis soon after his appointment by Pope Benedict on September 4 to the office of Papal Secretary of State. The Cardinal was born at Montefiascone, Italy, in 1847. He was the Papal Legate to the World's Eucharistic Congress at Malta in 1913. Cardinal Ferrata was an arch priest of the Patriarchal Lateran Archbasilica. He was created and proclaimed a cardonal June 22, 1896. For six years he was Papal Nuncio at Paris and later was Prefect of the Congregation of Bishops in Rome.

I CURE PILES FISTULA and all other Rectal Diseases WITHOUT OPERATION

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

I cure without surgery. My patients are not confined in bed and they do not lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.

WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,

ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., LL.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

WELL-KNOWN PRINTER CURED.

Esteemed Doctor: I cannot refrain from congratulating you and myself on the complete cure of hemorrhoids, from which I had been afflicted for more than 20 years. For the past 5 years I had been practically incapacitated from attending to business. Your treatment is such that no one need fear, as no knife operation is employed. It will be a pleasure to have you refer anyone to me, and I will never be too busy to answer an inquiry. Sincerely yours,

F. A. HARRINGTON, 138¼ S. Spring St., Los Angeles, Cal.

STEEL MILL SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

For twenty years I was a sufferer from protruding and bleeding piles. During that time I constantly sought a cure but never saw the time that I thought I could spare the time for a surgical operation. Dr. C. H. White has cured me. This was done painlessly and rapidly. I have renewed my age more than twenty years and can cheerfully recommend him and his methods to all sufferers.

E. J. MOSES, Supt. Cal. Ind. Steel Rolling Mills, 4th and Mateo Sts., Los Angeles.

PROMINENT REAL ESTATE MAN CURED.

I desire to say to my friends everywhere that during the last few months I have been cured of an old and annoying fistula, which had baffled all treatment heretofore employed. This fistula was cured without pain, and without loss of time, by Dr. C. H. White.

Pelvic Catarrh

Tongue Cannot Express How I Suffered

I Would Not Do Without Peruna.

I Thank You.

Miss Emelie A. Haberkorn, 2251 Gravois Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "For over two years I was troubled with catarrh of the pelvic organs. I heard of Dr. Hartman's book, 'The Ills of Life.' I read it and wrote to the doctor, who answered my letter promptly. I began taking treatment as soon as possible. Tongue cannot express how I suffered with my stomach, and I also was troubled with catarrh of the head. I didn't feel like myself for a long time. So I began taking Peruna. I have taken four bottles, and now I cannot praise it enough. Any one who has chronic catarrh should write to Dr. Hartman. He will help any one. I feel grateful for what the doctor has done for me, and would not do without Peruna. I now enjoy as good health as ever. I find it has improved my health so much that I will recommend it to any one cheerfully. I thank the doctor very much for his kindness."

KING CHARLES PASSES AWAY.

The Kaiser Loses a Friend and Probable Ally.

Why an Order to Mobilize Failed of Results.

Sketch of German Who Ruled Over a Latin Race.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10 (via London) 6:30 p.m.—A telegram received here from Vienna, says that King Charles of Roumania died this morning.

King Charles of Roumania was a member of the House of Hohenzollern. At the beginning of the war he was inclined to side with Germany and Austria-Hungary and was reported as ready to cast his lot with those countries, but such a course encountered strong opposition in Roumania and particularly in the Legislature. Recent dispatches have said that the King, because of a promise he had made to Germany, desired to mobilize the Roumanian army to assist Germany in the war.

It has been said on many occasions in the last few weeks that Germany counted on the intervention of Roumania. A story published in Paris the latter part of September, related that when King Charles asked the Cabinet to order a mobilization of the army, one of the Ministers replied:

"We are quite willing if it is against Austria."

King Charles turned to him and said:

"I gave my word to Emperor William and a Hohenzollern keeps his word."

The President of the Council here interposed, saying:

"The country knows no Hohenzollern. It knows only the King of Roumania, who does not have to give his word to anyone whatsoever."

King Charles then decided to call a council of the Crown with the ex-Ministers in attendance, but only one sided with him with Germany.

It is reported that the King tried to persuade Gen. Averesco to attempt a coup d'etat and arrest the Ministers, but Gen. Alvaresco refused. "Sir, you would be the first victim of such an attempt."

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

Charles I, was Roumania's first King. The story of his career, spanning seventy-five years, is that of a German Prince, elected to govern a Latin people, out of which experience Roumanians or those who have followed the fortunes of that buffer state will recall much that is stirring, if not romantic.

Prince Charles was born a Hohenzollern, an older branch of the family than that of Emperor William of Germany, but none the less proud of its blood. He was the son of Prince Charles Anthony of Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen, who voluntarily resigned the Hohenzollern regentship in favor of the Prussian Crown and subsequently became Prime Minister of Prussia.

It was while Charles was serving, at the age of 27 years, as an officer of high rank in the Prussian guard, that the Turkish provinces of Wallachia and Moldavia united to call themselves Roumania and, casting their eyes about Europe for a foreign Prince to govern them—since no native Prince had been successful—took the advice of Napoleon III, and invited young Charles to be their Prince.

With Austria at that time preparing to fight Prussia, young Charles's departure for Roumania was such a perilous undertaking that he made it secretly. He disguised himself as a Russian merchant bound for Odessa and sailed down the Danube, jumping ashore on Roumania territory on May 20, 1866, and made his way to the palace at Bucharest, where he was proclaimed Prince three days later. Napoleon III, had told him that nothing was more difficult than to govern a Latin race. The young Prince soon found that he had been well advised in this respect. He was homesick and beset with innumerable difficulties, growing out of the fact that the country was struggling with a new constitution that gave the people an unaccustomed liberty and that he made no secret of his purpose to plant among them the civilization of Germany, though he sincerely desired to become the best Roumanian of them all. His great confidence in the virtue of Hohenzollern blood brought him energy and patience, which later won the hearts of his people.

In the meantime, at the age of 30, the young Prince paid court to Princess Elizabeth of Wied, with whom he fell in love at first sight when he met her in Cologne, and the marriage was celebrated on the banks of the Rhine in the fall of 1869. The Queen has since become beloved among her people for her devotion to good works and famous throughout the world as a poet, with the pseudonym of "Carmen Sylva."

A boy was born to the couple, but it died at the age of 6 and they had no further children. In 1876 when there arose the question of participating in the Turko-Russian war, Prince Charles stood firm for neutrality, but when the Russians were on the point of being crushed at Plevna and Grand Duke Nicholas sent his famous call for help, the Roumanian forces were led to battle and with Charles at their head, decisively defeated the great Turkish army.

The renown of Prince Charles spread, and four years later, out of a cannon he had captured at Plevna the Roumanian people cast him an iron crown. With consent of the powers they placed it on his head in 1881. From this time on King Charles was universally acknowledged the leader of his adopted people and the Kingdom of Roumania became a factor in international politics. She held aloof from the common Balkan war against the Turks, but was stirred in her own behalf by Bulgarian greed for territory, and after the wars King Charles pressed his country's claim for 2500 miles of territory as compensation for the neutrality Roumania had preserved, and started an invasion of Bulgaria. The Bulgars soon sued for peace and handed over the coveted strip, extending about 100 miles inland.

"By ourselves alone" are the words which ornament the iron crown King Charles has worn. He was never a party to international alliances, although groups represented in both the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente have been said to be courting Roumanian support.

The bill of particulars as to the country when Prince Charles entered Roumania was discouraging in every detail. That which he hands over to his successor, whom he adopted in the person of his nephew, Prince Ferdinand, is one which includes an efficient army of nearly half a million when on war footing, agriculture developed along modern lines, oil production on a vast scale, railways spread widely, foreign commerce developed to a degree, which exceeds that of all the other Balkan states put together, and a national credit that needs no special guarantees.

The one blot on the escutcheon recently has been an alleged widespread persecution of the Jews, of whom there are some 700,000 scattered among the 7,000,000 inhabitants of the country.

SAY PORTUGAL WILL ENTER WAR.

BERLIN EXPECTS DECLARATION FROM LISBON ALMOST AT ANY MOMENT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—In a dispatch from Amsterdam the correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says that the Bureau Weinzehr, a semi-official news agency, asserts that a declaration of war on Germany by Portugal is expected in Berlin at any moment.

AFFECTS WHEAT MARKET.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Assertions that Portugal was expected to declare war on Germany at any moment, gave the wheat market today an upward turn. Disquieting reports regarding the hostile attitude of Turkey, attracted considerable attention also. The opening, which ranged from ⅛c off to ⅛c up, was followed by a moderate general advance. Wet weather threatening to delay receipts had only a temporary strengthening influence on corn. After starting unchanged to ⅛c higher prices underwent an all-around sag. Hedging sales from the Northwest made the oats market weak.

Provisions rose with hogs. The best call was for November.

THE SITUATION IN PETROGRAD.

GOVERNMENT USES EFFORTS TO PROTECT FOREIGNERS.

Outside Newspapers Strictly Excluded, so Public is Generally Kept in Ignorance of What is Happening on the Outside—No More Tourists and Hotels are Empty.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 24.—The situation in Petrograd is treated extensively in a letter appearing in the Berliner Tageblatt of September 23, which reads in part as follows:

"On the whole, the government does its best to protect the life and property of the foreigner—even the German. It has in this the support of the military authorities. During the days of the mobilization it was different, of course. But now one sees everywhere posters warning against the molestation of foreigners, and which call upon those who may have been mistreated to make prompt reports, promising severe punishment for the offenders. What is more, the promises are strictly kept, and persons guilty of excesses against foreigners have been heavily punished.

"In order to minimize the chances for trouble it was thought best that German firm names make place for inscriptions in Russian, and the Germans were asked to refrain as much as possible from speaking their language in public. But the best measure for the protection of the foreigners undoubtedly was the prohibition of the sale of strong alcoholic beverages. Petrograd today has the appearance of being a city of sober people. While formerly one beheld everywhere the repulsive, beastly state of intoxication of the hooligan—the mob with whom nobody was safe—today the street scenes of the capital are more inviting.

"The many extra editions of the newspapers speak constantly of victories of the Russians and French over the Germans, and it is asserted that the former are already near Berlin. Foreign papers are rigorously excluded, and, since even the many wounded are not permitted to come into contact with the public or see even their relatives, there is no difficulty keeping the Russian public under the impression that the Russians are really near Berlin.

"There are no more tourists and the hotels are empty. In the hotels, moreover, everything has become very dear. A bottle of beer, which formerly cost 20 to 25 kopeks, now costs 40, while a glass costs 25 instead of 13. Food, on the other hand, has become cheaper. The war has absolutely put a stop to exports, and prices therefore have gone down. Ten fresh eggs, for instance, cost 30 kopeks, and fine fat geese, which formerly cost 3½ to 4 roubles, can now be had for 1.20 roubles. Coke can no longer be had at any price, the small supply on hand having been confiscated by the military. The navy is badly off for coal, its boilers being arranged for English coal, and Russian coal, which it is not even possible to get in sufficient quantities, cannot be used by the navy without serious injury to the boilers. Most factories lack raw material, especially iron. There is also a serious shortage in medicaments and bandages of all sorts, which formerly were imported from Germany.

"Since none of the court ever comes to Petrograd, one sees but seldom members of the best society, who are mostly in mourning on account of the Russian elite troops having lost many officers in the fighting in East Prussia, the majority of whom belonged to the capital's best circles.

"Only the casualties in the commissioned personnel are published. Those who wish information concerning non-commissioned officers and privates are obliged to make inquiry at the Ministry. This method has so far enabled the Russian government to keep the tremendous losses of the army from the multitude. Notwithstanding this depression grows daily, due to the fear that with the rumored defeat of the north army, Petrograd may become the objective of an attack by either land or water. The rumor that the Austrian army has not been totally annihilated as had been claimed is gaining force, as is also the report that the Russian troops opposing them have so far not been able to participate in the operation designed to crush Germany."

Belgian Queen in Antwerp.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Queen of the Belgians is reported to have passed through Folkestone from Dunkirk last night, proceeding to London.

Part Played by British.

some heavy naval guns manned by a detachment of the Royal Navy, the whole under command of Gen. Paris, R.M.A., were sent by His Majesty's government to participate in the defense of Antwerp during the last week of the attack.

"Up until the night of Monday, last, October 5, the Belgian army and marine brigade successfully defended the line of the Nethe River, but early on Tuesday morning the Belgian forces on the right of Malines Pere were forced by a heavy German attack covered by very powerful artillery to retire, and in consequence the whole of the defense was withdrawn to the inner line of forts, the intervals between which had been strongly fortified. The ground, which had been lost enabled the enemy to plant his batteries to bombard the city.

"The inner line of defenses was maintained during Wednesday and Thursday, while the city endured a ruthless bombardment.

"The behavior of the Royal Marines and naval brigades in the trenches and in the field was praiseworthy in a high degree and remarkable in units so newly formed and owing to the protection of the entrenchments the losses, in spite of the severity of the fire, are probably less than 500 out of a total of 8000 men.

"The defense could have been maintained for a longer period, but not long enough to allow of adequate forces being sent for their relief, without prejudice to the main strategic situation.

"The enemy also began on Thursday to press strongly on the line of communications near Lokeren. The Belgian forces defending this point fought with great determination, but were gradually pressed back by numbers.

"In these circumstances the Belgian and British military authorities in Antwerp decided to evacuate the city. The British offered to cover the retreat, but Gen. de Guise desired that they should leave before the last division of the Belgian army.

"After a long night march to Saint Gilles, the three naval brigades entrained. Two out of the three have arrived safely at Ostend, but owing to circumstances which are not yet fully known, the greater part of the first naval brigade was cut off by a German attack north of Lokeren and 2000 officers and men entered Dutch territory in the neighborhood of Hulst and laid down their arms, in accordance with the laws of neutrality.

"The retreat of the Belgian army has been successfully accomplished. The armored trains and the heavy guns were all brought away.

"The retreat from Ghent onwards of the naval division and of the Belgian army was covered by strong British reinforcements.

"Vast numbers of the noncombatant population of Antwerp, men, women and children, are streaming in flight in scores of thousands westward from the ruined and burning city."

The Admiralty also reports in the same statement that the naval aviation party, having completed its attack on Dusseldorf and Cologne, already reported, has returned safely to its base protected by armored cars.

CROWN PRINCESS ONE TOO MANY.

FREDERICK WILLIAM IS SAID TO HAVE TRIED TO GET HER TO GO BACK HOME.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

GENEVA (Switzerland) Oct. 10 (via Paris, 9:40 a.m.)—A dispatch received here from Basel says the German Crown Prince, Frederick William, met his wife at Luxemburg and endeavored to persuade her to return to Germany. The Crown Princess had come from Berlin, bringing with her a number of iron crosses, with which she was to personally decorate the officers of her regiment for bravery.

According to information in Basel, constant changes are taking place among the German generals with the exception of those in the most important commands, on both frontiers. At the same time minor officers are very sure of prompt promotion after any successful action in which they have shown intelligence and bravery.

GERMANS RUSH REINFORCEMENTS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Oct. 10 (by way of London.)—German advices are that German reinforcements are being rushed to the Russian frontier, not only by train, but by sea, from Stettin, Strabund, Danzig and all the available Baltic ports.

RED CROSS AT ROTTERDAM.

American Hospital Attendants En Route to Berlin are Welcomed by German and Austrian Consuls.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The German Embassy received today the following wireless from Berlin:

"American Hospital Red Cross has arrived at Rotterdam. The delegation was welcomed there by the German and Austrian Consuls and is proceeding to Bentheim, where a reception is arranged for the by the people of the town.

"Then they will proceed to Berlin."

CONDITIONS IN BRUSSELS.

Germans Protest Belgians are Better off there than People in Other Belligerent Capitals.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Oct. 10 (via London, 7:30 p.m.—Dispatches from Berlin em- p.m.)—Dispatches from Berlin emgian government that the populace of Brussels has been reduced to a state of famine by the Germans, who have commandeered all the food supplies. It is asserted that conditions in Brussels under German rule are much better than conditions in the capitals of the other belligerent countries.

WILSON'S REPLY TO KAISER.

Response of President, in Which He Expresses Hope War will be Finished, Called Impartial.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The response of President Wilson to the telegram of Emperor William, in which the President expresses hope that the war soon will be finished, is published by practically all the French papers, but they make no comment thereon. This telegram, printed under an Amsterdam date, was sent a month ago.

Advices received from Vienna via Venice, state that the chief Austrian military organ, the Reichspost, says President Wilson's reply to the German Emperor's telegram shows the absolute correctness and impartiality of the United States in the war.

BULLION SEIZED IS RETURNED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 9.—Six hundred and eighty-six bars of silver bullion, seized recently by the Mexican government, were returned to six foreign mining companies today by order of the Treasury Department. At the time the bullion was seized it was claimed that it was secretly being sent out of the country, in violation of the law prohibiting such exportation. The silver, valued at $2,000,000, was held in the government vaults until ownership was established.

TO CUT OFF VILLA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Oct. 10.—Reports received here last night indicate that Gens. Maclovio Herrera and Chao have combined forces, and with an army of 5000 men are attempting to cut off Gen. Villa's line of communication between Chihuahua, his capital, and Torreon, the mobilization point of his army. Jimenez, where the railroad was cut today, is midway between Chihuahua and Torreon.

It is reported that Luis Herrera, brother of Gen. Maclovio Herrera, was executed recently by Villa troops.

Improvement.

PEACE HOPES ARE BRIGHTER.

RIVAL FACTIONS FRATERNIZE AT AGUAS CALIENTES.

Conference will not Dissolve Until Rupture Between Villa and Carranza has been Healed—Optimism Reigns Among Generals and Delegates Who will Meet Tomorrow.

BY GEORGE ADDISON HUGHES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

AGUASCALIENTES (Mex.) Oct. 9.—Dissolution of the joint national convention and peace conference, which convenes here Monday, will not be declared until an amicable adjustment of all difficulties between Carranza and Villa has been attained beyond all possibility of a future rupture. Statements to this effect were made today by leaders of both the Villa and Carranza delegations, including Gen. Raoul Madero of Villa's division and Gen. Alvaro Obregon, representing Carranza's adhesionists.

Preliminary conferences of generals representing both delegations now being held here daily, while informal, are really of an importance on a par with the convention itself, for at these informal conferences the generals are making plans to be executed at the convention. Arguments of both sides are now being thrashed out to save time and necessitate nothing more at the convention than legal approval. As a result the prevailing opinion here is that the convention itself will be short.

Whether the plans under discussion now include the elimination of Villa or Carranza, or both, remains to be developed. It was officially stated today that, owing to the delicacy of the situation, censorship over all press dispatches is necessary and that newspaper correspondents will be prohibited from attending the convention, which will be secret. Delegates will be under oath not to divulge to the press or others any news developed either at informal or formal sessions.

Optimism surcharges the very atmosphere here, with Villa and Carranza generals hobnobbing together in the streets, sharing suites at the hotels and entertaining each other at dinner parties.

VICE-PRESIDENT IN THE MOVIES.

MARSHALL HAS HIMSELF FILMED AND CAUSES A ROW IN THE SENATE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Vice-President Marshall and Senator Overman, chairman of the Rules Committee, had a war of words in the Senate today, over the use of the Senate chamber yesterday to take moving pictures of the Vice-President and a number of Senators.

Mr. Marshall resented criticism by Senator Overman, and when other Democratic members attempted to smooth over the row, he refused to recogenize them. He insisted that the good faith of the Vice-President of the United States had been questioned and declared he did not propose to be kicked about as a football. When it became apparent that the Rules Committee had not given permission to take moving pictures, Mr. Marshall requested that the films be not shown publicly.

Mr. Overman later withdrew his criticisms. He said he had investigated the matter and found "no one was to blame."

A PRISONER OF THE TIDE.

Man who Tried to Escape from Alcatraz Island in a Device of His Own Yields to the Inevitable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The tides at Alcatraz Island make it difficult to escape, and Patrick O'Leary knew it, for that is the reputation of the prison the soldier calls "the rock," wherever United States soldiers are. O'Leary made the attempt. Today he is dead. The slackened ebb left his body today on the Oakland water front. He had died of exposure battling with the flood.

Unusual ingenuity and daring had not availed. O'Leary cut the bottom from a tool chest, all except one plank. It made a covered ark, in which he could ride astraddle, his head and body shielded from observation, his legs free to swim. Two small airtight kegs, attached at either side of the chest, served as pontoons.

The contrivance did not fail, but the prisoner's strength did. He was not sighted and he did not sink, but he could not make headway against the tide. He was clad only in his underclothing and the chill of the ocean steadily drained his vitality.

BERLIN REJOICES OVER CAPTURE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Oct. 10 (by way of London.)—Dispatches from Berlin state that the capitulation of Antwerp has caused unprecedented enthusiasm throughout Germany, where the general opinion is that the fall of the Belgian city marks the beginning of the end. Everywhere there are signs of great rejoicing. Flags have been raised and demonstrators parade the streets acclaiming the army.

Hearty Support.

in this movement," said Mr. Vogelsang.

President Louis M. Cole responded. "We are strong for you and will do all we can," he said simply. It was eloquent enough.

Oscar Mueller, John S. Mitchell and others uttered words of cheer.

The luncheon and inspection of the exposition grounds were followed by an auto procession through the Presidio, out through Golden Gate Park and along the Ocean boulevard. The inevitable fog robbed the visitors of a pretty view.

Tonight the Los Angeles business men are glorying in the greatness of the Watsonville apple show on Market street. They were given a big reception there. Into the apple show the Long Beach band could not go, although it has played everywhere else on the trip. The San Francisco union of musicians would not permit the men to play there, saying it was against union rules.

The party, or most of it, will return to Los Angeles Sunday night on the Lark.

The committee from the Oakland Chamber of Commerce consisted of President A. Jonas, Secretary A. A. Denison, W. E. Gibson, chairman Executive Committee, and H. C. Capwell, Al Levenson, M. M. Jones and George Mason.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce was represented by President C. F. Michaels, Manager R. N. Lynch, Chairman Fred J. Koster, M. Gottfried, Constant Meese and George C. Boardman.

Commandant Woodward, naval aide of the exposition, and W. D. Egelbert and Charles Vogelsang, exposition commissioners from San Francisco; Frank A. Leach, Jr., and Paul Goldsmith, Alameda county commissioners for the exposition, represented the big 1915 fair. W. W. Keith, harbor master of Oakland, and Supervisor Kortick of San Francisco, represented their cities, the latter extending greetings in the name of Mayor Rolph.

RHEIMS CATHEDRAL LITTLE DAMAGED.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Frank Hedges Butler, a prominent English merchant, who is well known in America as a follower of aeronautics, returned to London Saturday night after a fortnight spent in Rheims. In a statement regarding the effect of the German bombardment of that city, he said:

"The Rheims cathedral was not seriously damaged by the bombardment. In six months people will not know by its appearance that it has been under fire. From the point of view of art, the cannonading was almost a blessing, for the old houses in the neighborhood have been so badly damaged that it is unlikely they will be rebuilt. This will result in a clearance around the cathedral which will enable visitors to get an adequate view of its beauties.

"The walls, towers, windows and pictures are all intact. The wooden roof was burned, but the main roof is of stone two feet in thickness, and it is undamaged. The wooden roof was intended merely as a shelter against the weather, and its loss is unimportant. The exterior of the cathedral suffered in only one place, where two of the carved figures were severely chipped. They form part of the elaborate group of the Last Judgment.

"After the bombardment began the entire population of the city fled to cellars, which were soon made almost uninhabitable by hordes of rats. In the cellars of a big champagne firm there were 4000 refugees.

"It is worth noting that the grape crop in France this year is ideal, and that the champagne will be the best in ten years. By a strange coincidence, the vintage of 1870 also was of superb quality.

"While I was in Rheims every day staff officers, including Prince Arthur of Connaught, came into town from the firing line."

AN ENCAMPMENT OF FUGITIVES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10, 9:40 p.m.—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam states that fugitives from Antwerp and the surrounding district have transformed the Belgian frontier town of Esschen into a vast encampment. Every conceivable place offering shelter has been occupied. Among the fugitives are a large number of railway men and their families.

They have taken possession of a lot of empty freight and passenger cars which they have converted into fairly comfortable temporary homes, furnishing them with such articles as they brought in the flight. Their children may be seen playing in happy ignorance of the tragedy which brought them there. Between the cars small fires are kept burning at which the women prepare meals while small children chase one another over the railway tracks until the whistle of an approaching train causes them to run for safety to their mothers.

Thousands of persons who have been unable to find shelter of any sort are camping in the open and every train adds to their number.

USE HEAVY GUNS ON BELGIAN TOWN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10, 5:55 p.m.—A Central News dispatch from Amsterdam says:

"From Ghent, Belgium, noise of heavy guns bombarding Lokeren (a town twelve miles northeast of Ghent) can be heard distinctly. A Taube aeroplane which yesterday traversed Ghent, flying in the direction of Bruges, was brought to the ground by riflemen. The pilot of the machine was killed.

"Brussels has been revictualed."

She was a stewardess of the Titanic and was coming here to visit relatives.

VIENNA, Oct. 10 (via Amsterdam and London, Oct. 10.)—An official report from headquarters says:

"Our advance has forced the Russians to slacken their efforts against Przemysl, which had reached its climax on the night of October 8, when the Russian losses were terrible.

"Yesterday afternoon the artillery fire against the fortress became weaker. The Russians commenced to withdraw their forces.

"Our advancing troops, near Lanout (a town in Galicia, twelve miles east of Rzeszow,) engaged superior hostile forces. The battle continues.

"The Russians already have evacuated Rzeszow. The situation in the Carpathians is good. The Russians retreating from Maramaros-Sziget are now in full flight."

WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VIENNA, Oct. 10 (via Amsterdam and London.)—To set at rest sensational rumors regarding the situation in Vienna, an official declaration has been made that the construction of fortifications around Vienna and Budapest was ordered for the purpose of giving work to the unemployed.

It is stated also that cases of dysentery, which are common to all wars, have occurred and that cholera has been imported by Russian prisoners. The existence of these cases was made public as it was considered this was the best method of preventing a spread of the disease.

VIGOROUS CAVALRY FIGHT REPORTED BY THE ALLIES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The official communication issued by the French War Department tonight reads:

"The information received this evening from the general headquarters mentions only encounters between the cavalry forces to the southwest of Lille, a violent action to the south, to the east and to the north of Arras, and very vigorous attacks from the enemy on the heights of the Meuse."

The following official announcement was given out in Paris this afternoon:

"The fighting continues under satisfactory conditions. Our entire battle front has been maintained in spite of violent attacks of the enemy at several points.

"On our left wing in the region included between La Basse, Armentieres and Cassel, the fighting between the opposing forces of cavalry has been confused because of the nature of the Terrain.

"To the north of the Oise our troops have attained real advantages at several places in their zone of action. In the region of St. Mihiel we have made material progress. As to Belgium, it is announced that Antwerp was taken yesterday. The conditions under which this place was occupied by the enemy are, however, not yet known.

"In Russia very spirited fighting continues on the frontier of East Prussia, where Russian troops have had partial successes. They have occupied the town of Lyck, in East Prussia. The siege of Przemysl continues under conditions favorable for Russians, who have taken by assault one of the forts of the main line of defense."

PART OF BELGIAN ARMY IS INTERNED IN HOLLAND.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11, 1:45 a.m.—A Reuter dispatch from Rotterdam says:

"That part of the Belgian army also is interned in Holland is evident from the fact that telegraphic orders have been sent to several retired officers of the Dutch army to take charge of camps where Belgian and British soldiers who crossed the frontier are quartered.

"A great number of the Antwerp garrison are expected to reach this side of the frontier."

GERMAN TROOPS RETIRING AND BLOWING UP BRIDGES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD (Russia) Oct. 10.—The following communication under date of October 9, has been made public by the Russian General Staff:

"The combat on the East Prussian frontier continues with the same obstinacy. The German troops are retiring from Lyck and are blowing up the bridges behind them.

"In several passes between Ivangorod and Sandomir artillery battles are occurring with the enemy, which is approaching the Vistula."

Quatrecht.

GERMANS ARE REPULSED BY FRENCH AND BRITISH.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A serious German check is reported this morning (October 11) at Quatrecht, near Wetteren, east of Ghent, where according to an Ostend dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, 20,000 Germans have been repulsed by French and British troops.

Casualties.

SIXTY THOUSAND GERMANS LOST AT AUGUSTOWO.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A dispatch to the Reuter Telegram Company from Petrograd gives the following official statement:

"The last of the German soldiers have evacuated Suwalki (government of Russian Poland) carrying off the valuables they had taken as loot. They did not have time to force the payment of a war levy of $50,000 which had been imposed.

"It is estimated that the Germans lost 60,000 men in the battle of Augustowo."

PROSPERITY IS IN SIGHT, SAYS CHARLES G. DAWES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker and president of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity and Comptroller of the Currency under President McKinley, tonight declared the country faces unparalleled prosperity despite the European war. He spoke at the banquet concluding the eightieth annual convention of the fraternity.

"If the war had not come, the reaction to prosperity would already be upon us," he said. "We have the domestic credit resources to carry on prosperous business among ourselves.

"We have new foreign markets opened to us for the first time upon an advantageous basis as compared with our former foreign competitors."

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH THE KIDNEYS IF YOUR BACK HURTS.

Advises folks to overcome Kidney and Bladder trouble while it is only trouble,

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also, to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which missions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

MAMMA, DADDY AND CHILDREN ALL LOVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Harmless "fruit laxative" cleanses stomach, liver and bowels.

A delicious cure for constipation, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all this distress lies in a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation, poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative cannot cause injury. Even a delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine; so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Say to your druggist, "I want only that made by the 'California Fig Syrup Company.'" This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.

COLUMBIA GYMNASIUM BURNS.

Building Designed Twelve Years Ago by Stanford White is a Mass of Ruins this Morning.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Columbia University gymnasium building, a two-story brown stone structure, 75x175 feet, designed by the late Stanford White and built twelve years ago, was a charred, water-soaked ruin today with all but the walls and the electric power plant in the basement destroyed by the fire which gained swift headway early this morning.

At one time the fire threatened the dormitories and the thousands of students and teachers sleeping there were roused and sent to the grounds.

Aged Counterfeiter Sentenced.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—John Williams, a convicted counterfeiter, 81 years old, was sentenced to two years at McNeill's Island in the Federal Court today. Williams was detected in an attempt to pass a bill which he had raised from $2 to $20.

The octogenarian has spent many years in prison previously on similar charges.

Exquisite Hair Tinting

There is a new preparation on the market that is so entirely harmless and so easy to use that there is really no excuse for any woman (or man) to longer tolerate gray or streaked hair. "Brownatone" meets and overcomes every objection heretofore found to hair stains and is so pleasing in its uniformly splendid results that it has within a few months made thousands of friends who could not now be induced to use anything else.

"Brownatone" is the result of most exhaustive experiments and is absolutely guaranteed satisfactory or money will be returned.

It positively can not be detected, will not rub off or wash off, and is harmless, and permanent in every way.

Prepared in two shades—one for golden or medium brown—the other for dark brown or black. Also in two sizes, 25c and $1.00.

A trial size and an interesting booklet will be sent upon receipt of ten cents, or we will fill your orders direct if your druggist insists upon substituting.

Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser's.

PASTOR IN JAIL.

Minister at Salinas Convicted of Sending an Improper Letter to Girl Parishioner.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—The Rev. E. E. Robbins of Salinas, Cal. was convicted in the United States District Court last night of sending an improper letter to Miss Edna M. Rogers, one of his parishioners. The letter was signed "Mary B. Brown, M. D.," but a handwriting expert testified that the missive was the work of the pastor. Rev. Robbins will be sentenced October 14.

Federal marshals rearrested Robbins today when he failed to furnish an augmented bond of $5000 for his appearance before the Federal Court for sentence. Since his arrest first, Robbins has been at liberty upon a $2000 bond.

The pastor was committed to jail following his arrest today. His attorneys announced that they will ask for a new trial and appeal the case if it is not granted.

Oregon Couple Accused of Murdering Nelms Sisters by Grand Jury at San Antonio, Tex.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Oct. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Innes of Eugene, Or., were jointly indicted by the grand jury today on charges of murdering Mrs. Elois Nelms Dennis and Miss Beatrice Nelms, both of Atlanta, Ga., and of conspiracy to murder them.

Habeas corpus hearing to secure Mr. and Mrs. Innes's freedom has been set for October 15.

EMMETT COLL GETS LIFE.

Confessed Murderer of Youth Near Livermore is Sentenced to San Quentin at Oakland.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OAKLAND, Oct. 10.—Emmett Coll, who confessed to the murder of a youth, known as "Kansas City Kid," in a vacant tankhouse near Livermore two months ago, slashing the body to shreds, was sentenced to life imprisonment in San Quentin today by Superior Judge Ogden.

"I cannot understand how a man could possess a soul and still commit such a crime," declared the judge, in passing sentence. The two men had quarreled, according to the confession. An attempt is being made to prove Coll insane.

PUT FISH GILLS ON SUBMARINES.

THAT'S THE WAY TO MAKE THEM A BIG SUCCESS, EDISON SAYS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 10.—Thomas A. Edison says that anyone skilled in chemistry can, with a day's work, put fish gills in a submarine. To his mind, it is no task to extract oxygen from salt water.

He is not going to tackle the problem, however. After seeing the interior workings of a warship and submarine today for the first time in his life, the inventor said that he "couldn't get enthusiastic" about perfecting weapons of war.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels was Edison's host in the afternoon at the Brooklyn navy yard. The inventor said the things which most interested him on the warships was the Sperry gyroscopic compass.

"Of course, the gyroscope instantly finds the point of no motion," he commented. "Now, why in the Dickens they shouldn't have thought of that before, I can't see."

WOMAN'S CLUB WILL DISBAND.

BIG SOUTHERN ORGANIZATION TO QUIT BECAUSE WILSON WAS SLIGHTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—The Era Club, largest woman's club in the South, is in the limelight again because its obsequies are about to be conducted. The song of requiem is in preparation.

At a business meeting of the club held this afternoon, the president, Mrs. W. W. Vanmeter, who was pilloried at the bar of the club, because she disagreed with the action of a majority when it turned down a motion to send a message of condolence to the President of the United States on the death of Mrs. Wilson, sent in her resignation, both as president and as a member of the club. This resignation was followed by several others, all being accepted. Announcement was made that the club will be disbanded next week.

COAST AVIATOR ON LONG FLIGHT.

SAN JOSE AIRMAN PLANS TRIP FROM NEW YORK TO NEW ORLEANS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 10.—George W. Gorman, a young aviator of San Jose, Cal., announced today that tomorow afternoon he would leave for a 2300-mile flight to New Orleans in a Curtiss flying boat. Weather permitting, he will follow the Atlantic Coast, except for one jump across country to Washington. He intends to stop at Atlantic City tomorrow and at Washington Monday night.

Gorman expects to be at Charleston on Tuesday night, at Jacksonville on Wednesday night, and at Key West on Thursday night. Then, if his flight is successful, he will take the long dash across the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans.

"I am making this trip on my own account," he said, "because I believe the machine I have can accomplish the trip without trouble. I am backing myself to do it, and there is no exhibition angle connected with it."

GERMAN CRITIC ON CARPET.

Secretary Garrison Asks Capt. Coleman to Explain Alleged Interview in New York.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Secretary Garrison called on Capt. Le Vert Coleman, U.S.A., who returned from Europe yesterday with Assistant Secretary Breckinridge, for an explanation as to the correctness of published criticisms of the German army attributed to him which officials deem in violation of President Wilson's prohibition of partisan discussion of the European war.

Capt. Coleman was quoted as saying his observations led to the conclusion that the so-called German atrocities were the result of orders of high German military authorities and not the work of individuals, and "the Germans will never again get as near to Paris as they have been."

DENY REPORTS OF MEDIATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Acting Secretary of State Lansing today denounced as without any foundation reports that this government was offering new mediation proposals to warring European nations. Mr. Lansing asserted that all such reports, unless given out from official sources, should be regarded as inventions of persons with ulterior motives.

Neutrality of Scheldt.

versed, and the allies will have to take their turn in keeping forces before the city to prevent the Germans from Antwerp attacking their flank or rear, should they be able to advance. The Germans propose, according to the Berlin reports, to use the city as a base for operations against England.

So long as Great Britain commands the sea, no great part of the German navy can use the port, even should Germany overrule Holland's objection to the use of the Scheldt by the belligerent ships. Germany, it is thought, may claim that, being in possession of the city, she acquires Belgium's right to use the river on equal terms with the Dutch, and will proceed to build destroyers and submarines there to menace the British fleet.

If Holland should allow these vessels to pass through the Scheldt, England, it is declared, would certainly proclaim it a breach of neutrality. In any case, Holland's position becomes more and more uncomfortable.

IN FRANCE.

In France, according to the French communication, the allies have maintained their positions in spite of violent attacks at several points. The cavalry still is engaged along the Belgian frontier and across it, each side trying to work around the other's wing. This movement has compelled the Germans to withdraw some troops from other parts of the line, and the allies are seizing the opportunity to make headway.

The communication reports that to the north of the Oise the French troops have attained a real advantage in several parts of their zone of action, while in the St. Mihiel region, where they are trying to drive the Germans back across the Meuse, appreciable progress has been made.

EAST PRUSSIA.

The German and Russian forces on the East Prussian frontier are still fighting stubbornly. The Russians apparently continue to make progress slowly, and the Germans, evidently fearing another invasion of East Prussia, according to news from Berlin received through Rome, are sending reinforcements to their army.

An unofficial dispatch received from Petrograd says the Russians have occupied Marggrabowa, which is eight miles over the frontier in East Prussia, almost due west of Suwalki. This would indicate that the Russians have overcome in this region the German resistance, which has been of longer duration than at any other section after the Germans were driven back from their attempt to cross the Niemen River. Lyck, which also has been occupied by the Russians, is fifteen miles south of Marggrabowa.

Petrograd has drawn the veil for the time being over the operations in Poland, where a great battle is expected.

The fortress of Przemysl, in Galicia, still holds out, but it is reported that additional forts have fallen and that the town is being bombarded. A gunpowder factory is said to have been blown up.

Fighting also continues in Hungary, where another Russian force is reported to have arrived south of Maramaros-Szigot. The death of King Charles of Roumania is likely to have a marked affect on that country's action with regard to the war. The late King, who belonged to the Hohenzollern family, was opposed to Roumania joining with the allies, although a majority of the people favored the government's taking advantage of the opportunity to annex Transylvania, which is largely populated by Roumanians. It is doubted whether the new King will have sufficient influence to keep his country out of the war, even should he desire to do so.

Germany seems to think Portugal is about to declare for the allies. This belief probably is based on the fact that the French and British warships have been visiting that country in connection with the celebration of the establishment of the republic.

MEXICAN LOSS TWO KILLED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NACO (Sonora, Mex.) Oct. 10.—Gov. Maytorena's Yaquis killed two of Gen. Hill's men during a brief exchange of shots today. After dark tonight firing between Maytorena's besieging force and Hill's defenders increased somewhat, although no general attack was made.

Gen. Hill today exchanged messages with Ignacio Pasqueira, Subsecretary of War at Mexico City. The latter counselled Hill to avoid aggressive action, and asserted that the conference at Aguascalientes doubtless will bring peace.

Maytorena is enlisting men on every hand and peace here is impossible, Hill replied.

Two searchlights were mounted tonight by Maytorena's men near monument 92 C on the international boundary, apparently in preparation for a night attack.

MEXICANS ARREST THREE AMERICANS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NOGALES (Sonora, Mex.) Oct. 10.—T. W. Carraway and J. C. Wilson of Tucson and J. B. McInerny were arrested near Buena Vista early today. The Sonora authorities stated they were caught placing dynamite on a railroad track with intent to blow up a Maytorena troop train.

Later, J. Ward of Tucson was arrested on the American side by the American authorities, who said that papers were found on him showing he had been commissioned to steal a Sonora State aeroplane at Hermosillo.

The three men arrested in Sonora will be taken to the American Consulate in Nogales to give testimony before the Sonora military authorities, Prefect Gonzales and Frederick Simpich, the American Consul.

VILLA REVIEWS HIS GRIEVANCES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Oct. 10.—Gen. Villa in a long manifesto, copies of which reached the border today, reviewed his grievances with Gen. Carranza, reiterating his demands for the establishment of a government in Mexico.

The document which merely was dated October, was considered as having some bearing on the pending conferences between the delegates of the northern division and the central government at Aguascalientes. It mentioned, however, no matters which Villa had not previously demanded. Among them were demands that all national and State executives be drawn from civilian life.

Villa again alleged the violation by Carranza of a secret agreement said to have been drawn up at the Torreon conference, which was the formal attempt to adjust the long-standing quarrel between the two factions.

CHANNEL PORTS GERMANY'S AIM.

BLOW PLANNED FOR ENGLAND. NORTHERN FRANCE TO BE DESOLATED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The correspondent of the Express in Paris telegraphs the following:

"The immediate objective of the German army is now no longer Paris but the channel ports. To sum up the German plan—the first blow on Paris having failed—the second blow must be aimed at England.

"The new line-up of the opposing forces means that Northern France is destined to suffer a desolation similar to that already visited upon Belgium. All of France's rich cities in the north have been marked for certain destruction and ruin.

"The French General Staff is confident of success, but it is recognized that there can be no decisive victory while the masses engaged are so enormous. It is possible to hope for the defeat of the enemy's plan only if there can be a constant stream of reinforcements."

Any Cargoes that it is Suspected May Ultimately Find Their Way to Germany are Held Indefinitely. Falmouth Inspectors Kept Busy Taking Invoices.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Every day cargoes of foodstuffs, petrol and other supplies which would be useful to Germans move with greater difficulty into Netherlands ports. At Falmouth and other ports in the south of England warships are constantly escorting Dutch bottoms into a safe refuge, where they are held until the ultimate destination of the cargo is finally determined and until the Netherlands government gives assurances the cargo will not be sold to Germany nor used to replace supplies now in Holland which may be sold to the Austrians or the Germans.

Recently the Getria, a big Dutch steamer from the River Plata country, carrying a large cargo of coffee and other foodstuffs, was towed into Falmouth where it was held for more than a week before being permitted to proceed to Rotterdam. The Getria carried a number of German reservists who were taken off the ship before she was finally released. Her cargo of coffee was so large an English official said it was estimated to be sufficient to supply the population of all Holland for six months. However, the ship was allowed to proceed to her destination after the Netherlands government assumed responsibility for the cargo and guaranteed that none of it would go to the enemies of the allies.

After the reservists were taken off at Queenstown the ship was released only to be seized again off the south coast of England and hauled into Falmouth for a fuller investigation of its cargo.

Falmouth has been a much busier port since the English warships have been investigating ships so thoroughly. Scarcely a day passes that a number of craft of varying size are not escorted into that harbor for careful inspection.

Up to this time most of the Dutch ships have been able to make a satisfactory explanation and accounting after a few days of delay and communication with The Hague. Sometimes they are relieved of part of their cargo and permitted to proceed with the remainder.

"What sense would there be in maintaining a large navy and in waging war if we were to permit our enemies to get ammunition and food through neutral ports," a prominent English official remarked in discussing the seizure of the Dutch ships. "We want Holland to have all the foodstuffs required for her own people and shall see that they lack nothing. However, we cannot stand by and watch Dutch merchants supplying Germany's needs."

Ships carrying saltpeter, perol and other supplies clearly for the use of an army are usually held indefinitely. Airships and motor cars play such an important part in the present war that petrol is of the greatest value to the armies and English warships are not permitting neutral tank ships to move toward the North Sea if satisfactory guarantee is not given as to the ultimate destination of their cargo.

DASH AEROPLANES INTO ZEPPELINS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 11, 2:41 a.m.—It was announced by Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, at a patriotic meeting in Kings Way Hall here last night that "if Zeppelins raid London all the members of the British flying corps have pledged themselves to dash their machines right through the airships, even if both are brought to earth."

"Any one passing through London," continues the speaker, "can see that we expect a visit by German air craft."

AMERICAN CONSUL ESCAPES TO GHENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Henry W. Diederich, American Consul General at Antwerp, cabled the State Department from Ghent today confirming reports of his flight from the besieged Belgian capital last Thursday. He said the last thing he saw as he fled from Antwerp was a group of American petroleum tanks in full blaze.

WEATHER IS COLD ON BATTLE FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The weather continues excessively cold for this season of the year and is causing much anxiety for the comfort of the soldiers in the trenches and camps. Associations are being formed to hasten the manufacture of heavy knit garments and sleeping sacks similar to those used by Arctic explorers, for use by the troops at the front.

FOR JUDGE JAMES COMMITTEE IS FORMED.

Planning to cover the entire South portion of the State in an energetic campaign on behalf of Judge William P. James, candidate for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, a committee composed of many business and professional men was organized during the past week.

As there was no contest for the place at the primary election so far as the candidates for Associate Justice was concerned, Judge James's friends thought best to wait until that election was over before settling down to systematic work. They will now proceed in earnest, through the main committee and also committees to be organized in other counties of the South and central portions of the State, to present the claims of their candidate to the electors. Alvin J. Gerlack will direct the work of the committee. In their address to the voters the committee mention the fact that as that tribunal is at present constituted, the South half of the State has but one of seven members of the Supreme Court, which is said not to be a fair representation when it is considered that there are many matters peculiar to the South affecting conditions natural and otherwise which are not common to the North, and which are often involved in litigation in the Supreme Court. Judge James's long term of service on the bench is touched upon and the fact that he is experienced in the handling of Appellate Court work through his employment on the bench of the District Court of Appeal, is given as an added reason why he should be selected to one of the associate justiceships.

"CONREY DAY." MANY MEETINGS PLANNED.

Women of the county have taken up with a vim the movement for "Conrey Day," next Friday, when many meetings in many places will be held in the interest of Presiding Justice Conrey of the District Court of Appeal, candidate for re-election. Many new names are added daily to the list of "hostesses" for these meetings, yet more are wanted. It is urged that women in localities not provided for call Main 7480, Main 7484 or F7108 tomorrow and volunteer to hold neighborhood meetings. The list of hostesses now includes Mrs. Harold Allen, South Pasadena; Mrs. H. B. Alphonso, No. 317 West Avenue 55 and Mrs. Edward Dufini, No. 311 West Avenue 55; Mrs. George Bovard, No. 801 West Thirty-fourth street; Mrs. A. M. SIEGE LASTED TEN DAYS.

Reduction of Formidable Belgian Fortifications was Foreshadowed in Fall of Lierre.

The siege of Antwerp, which culminated in its fall October 9, began on September 29, so that the Germans took just ten days to reduce the formidable fortifications which surrounded the temporary capital of the Belgians. The Germans had, however, for a long time previously prepared the way by taking a number of towns in its vicinity. The first direct attack was against the forts at Waelhem and Wavre-St. Catherines. These were reduced by the aid of big siege guns. Meanwhile, the forts at Lierre and Konngshoyckt had also been attacked and these and others of the outside line of forts were taken last week. The last few days has seen the fighting advance to the inner line of forts and along the Scheldt, principally at Schoonaerde.

At the last-named place severe fighting occurred several days, but the superior artillery of the Germans gradually forced the Belgians back until in the last day or two the fighting reached practically to the suburbs of Antwerp. On Wednesday, October 7 came reports that the Belgian government was moving to Ostend and that day also brought reports that the population was fleeing in terror toward the Holland frontier.

Zeppelin bomb attacks, which did much damage and killed scores of people, added to the terror of the inhabitants.

The German forces which have taken Antwerp are said to consist of five army corps. They were under the command of Gen. Hans H. von Bezler, a veteran of the war of 1870, called from retirement to do the work of reducing Antwerp. Gen. De Guise was in command of the Belgian defenders. King Albert aided them by his personal direction almost to the last, having quit Antwerp, according to reports, only yesterday morning, probably when the end was seen.

Antwerp is 180 miles from London, and in England the fear has been expressed that with this city as a German base, Zeppelin airships could be used to attack the English coast line and even London. The distance from Antwerp to the English coast is less than 100 miles. Antwerp is on the River Scheldt. This river, before it enters the North Sea, flows through The Netherlands territory. Under existing conditions, it would be impossible for Germany to use Antwerp for a naval base without violating the neutrality of The Netherlands.

GERMAN COIN FOR BELGIANS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A dispatch from The Hague to the Exchange Telegraph Company states that Field-Marshal Baron von Der Goltz, Governor General of Belgium, has, in the name of the German Emperor, ordered the Belgians to accept German currency on the same quoting as Belgian currency. This is causing trouble at Brussels.

MAND WOUNDED ARRIVE IN VIENNA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VENICE, Oct. 10 (via Paris.)—Large numbers of wounded soldiers are being brought daily to Vienna, but the newspapers of the Austrian capital are nol noger permitted to report their arrival.

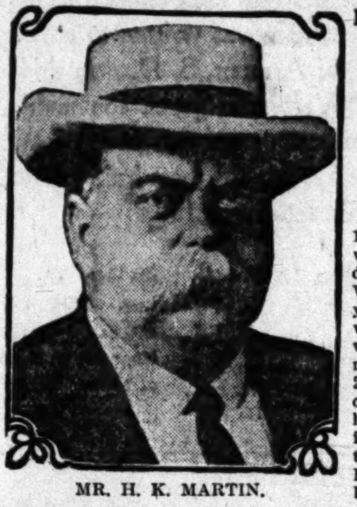
Duffy's a Lifetime Benefit



MR. H. K. MARTIN.

Nearly thirty years ago this gentleman began using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. The results were so beneficial that he has depended upon this valuable medicine in case of sickness ever since. His picture shows how haie and hearty Duffy's has kept him.

"In Thompsonville, Conn., in April, 1885, when I was 22 years of age, I was very sick for three months. A druggist prescribed Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I took 12 bottles during that year and my weight after sickness was 110 pounds. In two years my weight was about 200 pounds. I am now 51 years old and my weight is 250 pounds. I always keep a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in my house and would not be without it, for in sickness we have used it many times since with good results."—Mr. H. K. Martin, 2207 Huntington St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is a life-sustaining agent in cases of emergency which no family medicine chest should lack. It is an absolutely pure distillation of clean, selected grain, carefully malted and so processed as to remove, so far as possible, all injurious elements. By its salutary effect upon the digestion it enriches the blood and builds body and muscle, and in the prevention and relief of coughs, colds and stomach troubles it is very dependable. It makes the old feel young and keeps the young strong and vigorous. Heed the advice of thousands—

"Get Duffy's and Keep Well."

FOR DANDRUFF, FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP—25 CENT DANDERINE.

Girls! Girls! Save your hair! Make it grow luxuriant and beautiful.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

What Mr. Hospers of Los Angeles saw in Milford Valley

THE following letter was written by a practical farmer, Mr. P. Hospers, of 3015 Budlong avenue, Los Angeles, who has just returned from a thorough investigation of Milford Valley lands. Mr. Hospers was kind enough to permit us to use this letter which was written to a friend (F. P. Gallagher) of Armour, S. D. In this letter Mr. Hospers tells the story of Milford Valley in plain, convincing, straightforward language. It is a practical man's opinion of a practical farm land offering. If you are in the market for the best fruit, potato, grain and alfalfa land in the west—read this letter carefully.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 28, 1914.
F. P. GALLAGHER,
Armour, S. D.

DEAR FRIEND—I want to tell you about my trip to Milford Valley, Utah, last week. I found one of the finest valleys I have ever seen, nothing like it in South Dakota, Montana, Colorado or Texas, and you know I've been all over those places, having bought and sold land there.

These Milford lands have an extra fine soil and plenty of the best water, mighty cheap, too, for this western country. It is a fine fruit, grain and stock country. I saw the finest wheat, oats and alfalfa. Saw wheat that threshed 55 bushels to the acre; saw oats 100 bushels to the acre weighing 55 pounds to the bushel. This is a fact. Saw alfalfa fields that cut 3 tons to the acre and they cut it three times, so you see they got some hay, and it is of the best quality. Saw fields of potatoes that will go 500 bushels to the acre. You can raise anything you want here. I saw some of the finest hogs and cattle and I know that is what you like. Climate is just right, nothing like it in the middle west. A man can work outside every day here. Milford is a live town of 1500 people and has a pay roll of $50,000 a month. These lands are from two to six miles from the center of town. The railroad is the main line of the Salt Lake. You asked me several times to let you know when I found a good place. I am sure this is just what you want. You had better come at once and see. I expect to move to Milford in the spring. This land is selling very fast and I would advise you to act quick. The cost is only $30 per acre and the water right is sold at $70 per share with 12 years' time to pay for it if desired. This is the cheapest land of this class I've seen out here. With best wishes,

I am Yours truly,
P. HOSPERS,

GERMANY CAMP OF FORTRESSES.

DESCRIBED AS IMPREGNABLE BY EDGAR MACLAY.

A Possible Retreat Back to the Home Country, He Says, Will Put Them on the Defensive at Many "Gibraltars" That Guard Strategic Points.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 26.—Edgar Stanton Maclay, author of the "History of United States Navy and American Privateers" granted an interview today in which he said in part:

"Although the German armies invading France now seem to be retreating more or less precipitately from their advanced positions before Paris, it by no means follows that Germany is crushed or that the war is nearly ended. On the contrary, by a rapid concentration of his offensive forces into Belgium, nearer to his base of supplies at Aix-la-Chapelle and Cologne, the Kaiser is assuming a defensive position, which, in the ordinary course of military procedure, will enable him to prolong the war for an indefinite period.

"Germany well may be described as a camp of impregnable fortresses, long since supplied with every appliance known to military science for resisting an invader, with garrisons long since especially trained in the handling of their instruments of defense, and with provisions stored in sufficient quantities to enable those garrisons to hold out for a year. In the opening fields of our own Southern Confederacy, in the Civil War, having little more than hastily erected earthworks, we easily can understand how an invading Northern force of two to one could hope to crush the defense in the long run; but, with the Kaiser's armies concentrated in and around the many "Gibraltars" that guard the strategical points of Germany, it is easy to see that the invaders must be more than two to one in force if they are to carry on the campaign with a reasonable prospect of success."

A SCIENTIFIC ADVANCE.

In Entering Belgium and France the Germans Employed the Very Latest Devices to Help Armies.

In their sensational advance into France the German forces utilized modern inventions, the aeroplane and the automobile, in a most scientific and effectual manner, as is told in the special war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, where the following interesting facts are given:

Eyewitnesses of the German advance into France from Belgium say the first sign of the army consisted of six to twelve aeroplanes flying at different heights covering a width of ten and more miles. Slightly behind these aeroplanes came a fleet of twenty and more armored motor cars, capable of making easily forty miles an hour. Against such a reconnoitering force the British cavalry was at a great disadvantage, as the quick-firing guns on the cars easily disposed of small bodies of troops, and the aeroplanes aloft gave notice in time of the advance of reinforcements. Except in the thick of a battle no report has come from the battlefields showing that the advance army ever ran into an ambush. With armored cars scouring the ground below and aeroplanes peeking into things in general from above, it would have been impossible for large bodies of troops to hide. In the beginning of this month strong pressure was brought by Gen. French, it is reported by British motor men, and some hundred touring cars were fitted with steel shields in such a manner as to make a presentable armored car squadron. Simultaneously the rapid advance of the Germans in the north stopped, chiefly, it is stated, because of the increased mobility of the English forces and the better protection given to the outposts by the armored cars, which engaged the German cars in pitched battles instead of fleeing before them, as the horsemen had been compelled to do before.

WHY BEARS BITE TREES.

A Curious Custom of the Brute as Unexplainable as Why They Make Their Mark on Trees in the Spring.

[New York Sun:] "A bear never gets tired," said a Pike County man full of the subject that has made that corner of the Keystone State somewhat famous. "No one ever saw a tired bear. A bear will travel 100 miles over the roughest kind of ground and through swamps and thickets without ever thinking of resting, if hard pressed, and be just as fresh for another 100 miles as when he started on the first.

"If he has time he will sit down once in a while to take a bite of something to eat, as the hunter can see if he is following bruin in a crackling snow. This and the curious custom the bear has of turning off his course when traveling, whether the dogs and hunters are after him or not, and going to certain trees on one side or the other of the course, where he bites viciously at the trunk until the splinters fly, are the only digressions he makes from his route.

"The habit of biting trees in this way while traveling has never been satisfactorily explained. The trees may be two rods or they may be half a mile or more off the bear's line of travel, but no bear passing that way ever fails to sheer off to them and bite off a piece, unless he is too closely pressed by the dogs or hunters. Any old woodman can take you to trees of that kind that are almost bitten in two by bears that have stopped and chewed them in obedience to the custom.

"The bears must have some reason or purpose, of course, in picking out trees to be visited and bitten, but what it can be no one knows, any more than why bears never fail in coming out of their winter sleeping places in the spring to rise, full length against some particular tree, reach up as far as they can along the trunk and scratch a mark in the bark with their claws.

"Natives of the bear country say that bruin does this to see whether he has grown any since he holed up in the fall, while others declare it is a challenge to other bears as a test of their high-reaching powers in competition. Perhaps neither is right."

Optimism Facts.

[Detroit Free Press:] The majority of men who borrow money return it.

There are more decent people in the world than all the other kinds combined.

The fact that dishonesty seems to prosper corrupts only the few.

If virtue were as unusual as vice it would get just as much publicity.

When You Hear That Dinner Bell

Does Your Mind Go Back to the Days When You Could Eat Like a Farm Hand?

The memory of an appetite is a woeful thing. The loss of stomach power—the ability to eat—the yearning after good old-fashioned food—that condition is pitiful. Why can't you realize what thousands of others have demonstrated?

First Man—"I'm as hungry as a bear."

Second Man—"Wait 'till I get a plateful of good old corned beef and cabbage."

Look at the above illustration. Most everyone remembers such a scene. Fancy yourself wild for food now. Fancy yourself able to eat as one of these men can eat.

Use a little common sense and look at your stomach trouble in a practical manner. Something has gone wrong with your digestive apparatus. Set your body machinery aright. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Nature's own way to digesting food. By eating one of these tablets after each meal you digest that meal. Digesting that meal means easing the work of the stomach, intestines, liver and pancreas and storing up new materials for digesting future meals.

Eat what you will and when you will, but always carry a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet in your pocket. In a short time you will be surprised at the gladsome spirit with which you look on food.

Go to your druggist anywhere and buy a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets this very day.

To anyone wishing a free trial of these tablets please address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., and a small sample package will be mailed free.

HOW WE STAND AS A NEUTRAL.

United States Enjoys Rights Now Largely Codified.

But Is Also Bound by Rules Which Work Adversely.

Duty to Keep Out of War Is Strictly Defined.

Upon the outbreak of the European war the United States finds itself placed in a new relation to each belligerent power, and suddenly subjected to a variety of duties, and possessed of certain rights that accrue only in such abnormal times, says Charles Cheney Hyde in the World's Work. With a merchant marine shrunken to insignificance, with a vast export trade threatened with paralysis by the lack of neutral bottoms, and with American citizens stranded by tens of thousands on European soil, we nevertheless face a situation that Washington would have rejoiced to substitute for that which confronted him in 1793, for today the United States as a neutral enjoys rights that were not dreamed of at the close of the eighteenth century, and those rights are in large degree codified.

To The Hague conventions of 1907, concerning the rights and duties of neutral powers in naval war, and the rights and duties of neutral powers and persons in case of war on land, the United States is, happily, a party. It has also accepted the Declaration of London of 1909, concerning the laws of naval war. The purpose of that agreement was to make clear the law to be applied by the proposed international prize court, the arrangement for the establishment of which was formulated at The Hague in 1907. Though the powers have not established a prize court or accepted generally the Declaration of London, the United States has formally ratified both agreements. By so doing it has recorded its approval of the rules enunciated in the latter document. It cannot, therefore, complain of the conduct of any belligerent which may seek to conform to or rely upon them. Although the Parliament of Great Britain has acted adversely upon the Declaration of London, that country is, nevertheless, free to change its position and to make that arrangement the guide of its own prize courts. Deriving their law from that source, their decisions cannot be denounced by us as unjust. For these several codifications the United States has had to pay a price the extent of which is hardly yet appreciated. However useful may be the knowledge at the very commencement of hostilities of what a neutral may reasonably expect, the rules themselves are in certain respects so adverse to interests of such a state that it is only through the grim experience of a general European war that the United States can fairly estimate how well it has conserved its vital interests in accepting as law principles that may now be relentlessly applied.

According to The Hague conventions, the United States as a government is obliged to refrain from taking any part in the war. Impartial participation does not suffice. We could not excuse the sale of arms to Germany by pleading readiness to supply likewise France or Russia. The scope of the duty of abstention is broad. The government must not furnish a belligerent with anything that will serve to increase its fighting power, such as ammunition or other war material, or warships. Incidental to this general duty to abstain from participation, the neutral finds itself burdened with a still more onerous duty to prevent its territory and resources from being employed to strengthen the military or naval power of a belligerent. The diligence required of a neutral is measured by the "means at its disposal." Those means must be used to prevent the commission of warlike acts within its waters, or the passage of belligerent troops over its territory. The neutral is obviously not responsible for what it is powerless to prevent.

From the rules of the treaty of Washington of 1871, which made possible the Geneva arbitration of the so-called Alabama claims, has been derived the well-known principle expressed in happier terms in 1907, that "a neutral government is bound to employ the means at its disposal to prevent the fitting out or arming of any vessel within its jurisdiction which it has reason to believe is intended to cruise, or engage in hostile operations, against a power with which that government is at peace." The same vigilance is required of a neutral to prevent the departure from its territory of a vessel there adapted entirely or partly for warlike use, and intended to cruise or engage in hostile operations. Pursuant to this obligation the United States has already taken extraordinary precautions to prevent the departure from Atlantic ports of merchant vessels sailing under belligerent flags if equipped in such a way as to fight for their own countries, and under contract for public service in case of war.

In sharp contrast to these obligations is the express understanding that a neutral is not bound to prevent the export or transit for the use of a belligerent of anything which can be of use to an army or a fleet. Thus the United States is not required to prevent its citizens from selling or exporting arms or war material of any kind. Such transactions would, nevertheless, constitute direct participation in the war, and hence be regarded as internationally wrongful, so as to subject the participant to serious penalties in case of the capture of his property. Such conduct would also, moreover, disregard the spirit if not the letter of President Wilson's proclamation of neutrality of August 4, in which it is declared that "the statutes and the treaties of the United States alike require that no person within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States shall take part, directly or indirectly, in said wars."

Whether war is waged on land or sea, neutral territory is deemed inviolable. As to this requirement The Hague conventions are explicit. Acts of war in neutral waters are forbidden. Thus if the Kronprinzessin Cecilie had been captured by any enemy cruiser just as she entered Frenchman's Bay on August 4, the United States would have had good cause to demand reparation from the government of the captor, and would also have found itself compelled to demand the release of the vessel. A prize court can not be set up on neutral territory or in neutral waters. Nor can belligerent warships make use of such waters for the purpose of increasing supplies of war material or of completing their crews, or as a base of operations against the enemy.

For numerous purposes a belligerent warship may endeavor to make use of neutral waters. The Hague convention of 1907 indicates the scope of the privileges that such a vessel may be permitted to enjoy, and thereby enables the neutral to follow with certainty a course that shall not expose it to the charge of unneutral conduct. Let us consider a situation that might arise. A French cruiser, short of coal and provisions, and in an unseaworthy condition, is pursued by the enemy, and puts into Portland harbor to escape capture and to rehabilitate herself generally. Just inside of Cushing's Island she finds herself in the unwelcome company of a German warship that made the same port a few hours earlier. The Hague convention has marked out the general course which the United States should follow; and by his proclamation of neutrality, President Wilson has indicated with precision what we would permit. Accordingly, the French ship would be allowed fuel sufficient to enable her to reach her nearest home port, or half of that amount if she were rigged to go under sail and also be propelled by steam.

Although the United States could, without impropriety, if it had adopted that method of determining the amount of fuel to be supplied, allow the vessel to fill its bunkers built to carry fuel, and thereby greatly increase her efficiency, the President has announced a rule that is consistent with our previous policy and in harmony with what was, prior to 1907, generally regarded as sound practice. The latitude accorded the neutral in 1907 was not sought by the United States, was vigorously opposed by Great Britain, and was the result of a compromise to satisfy the far-reaching demands of Germany. With respect to provisions, the French ship could supply herself with garlic and Aroostook county potatoes ad libitum so long as the revictualing did not exceed the so-called "peace standard."

If it were in a seaworthy condition the German cruiser would be obliged to depart within twenty-four hours after its arrival. The French vessel might, however, be allowed additional time if needed for recoaling or repairs. The latter might necessarily consume a few days. Repairs would not be permitted that would serve to do more than place the ship in a seaworthy condition, and even such repairs would not be allowed if they necessitated a long sojourn. If, as in the case of the Russian ship Lena, that entered San Francisco Harbor in September, 1904, during the Russian-Japanese War, necessary repairs require a stay of several weeks or months, the vessel would be promptly interned by the United States. By interning the ship the United States would be taking measures to render her incapable of putting to sea during the war.

It was declared in 1907 that the citizens of a State which is not taking part in the war are considered as neutrals. To the Americans that are now in belligerent European countries that status is precious. It enables the possessor to escape numerous burdens which the State that is engaged in war justly and of necessity imposes upon its own citizens. One cannot, however, avail himself of his neutrality if he commits acts against a belligerent, or if he voluntarily enlists in the ranks of a party to the conflict. There are, nevertheless, services which the neutral citizen on belligerent soil may render without losing his distinctive character. Americans in Paris or Berlin might, for example, organize for the purpose of assisting in matters of police or civil administration. They might also furnish loans (if their means permitted) to one of the belligerents in whose territory they did not reside.

Prosperous Italian Banks.

[Indianapolis News:] The newspaper Italia congratulates the Italian banks on not only having easily been able to pay the installment of 15 per cent. on all deposits required by law, but on raising voluntarily—at least in the case of the large institutions—the rate of payment to 25 and 30 per cent. In single instances even 35 per cent. could be had on demand. Neither England, nor France, nor any other European country, says the paper, could show equal financial readiness in the first month of a general war.

TREMENDOUS BATTLE EXPECTED IN POLAND.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD (via London) Oct. 10.—An official Russian communication issued recently stated that in view of the importance of the coming battle and the changed disposition of the Russian forces, secrecy is necessary in regard to military operations. Therefore the only possible remark is that the drawing in of the Russian forces from the north and south is to meet the attempted Austro-German advance into Poland.

The victorious army of Gen. Rennenkampff, having driven back the Germans from the region of Augustowo as far back as Lyck and Prostken, which is now in the possession of the Russians, has accomplished its purpose and is now free to send part of the troops southward. At the same time the Cossacks pouring into Hungary have now changed their objective.

The Russian troops are now acting exclusively on the offensive in Poland. The attempted advance of the Germans into this country demands a massing of the Muscovite forces along the line from Lublin to Warsaw and Lemberg, where the indications are that the Russian offensive is already in progress. Meanwhile no further action is expected to the north of Bialystok, where the Russian army is content with having repulsed the Germans as far as necessary.

Russian information is that following the taking of Antwerp by the Germans the army thus set free will proceed immediately to the Russian frontier, while in the western theater of war the Germans will confine themselves to defensive tactics.

THE CHECKERBOARD OF THE WAR.

BY HARRY CARR.

BY THE time this appears in print, Antwerp will probably be in the hands of the Germans. This ends the most pathetic tragedy of the war—the obliteration of gallant Belgium. A handful of her soldiers in the swamp lands between Antwerp and the coast now represents all she has left of her power. Military history has few chapters that equal the gallantry of her useless defense. Poor little Belgium has been only a brave target to demonstrate to the allies that the Germans have invented the most dreadful engine of war that modern science has produced—the siege howitzer.

The fall of this powerful fortress will have an important bearing upon the war. Antwerp was considered to be one of the few impregnable forts in the world. It was a triumph of the fort-builder's art. Even the most optimistic heavy artillery officers of the German army did not believe it could be taken in less than a month—even with the new siege guns. But so terrible are the German howitzers that Antwerp only stood for eleven days. This proves conclusively that the Germans would have smashed the forts of Paris like paper if the infantry could have held the line.

Although intended primarily to relieve the German line of communication from the threat of a Belgian-English attack from the rear, the fall of Antwerp is expected to throw a scare into England in both a political and military sense.

Unless the English retort with a strong landing attack from the sea, supported by ships of war, the Germans will be enabled to advance to the Belgian coast, just across the channel from England. The British are now facing the invasion they have so long dreaded. An invasion by airships! The Germans claim to have a new Zeppelin which is as radical a departure from other airships as the hidden German howitzers were a departure from all other types of cannon. These aeroplanes have never been seen except by the crews. The Germans hint that these airships have been reserved for the invasion of England. These stories may be fables, but they are none the less alarming to England.

By the threat of launching airships across the channel into England, the Germans hope, not only to shake the British Isles to the foundations with fear, but also to seriously embarrass England in her relations with her colonies.

THE REAL BATTLE.

Every student of this war should remember that the Germans and English are fighting a battle whose weapons are not bullets and shells but the poison of internal dissension. The soldiers in this battle are spies, special agents and diplomats. In every English over-seas possession the German agents are feeding the idea of rebellion [illegible]. The rumor that Bulgaria is about to join (?) the allies is as important as a rumor as it would be as a fact. It shows plainly how far-reaching is the German propaganda. It shows that German agents are at work everywhere. No one can doubt that the work of these agents is a serious menace to Great Britain, especially in South Africa, India and Egypt.

It is a matter of vital importance that England should be before her colonies as a powerful winner. In their publications, they show how strongly they feel this need. In the battle of Mons, for instance, the military experts agree that the British were surprised and staggered by the rapidity with which the Germans moved their infantry in motor trucks. The British attacked a small force and a big German army came tumbling out of motor trucks upon them. But the British made haste to state this incident in another light; that they completely outmaneuvered the Germans in that battle; that the Germans tried to drive them into the fortress of Maubeuge to bottle them up; but the British, by superior strategy, completely outgeneraled them. The emphasis which the British put upon this fact shows how important they consider it to show themselves in the best possible light before their colonies.

It is said that even now, German agents are pointing out to the Moslems the fact that the English could not or would not come to the rescue of Antwerp.

The stiffer England keeps her upper lip, the stronger her hold upon her subject people. The Germans are of the opinion that the fall of Antwerp will take considerable of the stiffness out of that portion of the British national anatomy.

Aside from the effect upon the morale of England, such a raid may have the practical advantage of compelling England to hold back some of her fresh troops from joining the allies. Also, it will tend to relieve the naval strength of the British blockade of the North Sea. Germany probably feels that, if she could force England into another theater of war, the way might be opened for that dash to Paris after all.

Unless some big radical change takes place like this, the war in France will have to be declared a draw. All military experts agree that the two armies are in a deadlock and will remain so. A new military truth has been born; armies of equal and gigantic size cannot win decisive victories over each other.

SCIENTIFIC ENGINES.

This is due to the scientific improvement of the engines of war, especially in the intelligence and transportation departments. The element of surprise has practically become obsolete. The commander of the modern army has the wireless telegraph, the field telephone, the aeroplane scout, the motorcycle messenger who races at the speed of an express train. These warn him of the movements of the enemy and place him in close touch with his entire battle line. With motor trucks, railroad trains, automobiles, he can transport troops to a threatened line at a speed unknown in the older days of war. With the machine gun, almost any attack can be held back long enough for these rapid reinforcements to arrive.

By a paradox of war, the refinements of modern science have reduced war to a brutal, primitive game of bulldog endurance. Both sides have recognized this and know in their hearts that a decisive victory on either side has become exceedingly improbable. Field Marshal Lord Roberts recently wrote to a British magazine that the real decision will be the fighting that takes place after the Germans are driven back onto their own soil. Earl Grey has stated publicly that victory will be decided by the last few millions in gold in the coffers of the straining countries.

The troops have now been under fire for a longer period than any other soldiers have ever before endured. Officers in the Japanese army told me that even the clods from the Russian steppes became hysterical after five or six hours continuous firing; but these soldiers of today must have, in some instances, been under continuous fire for days at a time. The letters from German soldiers tell [illegible] is the test.

On the face of it, the advantage in the drawn battle would appear to go to the side able to bring up the most fresh troops. And that is manifestly England. Her men have just begun to come. This advantage of morale is offset to some extent by the superiority of the German trenches.

One naturally thinks of the Germans as lying flat on their tummies in open ditches always under fire. Recent descriptions of the German trenches show them to be marvelous underground cities; caves with main thoroughfares and side streets, telephones and storehouses. The elaborate construction of these trenches must, to some extent, offset the nerve strain of the Germans and equalize the morale of the armies in spite of the allies' advantage of continually arriving fresh troops.

But endurance does not depend upon the soldiers under fire. It also concerns money, supplies and political cohesion.

The first phase of the war is now passing. In the second phase, the Germans would seem to have the advantage regarding supplies; in the third phase the advantage should be with the allies.

Take, for instance, the replenishing of the supply of horses. England is trying to buy horses right here in Los Angeles; France is said to be buying them in the Middle West. Germany's second line of horse defense is right at her hand. In Germany, the government has stallions distributed throughout the country and the colts are pledged to the army under an option of purchase. These colts are inspected at regular intervals by army officers. When needed, they are simply called for.

In the long run, of course, the allies, particularly Russia, have resources superior to the Germans. Russia must have an enormous supply of money, horses and foodstuffs.

WHAT IS COMING.

The fact that the Czar mobilized his army and then sent 600,000 men home again creates a suspicion that there was not enough equipment to go around; but this, like everything else about the Russian army, is a mystery. If the deadlock in France is broken, it will be broken by the Russians on the other frontier. The long cruel Russian winter will interfere seriously with the attack of the Russian. The defense of the German will be crippled by the miserable failure of the Austrian army; so it looks like a deadlock for the eastern frontier also.

While the soldiers stick in the trenches, the German agents will be busy. It remains to be seen whether the fall of Antwerp and the threatened advance of the German Zeppelins upon the English coast will shake the cruel war into new lines.

Tactical.

SUCCESS IN WAR TO AGGRESSORS.

OFFENSIVE POLICY AS RULE BRINGS RESULTS.

Experts Say it is a Mistake for Defenders to Fall Back Too Long to Weaken an Enemy and that Victory Follows Seizure of Psychological Moment to Attack.

That success waits on the one who undertakes the offensive has been recognized many times in accomplishments of a peaceful nature, and that the same rule holds good in war, as illustrated in the recent operations of the armies in Europe, is pointed out by a military expert in an interesting article in the war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, where the conditions are clearly stated as follows:

It has been generally conceded that real success in war results only from offensive operations.

It is true that in order to gain time to complete the mobilization of its troops, or for other reasons, a nation in danger of invasion by a more powerful or better prepared neighbor may be compelled to assume a defensive attitude. Its highly disciplined and efficient armies, skillfully handled, may be able to inflict tremendous losses on the invader by repeatedly compelling him to attack and carry strong defensive positions, previously prepared, in order to continue his advance into the defender's territory. The defenders, by a succession of well-timed and orderly retreats to selected positions in the rear, may succeed in drawing their more aggressive opponent into a position where all the advantages, strategic and tactical, will then be on the side of the defenders. All this, however, will result in little or no advantage to the defenders unless they are prepared and willing promptly to assume the offensive at the psychological moment, and thus turn the tables on the weakened enemy and drive him out of the country.

A protracted defensive is a dangerous game. Recent events show that a skillful commander can play it successfully against perhaps the best armies the world has ever seen. We are not yet in position to count the costs or to predict the ultimate results. At date of writing the counter-offensive is meeting with success. This is in accord with the rules of the game.

To elucidate: In connection with the disadvantages of a strictly defensive campaign, let us assume that the armies of a strong nation have invaded the territory of one of its neighbors. The latter, for reasons of its own, assumes a defensive attitude, and by a succession of skillfully-managed retreats within its own territory, during which it has been able to inflict severe losses on the enemy, it succeeds in drawing the invaders far from their base, and, as a result of the losses inflicted and of the dangers to which their lines of communication are exposed, the latter reach a point where they must halt for a while to recuperate or await reinforcements. Let us suppose that the defenders are then either unable or unwilling to assume the offensive. Military operations with the exception of unimportant clashes between advance guards and reconnoitering patrols, will practically come to a standstill for the time being.

Both combatants might be willing to make peace under certain conditions, but neither is in position to suggest it. The invaders cannot propose it because it would be taken as an indication that while successful up to date, they fear for the future, and would be willing to quit while they have the advantage. As for the defenders, a proposition from them would be equal to acknowledging that they are hopelessly beaten. Therefore both await developments.

PRISONERS INSULTED.

German Officers Causes the Arrest of Citizens of Munich, who Offended English and French Captives.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

GENEVA (Switzerland) via Paris, Oct. 10, 4:15 p.m.—According to information reaching this city from Munich, a number of English and French prisoners were being marched through the Munich streets recently when a group of civilians called out insults at them.

The officer in command reprimanded the crowd and upon the insults continuing, he had a number arrested.

CASCARETS FOR COSTIVE BOWELS, SOUR STOMACH, COLD OR HEADACHE.

That awful sourness, belching or acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means your stomach is sour—your liver is torpid—your bowels constipated. It isn't your stomach's fault—it isn't indigestion—it's biliousness and constipation. Try Cascarets; they sweeten the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble, headache, bad cold and all such misery ends.

DIG TRENCHES UNDER FIRE.

SOLDIERS ON BATTLE LINE MUST PROVIDE OWN COVER.

Small Hole is Dug with Bayonet or Meat Can as First Protection Against Hail of Bullets and Later this is Gradually Made Larger as Time Permits.

In the reports of the war in Europe it is frequently stated that the advance lines of the armies threw up intrenchments, and it is difficult for the ordinary reader to understand how this is done, for to him anything like a fortification appears to be a matter of considerable time and labor, which could not be accomplished with the enemy raining shot and shell. What these protections are and how they are formed is clearly explained in the special war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, by a military expert in an interesting story about fortifications generally:

The advancing line may have suffered great losses, or the ammunition may be running low. At all events, it finds itself unable to gain ground to the front. To retreat would be fatal. It must remain where it is—some of the men find natural cover, but many must provide artificial protection from the enemy's rifle fire. The men are lying down as flat as they can. To arise, even to a kneeling position, means death or a disabling wound. The necessity for cover under these circumstances caused men to devise the lying-down trench, sometimes called the skirmishers' trench. It gives cover from rifle fire to a man lying down, but is absolutely no protection from shrapnel bullets. The height of the parapet should not exceed one foot. The trench itself is about two and a half feet wide and about six feet long. It can be constructed by one man in soft ground, using the portable intrenching tools, in about twenty minutes. Under fire, as outlined in the foregoing, the man being compelled to remain in the prone position, he can mask himself from view in from ten to fifteen minutes and complete the trench in forty to forty-five minutes. In this position, and in view of the small number of portable intrenching tools carried by the company, the man would be obliged to use his knife bayonet to loosen the earth and the cover of his meat can to shovel it in front of him. One of the methods of working suggested by the text-books is to dig a trench eighteen inches wide as far back as the knees; roll into it and dig twelve inches wide alongside of it and down to the feet; then roll into the second cut and extend the first one back to the feet. This trench was seldom used in the Manchurian war. The best that can be said for it is that men can obtain slight cover under a hot fire with a minimum of casualties because it involves less digging, and they are partially protected from the very beginning of the work.

Knocking at Door.

OPPORTUNITY OF AMERICA.

SHOULD SOON PREDOMINATE IN WORLD'S TRADE.

Noted Manufacturer Says United States Can Greatly Enhance its Own Position if Dealers Cater to the Buyers Abroad and Ship What is Wanted.

America's opportunity to gain a predominating position in the foreign trade of the world has been the subject of many articles and discussions. To get at the real opinion of the people most directly interested, the Scientific American has secured opinions from a number of men prominently connected with the leading manufacturing industries of the country. A number of these are published in the special war issue of October 3, and are well worth the attention of every business man. Among these communications may be quoted the letter of J. W. Earle, president of the Remington Typewriter Company, who says in part:

"No manufacturer who confines his business to America would continue to make last year's styles to sell to this year's trade, but some manufacturers seem to think that, because the style or character of an article suits the American trade, it is good enough for the foreigner. Until he is ready to treat the foreigner with the same consideration that he treats his home trade, especially when he attempts to compete with others who do show that consideration, he is going to be at a disadvantage.

"In other words, no matter where you sell your goods, you must give the buyer what he wants and in the way in which he wants it."

The recommendations of Frederick S. Fish, president of the Studebaker Corporation, are also interesting and to the point. He says:

"First, learn the people, their characteristics, their methods, and, being properly introduced and accredited, observe their conventionalities.

"Second, give them the goods they want, as they want them, and in quality as represented.

"Third, learn how to ship, ship as instructed and with particular regard to handling and moving on the part of the customer on reaching destination.

"Fourth, and a prerequisite, good banking and exchange facilities.

"Fifth, and a prerequisite, ships to carry the goods.

DEFENSE AGAINST MINES.

Problem of Protecting Merchant Ships in Open Water One of Greatest in War.

The disastrous results of the use of submarine mines, both on naval and merchant vessels in the North Sea, suggests the question how such attacks can be guarded against, and this subject is discussed, among others, in an article in the war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, in which the following statement is made.

The only possible defenses against mines are counter-mining and sweeping. In the former case an attempt is made to set off the mines by detonating high explosives among them. The more effective method is to remove the mines altogether by "sweeping" operations, which are carried out as follows: Two vessels of light draft, such, for instance, as torpedo-boat destroyers or tugs, or (as in the case of sweeping operations carried out by the English in the North Sea) steam trawlers, proceed through the mine field abreast of each other, say, from 100 to 200 yards apart, and drag over the bottom of the mine field a length of heavy chain, which is connected at its ends to the two mine-sweeping vessels. The chain as it is dragged over the bottom engages such mines as lies in its path, which are destroyed by contact with each other or by a few well-directed shots from the vessels of the mine-sweeping fleet.

Operations of this character can be carried out only in the open sea or in waters that are not protected by the fire of shore batteries. In the case of mine fields protecting the channel entrances to harbors, dockyards, etc., the fields are covered by the fire of rapid-fire batteries, conveniently located on either shore.

A Pretty Skin Makes a Pretty Face

Stuart's Calcium Wafers Cleanse the Skin Very Quickly and Make It Clear and White.

Do you envy the girl with the delicate tints and the rosy glow of good health on her face? Do you long for the perfect freshness and beauty of her complexion? The means of gaining them are within your reach this very minute.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will work this wonderful miracle of good looks for you within a very few days. No matter how covered with pimples, rash, eczema or any sort of skin eruption your face may be—no matter how dull and yellow your skin appears—your complexion will be transformed almost instantly into all that is lovely and desirable.

"Everybody loves a pretty face and a delicate Skin."

Face lotions and creams merely alleviate the irritation of the skin—they are of no permanent value. Stuart's Calcium Wafers go right after the cause of pimples—the poisons and impurities in the blood. They chase them into the pores, change them into gases that are easily eliminated and then stimulate the pores into throwing them out. There is no waste of time—no fooling around. These little wafers assimilated into the blood, work night and day until every impurity is gotten rid of and you not only have a clear complexion but pure, vigorous blood that endows you with new life and energy.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain nothing harmful—nothing but what thousands of physicians have used and recommended. Its chief constituent, calcium sulphide, is universally recognized as the most powerful of blood purifiers.

Surprise your friends by meeting them with a face radiant wiht loveliness instead of the disagreeable, pimply one they are used to. Give yourself the supreme happiness that the consciousness of good looks and the power of attraction will bring you.

Buy a box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers today and see how quickly the pimples will disappear. They can be obtained at any drug store at 50 cents a box. They come in a form convenient to carry and are pleasant to the taste. A small sample package will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Owes Her Life To This Lung Medicine

Sufferers from consumption should take the trouble to investigate what Eckman's Alterative has accomplished in restoring others to health. Read this:

Griffith, Lake Co., Ind.

"Gentlemen: About Sept. 10th, 1908, my mother-in-law was taken sick with Catarrhal Pneumonia, which developed into Tuberculosis. In January, when Rev. Wm. Berg of St. Michael's Church, at Schererville, Ind., prepared her for death, he recommended that I get Eckman's Alterative, and see if it would not give her some relief. The attending physician declared she had Consumption and was beyond all medical aid. Practically without hope for recovery, I insisted that she try the Alterative, which she did. I am glad to say that she soon began to improve. Now she works as hard as ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before she took sick and is in good health.

STOMACH RELIEF! NO INDIGESTION, GAS, SOURNESS—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN.

Time it! In five minutes your upset stomach will feel fine.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you must not injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large 50-cent case from any drug store, and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach, all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

Five Injured.

AUTOMOBILE WRECK AT END OF MERRY PARTY.

AT 11:30 o'CLOCK last night Miss Kate Bohan, No. 613 Wall street, left her home with many of her guests, who had enjoyed a very agreeable evening there, to see them to their respective homes. She had been hostess at a party. They all left in a large automobile. At 11:40 o'clock she was carried to her home from Twelfth and Wall streets with a broken left leg and a possible fracture of the skull.

The machine, traveling at a very high rate of speed, had crashed into a Griffin and Griffith avenue car. Besides Miss Bohan four other persons were injured. They were taken to the Receiving Hospital. One was arrested.

W. A. Bliley, No. 657 South Chicago street, the owner and driver of the car, was severely bruised and lacerated. Miss Ruby Resse, twenty years of age, No. 420 Indiana street, had a broken clavicle. Paul Boyle, No. 620 Manhattan Place, suffered a broken nose and other lacerations. Miss Hazel Hutchinson, No. 407 South Rowan street, was severely cut on the face and body. Three other persons escaped uninjured.

The street car crew called the Receiving Hospital ambulance and upon its arrival almost instantly, Boyle is alleged to have tried to start a fight. He was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace.

CRUSH RUSSIA, GERMANY'S AIM.

BERLIN NEWSPAPER DECLARES IT MUST BE DONE.

Says Safety of Empire can Never be Assured Until Czar's Armies Have Been Given Tremendous Beating—Agreement of Triple Entente is Called Impotent.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 16.—The present attitude of Germany towards England, France and Russia is described in an editorial of the Berliner Tageblatt of September 14, which, after admitting that the German advance in the west has been checked, while considerable victories for the German arms have been obtained in the eastern theater of war, says:

"Europe is to be compared to the back of a cornered boar from whose sides the blood is streaming. We hardly speak of those of us who in the German colonies and in Kiao-Chow are calling for help. We think of them, but do not speak of them.

"The English and French newspapers have recently said that the resolution of the powers of the Triple Entente not to make peace without consulting one another, had made a painful impression in Germany. We hope that this understanding between Messrs. Grey, Poincare and Iswolsky surprised nobody here. Those who think calmly knew this before the first cannon shot was fired. But this formal assurance was merely made to show us the futility of this war and our successes in France.

"The indications in the French press are that the declaration was also intended to quiet the French people. 'This Anglo-French-Russian declaration,' writes the Petit Parisian, 'finds a justified echo throughout the allied countries. It will bring the pessimists to silence, who already are shaking their heads and whose fears are an insult to Russian stamina, French endurance and English loyalty.' The Petit Journal calls the declaration an answer to 'the tendency to doubt and to the cowardly and perfidious whispers which during the last few days have made the rounds in the population in favor of a despicable enemy.'

"But we may accept that a favorable presentation of the French successes along the Marne have again filled the skeptics with hope. There are in France, people, however, who have not been the guests of the Czar, who unlike the Paris papers do not gain by supporting the alliance, whose personal fate does not depend upon that of Russia, and whose brain is clear enough to reason logically to final results. The promise that France is to sacrifice herself to the very last dregs for Russia cannot be reassuring to such Frenchmen.

"The Times, in a very beautiful leader, has presented to them the British resolution not to end this war. 'Whatever happens in the west,' says this article, 'Russia and we will continue the war—if necessary for twenty years.' It is then pointed out, as did Mr. Asquith, that German industry and commerce are in a bad way, a condition which would continue until Germany had surrendered the territories occupied and had paid the indemnities imposed.

"What were the feelings of the French when they read the words of a boaster who talks loudly because he imagines England secure against the suffering of this war? Twenty years is a long time when the army of the enemy occupies the center of the country. Not even the pledges of the Times are sufficient to ban the pessimism which made itself felt in France. In all the comment made on the situation there is but one instance that could impress the French. The Petit Parisian asserts that Germany intends to tell the Russians and English: 'We will crush France,' and will then be ready to make peace with you at the expense of France.' But this assertion is false, and the facts will demonstrate how false they are!

"We are at war with France, because, in consequence of an impolitic alliance, and misled by intriguers, it was brought to the side of Russia. But we are principally concerned with the reduction of Russia. In her direction we see a diminution and weakening of a giant and the making of guarantees—the moral idea of this great war and the grand goal for which, if necessary, we will continue to fight for twenty years, even in spite of the fact that since the days of Lemberg we do no longer underestimate the magnitude of the task.

"Even those masters of cheap phrases who do not look death in the eye as do our brave soldiers in the field must realize that only the complete victory of the Germans over the Russians can secure the position of Germany's future and that a peace treaty otherwise would be a scrap of paper without value. As we hope and believe, the moment will come when the affair which France has forced upon us against our wishes will end favorably for us and when we will be in position to concentrate our efforts against the Russians. We will see then whether the English and French will still have the inclination to drag on the war in favor of Russia indefinitely. One will then have to ask the French: Have those of you who have no personal interests in Russia not paid enough? And then also England will be asked—with most appreciable emphasis: Are you willing to risk more for Russia's might and aggrandizement—if necessary for twenty years?"

FRENCH CALLED PILLAGERS.

Germans Say They Plundered Their Own People Living in Towns in the Rear.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—The semi-official Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung publishes what purports to be a general order of Gen. Joffre, the French commander-in-chief, supporting, as the newspaper asserts, the claim of the Germans that much of the pillaging of French towns was done by the retiring French soldiers themselves, and not by the Germans. Letters from members of the army of the Crown Prince during the first few weeks in French territory declared that the French were their own pillagers. The document which the Allgemeine Zeitung exhibits in proof of this is one which is said to have fallen into the hands of the German soldiers in France.' It reads:

"General Headquarters of the Eastern Army,

"General Staff, First Bureau, No. 3190.
"September 1, 1914.

"I have received a report, according to which bands of troops in our rear have plundered and committed acts of violence.

"The legal penalty for this crime is death. The expedited procedure of our military courts makes it possible for you to punish the guilty as soon as they have been captured and with all the celerity allowed by juridicial forms.

"If, however, the ordinary (military) courts should be unable to prevent these things—which, under the existing circumstances, are equivalent to a murderous assault upon the very life of the nation—I call your attention to paragraph No. 129 of the Military Code, which empowers commanders to punish soldiers under their command 'in cases of self-defense or in defense of others, in dealing with deserters, and in preventing pillaging and destruction of property.'

"It is important from now on to inflict exemplary punishment and thus put an end to crimes whose continuance would endanger the welfare of the army.

"In accordance with the foregoing you will therefore take the sharpest measures, whenever necessary, and without delay, to hunt down soldiers who band themselves together and plunder, and to compel them to obedience.

"J. JOFFRE."

BANK ENTERS COSTLY HOME.

Merchants' National Palace of Gray and Gold.

Goods Worth Nine Millions Enter New Quarters.

Fine Structure Realization of Bankers' Dream.

The palatial new home of the Merchants' National Bank at Spring and Sixth streets yesterday was thrown open to receive some $9,000,000 worth of household goods, previously held in the crowded quarters at Spring and Third streets. The clank of gold and the strokes of hammers, completing construction, were the music which accompanied the march of the vast store of riches to their new abode.

It was a day that thrilled the hearts of W. H. Holliday and Marco H. Hellman, respectively president and vice-president of the bank. They were witnessing the approaching fulfillment of a project of which they have dreamed for many years, for Tuesday the bank will formally open for business in its new quarters.

Elegance and costliness considered, the new home of the Merchants' National is one of the finest bank buildings in the country. The expense of the interior construction will approximate $500,000 when completed, and every modern convenience will be included in the appointments. The office building in which the quarters are located cost $1,000,000 and is among the finest in the city.

The interior decorations are congenially attractive and marked with simplicity and a unity of style which is very pleasing, while at the same time of the most costly character. The color scheme, a symphony of gray and gold, is far removed from the gaudy. Although the interior is still uncompleted, there is not an indication that there will be a jarring note anywhere.

Contrasts of light and shade, strength and warmth, are beautifully worked out in the white simplicity of the columns of Colorado yula marble, and the gray sienna of the counter fronts and pink Tennessee marble floors.

EXCELLENT TASTE.

Workmanship in bronze throughout the bank shows excellent taste. At the very entrance of the building, wide and spacious, the first glimpse of this work on the great doors is had. Bronze is used throughout for tellers' offices, etc. Gorham & Co., the New York silversmiths, did the bronze work.

In the middle of the ceiling is a skylight 30x70 feet, of opalescent glass. Night illumination is furnished by semi-indirect lighting. The ceiling decorations are gray and gold fresco. There is a great deal of carved marble work throughout, the designs in most cases combining to give the idea of strength.

The architectural work in the building was in charge of Aleck E. Curlett of William Curlett & Sons of this city, while C. J. Kubach is the general contractor.

HUGE VAULTS.

One of the most remarkable features of the bank is the two huge manganese-steel vaults for both safe-deposit boxes and for the bank's gold, currency and valuable papers. These vaults are a new departure, and are among the strongest and best-ventilated in the country from the fact that the temper cannot be withdrawn from the metal. They were designed by the Remington Company and constructed by the Mosler Safe Company.

The vaults are provided with elevators for taking the cash up to the banking rooms. They contain, in all, 10,000 safety deposit boxes and burglar-proof chests for each teller and officer of the bank. The great doors which protect the vaults weigh forty-five tons each. The work of arranging the plans for the vault work was in charge of Earle Remington, and the fixtures were installed by J. H. McFarland.

The floor space in the bank amounts to 37,000 square feet, of which 15,000 is on the main floor. There is also a spacious mezzanine floor where are located directors' rooms and general offices. The vaults are in the basement, where there is ample room for the accommodation of the bank's books, etc.

In the Merchants National Bank's new home.

C. J. Kubach, general contractor; Aleck E. Curlett, architect, and Marco H. Hellman, vice-president of the bank.

DAHLIAS' BEAUTY DRAWS THOUSANDS.

UNIQUE FLOWER SHOW WILL BE CONTINUED TODAY TO PLEASE PATRONS.

The magic of the florist's art drew more than 5000 persons to the showrooms of the Howard & Smith conservatories at Ninth and Olive streets yesterday. On display there was a collection of dahlias that has never been equaled, so far as known, at any flower show in the United States. Such keen interest has been aroused by the show that Howard & Smith have arranged to continue the display from 10 o'clock this morning until 5 o'clock this evening.

Many persons who were unable to visit the showrooms yesterday requested the privilege of viewing the collection today, and to oblige all who were similarly busied, the florists will keep open house for a part of the day.

The exhibit, which stretches along one entire side of the showrooms, assumed the importance of a more formal show yesterday, when the rooms became so crowded that the guests awaited turns. Automobiles in waiting extended for blocks along both Ninth and Olive streets, while many of the most prominent persons in society became patrons of the show.

Importance is attached to the display because it is a demonstration of what can be done with the dahlia in California. In a sense, the florists have made the show a historical one, presenting varieties of the dahlia from the original hardy, but uncultivated flower, to the most modern beauty, with its original colorings and shapes. The dahlia is a native of Mexico, and Southern California, an adjacent area, is peculiarly suited to its cultivation, as the climate is genial and the soil friendly.

It is for this reason that Howard & Smith have taken such interest in the improvement of the flower, as more can be accomplished with less work with dahlias than any other flower. It produces a greater bloom, of hardier variety, over a longer period, than any competitor in the garden. With the acclimated varieties that have been produced, dahlias can be brought to bloom here from May 1 until the latter part of November, and their attractiveness has been greatly accentuated by the skill of the florists in investing them with fresh colors and novel shapes.

EDITORS SEE VINEYARD.

As Guests of Italian Vineyard Company Head, Visit Largest Vine Acreage in America.

Seventy-five editors of Southern California visited the largest vineyard in America yesterday as guests of Secundo Guasti, president of the Italian Vineyard Company, which owns 4000 acres devoted to viticulture. The extensiveness of the project has brought about the establishment of the town of Guasti, named in honor of the president of the company, on the company's holdings.

That town was the destination of the editors, who motored from the Alexandria Hotel yesterday both to become acquainted with the varied details of the industry there and to attend a noon-day dinner at which Mr. Guasti was host.

The broad areas of the ranch support forty varieties of grapes, which are used to make as many different kinds of wine. With the domestic market stimulated by the shortage of foreign wines, the plant of the Italian Vineyard Company is working to capacity.

Following the Italian dinner which was served, speeches analyzing the importance of the wine industry to California were made by Secretary Stoll of the California Grape Protective Association of San Francisco, and the Rev. Baker P. Lee.

SATURDAY NIGHT RUSH.

Police Chief Orders Traffic Squad on Broadway to See that Ordinances are Obeyed.

Congestion of traffic between First and Seventh streets on Broadway, during the early hours of Saturday nights, last night caused the Chief of Police to order four traffic officers to direct traffic on Broadway between the hours of 7 and 10 o'clock p.m. on Saturdays. The order goes into effect the 17th inst.

The four officers, according to the Chief's order will direct the movements of traffic only on Broadway and will be stationed at First, Third, Fifth and Seventh streets. The night squad members will take up their stations half an hour after the day officers have gone off duty.

Theater automobile crowds and outing parties, the Chief declared, congest the streets and as no officers are on the corners, the machines give no attention to the traffic rules on Saturday night.

BOY NEARLY DROWNED IN SEA AFTER GRASPING WIRE ON BEACH PIER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 10.—Cyril Walton, the 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Walton, met with an accident today, which nearly caused his death. The little fellow was out on pier No. 1 fishing. Upon returning home with his string of fish he seized what he thought was a rope stretched above his head on the wharf, and received a severe shock of electricity, which rendered him unconscious and he fell backwards into the water.

The cold splash revived him, but he was unable to swim. He tried to keep himself afloat by paddling with his hands, at the same time calling loudly for help. Charles Winnerberg threw him a rope. Not being able to handle the rope a life preserver was then thrown to him which caught him about the legs and held him up until he managed to take hold of it. He was then pulled to the wharf. Outside of a pair of blistered hands, the lad is none the worse for his experience.

MULES TAKE FRIGHT AND TIP OUT PASSENGERS WHO FALL UNDER WHEELS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Oct. 10.—Marie, the 6-year-old daughter of Bernardino Yrurzun, a wealthy Spanish farmer of the Palms district, was almost instantly killed late this afternoon when she was run over by the farm wagon in which she had been riding with her parents. The child was rushed to a doctor, but died before reaching his office.

The accident was a peculiar one. The family, Marie being the only child, was returing home from Los Angeles in their farm wagon, drawn by two mules. The animals took fright at a passing automobile truck, reared and plunged, throwing the wagon sharply about and spilling the passengers. The wheels of the wagon passed over the body of the little girl, crushing her into unconsciousness.

ORANGE COUNTY STATE HIGHWAY.

Commissioner Plans Routes to San Diego Fair.

Provision Made for Auto Travel Along Coast.

Fine Piece of Road Used as Model for Others.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Oct. 9.—Nearly all of the State highway through Orange county will be completed by next spring, and that which will not be finished will be provided with good roads as by passes, so that travel over the State highway to the exposition at San Diego need not be interrupted.

This statement was made here today by State Highway Commissioner N. D. Darlington, who is in this county in the interest of hastening State highway work as much as possible.

"We want to get the road from Los Angeles to San Diego finished as soon as possible," said he. "The entire State is interested in the exposition at San Diego, and though we may not be able to get all of the State highway through Orange county completed by spring we know that most of it will be finished and we will give special attention and spend money to provide good by-passes."

FINE SURFACING.

The concrete base on the State highway has been laid between Santa Ana and the county line near Whittier. Within a week the surfacing between Santa Ana and Anaheim will be finished. That is the best surfacing done by the State. It is an inch and a half asphalt, known as the Topeka mix.

"The Associated Chambers of Commerce of this county petitioned the commission to use the same surface for the road north from Anaheim to the county line," said Darlington. "I shall recommend that it be used between Anaheim and Fullerton, but I think it will be good business judgment for us to use a half-inch of rock and oil the rest of the way. The heavier surface costs $3000 more a mile than the light surfacing. The light surfacing used at Fresno has borne heavy traffic for eighteen months and is in excellent shape. If it does not stand the traffic north of Fullerton, it can later be replaced with the heavier cover."

The State contracts between Santa Ana and the San Diego county line are being let in sections, six in number. The Davisson Contracting Company of Monrovia is at work on about eight miles between Irvine and Gallivan, and Contractors White and Gaskell of Long Beach will start on the job between Santa Ana and Irvine within a week.

READY FOR CONTRACTOR.

Darlington stated today that the section between Galivan and San Juan Creek below the old mission is almost ready for contracting, and that work will be started within thirty days upon the section between the San Diego county line and the Santa Fe Railroad, now one of the worst pieces of road in Orange county.

That leaves but two sections not accounted for in the above outline. Those sections lie largely along the Santa Fe Railroad, and as yet the State has been unable to secure the right to build on the railroad's right of way. When that right is secured there will be no delay in pushing the work.

There is forty-five miles of State highway in this county. By the time that is all paved the county will have finished the work laid out in its plans for good roads. Those plans call for 107 miles of new roads, nearly all paved. With State and county highways together there will be 150 miles of paved roads in the county. It is a safe guess that both State and county projects will be completed within seven months. The county is on the short end of its project now.

Los Angeles Harbor.

SHIPMENT OF ORANGES READY FOR WATER ROUTE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Oct. 10.—The first shipment of oranges to New York by water will be taken by the steamer Demara of the Luckenbach line. The Demara is now outbound from New York with general cargo and upon the return trip will take from here about 300 tons of citrus fruit.

The initial shipment of oranges by water will be watched with much interest by shipping men as well as growers, because of the fact that it will not be iced. As the Demara has an unusually large poop deck the fruit will be carried above the water line and ventilated. Even though the steamer passes through the tropics on the Panama route, the time is so short that it is believed the experiment will prove a success.

Other lines are preparing to handle oranges in refrigerated space, but it is not likely that any attempt will be made to move oranges by water until next year. Both the American-Hawaiian and W. R. Grace & Co. lines have steamers equipped with refrigerating plants and expect to build up a big business both in deciduous and citrus fruits from California.

Before this business can be economically handled, however, it will be necessary to provide accommodations for caring for the fruit for several days on the water front while it is being accumulated for shipment. It would be impossible to bring fruit to the harbor in such quantities as required for rapid stowage aboard steamers without providing facilities here for storage awaiting shipment.

Already there has been considerable talk of a big pre-cooling plant on the water front and it is known that Los Angeles capitalists have been making estimates upon such a venture and have had tentative plans under consideration for several months.

RUNAWAY STREET CAR CAUGHT BY SPRINTERS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 10.—F. L. Bradford and Wentworth Allen captured a runaway car of the Pacific Electric "long line" tonight as it was traveling on Mission street toward Los Angeles on the wrong track and gaining speed every moment.

When boarded the car was going at about fifteen miles an hour and when stopped a South Pasadena car crowded with people hove in sight on the same track.

Allen jammed on the brakes and the oil in the car mechanism burst into flames. A man passing in an automobile extinguished the fire with a chemical while Radford yanked off the trolley.

About five minutes later the motorman, who had been getting dinner, missed his car and arrived puffing on the scene. He was inclined to charge someone with stealing his car, but when the situation was explained to him he had nothing more to say. In his endeavor to start the car it again caught on fire and the fire department was called. A wrecker then came and towed the runaway to the barn in Pasadena. An investigation is in progress.

Radford and Allen were highly commended for their quick work. They had to sprint their best to catch the runaway.

HIT TARGETS TWO IN FOUR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 10.—Target practice with the ten-inch guns of the government at Fort Rosecrans, by the Fifth and Eighth Companies, Coast Artillery Corps, National Guard of California, was witnessed by a large number of civilians today, which is a departure from the usual custom.

The militia companies in command of Maj. Herbert R. Fay are encamped at Ft. Rosecrans. The gunners scored two hits out of four shots at a range of 6000 yards, which was considered exceptionally good by the inspector instructors of the regular army, Capt. Platt and Lieut. Brereton.

Four shots were fired from the big guns at an imaginary target previous to the wrecking shots, so that San Diegans, unaware of the practice, had visions of an attack from some hostile country.

STATE HIGHWAY CONTRACT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SEELEY, Oct. 10.—It has been announced on good authority that the State Highway Commission has let the contract for the construction of the State highway from San Diego to the Imperial Valley, extending from the foot of Mountain Springs grade in Meyer's Canyon, to Coyote Wells, for $61,000. All of this stretch of road is in the most sandy part of the desert. This is the successful finish of a very hard fight made by citizens of San Diego and the Imperial Valley for a good, safe highway between these sections.

THE SUBMARINE MINE.

It is a Thing to be Dreaded in Naval Warfare—Something About the Device by an Authority.

Recent reports of conditions and the operations of the contending fleets of Europe in the North Sea have brought the question of submarine mines prominently forward, and the subject is considered in an interesting article in the war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, in which the following facts are given:

Because of its absolute invisibility, the submarine mine in its present state of development is the most deadly form of naval warfare. Certainly it has to its credit the greatest disasters to ships of the first class and the greatest number of such disasters during the past decade of naval history. During the operations of Port Arthur it was the floating mine which sent to the bottom two of the finest battleships of the Japanese fleet. It was a floating mine also which sank the "Petropavlovsk," when Admiral Makaroff was leading the Russian fleet out of Port Arthur, in which disaster the admiral and nearly all of the officers and crew of the ship, together with the Russian artist Vereshchagin, went down with the ship. By mines, also several war vessels of less importance were lost during the same war, and on more than one occasion Russian battleships engaged in operations at or near the entrances to Port Arthur were struck and so far disabled as to be out of action for several months' time.

As compared with torpedo attack, mining has the advantage of greater secrecy and invisibility; and this is true even when the torpedo is launched from the submarine. For effective attack, torpedoes must be fired either from battleships, cruisers or destroyers, or submarines.

In the case of each class of vessel, a ship, from the moment it sights the enemy, knows that within certain ranges it is liable to torpedo attack; and even in the case of the submarine, which must come occasionally to the surface and during most of the period of attack, must occasionally have its periscope above the surface, there is a reasonable expectation that with a careful watch, some signs of the approaching danger will be detected.

In the case of the submarine mine, the element of secrecy is so perfect that if it so happens that the mine field has not been previously located, a fleet under way has no possible means of knowing when or where it may encounter these deadly machines.

VETERAN ROBBED.

Two Masked Bandits Hold Him up in Room, Where Two Small Sons are Asleep.

Forcing their way through a rear door, two masked and armed bandits early last night entered the home of Capt. J. C. Wiscott, a Civil War veteran, of No. 1327 West Twelfth street, and robbed him of $17.50. Capt. Wiscott's two small sons were asleep in the room where the robbery took place. Following the robbery the men escaped from the rear of the house.

Both of the bandits, according to the description given the police by Capt. Wiscott, were well dressed and appeared very young. He thinks the robbers must have known his habits and have been watching the house for some time.

COUNTY FAIR AT RIVERSIDE.

New Plant to be Opened by Big Drawing Cards.

Four Days of Racing Feature of Sporting Events.

Women to Take Active Part in Fine Programme.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 10.—Ten thousand dollars in premiums for exhibits and nearly half that amount in purses and prizes for the four-day racing card scheduled are features that have proved an effective drawing card for the annual County Fair, which will be held here beginning Wednesday and continuing through four days.

Improvements to the extent of $20,000 have been made on the new site, comprising forty-two acres, which was purchased only a few months ago, and is ideally located for fair purposes just north of Fairmount Park.

The feature of the fair, which is attracting local society, is the horse show, which will be under the superintendence of Thomas Mangan of the "Lucky" Baldwin ranch, who managed the recent Pasadena horse show. The entry blanks show that nearly 100 specimens of the finest blooded stock raised in the State will be seen in the nightly parades before the grand stand, which will be brilliantly lighted.

BLUE RIBBONS.

From the famous Kleinmeyer estate at Covina will come prize-winning animals worth a fortune, comprising ten blue-ribbon Percherons and other high-bred stock. Several of the prize-winning horses from the State Fair at Sacramento will also be entered.

The new race track is proving remarkably fast. In the try-outs one horse has already hung up a mark of 2:12 and the entries include a number of pacers and trotters with records better than 2:12.

Adjoining the grand stand, which will seat 2000 people, sixty-four box-stalls have been provided for the racing stock, and fifty modern exhibition pens have been constructed.

The fair has grown to its present proportions as a result of the success of the experimental exhibition held last year. It follows very largely the lines of the old-fashioned eastern county fairs, and affords a means for the display of the soil products of the county, as well as live stock, poultry and handicraft.

BETTER BABIES.

There has been developed a notable women's department, which will stage a "better baby" contest and have charge of the cooking and sewing exhibits and display of juvenile work.

The annual poultry show, which will be identified with the fair, will be one of the distinctive attractions, and will bring poultry fanciers from all portions of the Southwest.

The stock and agricultural exhibits, comprising community and individual displays, will fill a number of big tents provided for this important division of the fair.

Indians of Sherman Institute will play a conspicuous part in the week's events. On the afternoon of October 15, they will be seen in a varied programme of drills, which will terminate in a thrilling sham battle. On the last evening of the fair, the Indian band will play in competition with the band from the Whittier State School.

THE INVASION OF BELGIUM.

The Germans Did it Because They Needed the Roads to Haul Their Heavy Artillery into France.

Although the general reason that prompted Germany to make its way into France through Belgian territory is generally recognized, the necessity of finding suitable roads for the transportation of her immense field guns, which have only recently been disclosed, was a most compelling element in her decision. This feature of the campaign is set forth in an interesting manner in the special war issueof the Scientific American of October 3, which also gives a number of illustrations of these novel engines of war. The facts are stated in this story as follows:

It must be admitted, however, that the very qualities of weight and power which make the eleven-inch mortar such a formidable piece, nevertheless constitute a most serious problem of transportation. In spite of the skill with which the design has been worked out, with its large diameter pedrail wheels, the weight of one of these mortars is such that it demands the very best of conditions of roadway for its successful, or, at least, for its speedy transportation. To handle these pieces successfully, whether in advance or retreat, calls for the highest class of military roads, roads which as far as possible shall be free from heavy grades. Therein, no doubt, is to be found one predisposing cause which led the Germans to cling so tenaciously to their plan of campaign through Belgian territory. The magnificent highways through Belgium and Northern France, stretching, as they do, through comparatively level country, are ideal for the transportation of batteries of these heavy siege guns rapidly to the fortifications of the French capital. At the outset of the war, the world wondered how the Germans could expect, as they evidently did, to be within the city of Paris in a few weeks' time. The answer is to be found in their belief in the invincibility of the huge armies which they were prepared to pour through Belgium, and in the ability of this eleven-inch mortar to cut a wide swath through the engirdling fortifications of Paris. The Germans, in our belief, never contemplated for a moment a complete investment of Paris such as they made in 1870 to 1871. These eleven-inch mortars have made such an investment unnecessary. Had the French-British resistance to the enveloping tactics of the German right been less successful, it is probable that the German army would have been in Paris at the present time.

Where the King Died.

LONDON, Oct. 10, 7:45 p.m.—According to a dispatch from Bucharest to the Reuter Telegram Company, the death of King Charles of Roumania occurred at 6:30 o'clock this morning at his country seat at Sinaia in Walachia.

GRAY HAIR TURNS ITS NATURAL COLOR AFTER APPLYING SAGE TEA.

Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens Beautifully and Takes Off Dandruff.

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evently, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

TO INCREASE OUR EXPORTS.

GUGGENHEIM SUGGESTS DUTY OF TRADE COMMISSION.

Declares New Body to be Appointed Shortly Should Take Steps to Provide More Business Rather Than to Seek Methods of Curtailing It.

Answering an inquiry in relation to America's opportunity for foreign trade Daniel Guggenheim, president of the American Smelting and Mining Company, makes the following suggestion in the special issue of the Scientific American of October 3, which deals with many topics related to the war in Europe. Mr. Guggenheim says in part:

"My suggestion, therefore, is that when the Trade Commission which is to have supervision of corporations is appointed, it should be allowed a reasonable sum each year so that it can maintain a special department for the purpose of investigating and making recommendations how best the export business to foreign countries can be secured. The commission will have at its disposal all necessary information gathered by our consuls who can keep the commission informed where business can be had, and all details as to the various classes of merchandise wanted, prices, quantities, and other information of importance. The commission could make recommendations to Congress, after careful study, as to what is necessary in the way of transportation. Congress, if it sees fit, can and probably would do the needful in that direction. It would be necessary to provide proper financial arrangements. The commission could consult with the Federal Reserve Board, which would be able to make recommendations to the commission, or to Congress direct, as to what is necessary, and in this way financial difficulties could be overcome. In fact, all details could be obtained and worked out through the agents of the United States and distributed at a central bureau, or through Chamber of Commerce to the merchants throughout the country.

"The central idea of my suggestion is that the Trade Commission should do for business much the same as the Agricultural Department has been, and is doing for the farmers of the country. It is evident, as conditions are at present, that the smaller merchant cannot develop the opportunity of enlarging our export trade which is now before us. Certainly the present generation would get no benefits therefrom. The commission should be impressed with the importance of the fact that it is not to be a body appointed by Congress for the purpose of curtailing business, but quite to the contrary, for the purpose of developing business and getting greater opportunities for all."

REPORT FAMINE IN SARAJEVO.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A dispatch from Rome to the Exchange Telegraph Company says fugitives from Sarajevo declare that the city is suffering from famine. The Montenegrins hold not only the railroad but also the roads over which it is possible to transport supplies.

"77"

For Grip, Influenza, Coughs, Sore Throat

COLDS

"As a child my mother always had Humphreys' medicine case at hand to minister to our ills. Now that I have a boy of my own I feel the same need—today I bought '77' for a Cold, etc.", writes a Bostonian.

To break up a Cold take "Seventy-seven" at the first sneeze or shiver.

If you wait till your bones begin to ache, till the Cold becomes settled and hangs on, it may take longer.

Sore Teeth Foul Breath

Discolored, Sore Teeth, Gum Disease and Foul Breath Yield Quickly to This Home Treatment.

You can save the teeth nature gave you, make your mouth healthy and escape the tortures of the dental chair by following this new treatment at home. It is simple, easy and pleasant. Besides it is painless and cannot possibly harm you in any way.

thousands of mouths like this are seen every day. The trouble is known as Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease. These soft, discolored, bleeding, foul-smelling and receding gums, loosened and sensitive teeth can be made firm, strong and healthy by this simple Home Method.

FREE BOOK TELLS HOW

Stop Despairing! Don't Give Up Hope of Saving Your Teeth

A simple home treatment which we are placing before the public will bring you the relief and comfort you desire. Stop spending money with dentists who do not help you. Don't waste your money on drug store remedies that are invariably, as you know, disappointing.

Write to us today and learn more about this painless, speedy, inexpensive remedy that you can use at home, so there will be no further need for you to undergo the long, painful or expensive dental treatment. Bridges, Crowns and False Teeth are unsightly and rarely satisfactory, and through this treatment of the causes of bad and sensitive teeth, gum disease and foul breath, they should be unnecessary.

If you are suffering with Pyorrhea or Riggs Disease, gingivitis, receding gums, elongated or loose teeth; soft, discolored or spongy gums; if your breath is foul; if your teeth pain while eating; if you are subject to bad tastes—then, for your own sake, send for Dr. Willard's book and learn how easy his method is—how painless and speedy—how this simple remedy quickly and permanently gives sound, healthy teeth.

Just sit down NOW and write us for this free book. A few minutes will convince you that Dr. Willard's common-sense, simple Home Remedy is what you are looking for. Don't wait. There is no pain connected with it. We have received scores of letters from people saying they would have given hundreds of dollars had they known of Dr. Willard's Home Treatment in time. Address DR. F. W. WILLARD, A100, Powers Blg., Chicago.

Relieve the Kidneys

If your kidneys are not able to handle the waste products of the body, it is highly important that they be put into good working condition. Improper kidney action causes more sickness, suffering and serious complications than any other disease, because the blood is filtered and purified through the kidneys. If you are troubled with headache, dizziness, aching joints, nausea, or other symptoms of kidney disease, you should begin at once the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. Aside from the soothing and healing action it exerts on these most delicate organs, it has a direct action on the circulation, the perspiratory glands become active and help eliminate the waste products by way of the skin. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy is not only beneficial in the early stages of kidney disease, but it is a wonderful remedy for the advanced stages of urinary disorders, Bright's disease, etc. It stimulates the enfeebled organs and heals at the same time. At all druggists in 50c and $1.00 sizes. Write for free sample. Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 205, Rochester, N. Y.

HARRY CHANDLER,
Assistant General Manager, The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 30th day day of September, 1914.

[Seal] T. L. CHAPIN,
Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies in its issue. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Ventura Picnic.

Former residents of Ventura county will hold a picnic in Sycamore Grove on next Saturday. Following the noon luncheon there will be an informal programme. All friends are asked to join the party.

South Dakota Picnic.

The South Dakota Association will hold a picnic in Sycamore Grove on Saturday and invite all former residents of that State to participate. There will be games and amusements of various kinds for both old and young.

Veterans of Two Wars.

The flag-raising ceremony at St. Agnes's Church at 4 o'clock this afternoon will be held under the auspices of members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Spanish-American War veterans. Bishop Conaty will speak.

Bookbinding Class.

A course in bookbinding and allied handiwork has been added to the curriculum of the Polytechnic Evening High School, under the direction of Miss Charlotte I. Mytton. The class will open on Monday, October 19, and registrations may be made at once.

City Mothers' Bureau.

The recently-appointed City Mothers' Confidential Bureau, members of which were named by Chief of Police Sebastian, will hold its first meeting tomorrow morning at 10:30 at the Y.W.C.A. assembly hall. All interested in the welfare of the child are invited.

Accountants to Give Dinner.

The Los Angeles Chapter, Certified Public Accountants, will give a dinner at the Westminster Hotel on Wednesday evening. An address will be delivered by Reynold E. Blight on "The Relation of the Public Accountant to the Investing Public."

North End Meeting.

A meeting of the N.E.W. Commercial and Improvement Association will be held at the offices of the association in the International Bank building at 3:30, Tuesday afternoon. All property owners and residents of the Temple-street district are invited to attend as matters of interest to them will be discussed.

Occidental Graduate Honored.

Frederick W. Brown, who left Occidental College with the highest scholarship record of any man in the institution one year ago and entered Harvard Law School, has been elected to the Editorial Board of the Harvard Law Review, one of the highest honors the school affords. The fact that he also made the varsity football team did not interfere with his scholastic recognition.

Whistler an Enigma.

Bailiff Berdie of Department Thirteen is frequently observed gumshoeing around the Hall of Records to discover the identity of a mysterious man who whistles as he works. Every day he starts off with "Darling, I am Growing Old," switching to "Annie Laurie." The whistler has got on Mr. Berdie's nerves. The songs float in through the open windows, apparently close by, but so far the location of the whistler is shrouded in mystery.

Santa Fe Reaches.

The Santa Fe will today take over the operation of the Minkler Southern Railway and will establish regular freight and passenger service out of Exeter. This road is forty miles in length and taps the rich foothill citrus district of Tulare county. It was built by an incorporated company of Santa Fe men, headed by General Superintendent Hibbard, though all construction costs were paid by the Santa Fe. This course was taken because of certain queer turns in the laws of this State.

Girls to be Entertained.

Mrs. W. J. Hole, president of the Young Women's Christian Association, will entertain all members of the girl's department at her home on Tuesday evening. A buffet supper will be served, followed by the singing of camp songs and planning the year's activities. The girls are asked to meet their leaders at Fifth and Hill street at 6 o'clock. Any girl, who by any accident may not have received her invitation, is requested to leave her name at the lobby desk by noon tomorrow.

Beach Romance.

A beach romance was revealed yesterday when invitations were sent out for the wedding at Venice Wednesday of Miss Hazel Hulbert, daughter of a Seattle lumberman, and Douglas Wilson, president of the People's Drug Company of the seaside town and vice-president of the Daily Journal. Miss Hulbert and Mr. Wilson met six months ago while the prospective bride was a Venice visitor. The wedding will take place at 8 o'clock p.m., at the home of Mr. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Warren Wilson, No. 15 Ocean Spray avenue, Venice.

Veteran Passes Away.

William P. Ketcham, father of Mrs. Edwin J. Bowes, Jr., No. 657 South Grand avenue, Pasadena, passed away yesterday at the residence of his daughter, at the age of 70. Death was due to heart trouble. He leaves also a widow and a brother. Mr. Ketcham served during the Civil War in Company A, Seventh Iowa Infantry. Later he went into the lumber business and was a member of the firm of J. P. Ketcham & Bro., that did an extensive business in Chicago. He was a member of the Columbia World's Fair Directory, of the Union League Club of Chicago and of the G.A.R. of Pasadena. He was also a lifelong member of the Presbyterian church. The funeral will be held at 2:30 this afternoon at the residence, No. 657 South Grand avenue, Pasadena.

RETAIL CREDIT BANQUET.

The officers and directors of the Associated Retail Credit Men of Los Angeles were the guests of honor at a banquet given at the Gates Hotel last night. About seventy-five members were present. The association has passed through a very successful year and is now the largest in the United States. Five-minute talks were given by the president, A. J. Pickarts; the secretary, R. H. Cantley, and the other officers and directors. Ben F. Gray acted as toastmaster. Entertainment was furnished by the Los Angeles Ad Club Quartette.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS.

There are telegrams at the Western Union for G. W. Baist, D. J. Carpenter, Mrs. A. W. Dunn, O. D. Gardner, Mrs. Blanch Grames, Walter Keating, W. T. Kirkman, Jr., C. J. Lango, A. Lutz, Miller Moore and Gerdener, G. D. Olson, William Quigley and Sre Jennie de Smith. At the Postal for Thomas E. McArdle, Leo Thalheim, J. M. Sewell, Richard Freeman, Pasadoco, Frank S. Webster, Dr. Robert E. Lees and Thomas Moore.

BUSINESS BREVITIES.
[Advertising.]

I will make you a pair of gold-filled rimless glasses, crystal lenses, shur-on style for $2.00. Examination included. I make a specialty of eye-strain causes of headaches, brain fag, watery eyes, blurred vision, nervous debility. It makes wrinkles around the eyes. It makes you scowl and squint. You wonder why you ache in the back of the neck after reading or sewing. It is weak muscles and common in older people and many times young people. This I can correct. Give you relief at once. If you have been given up I will improve your vision if there is any left. I make Kryptok invisible bifocals, two pairs of glasses in one. No line; a solid piece of glass for near and far vision. I make them as low as $8.00. I have been in Los Angeles nine years and in this building seven years in the same offices. Dr. A. M. Garfield, Optometrist, 417 and 419 Grant building, 355 So Broadway.

Fanny Briggs Carr is pleased to inform her many friends and customers that on September 30, John W. Shenk, judge of the Superior Court, awarded her a decree to manufacture and sell her goods, known as the "Fanny Briggs Carr Face Remedies and Preparations." And further, that she has the right to carry on her business, in competition with any other person or persons whatsoever and to advertise her goods, use her photograph and facsimile signature upon the labels, wrappers, etc., every other person being perpetually enjoined from using the same. Mrs. Carr also takes this opportunity to thank her friends who have stood by her so loyally during the past four years. She may be found at suite 211, Coop Building, 218 S. Broadway, and her goods purchased from all drug stores.

I make the lowest prices on all kinds of glasses that can be made by any one in the city, and give any quality of lenses or fittings desired. Prices are from $1.50 complete, upward. I do my own testing and can tell whether your eyes are diseased or simply weak and need only glasses for improvement of the sight. Toric and Kryptok lenses are a specialty. C. L. McCleery, eyesight specialist, 539½ So. Broadway, rooms 4-5.

Easiest Way to Remove Ugly Hairy Growths
(Beauty Culture)

Here is a method for removing hair or fuzz that is unfailing and is quite inexpensive: Mix a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water and spread on hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes, rub it off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. No harm or inconvenience results from this treatment, but be careful to get genuine delatone.

THE WEATHER.
[Official Report.]

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Oct. 10.—(Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.) At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 30.02; at 5 p.m., 29.97. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 60 deg. and 71 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 81 per cent.; 5 p.m., 50 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., northeast, velocity 4 miles; 5 p.m., south, velocity 12 miles. Highest temperature, 76 deg.; lowest, 56 deg. Rainfall for season, .20 of an inch. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The area of low pressure progressed slowly eastward and now covers the Mississippi Valley, resulting in heavy rainfall in Missouri, Kansas City reporting 2.58 inches and St. Louis 1.26 inches. The influence of the western area of high pressure is felt throughout the Plains States by decreased temperature, freezing weather being generally reported from Montana, North Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. The western trough of low pressure caused general precipitation southerly to the coast of Central California. Eureka registered the greatest Pacific Coast rainfall, .52 of an inch. The California area of high pressure will give continued fair weather to Los Angeles and vicinity, and the areas of low pressure in the North and south may result in short periods of night and morning cloudiness.

LOCAL FORECAST.

For Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair Sunday, except for short periods of early morning fog; northwesterly winds.

For California south of the Tehachepi: Fair Sunday.

STATE FORECAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—Weather forecast:

San Francisco and vicinity: Fair, warmer, Sunday; light northwest wind.

Sacramento Valley: Fair, warmer, Sunday; light north wind.

Santa Clara Valley: Fair, warmer, Sunday; light northwest wind.

San Joaquin Valley: Fair, warmer, Sunday; light northwest wind.

California south of the Tehachepi: Fair Sunday; light west wind.

RECORD OF PROGRESS.

Calipatria Newspaper Presents Facts of Remarkable Development in North Imperial Valley.

Facts of the remarkable development of a thriving little city where a few months ago was only the open country, are presented in the Newspaper Day edition of the Calipatria Herald. The issue has much to say of the Imperial Valley as a whole and its progress, but devotes most attention to the rapid rise and assuredly great future of Calipatria itself, in the rich north end of the inland empire.

It is recorded that April 1, 1914, the population of Calipatria was nil. There are now fifty-one concerns doing business there, nine modern business buildings of iron and wood and nine of brick. The Southern Pacific will begin work at once on a $10,000 depot and 1700 feet of spur track have been completed. It is believed the little city will have 1000 population by next April 1 and 20,000 in five years. As the center of 100,000 acres of the matchless Imperial Valley land, well located as to transportation and water, it is considered a coming center of population for all time.

Featured in the paper are the great water system of the valley, the fine cotton production there and the untapped stores of mineral wealth.

AUTO CRUSHES BOY.

Speeding to Pass Street Car, Strikes and Probably Fatally Injures Lad; Chauffeur Held.

Dragged fifty feet by an automobile, Randolph Louis, 5-year-old son of F. E. Louis of No. 1338 Albany street, was probably fatally injured at Pico and Albany streets yesterday afternoon. The boy is at the Good Samaritan Hospital and Ray Ybarrondo, driver of the machine which ran him down, is held in the City Jail. If a fatality results a manslaughter charge may be lodged against him.

Mrs. Louis and her young son were waiting at Albany street for a West Pico car. The lad rushed out eagerly to board it. A motor car owned by Jacob Schlesinger and driven by Ybarrondo, 18 years old, of No. 3013 Hobart boulevard, bore down on him, striking him while the horrified mother watched.

It was fifty feet before the machine came to a stop. Even then little Randolph was under the machine. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, suffering from internal injuries and contusions and abrasions on body, legs and arms.

Ybarrondo, the chauffeur, told the detectives that he had waited at Union avenue for the car to take on passengers and when it stopped at Albany he speeded to pass it before it came to a standstill, that he would not have to stop again.

WAR LONG, RESULT DOUBTFUL, OPINION OF MILITARY MEN.

Expect Struggle to Last One Year, and Look Upon Russia as Unknown Quantity to be Reckoned with. What's to Happen in London?

THE TITANIC EUROPEAN STRUGGLE will last about one year. This is the consensus of opinion of military men of Los Angeles and the West, in so far as they have expressed themselves. THE TIMES asked a number of them for their views on the war situation, especially as to the probable duration, the ultimate outcome, and other interesting phases. American army men generally decline to be quoted on the grounds that it would be improper in view of the President's neutrality proclamation. The experts' views, summarized, are:

Russia is the unknown quantity in the war—a factor to be reckoned with.

The Austrians have been a disappointment from the fighting point of view.

London may or may not be in serious danger of attack by sea or air. Either is a possibility.

As to the final result there is a decided difference of opinion, with a majority of the prophets favoring the allies chances.

"The end of 1914 will not see the end of the European war and I think that it will last far into next year," Gen. B. J. Viljoen, who was second in command of the Boer army in South Africa, said yesterday. "The Germans are fighting for their very existence and they have tenacity, [illegible] and great physical resources. As a nation they are embodied with stronger patriotism than any other country.

"The same may almost be said of France, but with England it is different. Having 'butted in', she is not [illegible] to exhaust her strength and resources to defend her [illegible].

"Both sides apparently are preparing for a winter campaign, I [illegible] that there will be much [illegible] the main armies in the [illegible]. There will be scouting [illegible] with cavalry, but the [illegible] the army on both sides [illegible] in arms until spring.

"[illegible] that the general opinion [illegible] will have the advantage in winter fighting is wrong. [illegible] the men in the Czar's army [illegible] it would be different, but only a very insignificant [illegible] are from the frozen [illegible]. A good deal of Russia is not [illegible] than Germany and the most of the Russian fighters come from the more temperate parts of the empire.

"The Austrians have been a great disappointment, and their failures have delayed Germany's success. German officers are now taking hold of the Austrian troops and we may expect better results soon.

GIVE GERMANY YEAR'S LEASE.

National Guard officers in two States—Adjt.-Gen. Finzer of Oregon, and Maj. Grimstead of Arizona—believe that the resources of Germany will last for one year and that the exhaustion of the empire at that time will mark the end of the war. Adjt.-Gen. Finzer said he learned that one of the nations fighting against Germany has ordered 50,000 heavy sweaters from an American concern, indicating that the army is preparing for winter fighting.

"Germany has not drawn all of her resources into the war by any means, while the French have in their ranks all men who have received military training.

"The British have every man of any military consequence in the field fighting at this time. The flower of the British army is now at the front. The English militia are almost worthless. They don't know how to shoot or to manage horses and they can't endure the hardships of a campaign. Sending them to the front is like sending sheep to the slaughter. They are an impediment instead of a help."

This expert, who knows Europe, declared that the Germans have gained the advantage to date by successfully holding off France, England, Russia, Belgium and Montenegro. This result is regarded by him as an evidence of final German victory.

LOOKING TO TURKEY.

"It has been the threat of the allies and the dread of Italy that has kept Turkey from declaring war, joining with Germany and spreading the war rage through the Mohammedan countries governed by England," Gen. Viljoen continued. "From present indications the Ottomans will join the conflict. It will be easy for the Turks to bottle up the Russian fleet.

"With Antwerp as a base of operation it will be easy for the Germans to cross to England either with air craft or submarines and it is my opinion that this is exactly what the Kaiser is planning to do. I believe that London is in serious danger.

"I expect the allies to win. If there is no decisive victory by the Germans they will gradually wear down the opposition until they will be glad to come to terms."

SEES LONG STRUGGLE.

Adjt.-Gen. W. E. Finzer of the Oregon National Guard, told The Times by wire yesterday that, from all indications, the armies on both sides are preparing for a winter campaign and that the conflict will last at least a year. He recently visited a Canadian army camp where there were 35,000 men in arms making preparations to fight for the mother country.

"We have evidences in this country that the conflict will be long," Adjt.-Gen. Finzer continued, in his telegraphic statement. "During a recent visit to the East I noticed that many of our mills, which have been running only part time, have taken on new activity, due to the demands of the belligerent countries. One firm has received an order for 50,000 sweaters from one of the allied armies.

"I do not expect Japan to play an important part in the conflict. She has taken some islands, but that means nothing except that much loss to Germany, which does not influence the outcome in the theater of war.

"We expected great things to result from the use of the airship, but to date I have not seen the effectiveness of the Zeppelin. It has been useful in observing maneuvers and that is about all. The dispatches indicate that the air craft have been brought down many times in their exploits. I do not believe that London need fear an invasion by air.

"Great honor is due the Belgians, I think. It was their heroic stand that prevented the Germans from reaching Paris. The delay was just enough to give the allies a chance to concentrate their forces."

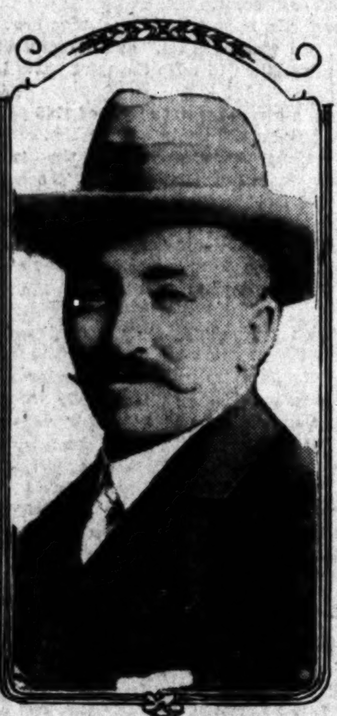
WINTER CAMPAIGN.

Maj. E. P. Grinstead of Phoenix, ranking National Guard officer in Arizona, said in a message to The Times yesterday, that, in his opinion, the German resources, particularly of food, would be exhausted in a year and that this calamity would mark the end of the war.

"Led by the English from the western flank, the indications seem to be that a vigorous winter campaign will be waged by the allies in Northern France and Belgium," Maj. Grinstead declared. "These operations, I believe, will favor the allies with the Germans on the defensive.

UNDER OR OVER INTO LONDON?

"London is in serious danger of an attack by the two most stealthy foes of modern warfare—the air craft and the ocean submarine," Gen. Viljoen declared yesterday. "I think the taking of Antwerp means that Germany is preparing to invade England either by air or under the water or both, possibly simultaneously. The residents of London may well be alarmed. I am confident that Emperor William has singled out the city for an invasion and I do not believe that the British fleet can prevent it."



Gen. B. J. Viljoen,
Second in command of the Boer forces during the war with England, and an acknowledged military authority, who predicts that Germany will defeat the allies in a long campaign, says London is in grave danger of attack, and believes Turkey, holding the key to the situation, will help the Kaiser.

THINKS TURKS KEY-HOLDERS.

The Turks hold the key to the war situation in the opinion of Gen. Viljoen. He believes that if the Ottoman empire should enter the conflict with the Germans, the effect on Russia would be powerful enough to insure the defeat of the allies. The expert believes that if Turkey declares war the Mohammedans will rise in Egypt, Arabia and British India with the fury that characterized their fighting in the Middle Ages. He thinks that Turkey could easily bottle up the Russian navy. Presumably the threat of the allies and the fear of Italy has kept Turkey out of the conflict, according to Gen. Viljoen.

"Frozen marshes and roads made smooth with snow will favor the advance of the Russians from the East with their superior training under such weather conditions. Up to date the Germans undoubtedly have had the advantage. Japan probably will content herself with attacking Germany's possessions in the East."

BY COL. SCHREIBER.

Col. W. G. Schreiber of the Seventh Regiment, California National Guard, gave this resume of the war situation yesterday:

"The conflict apparently will last a year. There is evidence of preparation for a winter campaign, but if it is a severe winter there probably will be little fighting. Human nature can stand just so much and then it breaks. The guns get out of shape and need repairs.

"The cold months probably will be used by both sides to recuperate and repair and replenish equipment. Then we can expect lively campaigning in the spring after the long rest.

"The longer the war lasts, the more scientific will the fighting become and the loss of life will be proportionately less. The longer the men fight the more careful and cautious do they become.

"I believe that Germany can stand a year of war but no more. There are no indications of a decisive victory this fall. England and France are bringing in more troops. The only event that would likely make a decided turn in the situation would be an overwhelming victory by the Russians. The Russians apparently are making progress.

"Russia is the unknown quantity in the war. It is reported that the empire has 30,000,000 horses available for military service. The military strength of the Czar is not known. It is the general opinion that the Russians have made great military progress since the war with Japan.

"The Russians come from a country

Registration.

VAST NUMBER OF ELECTORS.

Nearly a Third of a Million in This County.

Men Exceed Women Thirty-seven Thousand.

Great Figures that Show How We Grow.

Los Angeles county registration for the general election, November 3, totals 309,596. These figures were given out last night by County Registrar of Voters McAleer. Of the 309,598 registered electors, 173,373 are men and 136,223 women.

That Los Angeles city and county are growing in population at a rapid rate is strikingly evidenced by the registration totals. It is estimated that there are from two and one-half to three residents of the county for every registered voter. This would make the total population of the county from 780,000 to 900,000.

NEARLY TREBLED.

In 1910, before the passage of the suffrage amendment which gave women equal rights with men, the registered voters of the city and county totaled 102,748. According to the census of 1910 the population of Los Angeles county was 502,000. According to the 1914 registration there are more than 200,000 more voters in the county than four years ago.

The city registration shows a total of 188,854. Of this number 83,160 are women and 105,694 are men. At the primary election on August 25 there were 268,573 registered voters in the county. This number included both men and women registered as qualified electors. The total registration for the Presidential election of 1912 was 259,932, or nearly 50,000 less than this year's total.

ON THE RUN.

The returns show more than two Republicans to one "Progressive." Of the 309,598 voters 114,542 are stalwart Republicans against 55,201 Bull Moosers. The Democrats are third, with 51,048. The Socialists are fourth, with 19,790, and the Prohibitionists fifth with 15,447. The "not stated" registration is 53,036.

The Republican registration before the primary was 103,015. Since that time more than 11,000 men and women have affiliated with the party of Lincoln. The total registration for the primary election of August 25 was 268,573. More than 40,000 men and women registered between that date and October 3, the last day for registration before the final election.

Registrar McAleer and County Statistician La Pine worked until a late hour yesterday compiling the final registration returns.

ENORMOUS GROWTH.

"The figures show conclusively that the city and county have grown enormously in two years," said Mr. McAleer. "With the increase in population there is an increase in the prosperity of the county. Our registration totals would make excellent boosting literature for the Chamber of Commerce. The city and county of San Francisco show a total registration of 162,345. The city of Los Angeles has 188,854 voters registered."

The official figures will be submitted to the Board of Supervisors within a few days.

County Clerk Lelande yesterday found the Great Register of this county for 1892, the first official one. It showed 37,000 voters and covered 467 pages. The first voter to register was Jose Abarte, a saloon-keeper, aged 39. John Zimmerman, a tinner, was the last name in the book. He was 68. T. H. Ward was the County Clerk. It now requires fourteen books to hold the registration.

HAD THREE MILLION ONCE.

Brother of Famous New Yorker Again Wins Suspended Sentence. Six Months Next Time.

Names of personages fell lightly from the tongue of Lawrence Roscoe Jerome, 65 years old, brother of William Travers Jerome, former District Attorney of New York, in his plea for "another chance" in Police Judge Chesebro's court yesterday.

"I am a man of honor, judge," he said. "At one time in my career Cornelius Vanderbilt gave me $3,000,000 to take to another bank. He trusted me. I was not even under bond."

Justice Chesebro suspended a fifty-day sentence on Jerome's promise of good behavior. If Jerome is again arrested for intoxication he will be given a six-month stretch, Justice Chesebro warned him.

SALARY WARRANTS READY TUESDAY.

MEMBER OF SCHOOL BOARD SAYS KEPPEL TURNED DOWN THE WRONG BUNCH.

County Superintendent Keppel said yesterday that the salary warrants of the city school teachers will be ready on Tuesday morning, but this statement does not apply to the 280 elementary teachers (out of the total of 2300) whose warrants he has refused to approve, because he claims they are drawn in violation of the school law. Some adjustment will probably be made at the meeting of the city Board of Education on Tuesday night. Said a member of the board yesterday:

"Mr. Keppel has taken the law into his own hands in a peculiar way. The salaries of the teachers he refuses to approve are those on the lowest schedule, but there can be no question as to the legality of these warrants. If any are illegal, it is those of the teachers we have designated as 'special,' which class Keppel insists are not recognized in the law. Why did he not refuse to approve the warrants of these 'special' teachers instead of those of the elementary teachers about which there can be no question? He has evidently, in his zeal to balk the Board of Education, kep tthe wrong class of teachers out of their salaries. His action is unreasonable and unwarranted."

One of these elementary teachers whose salary has been with-held called at The Times office yesterday and told of the extreme discomfort it will cause her, as life insurance and other matters demand attention. She also said that she and other elementary teachers, fully recognize the justness of paying higher salaries to the special teachers, most of whom possess high school certificates, which have been secured through additional study and expense.

Love Chord.

PLAYING MINOR KEYS, HE STRIKES MAJOR.

ROMANCE tumbled out of the sky on the head of Robert William Yeager, the youngest bandmaster in the United States navy. He went to war and was wounded, only by an arrow from a bow supposed to have been tied with dainty blue ribbon. The wound was fatal. He was married here yesterday. He went to make music for the hosts at battle and it ended only in a new melody for his own life. In playing minors, he struck the major chord.

It took a trip to Mexico on the Florida, the little scrap at Vera Cruz and a transfer to Oakland to make the romance complete.

Bandmaster Yeager's ship was at Manhattan just a year ago when by chance he met a cousin from the West. This was Mrs. Ella Swickard of No. 215 West Fourteenth street, this city. She told him about the pretty California girls and volunteered to give him the address of a "peach."

Just for fun he sent the "peach" a postal. It was mailed from Vera Cruz aboard the Florida and the address it bore was Miss Belva Lockwood Allen, No. 5871 Estrella avenue, Los Angeles.

Pleased with the surprise, the "peach" wrote back and admitted to the young bandmaster that she liked the photograph of his ship. He replied that he would like one of her.

This proposition led to another. The "peach" agreed to an exchange. The pictures looked good each to the other. There followed a rapid-fire courtship by mail. It was a regular correspondence school of love. The pupils were apt. They learned with delightful avidity. Yeager succeeded in getting a transfer to the Pacific Coast. He got a week's shore leave and spent it all in Los Angeles.

He had written his sweetheart every day for nearly a year but this was his first glimpse of her. They knew they liked one another's ideas, they knew they shared one another's ideals and they had the same hopes, but that was not saying that their acquaintance by mail would stand the test of a close personal association. The reality, however, proved better than a dream. Sight brought fulfillment of every hope, and contact was rapturous. A week was enough. They were sure then of the forever, or as much of it as the world can hold. It was their dream come true.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Allen, formerly of Tennessee, but now permanent Californians, were delighted with the young man and gave their hearty consent. Yesterday afternoon they went with many relatives and friends to the parlors of the First Unitarian Church and were united for life by Rev. E. Stanton Hodgin. The attendants were the bride's brother and sister, Laurence Allen being the best man, and Miss Ruby Allen the maid of honor. The music was delightful. The wedding march was from the strings of a violin in the hands of Miss Georgia Oldham, her mother, Mrs. Lillian Oldham, accompanying her on the piano.

Last night the young couple left for the north and will be at home to friends at No. 468 Twenty-third street, Oakland.

Welcome.

COLONIST SEASON ENDS WITH RECORD ARRIVALS.

COLONISTS by the carload and by the trainload poured into this city yesterday as the finale of a season that will go down in the records as contributing more than 10,000 settlers to Southern California.

"The entire colonist movement to the West hasn't been over 20,000 persons," said General Passenger Agent Peck of the Salt Lake, yesterday. "Consequently Southern California has been getting more than its share."

The arrivals yesterday included nearly 1000 persons in twenty-three extra tourist cars over the Santa Fe. Because of this huge travel, the early-morning trains were all run in two sections. On the Southern Pacific there was an extra section of the Golden State Limited from Chicago to care for the rush and also more than a dozen extra cars on other trains. With the big general travel in the Salt Lake, the total arrivals approached the 2000 mark. Railroads state that this is a record.

It will be a week or more before anything like accurate figures can be secured on travel for the season, for the reason that many holders of colonist transportation are making stopovers en route here.

From Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada and even from the central and northern portions of this State come reports of colonists "on the wing" here. In the Imperial Valley and the San Joaquin Valley there are hundreds stopping by the way. Many of these will doubtless stay, others will come here merely to turn around and go back to these great valleys, but even without them, this city stands revealed as the great lodestone that consistently draws men and women hundreds and thousands of miles to it—the capital of a land that thinks nothing of hanging up a record of 10,000 settlers in a ten-day season.

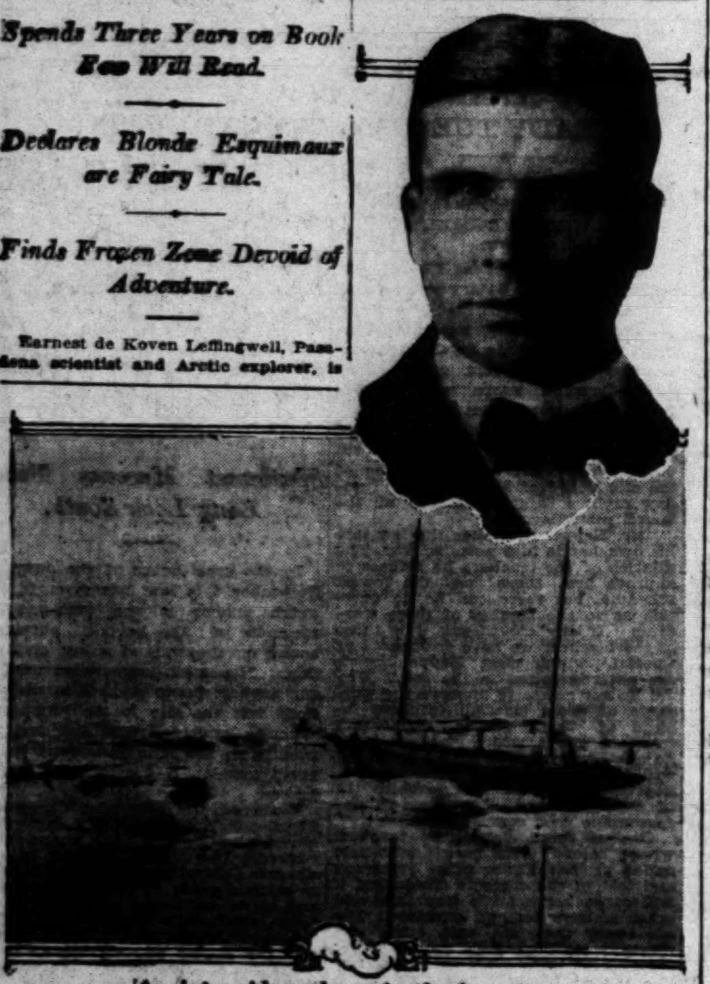
Earnest de Koven Leffingwell, Pasadena scientist and Arctic explorer, is not an ordinary author. He has spent $30,000 and three years of extreme hardships alone in the frozen zone, to write a book which he expects not more than six persons will ever read. Most successful authors spend $6 for paper for a novel from which they expect $30,000 returns, and to have it read for three years.



An intrepid explorer in the ice zone.

Earnest de Koven Leffingwell, young Pasadena scientist, who spent three years and $30,000 in the Arctic to prepare a book that he expects six persons to read, and the Argo, the staunch vessel in which he went to the berg-sentried ocean, and which was lost in an ice jam.

Another distinction has been earned by Explorer Leffingwell. He holds the record for a long-distance conversation. After he had spent more than eighteen months among the Esquimaux without having heard a word of English spoken, a man approached his camp one afternoon. He identified himself as Vilhjalmur Stefansson, another Arctic explorer, who had been in the ice packs for more than two years without having heard a word of English.

"Hello, there, white man," saluted Mr. Leffingwell.

"Say it again, I'm Stefansson," explained the visitor, "and for heaven's sake, talk to me for an hour without stopping for I haven't heard a word of English for over two years."

That started a conversation that continued in unbroken flow for more than thirty-six hours. The remainder of the afternoon they talked, all night and throughout the next day and it was late the following night when they ceased, both being exhausted.

It is probable that the talk was the last Explorer Stefansson ever had, for Mr. Leffingwell believes the intrepid Dane is dead. He disappeared in April, and was to have returned by the first of July, but no further word has ever been received from him, and because of conditions existing in the Arctic, Mr. Leffingwell does not believe that Mr. Stefansson can be alive at this time.

SCIENTIFIC WORK.

The book which Mr. Leffingwell is to write, and which he expects not more than six persons to read, is to be a report of his scientific work along the north coast of Alaska and Flaxman Island, where he had his lonely camp for eighteen months. It is to be a scientific book, telling of the soundings along the coast and the topography of the shore line. Those who read the book, says Mr. Leffingwell, will be the proof-reader, a man selected by the Geological Survey, possibly two, and then maybe an explorer or so who wish to be informed of the land which Mr. Leffingwell has described with scientific accuracy. The book will be written in the office of the Geological Survey in Washington, to be prepared at the request of the head of the bureau.

When Mr. Leffingwell left the Arctic circle, hard times had come among the natives there because of the war, although the only information they received was merely the brief bulletin that a war was in progress. They do not know whom it is between, nor what issue is involved. But it has lowered the price of furs, because the European markets have been closed.

For three years, Mr. Leffingwell says, the natives have been wonderfully prosperous, having purchased talking machines, one ice cream freezer, a few musical instruments, and other civilized instruments that are considered priceless among the tribes. And as to gumdrops, which Dr. Cook of North Pole fame made historic as the great dainty for the snow children, great casks of them have been in the villages during the years of prosperity when the furs have brought an exceedingly high price. One famous hunter of the tribe that lived near to the lonely shanty occupied by Mr. Leffingwell, caught seventy white foxes during the winter of 1912 and 1913. As one item of his purchases with the profits of his great harvest, he selected a small cask of gum drops, and eats only four a day, so they will last him long and toothsomely. He does not permit his family to participate except on holidays, when they are given two each, and he has nearly twenty children. He preserves the cask against invasion from the children by an original punishment. One youngster shook a full dozen out one day and was discovered in the feast. The father carefully burned his hand, as a parental rebuke for having touched father's favorite.

NO BLONDE ESQUIMAUX.

As to blonde Esquimaux, Explorer Leffingwell reports that no such people exists. It was Mr. Stefansson that first reported he had seen the blonde Esquimaux. The discovery was such a surprise to scientific men that it made Mr. Stefansson famous. Now comes Mr. Leffingwell and denies that there is such a people. After a thorough census of the tribes along the Arctic Circle, Mr. Leffingwell reports that he never saw a native with light hair. Some have blue eyes, the stamp of the Russian explorers who reached that region many generations ago, but the blonde hair is lacking.

One misfortune of the scientist's trip was the destruction of much film that he had prepared showing native life and Alaskan scenery. It was ruined with water. The water came from melting ice that infested the corners of Mr. Leffingwell's cabin throughout the winter. All the best houses in the Arctic have ice in the corners of the rooms during the winter months, like American houses have radiators, but not for the same reason. There is no way of getting rid of the ice there.

This ice melted while Mr. Leffingwell was absent on a trip, and the water accumulated so rapidly that it crawled over the instruments and films before it could seep away under the door. The trip which Mr. Leffingwell was taking at the time was a minor excursion to Point Barrow, 250 miles from his home on Flaxman Island. He made the trip in a small dory, taking forty days of constant danger.

But when he talks about it, Mr. Leffingwell is quite bored. "It's a land without adventure or novelty," he said.

THE JOKER IN THE CIVIL SERVICE ACT.

[Stockton Independent:] Throughout the south, where Gov. Johnson is pleading for support in his third party movement, the people are being told that since civil service has been put into force in California it is wrong to charge him with maintaining a great "machine," as the wicked Republicans are doing. Much stress is laid on that civil service act, which the Governor claims as his own progressive measure. He is proud of the change brought in public service "where merit must win appointments," and therefore the people should back him in his personal ambition to raise the third party into life.

True, we have a civil service law on our great statute book of 1746 pages, which carries the enactment of the last Legislature. An examination of that act which the Governor so profoundly champions discloses why he is so pleased with his work in taking State offices "out of politics." The act is found on page 1035 of the Statutes of 1913 and the joker is discovered on page 1045 of the enactment, where it provides for life tenure for all of the 2000 or more of Johnson's appointees. The civil service act creates a commission which regularly calls for examinations for this or that small job, but rarely finds place for anybody because the public trough is crowded with the Governor's machine men.

The civil service act is entitled "An act to provide for a general system, based upon investigation as to merit, efficiency and fitness for appointment to and holding during good behavior of office and employment under State authority," and so forth, and creates another commission, a hobby of the Johnson administration. The act was approved June 16, 1913, two years and a half after Gov. Johnson took office, and started to build his machine, and it was declared to be effective August 10, 1913, two years and seven months after Johnson became Governor. In those two and a half years places were found for Johnson men in every State office possible to fill, and the State was well sprinkled with Johnson machine men when the act became in force. If Gov. Johnson did not have his machine men pretty well placed in his first two and a half years he overlooked a trick that he would not let go by at this time.

Here is where that "civil service" act fixed the Johnson forces in soft public places. On page 1045 of the fifteen pages required to print the statute this paragraph is found in section 16:

> "The names of all persons holding positions at the time of the taking effect of this act which if vacant would be filled under the provisions of this act shall be certified to the commission by the appointing power that could then so fill such position if vacant, and such names shall be entered in said roster and thereupon shall be deemed appointed under the provisions of this act, and persons then holding such positions who have served in such positions a less period than one year and more than sixty days from the date of the classification of such positions as required by said act shall be deemed to be serving the probationary period, and persons who have served in such positions for less than such sixty days shall be deemed temporary appointees."

Thus it will be seen that the Johnson appointees were taken care of in the "civil service" act and placed on the State pay roll for life, fitting nicely into the cogs of the big wheel that goes round for the third party creation of the Governor. It is practical politics that is not explained to the people while the machine is being worked over time on State pay to perpetuate the Governor in his office.

HAVE CHANCE FOR SMALL FORTUNE.

BURGLARS CARRY AWAY SAFE AND MONEY ORDERS FROM BRANCH POSTOFFICE.

Toting away a 300-pound safe, burglars early yesterday morning secured money orders which may be fraudulently converted for $13,400, and $119.85 in money and stamps, from the branch postoffice at No. 4727 Normandie avenue. An automobile was used to transport the strong box probably to some isolated spot where the thieves cracked it with dynamite and secured its treasure.

The money order blanks were numbered 10,667 to 10,800, inclusive. The burglars may secure rubber stamps and forge the blanks and obtain a maximum of $100 on each. The numbers were made public by the postoffice officials so that all persons may be warned.

The branch station is in the drug store of F. S. Elliott. A. Haines of No. 325 Sixth street, passing the store, noticed the front door open and notified the University Police Station. Motorcycle Officer Wensell found the store in order and called Mr. Elliott, who said that the safe, which measured 22x18x14 inches, was missing.

AUTO ELUSIVE.

Garage Man Who Would Attach Car Fails to Follow Will-o'-the-Wisp Movements.

Saharajub, the East Indian conjurer who threw an elephant into the air and out of sight, had nothing on J. F. Hubbard. Mr. Hubbard, according to testimony adduced before Justice Summerfield yesterday, did the presto-disappear act with an automobile.

Victor Machris, proprietor of the Vicmac garage on West Pico street, tried in vain to locate the machine. Mr. Machris has a $58 garage bill against the car.

The car was traced to the Palms, where it was driven by Mr. Hubbard with his wife as a passenger. He acknowledged having driven it from the Palms to a garage man named Brown. What did Brown do with it? Brown surrendered it to a man named Simmons. Who was Simmons? Oh, said Mr. Hubbard, he was an old friend. Then the inquisitive attorney wanted to know what had become of the mysterious Mr. Simmons. Mr. Hubbard did not know. He might be in Berkeley, and then again he might be in West Virginia, where his parents live.

"Continued a week," Justice Summerfield declared at this juncture. "Try to find the car in the meantime."

"REVEREND" MULLIGAN MAKER.

Jail Gets High Priest for Parading Streets in His Underwear—Says He Wanted Air.

Clad only in his underwear, "Rev." Otto Haefner, high priest of the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth flock, was arrested in East Fifth street at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. He is held at the Receiving Hospital for observation as to his sanity.

In August Haefner was arrested for soliciting food for charitable distribution without a permit from the Municipal Charities Commission. For several months he received unmarketable vegetables and made them up into a "mulligan" and served his transient followers at a camp at Eighth and San Julian. The Police Court convicted him but suspended the sentence.

"The commission drove me out of business," Haefner told the hospital attendants. "In a few months I fed 15,000 unemployed. I gave away all my clothes and used up all my money and then my work was taken from me."

Asked why he did not take up other work, he replied that he felt it his call to preach.

"The worry and disgrace of the arrest preyed upon my mind so that I could not sleep," he continued. "I went out into the street to get air."

NORTON CLIQUE USES CITY CLUB.

HILL CONDEMNED, WESTOVER INDORSED, AGAINST PROTEST OF MINORITY MEMBERS.

The City Club at yesterday's session, despite the protest of a large number of the members present, took up the Earl-Norton fight against County Counsel Hill and shoved through a resolution condemning Hill in unmeasured terms.

The resolution was presented in a mimeograph form, with the name of the club written. It is evident that it is proposed to have similar resolutions passed by various clubs where the Earl-Norton clique can swing a sufficient vote.

The resolution recites that County Counsel Hill is a "temporary incumbent," and that "instead of co-operating with the people in upholding and defending all provisions of the charter has defiantly interposed his own will, counseling and advising against the charter provisions in many respects and against its civil service provisions in particular, even to the extent of unsuccessfully attacking its constitutionality, thus placing himself on record as opposed to civil service."

Immediately upon the reading of the resolution, that urged the appointment of Myron Westover as County Counsel, after making the charges against Mr. Hill, several members of the City Club were on their feet to move that the resolution be tabled.

Attorney Will D. Gould declared that serious charges were being made and that the club, in all fairness, should not act on such a resolution without giving its subject an opportunity for a hearing. Others spoke in similar vein, but their motion to table was lost and the Earl-Norton sceme was shoved through with an indorsing vote.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

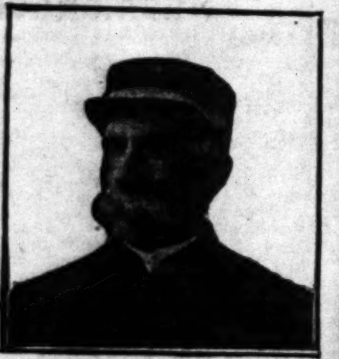
Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need,) apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.



He Was Deaf

Astonishing Improvement in Hearing—Edward Gregory, Engineer, Gives Information Free.

An engineer who had ear trouble for years finally became so deaf he could not hear the sound of a steam engine, bells or voices. After vainly seeking relief he was compelled to give up his position. His case seemed hopeless. His deafness was aggravated by head disturbances, dry catarrh, nervousness and despondency.

To the surprise of all, he began to hear and continued improving until he could listen to conversations, could hear a train at a distance, and even the singing of the birds in the trees. His head and nerves became tranquil. He got his position back again. This was no miracle; no surgery, no artificial hearing devices, no electric apparatus, no loss of time. Whoever is deaf can obtain particulars free by writing to Edward Gregory, 107 D, Forbes St., Jamaica Plains, Mass.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well-known actress, who darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."

More than Friendship

After all, the successful handling of your estate may depend more upon impartiality toward heirs than warm personal friendship for all or any of them. Title Insurance and Trust Company, placed in charge, without personal leanings, is in better position to view things in their proper proportions than a friend influenced sometimes by sentiment.

As executor or trustee under your will this company will give it a strictly business administration, dominated only by considerations making for absolute safety.

FIRE CHIEF IS EXONERATED.

COMMISSIONERS SAY CHARGES "WITHOUT MERIT."

Board Also Takes up the Subject of Politics in the Department and Declares that Attempts to Influence Appointments to Promotions Must Cease.

"Without merit," declared the Fire Commission yesterday on the charges filed against Fire Chief Eley by C. E. Furgason of No. 121 North Avenue 19. The charges were ordered filed. The general purport of these charges was to the effect that Chief Eley had committed irregularities in making temporary appointments to positions in the department.

This is the second time Mr. Furgason has filed charges before the commission. The first time the form of the charges was a series of questions on which he demanded answers from Chief Eley. As there were no specific statements of wrong-doing, the commission, at that time, also ordered the filing of the communication.

The commission also at yesterday's session took up the subject of politics in the fire department. The subject was introduced by Commissioner Yates, and after discussion the board instructed Chief Eley to notify all members of the department that rigid adherence must be given to the rule that prohibits any member of the department from soliciting the influence of outsiders for the purpose of bringing pressure to bear to secure appointments to promotions. It is proposed to suspend any member of the department who is found guilty of disobeying this rule.

FOR HUMAN SAFETY.

NIGHT STREET FLUSHING.

Recently the Board of Public Works has had many complaints of accidents occurring through the skidding of automobiles and other vehicles on streets where the flushing is carried on during traffic hours. A report on the situation was made by Public Works Inspector Hansen last week, and his conclusion that it is not practicable to change the system at this time of using the street flushers both day and night.

Since that time one death has occurred as a result of skidding automobiles, and Commissioner Osborne yesterday presented the subject before the Board of Public Works, urging that as a precaution for human safety steps should be taken to have streets flushed during the lightest hours of traffic.

The subject was discussed in its various phases, and it was finally decided to take the matter up as a committee of the whole, to devise ways, if possible, for all street flushing to be carried on after midnight.

At the present time twenty-eight street flushers are used on day work and twenty-three on night work. The district including Figueroa street easterly to the Los Angeles River and from Washington street northerly to the river is flushed at night. The district east of Main street is flushed before midnight and the portion including Main street and west to Figueroa street is flushed after midnight. The remainder of the paved streets of the city are flushed in day time.

The after-midnight work proposed will cost more, but it is the opinion of members of the board that it is well worth the extra cost and it is probable plans will be devised for putting a new system into effect within a short time, as a safeguard to human life.

CHARITY WORK.

CONSOLIDATION PLANS.

Dr. Milbank Johnson, president of the Municipal Charities Commission, appeared before the City Council yesterday to ask for the appointment of a committee to work in co-operation with a county committee on plans for a consolidation of city and county charities. This is in accordance with a programme suggested at a conference between city and county officials last Friday.

Acting President Langdon appointed as the city committee Councilmen Wheeler, Whiffen and Williams, Dr. Johnson and Assistant City Attorney Robertson.

In this connection a discussion of the work performed by the municipal employment bureau brought forth much commendation for its efforts. Dr. Johnson stated that the records showed that thousands of people have been given employment through this agency since it was established, less than a year ago, and that the average cost of placing men and women in positions is 68 cents each.

Councilman Wheeler stated that contractors on the State highways are patronizing private employment agencies and ignoring the city bureau, where they could get employees without cost. He denounced the system of a "fifty-fifty" divide between agencies and foremen on work, which encourages the frequent laying off of men, so that a new batch can go on and the fees can be collected.

The Council instructed the managers of the municipal employment bureau to urge the State Highway Commission to use its influence with contractors for the use of the city bureau.

A VERBAL ROAST.

MOHLER STRONGLY CRITICISED.

Upon the recommendation of Charles K. Mohler, head of the railroad department of the Board of Public Utilities, that board has decided against the advertisement for sale of a street car franchise for North Pritchard street, Mercury street, and on to Scheutzen Park and Hermon. This has raised the ire of property owners of the district.

Their spokesman, Robert Theodore Hale, was before the City Council yesterday, urging it to ignore the recommendation of Mr. Mohler and to advertise the franchise for sale, as the people of the district are ready to bid it in. He stated that he has assurance that the road will be built if the franchise is secured.

Mr. Hale poured the vials of this community's wrath upon the heads of Engineer Mohler and the Board of Public Utilities. He declared that there was every reason why Mr. Mohler should have joined with the property owners in helping them to secure adequate transportation, but that instead of this, on the action of one man, there was danger to the project. He gave notice that the efforts to secure a franchise would not cease and that the residents of the district are determined to secure a railway, for which they have been working for several years.

MORE SHIFTING.

FIREMEN CHANGE LOCATIONS.

When Fire Chief Eley a short time ago announced to the Fire Commission that he had ordered a general shake-up in the fire department, wherein thirty-two men were given change of locations "for the good of the service," he stated that there was more to follow. The second chapter came yesterday when the Chief announced the transfer of six more firemen in the interest of discipline and good service.

In the last list of transfers is included the shifting of E. E. Rhoades from Engine Company No. 1 to Hose Company No. 6; Paul Save from Engine Company No. 1 to Engine Company No. 29; R. W. Castro from Engine Company No. 11 to Engine Company No. 1; C. E. King from Engine Company No. 29 to Engine Company No. 11; Charles W. Scott, from Engine Company No. 31 to Engine Company No. 29; N. Henderson, from Engine Company No. 29 to Engine Company No. 28.

MORE HYDRANTS.

MANY ARE RECOMMENDED.

Within the past two years Fire Chief Eley has passed upon and recommended the location of many hundred new fire hydrants for the city. These locations include all portions of the city where mains are of sufficient size to give the necessary service.

At yesterday's session of the Fire Commission he presented recommendations for 147 new hydrants, and these were approved. The Public Service Commission will be asked to place these as soon as possible.

The list includes hydrants to be placed on the city mains, the mains of the Union Hollywood Water Company and those of the Hawthorne Water Company. Larger hydrants are also recommended for certain portions of the business and industrial districts.

Heard About the Hall.

The Fire Commission yesterday requested the Board of Public Works to have demolished two buildings in the rear of No. 516½ West Seventh street, where they constitute a special fire hazard. A fire there on September 26 left the premises in a condition that warrants the demolition of the structures.

The City Council yesterday requested Inspector of Buildings Backus to present a draft of an ordinance which he can approve providing for the inspection and approval of the building superintendent on various classes of gas heaters before they will be allowed to be installed in buildings. Recently Mr. Backus has called attention to the serious menace to human life maintained in some of the gas heaters now in use and on the market.

The Board of Public Works informed the City Council yesterday that it has adopted plans for a single-light ornamental lighting post for the Wilshire boulevard ornamental lighting system.

The Cypress Park Improvement Association petitioned the Fire Commission for hydrants in that district. The association also desires the location of a fire station in the district.

Leave of absence from October 15 to November 5 was granted to Fire Chief Eley to enable him to attend the International Convention of Fire Chiefs in New Orleans. He will work to bring this meeting to Los Angeles next year.

SPRING-STREET BLOCK AGAIN.

ECHO OF LIQUOR CASES IN DAMAGE SUIT.

Lessee Sues Owner on Termination of Five-year Lease in Ninety Days—Plaintiff Defendant in Suit to Prevent More Liquor Establishments in Block.

Fred Barman filed suit against Miss Madeline F. Wills yesterday asking $12,000 damages for terminating a five-year lease on property in the block on South Spring street between Fifth and Sixth streets, in ninety days. He alleges that he leased the property in October, 1911, and she served papers on him June 10, giving ninety days' notice. He moved out four days later. Miss Wills is plaintiff in a suit to prevent the opening of the block to additional liquor establishments.

Fred Meriwether and Frank Mason, who have been granted liquor permits for the block, filed new suits yesterday to compel the City Clerk to issue the licenses. A mandamus suit filed by Miss Wills has tied up the matter. Judge Shenk will hear the suits on the 19th inst.

Meriwether and Mason intervened in Miss Wills's suit to get a ruling on the matter, the city having formerly been a defendant. It acted on instructions from the City Council.

PRIVATE HEARING.

DELINQUENCY CHARGE.

Henry Stanley, a Long Beach photographer and said by the District Attorney's office to be a moving-picture actor, was held in $2000 bail by Judge Taft yesterday, after a private hearing, to answer to the charge of contributing to the dependency and delinquency of Miss Pearl Handy, 16.

Miss Handy told in detail of her posing in the nude to Stanley and of his misconduct. She said he met her on the street in Long Beach, and on his invitation she went to his house where the pictures were taken as "art studies." The photographs were exhibits in the case. Stanley, she declared, gave her beer to drink and also prepared supper for her.

AGOURE ESTATE.

PARTIAL DISTRIBUTION.

A partial distribution of $350,000 in the $579,452.29 estate of Pierre Agoure was ordered by Judge Rives yesterday. The heirs are the widow, Kate Agoure, and the children, Juliette A. de Celis, Angele A. Vail, Byon A. Brinkop, Vivian and Lester P. Agoure.

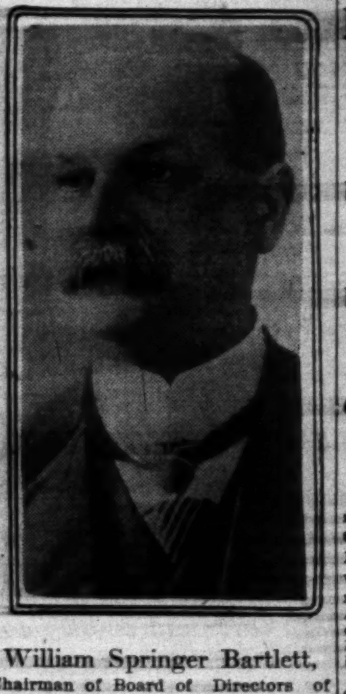
The court named the 29th inst. for the hearing on the big fight in the estate. John Lapique, who claims to have been a partner of Mr. Agoure, has filed claims. He objected to the partial distribution on the ground that no account had been filed. The court ordered this, which was presented yesterday. Mrs. Agoure is opposing Mr. Lapique's claims.

SEQUEL TO SEIZURE.

DENTIST SUES ON RAID.

Dr. Willis E. Hutchason filed suit against the Board of Dental Examiners of California yesterday, asking $10,063 damages for entering his private office and seizing, with the aid of three policemen, some of his utensils to be used, as the defendants allege, as evidence against Dr. W. D. Thomas for practicing without a license.

Dr. Hutchason alleges that the forcible entry of the officers frightened his clients, who left the office. The utensils seized were his personal property he said and have no connection with the alleged case against Dr. Thomas.



William Springer Bartlett,

Chairman of Board of Directors of German American Trust and Savings Bank, who died yesterday.

FOR BOY'S AID.

SUIT TO RECOVER.

Emma L. Jensen, who was divorced from Edward E. Garrett in Idaho, June 6, 1911, and had the custody of their son, William E. Garrett, now 14, until he reached the age of 16, filed suit against Iva L. Garrett, administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Garrett, yesterday, to recover judgment for $800, claimed to be due for the support and education of the boy.

The plaintiff says she put in a claim for the amount due which was refused by the administratrix. Under the alleged agreement with her former husband, the plaintiff was to receive $25 a month. The sum of $800 is claimed from March 1 last to October 1, 1916. Mr. Garrett died March 15 last.

WOULDN'T DO IT.

BANK AWAITED COURT.

Until the Probate Court appointed some one with authority the Lindsay National Bank of Lindsay, Tulare county, refused to allow a safe deposit box to be opened where it is alleged the will of Andrew E. Thomason was placed. Yesterday G. H. Beesmyer was appointed special administrator on his petition filed with the Probate Clerk.

Mr. Thomason's estate comprises orange groves in Tulare and Los Angeles counties, a large amount of securities and a life insurance policy of $10,000. The heirs are Ira Le Roy and Clarence Thomason, sons, and Julia Ruth and Inez Thomason, daughters.

COURTHOUSE PARAGRAPHS.

PROCEEDINGS IN BRIEF.

HE NEVER CAME BACK. Mrs. Mae Hall, superintendent of the Pasadena High School cafeteria, married George L. Hall at Moorhead, Minn., June 29, 1904. They have one child, now 9 years old. April 1, 1911, he left her and the circumstances, as far as she knew, were told to Judge Works in her divorce suit yesterday. She said he drank and lost every job he had. One day she says he told her he was going on the road, and he never came back. The decree was granted on the ground of desertion.

DAMAGES FOR INJURIES. Because, as he alleges, Isaac Modofsky shot him in the groin late on the night of September 23 last, Albert D. Noan asks, in a suit filed yesterday, $10,000 damages and $250 special damages. Mr. Noan says he was walking in the street when Modofsky came up and fired at him.

APPOINT RECEIVER. H. W. Wells, a mining engineer, was appointed receiver for the constructing firm of Langford, Felts & Myer, which is putting in a mining plant in Inyo county. The application was made by Attorney Hardy for Fairbanks, Morse & Co. in its own behalf and as trustee. The defendants are alleged to owe $65,000 in debts. The assets represent a less amount. A chattel mortgage was put on the property of the concern for the benefit of the creditors and is now being foreclosed.

INCORPORATIONS. The Used Car Shop, incorporators, J. C. Dumbreck, A. D. Laughlin and Lorraine Wettleson, capital stock, $50,000; subscribed, $6. Street Corner Directory Company; incorporators, H. D. Johnson, Opal M. Artherholt, Burton Berry, L. E. Warner and W. T. Huffman; capital stock, $2500; subscribed, $1600.

LOOKS OVER SITUATION.

Federal Judge Nominee Pays Visit Here — Plans to Begin Work as Soon as Possible.

Judge B. F. Bledsoe of San Bernardino made his first visit to Los Angeles yesterday since his name was sent to the Senate by the President for United States District judge for the southern division of the southern district of California.

Judge Bledsoe spent some time with Judge Wellborn, with whom he will be associated on the local bench, and the condition of the public business as reflected in the calendar of civil and criminal cases, was discussed. As Judge Bledsoe has not yet been confirmed, they could only speak tentatively, but a thorough understanding was reached in regard to what should be done when the nomination of the San Bernardino candidate shall have been favorably passed on by the Senate Judiciary Committee and the Senate acquiesce.

Judge Bledsoe said yesterday: "I am finishing up my business in San Bernardino county, with a view to beginning work here as soon as my nomination has been confirmed and I have been informed by telegraph of that result."

Judge Bledsoe stated that as soon as he became established in his position, he would remove with his family to Los Angeles.

FOR RIVERSIDE COUNTY FAIR, the Salt Lake Route will sell tickets at reduced fares from all stations west of San Bernardino on October 12 to 17, return limit October 19; and for Colton Carnival, sell October 22 to 24, return limit October 26. Excellent train service in both directions.

JUST IMAGINARY.

Some men are such delightful vagabonds and there is so little else to them that instead of having been made by the Creator they appear to have been written by William J. Locke.

SAD FOR THE LADY.

Many a man who promises everything to the girl he wants to win is not blind to the fact that while he would be perfectly good to her he might be a long way from being good for her.

A WELCOME CHANGE.

It would be a fine thing for Lower California and the United States if the capital of the former should be established at Mexicali. Perhaps it would result in a moral clean-up of the little border city and it would certainly make it an excellent business center.

STINGINESS.

It amounts to spiritual beggary. People are always afraid of having the best and of having too much. Hugo once wrote something about challenging the Milky Way to count and weed out some of its stars and of saying to the woodland: "Oh, forest, we pray you not so many trees!"

NO SURPRISE.

There is nothing unusual about the fact that Socialists and agitators turned a debate into a near riot at Glendale the other night when a speaker for the other side began his discussion. The Socialist idea of an argument is for the Socialist himself to do all the talking.

THE TONE OF REST.

When man makes music he proves that he is man. In the cry of every animal, in the call of all wild things, in the song of birds the note of peace is missing. They are glad sometimes and they often thrill with their sweetness, yet the tone that rests and that knows that it is at rest is in none of them. In the human voice, in the cello and even in the humble guitar we sometimes catch the pulse of the deathless soul.

FINDING TROUBLE.

Those who hunt it often succeed in locating a fair share of it. A soldier of fortune has just married a Red Cross nurse who once cared for him when he was wounded in a battle. A soldier of fortune is one who goes off to die for somebody else's country and it need not surprise him if he is either wounded or wed for his pains. It is rather unfair, however, if a girl cannot nurse the injured without running the risk of matrimony.

ENGLAND AND COPPER.

Senator Walsh is perfectly right in his suggestion that England be made responsible for America's freedom to sell copper to neutral nations. America has no objections to this, and if John Bull has any fears on the subject, he should be left to satisfy himself in some other way than in a mere protest against business. The world cannot stop living and the United States cannot quit business simply because England has a war on its hands without knowing exactly what to do about it.

THE ALL-DAY SUCKER.

We have no intention of attacking a great national institution. The all-day sucker as one of the chief joys of babyhood becomes a sort of corner-stone and bulwark of the republic. At the same time it is one of those good things that may be carried too far. A small boy on West Adams street last week gave sad proof of this sometimes lamentable fact. He came into possession of a bright new dollar, and invested all of it in all-day suckers at the nearest grocery store. He has a generous disposition, and this saved his life, yet it did not save the "tummies" of every other baby in the block. The automobiles of doctors were whizzing in that neighborhood from 3 p.m. until midnight. The only youngster who escaped was one whose religious training made him realize that there is neither substance nor intelligence about an all-day sucker. The doctors of the other babies agreed with him as to the intelligence, but differed as to the substance. A baby who eats that much candy at one time, however, is likely to need the consolation of some sort of faith.

WHY STEPHENS?

Congressman Stephens, whose efforts in Congress have been and must be ineffectual because the Progressive party has no influence at Washington and will have less after the next election, is now running for re-election on the strength of the $626,000 he is "going to get" for the Los Angeles Harbor, and not on the $42,000 that he did get.

Congressman Stephens is an agreeable and amiable gentleman, with lots of friends here. But he cannot be a desirable representative since he has no influence in Congress, since he belongs to a party that has fallen to pieces and he is not capable of gaining influence at Washington.

Every indication is that the next Congress will be Republican. And by every indication, we mean that every primary election held in the United States this year has shown the Progressives dwindling in each State from 20 to 90 per cent. and the Republicans making proportionate gains. This district needs a Congressman who will be a member of the dominating party, and as such will have some influence and standing and be able to get recognition and assistance.

THE JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION THWARTED THE PEOPLE.

At the last session of the California Legislature a bill was introduced to prevent influencing legislators by offering them lucrative jobs in return for support of the administration's measures and policies. This bill provided that no Senator nor Assemblyman could be appointed to a lucrative office during the term for which such Senator or Assemblyman had been elected. Two-thirds of the States in the Union have such a provision on their statutes. But the Johnson administration killed this measure.

Why such an obviously just and sensible law was opposed by the administration is made plain when we consider the circumstances under which Gov. Johnson has appointed Senators and Assemblymen to lucrative offices.

There are few people in the State who do not remember that most of the Senators and Assemblymen of the 1911 Legislature had been instructed by the people at a primary election to vote for A. G. Spalding for United States Senator. It was known then, as it is now, that Gov. Johnson favored John D. Works for the Senate; and it was through the efforts of Gov. Johnson that the State Senators and Assemblymen disregarded the instructions of the people and voted for Works.

At that time Gov. Johnson found it most convenient to be able to appoint Senators and Assemblymen to lucrative offices in return for their support.

Charles P. Cutten of the First Senatorial District had been instructed by the direct primary returns to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson appointed him attorney to the Lunacy Commission at a salary of $3000 per year.

Edward K. Strobridge, representing the Thirteenth Senatorial District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson made Strobridge chairman of the Finance Committee—the most important committee of the Legislature.

Thomas F. Finn, representing the Seventeenth Senatorial District, was instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson turned over to him the patronage of the San Francisco Harbor front, which, under Finn's political control, has bred more scandals than any other State department.

Edward J. Tyrrell, representing the Sixteenth Senatorial District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Tyrrell was first given a job as Deputy District Attorney in Alameda county, and was (after Cutten resigned to take a better job) appointed attorney for the Lunacy Commission at a salary of $3000 per year.

Richard J. Welch, representing the Nineteenth Senatorial District, was instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works with the understanding that the Legislature of which he was a member would compensate him for services as a member of a hold-over committee to investigate the "fish trust."

Edward F. Bryant, representing the Twentieth Senatorial District, was instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson appointed him assistant chief wharfinger at San Francisco with a salary of $2100 per year. Bryant afterward extorted money from employees, by compelling them to purchase "certificates," for Gov. Johnson's campaign.

G. S. Walker, representing the Twenty-seventh Senatorial District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson appointed him Building and Loan Commissioner at a salary of $3000 per year. Walker's appointment was made in violation of the State Constitution which provides that no member of a Legislature shall hold an office which was created during his term as a legislator.

Louis H. Roseberry, representing the Thirty-third Senatorial District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson appointed him attorney for the State Board of Health at a salary of $3000 per year.

Walter A. McDonald, representing the Thirty-first Assembly District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson appointed him to the office of wharfinger on the San Francisco waterfront.

Edward J. D. Nolan, representing the Thirty-eighth Assembly District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works, and was appointed to a position on the waterfront at San Francisco.

Victor A. Sbragia, representing the Forty-fourth Assembly District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works, and was appointed to a position on the waterfront at San Francisco.

Henry H. Lyon, representing the Fifty-sixth Assembly District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works. Gov. Johnson appointed him to a position as assistant deputy commissioner in the Labor Bureau with a salary of $2100 per year.

James P. Ryan, representing the Thirty-third Assembly District, had been instructed to vote for Spalding. He voted for Works, and was appointed to a position on the San Francisco waterfront.

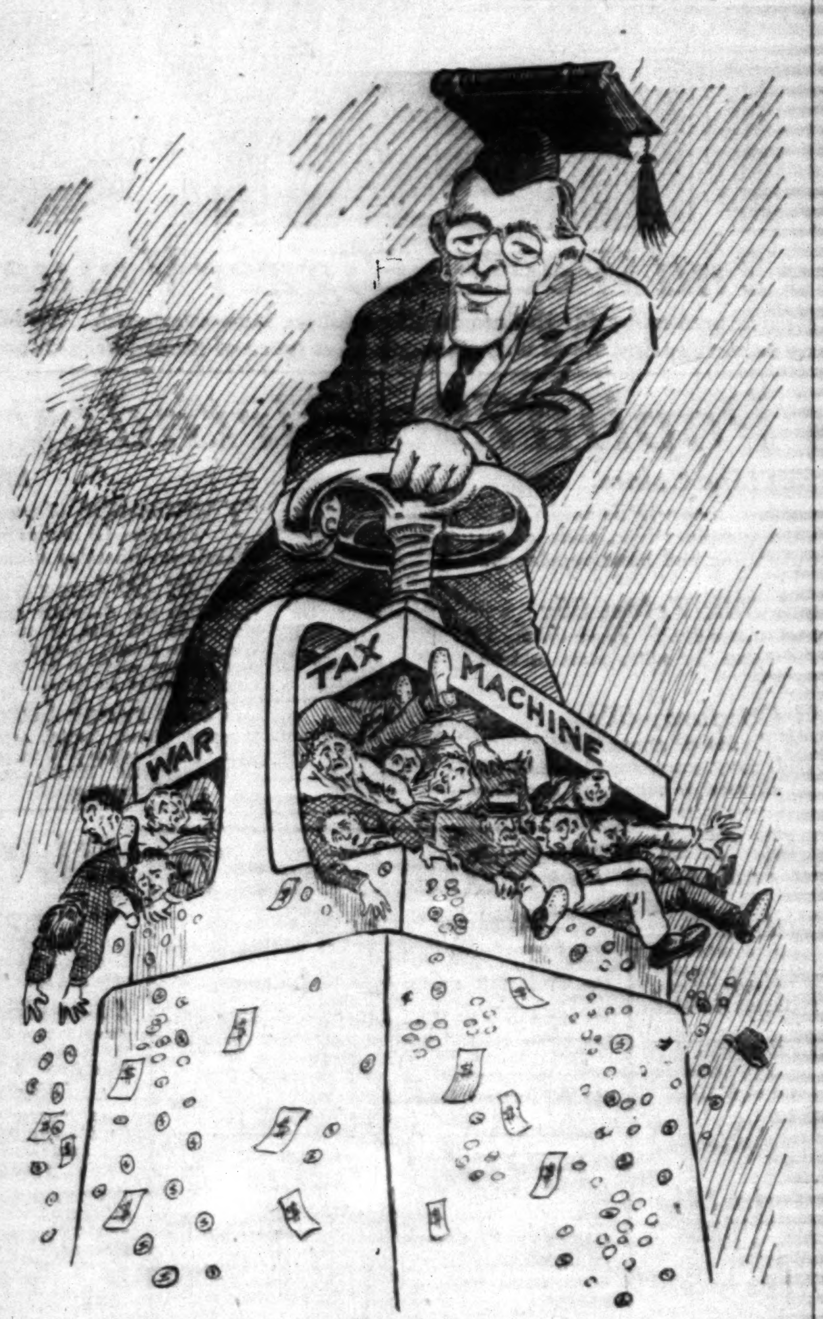
There were other Senators and Assemblymen who were instructed to vote for Spalding and who voted for Works, and these were given political support by the Johnson administration, and were sometimes appointed to influential committees as a mark of favor.

Thus it is seen how the Johnson administration deliberately defeated the will of the people by practically hiring away and leading astray legislators whom the people had instructed to vote for A. G. Spalding. The votes and appointments as we have presented them here are a matter of public record and may be verified by anyone who takes the trouble to investigate.

THE SUPERFLUOUS.

We are glad to see the various organizations of business men turning themselves into clearinghouses of thought in order to condemn the useless freak laws that the present State administration has proposed. In government as with individuals what the people leave alone often saves them much trouble. With a newspaper, what it does not print is often as important to its welfare as what it publishes, and persons are often happy in the follies they do not commit. A State is vastly better off without cluttering its statute books with laws it does not need.

Woodrow Wilson—Inventor.



OUR MINERAL POSSIBILITIES.

The first bugle calls of the marching armies in Europe awakened no sense of disquietude in the American public as to their independence of the distant powers suddenly involved in destructive conflict. But so insignificant a thing as the bullet fired from the first German invader's rifle rent the great ship's hawser that tied the continent of America with that of Europe and with the rest of the world. Eyes were suddenly opened to the dependence of the United States upon our mother, Europe, for a multitude of things hitherto thought possessed by us in abundance.

Immediately the various departments of the government were deluged with demands for information as to the extent of domestic resources, especially mineral, from which to make up the pressing deficiency caused by war. In the scurry of the heads of bureaus to answer volleying questions past investigations were resummarized and mailed broadcast in bulletin form to stem the queries.

The Secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane, pointed out that a readjustment of the world's commerce necessitated by the European war, imposed new conditions on many industries. In an interview on August 16, he stated that the direct benefit to the people of the United States from the war would be in making them understand the greater extent and value of its mineral resources. "The label, 'Made in America,' would, because of this exigency, become familiar in foreign as well as in our own markets," he declared. And this would mean the realization that not only is the United States independent of all the world in food supply, but equally so in mineral wealth, if only this neglected wealth is developed and utilized.

The embarrassing discovery that manufacturers rely absolutely upon foreign sources for dyes, pigments, chemicals, both crude and for medicinal purposes, as well as for innumerable other necessities, has in many cases meant the closing of factories and discontinuance of sales. One of the gigantic American industries early to feel the blockade of chemicals was the manufacture of moving-picture films. Practically all photographic chemicals are by-products of coal tar, prepared in enormous quantities in Germany for shipment to America and elsewhere. The film business in the United States is estimated to represent an investment of over $200,000,000, and produces annually about 3,000,000,000 separate pictures for sale either to our own theaters or those abroad. The first inflating of prices on photographic chemicals was later followed by failure to receive any shipments, which resulted in a restriction of the output of the film producers.

Secretary of the Interior Lane referred with pride to the United States' supremacy in mineral wealth as the solution of the disconcerting shortage of chemicals and other mineral products now being experienced. It was shown that not only is the United States the producer of the world's greatest mineral wealth, but that it possesses greater reserves of most of the essential minerals than any other nation. The value of the mineral production is now $2,500,000,000 a year, including nearly 40 per cent. of the world's production of coal, 65 per cent. of the world's petroleum, and 40 per cent. of the world's output of iron ore, while the smelters supply the world with 55 per cent. of its copper and 30 per cent. of its lead and zinc. A more thorough examination of the resources of other minerals demonstrates this country's unquestionable capability of upbuilding a vast metallurgical industry with all the various branches of related chemical and metal-working industries.

It appears that the optimistic Secretary of the Interior, by reason of his "unassailable" confidence in the correct working out of all national puzzles through infallible Democratic principles, believes that American capital and industry have simply to sink the mine shaft and ignite fuel in the boilers in order to achieve a metallurgical era in the States. But a protest arises in the very explanation of non-development of the extensive and rich resources of minerals in every section from the Canadian to the Mexican line. The honorable Secretary of the Interior confesses that "it has been easier and perhaps cheaper to import mineral products and their materials from other countries than to go to the trouble and expense of developing our own resources of the same nature."

Here is the exact barrier confronting the prospective American developer of mineral possibilities, the indisputable fact that he cannot compete with the foreign producer in the same field because of the radical difference in wage scales prevailing in America and in other countries. Of a certainty the inability of the foreign competitor to export or even mine his mineral products would serve as an impetus in the establishment of metallurgical industries here for a time, but the vital need of the mining industry today is nevertheless a protective tariff sufficiently high and permanent enough to fully safeguard the capital which will be invested in the development of resources requiring years of often unprofitable maintenance. It needs no keen imagination to comprehend what a sweeping and inevitable destruction would strike the mines of this country when the ending of the European war and the readjustment of industrial conditions there would throw hordes of starving laborers into all manner of employment at the lowest possible wages.

Notwithstanding the national discouragement attendant upon the Democratic anti-tariff attitude, the movement toward the development of mineral resources has received some stimulus and it is reported in certain localities discontinued operations are being resumed or new plants opened up. A recent meeting of the Los Angeles branch of the American Chemists Society, held with the object of establishing a chemical and mineralogical bureau for the benefit of prospective manufacturers, is significant of progress in this direction.

A brief survey of mineral possibilities in California, a State which ranks well in the front with its annual production of $100,000,000 in mineral wealth, is of general interest and value.

Aside from its production of gold and the other metals, California abounds in highly desirable non-metallics which are the basis of many manufactured articles of importance.

In the production of lime the State ranks seventeenth and ninth in the value of the product. There were seventeen plants in operation in 1913.

Magnesite, which is one of the most valuable deposits possessed by California, is found in abundance and of fine quality, and is not produced elsewhere in the United States. Magnesite has the following common uses: As the substance of refractory brick or facings in intensely-heated furnaces, in steel converters, as the basis from which to derive carbon dioxide and as a digestor for wood pulp in the manufacture of paper. It is a notable fact that the Willamette Pulp and Paper Company operates its own mine of magnesite for this purpose in Tulare county. The advent of a paper mill into Southern California will be auspicious, with deposits of magnesite in the vicinity.

Until the war Grecian magnesite of inferior quality to the California article was shipped crude to Germany and Holland, where it was refined and exported to New York for the American market. The government has suggested that cheap freight rates via the Panama Canal will enable California to compete with the foreign product. But here again the need of a protective tariff asserts itself.

Of mica, the value of which in the building of today is constantly growing, California has some promising deposits capable of development. The uses of this mineral are for electrical purposes, in the decoration of wall papers, in the manufacture of lubricants, roofing papers and fancy paints.

The pigments, ochre, sienna, red lead and orange mineral are mined in California in considerable amounts and may be greatly increased. These pigments are essential in the manufacture of certain mineral paints.

Potash, which constitutes one of the most widely used fertilizers, is being mined at Searle's Lake in San Bernardino county by the American Trona Company. The output of this plant includes borax, soda ash, salt, sodium sulphate and potassium chloride. As the bulk of the potash salts utilized for fertilizers in the United States has been imported from Germany, this country is now keenly feeling a shortage. The Department of Agriculture wishes to encourage two methods of producing valuable chemical fertilizers, first the conversion of sea kelp into potash, and secondly the conversion of nitrogen from the air by hydro-electrical process and the precipitation of a nitrate for fertilizer. The reported closing of the nitrate mines in Chile accentuates the need of California finding some means of supplying her own potash and nitrate fertilizers.

Pyrite, from which commercial sulphuric acid is obtained, is found in several large deposits in California. It is also used in the refining of petroleum products, which insures its large consumption if further developed.

In the production of Portland cement California possesses resources to draw upon which have placed her nearly the foremost. With an output of cement in 1913 worth $8,896,734, this State ranked third of all the States.

Another non-metallic mineral which is fast becoming of importance in Southern California is the kieselguhr or infusorial earth mined at Lompoc in Santa Barbara county. Kieselguhr, which had been exported to some extent from Germany for the American market, will probably be shipped to New York at some later time through the canal. Its uses are for insulation in refrigeration, and in the filtering of syrups, oils and sugar. The beet sugar companies in the State employ large quantities of this product in refining sugar, affording a permanent local market.

In addition to the minerals already mentioned, talc, soapstone, gypsum, feldspar, fuller's earth, many varieties of potter's clay, sand-lime and bauxite are found in numerous counties of California and invite further investigation.

LICENSE TO DISOBEY THE LAWS.

A law to exempt some people from punishment for doing things that they never have done and do not want to do, seems a trifle superfluous; but such is a prominent feature of the Clayton anti-trust bill which passed the House on Thursday last.

This law prohibits trusts, and combinations, and interlocking directorates, and a lot of other things, and then exempts farmers, and fraternal organizations and labor unions from its operations. Farmers, and Elks and labor leaders may picket, and boycott and insult other people and raise the devil generally with impunity, but other people must obey the law or go to jail.

The exemption of farmers and members of benevolent societies from obligation to obey the laws was made to "sweeten" or palliate the exemption of labor unionists. It was an exemption not asked for by agriculturists or Odd Fellows or Knights of Anything. Farmers do not boycott storekeepers who refuse to purchase their potatoes or eggs at an extravagant price. Even in the days of the rapacious iniquity of Toopious he did not attempt to spray with coal oil the oranges of growers who refused to allow him to rebate an undue share of their crops. No Freemason ever set fire to the cottage of a friend who neglected to apply for a right to ride a goat. No Elk ever sought to forcibly place a pair of horns on the head of a neighbor.

To class farmers and members of Y.M.C.A.'s with members of labor unions, is to rank camels with tigers and horses with wolves. To exempt farmers and members of benevolent societies equally with members of labor unions from punishment for acts of violence and wrongdoing that only members of labor unions perpetrate, is a shallow trick.

RIPPLING RHYMES.
PEACE.

If things were right, we'd never fight to add to our dominions; the dove of peace would never cease to wave its snowy pinions. We would abhor the name of war, detest the sight of battle; with scythe and flail we'd earn the kale where now the sabers rattle. The ages scoot, and man's a brute, and culture is a fable, and to our shame we're much the same as Cain, who butchered Abel. Our grace, I fear, is but veneer, and when you chance to scratch it, you find a wretch who longs to fetch you three licks with a hatchet. The lessons dire of nations' ire we carelessly are spurning; two thousand years of blood and tears, and yet we're nothing learning! If we were wise we'd all arise and can the fierce battalions, so busy now, and to the plow we'd hitch their pawing stallions. It could be done, peace could be won, if all would work to gain it, with voice and pen, again, again, expound it and explain it. Too long the harps of poet sharps have boosted blood and battle, exalted knights who yearn for fights, and all that sort of cattle. Now let us sing of peace, by jing, of home and happy labor, and let us show that spade or hoe is nobler than the saber.

Reserves are meant to use, when special tension arises, and the fact that a bank's reserves have fallen below what are called requirements is evidence under existing circumstances that it is performing the functions for which it has been established.

Overcoming the natural impulse of nerves to transmit the first sensation we have in this world, viz: pain, is one of the great dental achievements.

By our Analgesic method we can extract, fill, crown or even remove a live nerve without pain.

Remember, sensitive or sore teeth, bleeding or receding gums, and a bad breath are symptoms of Pyorrhea, which cause the loss of most teeth.

Our specialties are treating Pyorrhea, and making teeth without plates; giving a full set of solid teeth without plates or ordinary bridge work, if two or more teeth remain in either jaw.

EUROPEAN WAR PERSONALITIES.

BY WILLIAM ATHERTON DU PUY.

THE HANDSOMEST RULER IN ALL EUROPE.

Many an American tourist has been lunching in the cafe of the Hotel de Ville, Brussels, that historic structure which has stood as the hub of the nation of Belgium for six centuries, when King Albert himself has entered informally and sat at a nearby table. Such a tourist has been given a close-up look at the handsomest ruler in all Europe and one of the most attractive men whom it had ever been his lot to look upon.

On such occasion the King would be wearing street clothes and there would be nothing in his appearance to indicate that his rank differed from that of the other diners. One would instinctively look his way, for he is an upstanding fellow, six feet two inches in height, lithe, athletic, square-shouldered. He is just now 39 years of age and in the very prime of his manhood. His face is no less pleasing than his body, for Albert of Belgium is a clean, earnest, high-minded young man of benevolent mein, of the square-faced, blond-haired, silky-mustached type. His features are regular and strong, his manner frank and intelligent. He looks every inch a man and seems to prefer being a man to being a King.

It was late in 1909 that Leopold II died. During the last ten years of that strong-headed ruler's regime his private life had been such that he had become a social outcast. He had visited the Kaiser and the Kaiserin had refused to see him. He had been shown to be persona non grata at the English court. Even the wife of Prince Albert, who was to succeed him, remained constantly out of Brussels that she might not be forced into his company. His private escapades had alienated the affections of his subjects to such an extent that there was talk of making Belgium a republic. His high-handed disregard for the welfare of his people had added fuel to the fire.

Albert, his nephew, had to overcome all this when the old King died. The young man had just returned from the Congo at the time. His reception by the populace indicated that the love of the Prince was what prevented action on the part of the republicans. In his coronation address he evidently sought to make amends for the indiscretions of Leopold when he said:

"We develop in our children's hearts the love of the native land, the love of our family, the love of all that is good; these are the virtues which make nations strong."

These words the King has made a sort of working programme. To him being King is not a glory that is to be used for his own pleasure. It is a responsibility to a people for the proper conduct of their affairs that their government may give them the greatest possible benefit.

King Albert was making his accession visits when Brussels suffered a serious fire. He hastened home to bear his part in the calamity. When King Edward died the formalities were such that the Belgian ruler might not, under a strict interpretation of court etiquette, visit England. He waived the formalities and went anyway. Leopold had so handled the Congo that his extortions were a scandal and he was near a clash with England. The young King laid out a new programme and brought about harmony. He holds to the reasonable theory that Belgium will ultimately benefit as the conditions of natives are improved.

In his visits to the courts of Europe he was so charming and diplomatic that he won all whom he met. It was not long before the European press began to suggest that a new influence was being felt among the crowned heads and that this influence was wielded by Albert of Belgium. King Edward of England had always been the arbitor in court circles and all Europe leaned upon him when there were particularly delicate matters that required adjusting. Albert is young and is the ruler of a small through rich country. There have been those who, of late, have held that his will develop into the levelest head in all Europe and that he will ultimately take the place around Continental council tables formerly occupied by Edward.

Back of all this there was a most wholesome youth. Albert was a nephew of the old King and his father and an elder brother stood between him and the throne. The father was stone deaf and his tastes were agricultural. His sons grew up wholesomely and the eldest was trained for the succession. Albert led the outdoor life of a country gentleman and studied social problems from preference. He had a knack for writing and associated himself with a weekly publication. He carried a police badge and pursued the item of interest as democratically as any cub reporter.

Then he went forth to see the world. One of the first countries he visited was the United States, where his rank attracted little attention, and where he went about, still with the instincts of a reporter, making notes. Any one who would like to know what the present King of Belgium thought of the nation of the West has but to get the book he wrote upon his return home to find out. What is more, it is not a bad book for a mere King to write.

Albert went all around the world in the spirit of the serious observer and learned many things that are denied the average heir to a throne, for these are usually kept so apart from the masses that there is little opportunity to learn of human beings which are, in reality, the stock in trade of a ruler. The energetic young traveler, likewise, tramped through all the jungles of the Congo and another book was the result of his investigations.

When the fortress of Liege dared bar the way of the troops of Germany the Kaiser sent a peremptory note to King Albert demanding its immediate surrender and stating that Zeppelins would destroy it in case he did not comply.

"Try," laconically replied the King.

During the weeks that followed the Belgians every day saw their King. Clad in the plainest sort of a colonel's uniform, he sped in a high-power car from one point to another of the lines of defense, consulting, advising, cheering on his officers and men. Philosophically he accepted the situation and stood ready to stand the cost of a war that he considered right. Steadfastly did he refuse to treat with Germany on any basis that would recognize the right of entry into Belgium.

While the King was on the firing line the people of Belgium knew where their Queen might be found. Elizabeth has been constantly in the hospitals ministering to the wounded. This Queen of Belgium is the ideal mate for an active, democratic King, who takes his responsibilities seriously. Her first idea is a wholesome home life and her second is the well-being of her people.

The King and Queen have always been accessible and democratic. The people of Belgium have turned to them as one man and there seems no dissenting voice in all the clamor of approval that is theirs. Fortune has likewise favored this young couple, for their first two children were boys, strong and lusty, thus assuring the succession. Then came the baby Princess whom the people love inordinately, to complete the royal circle.

The shadow of the mailed fist of war has fallen most heavily upon Belgium, the innocent bystander, and upon this its ruling family, but its dark background out brings out the admirable qualities of the young King.

JOFFRE, "THE MAN WHO ATTACKS."

The plan for the mobilization of the French army, successfully executed, the battling with the Germans, a succession of aggressive dashes and retirements to entrenchments, are children of the brain of Gen. Joseph Joffre, the quiet men who rends and tears, as the Parisians say.

But a few months ago, the French army, under his direction, showed itself in annual maueuvers and to such credit that President Poincare and the public had acclaimed it the perfect organization. To this praise the unobtrusive commander had grunted, for he was unsatisfied. That night he recommended retirement of five generals who had participated. "Too fat," was the only comment he made.

It was in the summer of 1911 that "the man who attacks" became chief of the general staff of the French army, Generalissimo, the people call him. With his elevation there came, also, a rearrangement and centralization of authority that modern France had never before known. The handling of the forces was taken from an army board and given into the hands of the one man, the chief of the general staff. It is his to do with as he may.

Gen. Joffre made a detour of inspection during which the commander of each division of the army brought forth his troops and put them through their paces. When he returned to headquarters he recommended the compulsory retirement of five other of the men of first command. "Insufficient efficiency" was his comment. There was one of the merriest service warfares that the army has ever known, the cry of favoritism and politics. But the quiet man at the helm let his case rest on the two words of his explanation and won.

It was but a year ago that Gen. Joffre headed a commission that went to Russia to attend the great army maneuvers there. These allies have a way of interchanging observers that they may learn of each other and criticise each other. Gen. Joffre talked mobilization with the Czar and his officers. The result was the inauguration of a new system on the part of the Russians, which would get the army to the border in half the time. The system has since been worked. Incidentally, the Czar bestowed upon the Frenchman the Order of St. Andrews.

In 1893, a French lieutenant with a handful of men landed from a gunboat and seized Timbuctoo, that meeting place of the camel and the canoe on the edge of Sahara. But four white men had previously visited this wilderness and these had mostly become food for the natives. The landing party went the way of its predecessors, as did Col. T. P. E. Bonnier and 100 men who sought to avenge them. "The man who attacks" was sent into the wilderness and his subjugation of the new colony was such that there since has been little of which to complain.

In the French island of Madagascar there is a model harbor inviting the trade of the world. Its construction was an engineering task of herculean difficulties, but the Governor of the island was Joseph Joffre, the quiet man who does the thing needful. Back in the siege of Paris in the tragic days of 1870, a youngster of 18 commanded a battery of artillery. To the last it stood like a miniature Gibraltar and the veterans of that time pointed with approval to the work of Second Lieutenant Joffre.

Today you might call upon this man of action out among the steel fortresses of the German border. He would see you informally, talk to you courteously, dismiss you deferentially. You would see in him a short, stocky, old man whose clothes hung illfittingly upon him—a very blond man of massive head, heavy features and stubby mustache. He would not appear to you as a dashing and cavalier figure.

But tomorrow he may be in Germany at the head of a troop of cavalry and his is the reputation of being the wickedest rider in all the army. His military policy is to strike, to act whenever possible on the offensive, to be so efficient and well prepared that blows delivered will be effective. This dominating policy of the Generalissimo might have been a good tip of what was likely to happen on the border. A great mathematician, an engineer, a strategist, a man of forethought and preparation, he stands with 3,000,000 men at his back to prevent a recurrence of the national humiliation of his youth.

"TIRPITZ THE ETERNAL.

"Terpitz the Eternal" they call him in Berlin, this fork-bearded, sailor-flock of tubs a fleet of battleships that dares grapple with the navies of the world. Alfred Tirpitz, son of the people and an inlander, forty-five years ago came down to the sea as a naval apprentice. Today and for fifteen years he is and has been Grand Admiral Alfred von Tirpitz, Secretary of State for the imperial navy of Germany.

Chancellors, War Ministers, Foreign Secretaries, have come and gone, but Von Tirpitz has remained. His has been a task dear to the Kaiser's heart and there has been none other capable of it. It was twenty-three years ago that this huge, domineering Teuton became Chief of Staff at Kiel, the headquarters of the fleet, having won this post by way of the quarterdeck and by virtue of personal force.

Here the German ships were built and there was no cause for pride in those that had gone before. The giant sailorman now became an administrative. He converted the navy yards into models of efficiency and began the development of the fleet into a world-fighting organization. First came the torpedo flotilla, then the battle cruisers, and finally the dreadnoughts. Scientific and inventive genius was set to work to devise whatever might lend to German supremacy. Today Von Tirpitz believes the German guns are superior to those of any other nation and that they make it possible for the German ships to defeat twice their strength. Aflame with the war spirit, brooking no interference, looking decades into the future, subtle as to means of reaching those ambitions which he held in common with his ruler, this architect-in-chief of the German navy played as would Wilhelm himself in the same circumstances. Of all the men who have surrounded the Kaiser of late years only Von Tirpitz has dared oppose him. But this iron man of the ships is as unafraid in in the face of his autocratic chief as among the men who build his dreadnoughts.

The grand admiral looked two decades ahead and saw the need that would face Germany in 1920 if she was to realize his ambition that she should become a world power. He appreciated the sort of navy that she would need at that time if she were to contest the seas with such nations as England. He conceived the most formidable plan for naval development that the world has ever known. He drew for himself a diagram of a developing fleet with the annual additions that would give a prescribed size at a certain time. He induced Germany to make this vision into a law. The standard thus set later became the measure of the growth of the fleets of all the great nations.

To accomplish this end Von Tirpitz needed other qualities not previously demonstrated. Great navies require huge appropriations and money may be provided only through the approval and support of the public. The navy-builder needed appropriations that were to be had only through making his programme popular. He must develop the war spirit among the people and appeal to national pride and patriotism. He must be a politician and statesman.

In 1899, when Von Tirpitz had just become naval chief, an issue arose over the seizure of a German mail packet by a British man-of-war. This was flaunted abroad as showing the necessity of a navy capable of defending German interests. The German Navy League and the Admiralty Press Bureau was created to develop sentiment in favor of many ships. They were indorsed by the Kaiser and financed by the government to fan the war spirit. The result was the making of a great fleet.

The Kaiser has stood always at the back of his Minister of the Navy. When that official made the naval programme into law, the coveted honor of the hereditary nobility, the "von," was added to his name. The Order of the Black Eagle, highest German reward for distinguished service, came when the provision for six dreadnoughts a year was laid down. Nearer to the Kaiser's heart than any man in all his service is this uncompromising old Prussian giant, who has flaunted the British menace always before the German people, yet who has educated his own children in England.

ZEPPELIN IN AMERICA.

It may not be generally known that the idea which has resulted in the German fleet of Zeppelin airships was born in the United States? Yet as a matter of fact, Count Zeppelin made his first ascent into the air in a captive balloon of the Federal army which was attempting to spy upon the entrenchments of the Confederates.

It was in 1863 that young Lieut. Zeppelin of the Prussian army, came to the United States as a military attache and was assigned to the Army of the Mississippi. He was with Grant in the campaign against Vicksburg and associated with his countryman, Carl Schurz, who fought so effectively in the Union army. He came near capture in the sanguinary engagement at Fredericksburg.

It was during these engagements between the armies of the North and South that he witnessed the first military use of the captive balloon. He went up in one of these and the information his fellows brought down from the heights proved of great military value. He descended in the greatest enthusiasm and afterward worked actively as an advisor of the force to which he was assigned in the improvement of this service of the air. The idea thus implanted knocked about in his mind for nearly thirty years before he gave himself entirely over to it in 1892.

SCHLOSS BALTIMORE CLOTHES

The Overcoat Styles are quite new this year; you'll see models like these, worn by well-dressed men everywhere. Their air of smart distinction, so typical of all Schloss-Baltimore Clothes, has had a lot to do with the modern tendency to buy "Ready-for-Service Tailoring" instead of the "Get-measured-and-wait-a-while" kind.

A Schloss-Baltimore Overcoat is frequently a particular man's first venture into "Ready" Clothes; and it usually converts him on the spot. Schloss-Baltimore Suits,—like Schloss Overcoats are both tailored to the highest standards of expert craftsmanship. Ask for them by name.

Help the Stomach Digest Your Food

When the stomach fails to digest and distribute that which is eaten, the bowels become clogged with a mass of waste and refuse that ferments and generates poisons that are gradually forced into the blood, causing distress and often serious illness.

Most people naturally object to the drastic cathartic and purgative agents that shock the system. A mild, gentle laxative, positive in its effect, and that will quickly relieve constipation is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, sold by druggists at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. It does not gripe or cramp, but acts easily and pleasantly and is therefore the most satisfactory remedy for children, women and elderly persons. For a free trial bottle write to Dr. W. B. Only Sure Corn Cure Ever Known

"Gets-It" the New Way, 2 Drops Do It.

To endure the pains and torture caused by a little thing like a corn is ridiculous, simply because it is unnecessary. The new-plan corn cure, "GETS-IT," is the first one ever known to remove corns without fail, without pain and without trouble. This is why it is the biggest-selling corn cure in existence today. It is now used by millions, because it does away with sticky tape, with plasters and cotton rings that shift their position and press down onto the corn, with salves that "raw up" the toe, with "harnesses" that cause pressure and pain, with knives, razors and files, clawing and pulling at a corn.

Use "GETS-IT" for Corns and You Won't "Holler" When You Put on Your Shoes.

"GETS-IT" is applied in two seconds. Two drops applied with the glass rod do the work. Pain goes, the corn shrivels, vanishes. Accept no substitute. Try it on any corn, wart, callous or bunion tonight.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

"GETS-IT" is sold in Los Angeles by The Owl Drug Co.

RELIEF WORK GROWS.

Directors of German-Austro-Hungarian Society Call Meeting to Report Progress Made.

The German-Austro-Hungarian Relief Association (Red Cross Society) will hold a meeting Tuesday evening at the Turner Hall, No. 325 South Main street. This meeting was called by the board of directors to lay several matters of business before the association and to report the work accomplished.

The board of directors has been enlarged to give the numerous German churches in the city a fair representation and a Ladies' Auxiliary has been organized. Branches have also been organized in a number of neighboring towns. A substantial sum was recently sent to Ambassador Bernstorff in Washington and a proportionate amount to the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador.

Besides the report of the chief officers, there will be an address in English by a prominent local speaker and the war situation will be discussed in its most recent phases.

TO AID PHILANTHROPY.

For the promotion and continuance of its patriotic and philanthropic efforts among the deserving and needy of the Spanish war and Philippine insurrection, and assistance and aid to the European Red Cross, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Roosevelt-Glass Camp, United States War Veterans, will give a dance and card party in Lomax Hall, Central and Vernon avenues Tuesday evening. General arrangements are in charge of Mmes. Hoffman, Cooper and Miss Grace Crowder. The floor will be in charge of Mrs. Wadsworth, Mrs. Galbraith, Miss Krouse, Miss Matlack, Mrs. Ficket and Mrs. Bagley, with Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Bronson in charge of the cards. The serving will be looked after by Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Matlack and Mrs. Bowman. President Mrs. Nettie Bowe will have general supervision. These ladies will also preside at the bazaar and dinner, which will be served under its auspices in Patriotic Hall, the afternoon and evening of the 21st inst.

How To Stop The Liquor Habit Secretly

(By a Specialist.)

That the liquor habit can be treated secretly at home at very little expense is the claim of a well-known specialist who has treated thousands of cases. In a recent interview, he made the following statement: "The cost of the drugs used to treat the liquor habit in the high-priced sanatoriums amounts to very little. Here is a simple, inexpensive prescription that can be given secretly in coffee, tea, milk, water, or in the food, as it has no taste, color or odor: To 3 oz. of water add 20 grains of muriate of ammonia, a small box of Varlex Compound and 10 grains of pepsin. Put into coffee or food a teaspoonsful three times a day. This prescription is perfectly harmless, can be obtained at any drug store, and will be found very effective in the treatment of the liquor habit."

How to Banish Wrinkles Quickly

If the average woman only knew it, it is not at all difficult to preserve the youthful contour and velvety smoothness of complexion. Every woman hates to see her face wrinkled or baggy, and practically every one has experimented with some sort of patent remedy in the effort either to remove such condition or ward it off.

As a matter of fact, the most effective remedy in the world is one that any woman con easily make up herself at home, in a moment's time. Let her take one ounce of pure powdered saxolite, which she can purchase at any drug store, and dissolve it in a half pint of witch hazel. Apply this harmless and refreshing solution to the face every day. The results are surprising—and instantaneous. Even after the very first application a marked improvement is apparent. The wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a comfortable, smug feeling of firmness that is most delightful.

ticular attention to "The Story of Man." In Mexico and Central and South America are monuments hardly known in popular reading, and never before filmed, that are no less wonderful than the famous ruins of Egypt, Greece, Italy, Palestine and India. As the monuments of the Aztecs, Mayas, Incas, Yuncas and their allied civilizations are rapidly becoming a focus of interest for the scientific and artistic world, and as direct descendants of these first Americans still inhabit the same regions where their ancestors achieved a high and romantic culture, pictures should result which will command the attention alike of the savant and the plain "fan."

"Peru was the richest of all aboriginal countries. The other countries to the south are rich in archaelogical remains. They will all repay investigation," said Dr. Lummis yesterday in discussing the expedition.

Modestly, Dr. Lummis confined his story to Baedeker-like details of the itinerary, which will include Guatemala, where the Southwest Museum has an eighty-acre reservation, rich in remains of a vanished race, and countries where trade opportunities have blossomed anew for the United States, since the great god Mars turned Europe's attention from commercial pursuits to the siren tunes of the bugle.

METHODS DIFFER.

"The German," said Dr. Lummis, "arrives in South America with a book of etiquette in one hand and his samples in his pocket. He studies the Latin-American blue books, learns Spanish, selects the richest girl in the country, marries her, and then begins to talk trade. We Americans arrive with a sample case and try to do business on the same lines that will get results among the corn-elevators of Illinois or the packing-houses of California. This expedition offers an opportunity to trade emissaries to enter South America with the introductions which will lead to real results, for the formalities of Latin-America place a premium on the non-essentials, and the man introduced by an institution of scientific standing immediately takes his place among the elect."

Calls will be made by the party, which already includes men from a score or more of southwestern cities—nearly all amateurs of science—at various Mexican ports. Then the vessel will hoist anchor for an obscure port of Guatemala, close to Quirigua, near where, obscured by rank growths of towering mahoganies and fan palms, is a clearing wherein stands the most impressive remains of the Maya.

WONDERLAND OF PAST.

This clearing is the property of the Southwest Museum and therein excavations in the interest of archaelogy have been under way for a number of years. Here are remains of a race that attained to a remarkable civilization long before Columbus pointed the prow of the Santa Maria westward, obelisks that detail the rise and fall of great dynasties, and strange half-human, half-animal concepts that suggest a religion of animal passions.

"There are Mayas alive today," said Dr. Lummis, "but so fallen from their once great estate that they are dwarfs in stature and intellect to the creatures carved on their monuments by their ancestors. I attribute their degeneration to the jungle-fever, which entered with the white man's ideas of life and sanitation."

Sailing south from Guatemala, there will be opportunities for the trade emissaries to set the wheels of progress going in half a score of important cities of the upper Pacific half of South America. Reaching Peru, the expedition will penetrate inland to the foothills of the Truxillo range, in whose shadow stands the sorrowful remains of the great city of Gran Chimu, which in its heyday sheltered more than 25,000 persons.

STATUES OF GOLD.

From the massive adobe remains of this city, there were taken 100 years ago eight life-sized statues of men and women, fashioned in gold. Some have believed, though there is no confirmatory evidence, that these statues were part of the ransom which a king of the Incas gave to Pizarro—"filling a cube thirty feet square," according to the chronicles.

Dr. Lummis visited this city with his son, Quimu, who will accompany him on the coming expedition, some years ago, and found adobe walls thirty feet in height and measuring from seven to twelve feet in thickness.

"The city, according to my survey," said Mr. Lummis, "is two miles square and is the most impressive remains of the great nation which, in ages past, builded cities and performed wonders of fine artificery in the land we now know as Latin America."

Leaving Peru, the next stop will be Chile, then the Columbia will weigh anchor for the South Sea Islands. Calls will be made at Easter Isle to survey the mammoth monolithic ruins of an unnamed race and at Christmas Isle, where Polynesian remains will be studied. The party expects to return here in about five months.

The Cambric Town.

[Indianapolis News:] Cambrai, where the British army fought against enormous odds, has given a familiar word to our language. In the fifteenth century a native of Cambrai, Baptiste Coutaing, invented a fine kind of linen or muslin, which is still one of the chief products of the town, and to which we English have long given the name of "cambric," an obvious corruption. The French call the fabric "batiste," after the inventor.

A REUNITED FAMILY

A Collie Dog Goes Seventy-Five Miles to Her Old Home to be with Her Family.

[Youth's Companion:] It is not cats only that "come back." Dogs return to their former haunts, too. At least the dog of the following story did.

Mr. Irving L. Bryant, formerly of Pocantico Hills, Westchester, New York and now of Lee, Massachusetts, brought with him from his former home his favorite collie, Fannie. She remained in her new surroundings about two months, when she suddenly disappeared. Four days afterward she reappeared at her old home, a distance of seventy-five miles from Lee.

Hearing of this, Mr. Bryant telegraphed to have his pet crated back to him. She arrived in due time, safe and well, and took a renewed sniff of the grounds surrounding her new home. Then, after a rest of two weeks, she was again reported absent.

Again Mr. Bryant telegraphed to Pocantico, urging friends to be on the lookout for Fannie. After ten days had elapsed, he received word that she was domiciled at a saloon. The place was kept by an old German, and it was through a letter writter him by the old german himself that Mr. Bryant discovered her whereabouts. The letter read as follows:

Herr Bryant: I been ein old napur by you, and I tell you dot your dog ist here mit me. I gues de reason dat she come back is dot her husband lives mit me, and also her three children. I tink you better buy her husband und two of her children. Uttervise, she vill must sure run avay again. You can see it by the vay she love her husband and der childrens. I cannot afford to buy your dog, or I would do it. So you petter buy der husband und der two childrens, so dot I keep one of the boy children dot looks most like de mutter.

It is reported that Mr. Bryant has bought the "husband und two childrens" and brought them on to Lee.

The Humanized Professor.

[New York Times:] One benefit the war has conferred upon the ordinary citizen is to diminish his terror of professors. Their utterances have startled the ordinary citizen, but they have reassured him and given him a better opinion of himself. He has discovered that, after all, there is nothing supernatural about a professor; that the professor is a man like himself, with like passions, and even—this he has discovered with a great secret joy—of like foolishness. When great professors like Eucken and Haeckel demonstrate that they can be just as furious, bigoted and illogical as the ordinary citizen, the ordinary citizen should feel saddened, but instead he feels elated. The heavens seem near to him when a demi-god loses his temper.

Value Baby at Six Cents.

[New York Herald:] The life of a child aged 18 months was estimated at 6 cents by a Detroit jury. John A. McCurdy's child was playing on his lawn when a team became frightened and dashed over the lawn, killing the child. The jury, in returning a verdict, held that the defendant was responsible, but awarded damages of 6 cents.

In the same court Henry A. Mott was awarded $114 as compensation for the loss of a suit case containing part of his bride's trousseau when they were starting off on their wedding trip.

Degrade Knights of the Garter.

[Indianapolis News:] There will be a solemn ceremony in St. George's chapel at Windsor, where hang the row of banners of the Knights of the Garter. The banners of all knights fighting against Great Britain are to be taken down and the knights degraded. Among them are the Kaiser, the Emperor of Austria, Prince Henry of Prussia, the Crown Prince of Germany, the Grand Duke of Hesse and the King of Wuerttemberg.

[illegible] the statute books [illegible] 21, 1903, "An act [illegible] drainage of wet, [illegible] lands, and to promote the public health in the communities in which they lie." This is an act especially designed by the Legislature for the districts in Southern California lying along the ocean front and within the area of the great settling basins of the rivers, the underground flows of which find their course to the sea.

COUNTY ROADS PROTECTED.

The legislators of this State have also provided for the protection of county roads against the ravages of storm water by legislation that permits road funds to be used in part for storm-water control. There is, however, at the present time no legislation suitable to the formation of a great project such as the county of Los Angeles has begun in conserving and controlling the entire waters that flow from the high mountains, in the northern part of the county, to the sea.

Demand made upon the county of Los Angeles at the present time for the organization of storm-water districts is many times greater than that made at any time previous. There are now before the Supervisors of Los Angeles county many petitions for the organization of districts under the act of 1895 and the 1909 act, covering all parts of this county.

To form these districts and to organize them properly, with a careful consideration of neighboring localities and to the possible effect upon lands lying above and below that particular section sought to be incorporated or organized, is a momentous proposition, not only for the Supervisors, but for the office of the County Counsel, as well.

Whenever such a district is organized some protest is made by those in the district not considering themselves to be directly benefited. An adjustment of lines and a careful study of the situation from a legal standpoint must then be undertaken. The extent to which any such district may be assessed must also be considered in figuring upon the ultimate outcome of the project.

In this respect it may be well to know that while this county has availed itself of the act of 1895, that act has met with some objection in that it lays the proceedings open to injunction at any stage. On the other hand it is foreseen that in order to bring about co-operation among districts it will be necessary to place the control in a single body that will be the governing body for all districts.

ONE LAW THAT'S FAULTY.

In this respect, the act of 1909 is considered faulty. It permits different boards to control and govern the respective districts organized under it, without co-operation. To illustrate, if all the districts of the county were organized under the act of 1895 under the supervision of the Board of Supervisors of the county they would no doubt be organized with a view of carrying the storm waters from one district to another to the greatest benefit of all concerned.

If all the districts, on the other hand, of the county were organized under the act of 1909, we would possibly have as many systems as there were districts, and may have a condition where these districts were working at cross purposes to one another. In this connection it may be well to state that the present County Board of Engineers of Flood Water Control are attempting to bring all the storm waters of the county under one project by requesting the districts now being organized to submit their plans for approval to this board. This has a tendency to save the legal department of the county handling the work much embarrassment in the formation of these districts.

The question of riparian ownership has not, so far, seriously entered into the work. As soon, however, as the county attempts greater control it will become a serious factor. It will require the taking of testimony to establish this right prior to the organization of the districts, and a careful study of the law relative thereto. Greater attention, too, will have to be paid to the matter of assessment, the time limit for the payment of installments under the act and in case bonds are issued for the greater project, the law governing and controlling the sale of such bonds.

NEED NO SURVEY TO PROVE SCHOOLS.

EDUCATIONAL COMMISSIONER SAYS THEY ARE ALL RIGHT AND WORTH COST.

Morris E. Cox, Oakland, president of the California Council of Education, said yesterday that after a brief survey of some of the Los Angeles schools he is convinced the schools are all right and need no costly survey to demonstrate their worth. The statement was made at a luncheon given at the Hollenbeck to about fifty members of the council, which is holding its semi-annual meeting here.

The Chamber of Commerce committee consisted of Dr. A. J. Scott, M. C. Bettinger, W. H. House, William Paxton, Susan M. Dorsey, W. H. Garver and J. B. Monlux. Dr. Scott was chairman of the committee and welcomed the members of the council on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce. He said that in the development of educational economics and in creating efficiency in schools, the work of the council is unsurpassed in the United States.

Mr. Bettinger, welcoming the visitors for the Board of Education, invited them to remain after their meeting and make a survey of the Los Angeles schools. It was then that President Cox said that he had already inspected Manual Arts High School and Boyle Heights intermediate school. If these are typical of Los Angeles schools, he said, no survey is needed. Mr. Cox, in the same connection, sharply scored certain critics of schools and their management and said that the American schools are excellent and worth all they cost.

At yesterday forenoon's session of the council it was voted to give greater elasticity to the rules governing requirements for teachers. The object of the resolution, which was introduced by Commissioner W. C. Wood of Sacramento, is to permit candidates who have not taken college or normal school courses, but who have fitted themselves by extra study and High School extension work, to receive certificates.

A proposed resolution barring foreigners from teaching languages in the public schools was voted down. The afternoon session was largely given up to the coming work of the Legislative Committee.

"BILL" LICKS BIG, HANDSOME "COP."

GOAT GETS GOAT OF ONE OF THE FINEST, CAUSING HIM TO ——.

A fine figure of a man indeed is Patrolman John Albright, tall, erect and dapper. His shoes are always shined, his uniform always pressed, and never a wrinkle does it show. Yesterday he had his beat changed.

For several months he has been patrolling along Alameda street, not a prominent place for a handsome officer. An ornament to the city, that was Patrolman Albright until the night he asked to have his beat changed, and that was because of a goat.

The goat is named "Bill" and reigns in the five-story stable of Charles Fuller, ex-police commissioner, at Jackson and Alameda streets. As soon as he was old enough to bleat, about the time that Policeman Albright joined the force, "Bill" was carried to the stables by a guardian much too interested in a flask to be loyal to "Bill," so the goat stayed. "Bill's" bleat grew louder, he became a commanding influence, and at night he would climb to the roof of the stable and bleat his challenges to the neighborhood. Incidentally, he learned to fight.

Yesterday Patrolman Albright was proudly strolling along Alameda street near Jackson in the dusk of the evening, head up, and airily and skillfully he twirled his club.

Behind him there came a scurry of hoofs, a terrific blow, and Mr. Albright thought a switch engine had gone wild through the street and struck him. He touched the ground twelve feet away, and "Bill" was upon him. He drew his club, "Bill" withdrew, set himself, and charged again.

As "Bill" is an old and honored resident of the neighborhood, the policeman did not wish to kill him. Further, "Bill" was wary, and whenever the club landed, "Bill's" horns were there. Cautiously the patrolman got to his feet. "Bill" executed a flank movement and came upon him from an angle. Patrolman Albright was in the air again, and in the coat of his uniform there was a long rent.

"Bill" followed the rules of accepted strategy in war by following up his victory. Whenever the officer tried to rise, "Bill" was at his rear, aiming for any conspicuous point left open to attack.

About forty feet from where the battle was in progress there was a fence, and near the fence was a bench. The officer, sparring with his club for time, saw both.

He feinted with "Bill," began a maneuver that was merely a ruse to get "Bill" to charge in the direction opposite from the fence, and then with less dignity than speed, but much effectiveness, Mr. Albright started for the fence.

"Bill" was after him. Touch and go went the race, until Mr. Albright squatted for just a breath as he gathered for the leap to the bench and then over the fence. But his estimates were not flawless. For as he gathered himself for the jump, "Bill" gathered in. He caught a very solid portion of the officer's body with his horns, and instead of alighting on the bench and safety, the patrolman went right on over the fence.

"Bill" was over the fence and at him before the officer could recover, and the climbing of a telephone pole ceased hostilities. Whenever "Bill" became convinced that he was the superior of a person, nothing could daunt him. Policeman Albright knew this from long association with the goat's record.

Muddied, ragged and limping, Policeman Albright went to the station. "Sergeant," he said, "I want my beat changed."

The sergeant was so astounded to see Policeman Albright not immaculate, that he granted it. And the policeman is to go to the residential sections, where there are no goats. Bill was so elated that it took three men to handle him.

Had Become Used to It.

[Boston Transcript:] A German clergyman, while traveling, stopped at a hotel much frequented by wags and jokers. During dinner these worthies opened fire on the clergyman, who, however, stood their gibes and sneers with a calm indifference. At length a fellow-diner said to him: "Well, I wonder at your patience. Have you not heard all that has been said to you?"

"Oh, yes, but I am used to it," replied the clergyman. "I am chaplain of a lunatic asylum; such remarks have no effect upon me."

Opinions on War.

which is covered with snow six to nine months of the year. They should have a great advantage in a winter campaign. If the Russians are not checked, there is no telling what great devastation could be accomplished by the hordes after the flood has once started."

"Germany is more likely to win a decisive victory than the allies," Lieut.-Col. S. M. Saltmarsh of the Seventh Regiment said yesterday. "The Kaiser's men are strongly fortified in his enemy's country. If Germany could deliver a crushing blow to the line in France, I believe that it would end the war.

"If Germany is defeated it will be by a slow process. With the long-drawn-out line of battle, I do not see how the allies can win a decisive victory. The Russians are the unknown element in the great conflict. The Czar has an immense army and he sacrifices men unsparingly. The Russians may win by force of numbers."

Preparing in Advance.

[Saturday Evening Post:] A firm of notion dealers on the East Side had gone out of business via the bankruptcy court, and the attorney for the principal creditors was going through the accounts of the concern.

In the back of the safe he came on a partnership agreement drawn up by the two bankrupts when they engaged in commerce and jointly signed by them. The second clause read as follows:

"In the event of failure the profits are to be divided equally."

DON'T DYE GRAY HAIR LET AIR RESTORE IT

Don't let premature gray hair make you look old before your time—keep yourself young-looking by keeping your hair young. You don't have to use dye. You can accomplish almost miraculous results by the use of Hay's Hair Health.

NOT A DYE. Does not work like a dye. It contains good old-fashioned, harmless ingredients which stimulate, nourish and prepare the hair for the action of a certain other wonderful ingredient which, when applied and exposed to the action of AIR, actually causes the hair to RETURN TO ITS NATURAL COLOR.

So positive and sure is Hay's Hair Health that whether your case is incipient or advanced, your hair absolutely CANNOT HELP taking on the beautiful dark shade you so much desire. Not suddenly, but gradually and naturally.

Hay's Hair Health also brings back the life and healthy lustre that nature gave it. It will youthfulize your hair by imparting beauty, vigor, strength. It will REMOVE DANDRUFF, cleanse and tone the scalp into perfect condition.

Wet and Dry.

GREAT DRAIN'S NEARLY READY.

Flood Outlet to be Done Before January.

Capacity More Than Twice that of Aqueduct.

Big Cost Must be Met Ahead of Time Fixed.

Four great diggers have ripped a trench wide and deep through the heart of the southwest and northwest residence district for eleven miles. Reinforced concrete pipes with a capacity more than twice that of the Los Angeles aqueduct are being constructed on a mammoth scale. The work has been rushed so rapidly that the De la Brea sewer, the biggest and most expensive storm drain in the West, will be completed and ready for use before January 1 next—nearly six months ahead of the contract limit.

Yesterday the diagonal ditch through Sunset Park had been carried far along and the work of pipe-laying begun. The finishing touches were being put on the concrete surface of the thirteen-foot pipe near the outlet at Third avenue near the Country Club. If the rainy season comes according to normal schedule, the big drain will be ready to take the water and divert it from once-flooded streets and dooryards to the arroyo which wends its way into Ballona Creek.

John P. Kennedy, son of the contractor, James Kennedy, said yesterday that the job is not only the biggest of the kind ever undertaken in the West, but that it is a good one and will endure for a century. Unless there is obstruction at the outlet, he says, the drain will take care of all the water that may fall, save possibly from a protracted cloudburst.

Once in twenty-five years, according to computations in the City Engineer's office, there comes a rain so heavy that not all the water can be carried through the drain. Such a rainfall came one day last February. At all other times, even during heavy downpours, it is calculated to drain it away immediately.

COST IS LARGE.

Work was begun on the excavation May 1, last. The contract price is $662,000. The next largest sewer in point of cost on the Pacific Coast was put in by Spokane last year at a cost of not quite $500,000. The City Engineer's estimate of the yardage to be excavated was 150,000. Mr. Kennedy said yesterday that the actual amount taken out was 185,000 cubic yards.

The main line of the sewer is 7.7 miles long and there are 3.8 miles of laterals. The sources or heads of the new drain are at First and Alvarado streets, Second and Colina streets, Vendome and Council streets and Bellevue and Coronado streets, the last-named being furthest north. The outlet is just beyond Third avenue, near the Los Angeles Country Club. It empties there into a natural arroyo which after turns and windings empties into Ballona Creek.

Mr. Kennedy believes the city may have to extend its line a mile or two farther to prevent packing up, which would cut down the delivery capacity of the drain. When the great pipe, into which the full flow of the aqueduct could be turned without making much impression, is filled to its capacity it discharges an enormous quantity of water, nearly 50,000 miner's inches, and must have a free outlet.

The largest section of the drain, of which there are 1796 feet, is in the shape of an arc, 13ft. 4in. wide and 8ft. 4in. high. The dimensions of other sizes are: 8ft., 288 feet; 8ft. 6in., 904 feet; 8ft. 3in., 1225 feet; 8ft. square, 660 feet; 10ft. 10in., 1621 feet; 12ft. 9in., 1205 feet.

The laterals are of five-inch concrete pipe, this being the smallest in the system. The larger sizes are built into the trench. Most of the sections are of monolithic construction with reenforced concrete. Brick and vitrified pipe have been used on a few sections.

LITTLE DIFFICULTY.

A steam shovel, four digging machines and 500 men have been used in hurrying the big job through. The digging machines can dig a trench to any depth from eight feet to twenty-six feet. For the most part the work has gone forward smoothly. The chief difficulty has been in excavating along an old drain which has been filled in for twenty years.

One of the most important indirect advantages of the drain is the filling of the slough between Tenth and Eleventh streets. Surplus dirt from the trenches hase been hauled in there for several blocks and the unsightly surface drain covered over.

Although the assessmest district which is to pay for the drain covers a large area, the tax will be high. While the big sewer has broken the record in size and cost, it can also be said that no other municipal improvement here was the subject of so strenuous protests and arguments for any against before the City Council.

Property owners whose lands were low enough to be damaged by the floods were unanimously in favor of it. Those who were in the district but high enough to escape the worst effects of the spring rains objected to being assessed on the ground that they were not directly benefited. The Council decided that the drain is necessary, that to assess its cost solely on those whose property is annually flooded would be prohibitive and that others in the neighborhood are benefited.

Many stormy hearings before the Council and meetings among the property owners were held before the ordinance of intention was passed and the work ordered. Now it is almost completed.

The completion of the drain six months ahead of schedule time has both its advantages and disadvantages, mostly the former. It has saved the city a considerable sum in cost of inspection. It will be ready to take care of storm waters the coming winter and spring. As it will be completed before heavy rains are expected the danger of damage by storm in that way is reduced. Mr. Kennedy says that even if a severe rain should fall now it will have little effect on the work, but he is glad to get the job out of the way before the heaviest fall. The only disadvantage is from the point of view of those who are assessed and who must pay in cash. The money is payable when the job has been accepted, regardless of the time limit of the contract, so many will be called upon to pay in January instead of June.

The general assessment area extends south to Pico, north to Marathon street, west to Vermont avenue and east to Witmer and Orange streets. Few lots in the selected area will be assessed for less than $25 and some will have to pay $100 or more. Zone No. 4 is the area supposed to be benefited most and assessed the highest. It lies between San Marino and Pico streets and extends west to Vermont avenue. In this zone and zone No. 2, which takes in a small amount of territory in the draw south of Westlake Park, the assessments vary from $60 to $100 a lot.

The early completion of the De la Brea storm drain will give an opportunity to observe the result in the district it serves and may have some bearing on the matter of a similar drain for West Jefferson street and low-lying districts south of it. The Council has considered the advisability of ordering such a drain, provided the people affected desire it, and it is believed that a petition will be presented and hearings held some time next spring.

AT SCENE OF CRIME.

At the spot where he is alleged to have wounded Steve Kalich on the night of July 29, in an Austrian-Serb riot, Leo Repovich, 22 years old, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Erven and Hicock on the charge of assault to murder. In the conflict of partisans, John Nuich was shot and subsequently died and Kalich seriously wounded. Since then the detectives have been on the lookout for his assailant.

THEORY NATIONAL DEFENSE LEAGUE EXPOUNDS.

Organization Says United States is Prepared to Resist Any Foreign Power, so Asks All Patriotic Citizens to Work for the Country's Safety.

The National Defense League was founded February 2, 1913, with offices in the District Bank Building at Washington, D. C., to get patriotic and public-spirited men and women everywhere to organize a branch of the league in all cities and towns. The chairman of the Executive Committee is Congressman Julius Kahn of California.

The league is working for a larger navy, an adequate army, the improvement of the National Guard and all things that will better prepare the United States for national defense.

The motto chosen is "Work for peace, but be prepared for war." The league takes the position that the United States is not prepared, if it were attacked tomorrow, to defend its territory or its citizens. An attack by any first-class power would find the United States totally unprepared for the blow. Disaster to the country would swiftly follow such a war—loss of territory, seacoast cities bombarded, our merchant marine swept from the seas, loss of Hawaii and the Philippines—all this is the spectre which may loom large and terrifying on the horizon tomorrow.

All that is necessary to do to organize a branch league in any city, town or neighborhood, is for some one to call a meeting of those who wish to see their country prepared for defense, securing signatures to an application for a charter (which will be mailed on application from the Washington headquarters,) and elect officers. Annual dues are $1 a member. Five men or women can organize a branch league anywhere.

The league secured in the last army appropriation bill a clause, first introduced in the House as a separate bill by Representative Kahn, which allows the War Department to distribute free of cost to civilian rifle clubs and schools, with ammunition, 313,000 Krag-Jorgensen rifles now stored in the arsenals. This legislation was sought unsuccessfully for many years by the National Association for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

Thanks to the Kahn bill, which was incorporated in the army appropriation bill, ten civilians anywhere, can now organize a rifle club and secure free rifles and ammunition for target practice, from the government.

It is believed this law will greatly stimulate rifle shooting throughout the country, and thus prepare, as marksmen, a large number of citizens, many of whom would be a valuable nucleus for volunteers. The law also allows our schools, private or public, to receive free rifles and ammunition. This law is the greatest legislative work for national defense yet accomplished by the league.

CHILDREN ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. Louis Terrile recently entertained with a birthday party for her son, Louis Rossi. Games were played during the afternoon. Toy balloons gave a juvenile touch to the dining-room and individual cakes were served the children, with whistles as favors for the boys and Kewpie dolls for the girls. Those who enjoyed the affair are Mrs. Muenster, Mrs. Lida Force, Mrs. Edward Morrison and son Marshall, Mrs. McCollum and daughters Jasamine and Elizabeth, Alberto Vignolo, Walter Douglas, Bertha Baker and Josefa Chalaco.

PLEADS FOR LIFE OF BIG INDUSTRY.

SBARBORO TELLS CITY CLUB HARM "CALIFORNIA DRY" WOULD WORK.

Andrea Sbarboro, president of the Italian-American Bank of San Francisco and for ten years president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of that city, was the speaker at the City Club yesterday, presenting arguments in favor of the defeat of the proposed prohibition amendment.

At the close of his address a series of motion pictures was shown, depicting the grape industry and wine-making in California.

Mr. Sbarboro stated in his introductory remarks that he appeared on behalf of the protection of one of the principal industries of California, the wine industry. He cited expressions of sentiment in regard to the temperate use of wines, and quoted Thomas Jefferson's statement to Congress on a proposed bill to reduce the duty on wine:

"I am glad to see that you are about to reduce the duty on wine, for no country is drunken where wine is cheap and none sober where the high price of wine prevents its use by the mass of the people."

The speaker told of his experiences in the wine-making countries of Europe and the absence of drunkenness there, while he found reverse conditions in lands where grapes do not grow and people use strong distilled liquors.

"You are called upon to destroy the beautiful vineyards of California, which produce the finest wines," said the speaker, "the effect of which would be to throw out of employment many thousands of families who have been working for fifteen, twenty or thirty years in grubbing trees from the land and setting out grape vines.

"These people are now making a decent living in a legitimate industry. Would you dare to make them and their numerous children paupers and put them out on the streets to be added to the unemployed without giving them a cent of compensation? If this crime of destroying our vineyards would be committed, at least show that we are a civilized people and act as Switzerland has recently done and pay for the properties."

The speaker declared that a very considerable factor in the prosperity of California has been the grape-growing and wine-making industries. He showed how the industries have been fostered by the Federal and State governments, through establishment of viticultural stations, and the teaching of viticulture at the State University and at the Davis Farm, and warned his hearers to give serious thought to the subject before voting to crush this industry through the prohibition amendment.

JOINS THE POLICE FORCE.

Miss Mildred Abbott, daughter of Police Patrolman F. P. Abbott, was united in marriage, on Thursday evening, with Sergt. L. L. McClary of the police force, the ceremony being performed by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, at the home of the bride's parents. They have gone on a short honeymoon to San Diego and when they return will reside at No. 411 West Fifty-second street. The groom has a brother who is also a sergeant on the force, and the bride's brother, as well as her father, is a patrolman.

Sick Headache.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. Y., was a victim of sick headache and despondency, caused by a badly weakened and debilitated condition of her stomach, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She says: "I found them pleasant to take, also mild and effective. In a few weeks' time I was restored to my former good health."—[Advertisement.

NOTABLE DEALS TRACED TO WAR.

Foreign Investors Buy Land Near Porterville.

Unsettled Conditions Abroad Given as Reason.

English Syndicate to Develop Big Tract.

PORTERVILLE, Oct. 10.—Four developments of the past week in the Deer Creek district may be traced directly to the unsettled conditions that have prevailed in nearly all lands since the beginning of the war. These bear out the repeated assertion that the European conflict is driving the rest of the world to the United States for investments.

There arrived here this week R. Richardson, a Scottish grain broker of Winnipeg, who has purchased a twenty-acre tract of orange land in the Deer Creek district. Richardson has already started work on the development of his property. J. C. Purser, an Englishman, lately from Canada, and a recent arrival here, has bought forty acres of Deer Creek citrus land, and is preparing to make his future home in this district. He will develop the whole tract.

Brian O'Kelley, a Dublin Irishman, lately of Winnipeg, has purchased a thirty-acre tract of orange land in the foothills south and east of this city, and is planning to plant the whole property next spring. L. Graux, a Frenchman, also from Winnipeg, has moved to Terra Bella to develop thirty acres of citrus land which he has bought in that district.

C. K. Towt, one of the large owners of orchard property in the Lindsay district, has added to his extensive holdings by the purchase of the Madella Echlin grove of twelve acres. The tract includes trees of 7 and 8 years. The price is reported at $20,000, or over $1500 an acre.

E. C. Campbell, a property owner of Visalia, has exchanged city property in the county seat with Mrs. E. C. Graham for a fifteen-acre tract of general purpose land in the Klink district.

According to word received here this week work is to be started soon on the improvement of the Sinaloa ranch, more generally known in this district as the "old Perrin ranch." The property is controlled by an English syndicate of which A. Freese of [illegible], Mex., is the head. The ranch includes 700 acres and it is said that the entire tract will be put into alfalfa, the owners intending eventually to use the property for the fattening of beef cattle.

John L. Lawson of Southern California, has purchased from J. L. Gil[illegible] of Pasadena, a five-acre tract of land in the suburban district, including a fine house and irrigation

Charles O. Gill, who is one of the largest land owners of Central California, and who owns more realty than any other resident of Tulare county, has purchased from Robert Anderson two sections of grazing land in the foothills east of this city. With this purchase Gill and his brothers control a strip of land averaging one mile in width, and which extends from the Exeter district on the north to the south line of Tulare county.

FOUR-CORNERED DEAL.

Complicated Real Estate Transaction Involves Thirty-Thousand-Dollar Consideration.

Robert Marsh & Co. announce the closing of a four-cornered real estate transaction involving several properties in and near Los Angeles. In the deal Mrs. Ella van Zandt Cutler, owner of an improved site, 120x150 feet in size, on South Matthews street, in Boyle Heights, received a lot in Brentwood Park, owned by Charles L. Taylor, an attorney in Long Beach, who has recently transferred his interests from St. Paul to California. Taylor received a nine-room residence in Garfield place, Hollywood, owned by Dr. Gale, who in turn acquired a lot in Beverly Hills. Milton Hesse of Glendale, former owner of the Beverly lot, became the owner of the residence on South Matthews street.

The total consideration involved in the various transfers is reported at $30,000, all differences being adjusted by cash. Horace H. Mullen, of the Marsh forces, acted for all parties to the deal. The new owners of the vacant properties, it is said, intend to improve at once, while the residences changing hands were acquired for homes.

TO SOUTHERN RANCHERS.

A total of 530 acres of Milford, Utah, lands was purchased during the past week by five Southern California ranchers, according to an announcement of the Western Securities Company. The sales are reported as follows: To B. Baker of Imperial, eighty acres; C. Shananaman, of San Gabriel, eighty acres; Harry H. Cook of El Centro, eighty acres; W. R. Swerdferger, Imperial, 160 acres, and L. H. Shaffer of Orange, 160 acres.

STRONG DEMAND FOR REALTY.

LARGE SALES ARE REPORTED IN AND NEAR CITY OF CORONA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CORONA, Oct. 10.—Real estate in Corona and on the outskirts seems to be in demand more than ever, as is evidenced by sales just closed. Dr. W. W. Hibbard of Ontario, formerly a resident of this city, has traded his ten-acre orange grove at the corner of Citron and Main streets to W. N. Tilson for business property, 130x120 feet in size, at the corner of Louisa and Third streets, in Pomona. The actual sale price has not been made public, but it is understood that the value of each of the properties is between $20,000 and $25,000.

John W. Craig has sold his 600-acre ranch southeast of here to a syndicate of Los Angeles capitalists who contemplate planting the entire tract to citrus and olive groves. Already a considerable part of the ranch is set to citrus fruit and spineless cactus. As part payment in the transaction, Mr. Craig receives improved property in Rialto.

W. H. Walsh, a rancher, living on the Temescal road south of Corona, has just sold his seventy-acre ranch to O. Monnette, a Los Angeles banker. The ranch was formerly known as the "McConnell place" and adjoins the property of John W. Craig on two sides. It is rumored that the holding will be added to the property which has just been sold by Mr. Craig.

DOCTOR BUYS TWELVE LOTS.

Omaha Physician Makes Extensive Investment in Culver City Residence Sites.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CULVER CITY, Oct. 10.—One of the largest individual sales made in Culver City in the past four months was consummated this week when A. G. Munro, assistant sales manager of the Harry H. Culver Company, sold to Dr. W. O. Henry, a physician of Omaha, Neb., twelve lots at a reported total cost of $23,700. The property was purchased as an investment.

The Edward E. Sweet Building Company has contracted to build two bungalows on Main street for George L. Bisbee. New houses have just been started by the Merchants Realty and Investment Company, the Culver Construction Company and Leslie N. Cranbourne.

R. P. Davidson, a local merchant, has purchased a lot on Main street, upon which he will immediately erect a house. A. G. Gustin, who recently purchased a large piece of acreage on Washington boulevard, has bought a lot on Delmas Terrace on which he will erect a home. Miss Myrtle Hoffman is planning to build a residence on Delmas Terrace.

GAS POCKETS AND OIL.

Fullerton Great West Well on James Tuffre Lease is Encountering Showing of Oil.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Oct. 9.—The Fullerton Great West Oil Company has struck a number of gas pockets and some oil in a well on the James Tuffre lease north of Placentia. The drill is down 2800 feet, and it is believed as a good producer will come in soon. The company also has a well down on the Fred Tuffre lease about the same depth. Some oil is showing.

Nearly all of the stockholders in this company are business men of San Diego. They spent over $75,000 in trying to get oil in a well drilled at El Toro, in the south end of Orange county, but with no success. Recently a contract was made to sell the water from one of the El Toro wells for irrigation purposes, and it is believed the company will get a good price for it.

WILL BUILD HOMES.

P. W. Croake reports sales of lots on Kingsley drive, between Hollywood and Sunset boulevards in Hollywood, to Hugh R. Roberts, Edward R. Dennler, J. E. Starnes, August Erickson and Alice M. Collins. The sites have a uniform size of 50x137 feet and sold at given prices of $1400 and $1500. Four of the purchasers, it is stated, will build homes.

RECORD OF LAST YEAR ECLIPSED.

SEPTEMBER PERMIT TOTAL OF SOUTH PASADENA INDICATES HEALTHY CONDITION.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 10.—Buildings permits for the month of September doubled those for the same month last year in South Pasadena. Following are some of the more important building items represented in the month's totals:

W. E. Cooper took out the largest permit of the month. This was for the erection of a twelve-room residence at No. 1950 Oak street, the estimated cost of which is $11,000. Mrs. Kay Kingsbaker took out a permit for a twelve-room house to be built at No. 2035 Edgewood drive and to cost $6000. Both houses have been started.

Peter A. Holenberg of Los Angeles took out a permit for a $3000 residence, which he is erecting at No. 2061 La France avenue. John Disphant is building a six-room bungalow at No. 1507 Rollins street, the permit for which called for an expenditure of $2950. H. O. Bragdon is building an attractive seven-room bungalow at No. 1312 Stratford avenue, having taken out a permit calling for a $2500 improvement.

Permits were issued for three other homes to cost between $1000 and $2000, all of which will be occupied by the owners and builders. One is for W. E. Preston, who will build at No. 2006 Chester Place, one for Allan J. Sims, whose site is at No. 1131 Meridian avenue, and the third for David Morgan, who will build at No. 1401 Ozmun Court. Additional permits for $1000 or less brought the total up to $35,315, which is considered high for a city of the population of South Pasadena.

COMPLETING PLANS.

R. A. Rowan & Co., subdividers of Windsor Square, announce that plans have been practically completed for three fine houses to be built at once in that tract. The approximate total cost of the three places is given at $85,000. The residences will be built for Paul Harwood, Sam Behrendt and Eugene F. Kline, all of whom recently purchased sites in the west side residence park. J. J. Blick, a Pasadena architect, is designing the Harwood residence. The other two homes are being designed and will be built by the Milwaukee Building Company.

FOR MUTUAL BENEFIT.

The Brentwood Park Improvement Association, comprised of the owners of 400 lots in the Brentwood Park tract, is perfecting various plans for the general beautification of that subdivision. The association announces that its objects are to keep the lawns, parks and parkings of the tract clean; to remove and dispose of garbage; to maintain an auto for carrying children to and from school and to pay for the maintenance of a street lighting system. The funds of the association are to be raised by levying an assessment on each lot. The organizers are Herbert C. Oakley, Herbert M. Paulin, Walter B. Sim, Dr. Herman Janss and J. Albert Campbell.

GROVE TRANSFERRED.

WHITTIER, Oct. 9.—A. H. Dunlap of Sorensen Lane appears as the purchaser this week of a tract of five acres of young oranges in West Whittier, on the Workman road. The consideration is given at $9000. The trees are three years old. The property lies in what is known locally as the Praeger tract. J. H. Henry was the seller.

LET STREET CONTRACT.

The contract for the street work for the Wilmar Acres tract, including the sidewalks and curbs, has been awarded by the Janss Investment Company to Joe Bush. The work is to be completed within thirty days' time. The company reports that a new double store building has just been completed on the new subdivision.

TO SEVENTH AND SPRING.

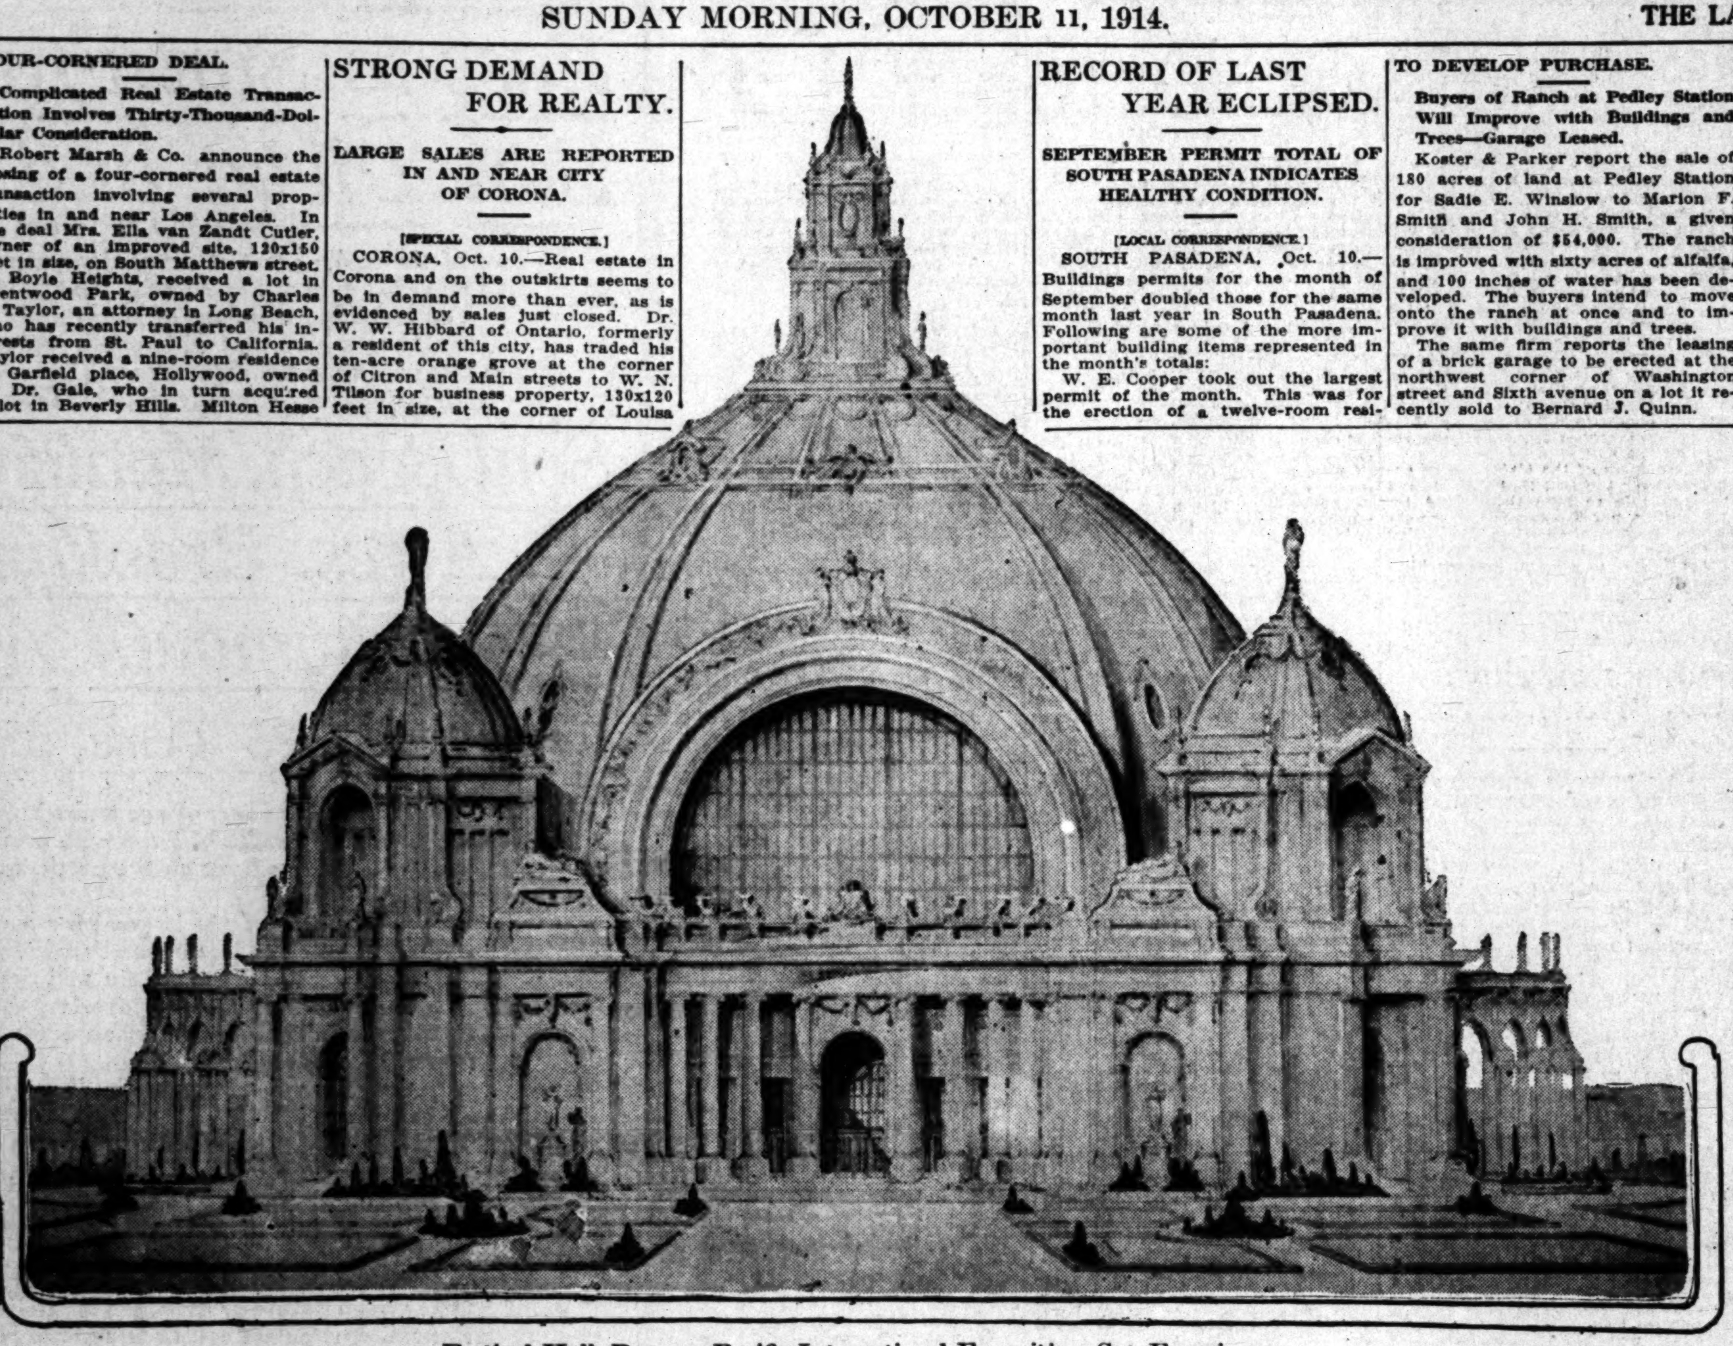
Paul C. Hancock, successor to Mennell & Hancock, has moved his offices to the I. N. Van Nuys building. The change follows closely the announcement of Mr. Mennell's retirement from business.

TO DEVELOP PURCHASE.

Buyers of Ranch at Pedley Station Will Improve with Buildings and Trees—Garage Leased.

Koster & Parker report the sale of 180 acres of land at Pedley Station for Sadie E. Winslow to Marion F. Smith and John H. Smith, a given consideration of $54,000. The ranch is improved with sixty acres of alfalfa, and 100 inches of water has been developed. The buyers intend to move onto the ranch at once and to improve it with buildings and trees.

The same firm reports the leasing of a brick garage to be erected at the northwest corner of Washington street and Sixth avenue on a lot it recently sold to Bernard J. Quinn.



Festival Hall, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco.

Splendid palace of entertainment designed to house great musical and choral gatherings at 1915 World's Fair. The building, which is one of the largest and most magnificent of the main exposition group, was planned by Robert David Farquhar of this city, the only Los Angeles architect on the Exposition Architectural Commission. The above perspective is the first ever published showing the structure as it will appear when completed.

With the Builders.

TO EXTEND FROM SPRING TO MAIN.

NEW CLOSE-IN HOTEL WILL BE BLOCK LONG.

Permit for Structure Granted During Past Week—Plans Being Drawn for Four-story Hostelry at Corner of Temple Street and Grand Avenue.

The city building department granted a permit during the past week for the construction of a four-story brick hotel building to be erected by Mrs. F. A. Jesurum on a site extending from Spring to Main street, just below Seventh street. One entrance of the structure will be at No. 726 South Spring street and the other at No. 727 South Main street. F. T. Flaherty is the engineer and designer.

The building will have a frontage of forty-five feet on each street and will be 200 feet in depth. It will contain stores on the ground floor and about 100 rooms, with fifty baths, on the three upper stories. The street fronts will be faced with ruffled brick and terra cotta. The cost of the improvement is estimated at $60,000.

Plans are being completed by August Wackerbarth for a four-story brick store and hotel building to be erected by Philip Ficholz at the corner of Grand avenue and Temple street. The structure will contain two stores on the first floor and twenty-five rooms on the three upper floors. The street fronts will be faced with enameled brick.

A permit has been granted for the construction of a three-story brick lodging-house at No. 550 Towne avenue for Ernest Cole. The building will contain fifty-five rooms. C. C. Rittenhouse is the architect and the L. F. S. Syndicate has the contract.

Architect Lyman Farwell is drawing plans for a two-story brick store building to be erected by G. Piuma at Avenue 20 and Humboldt street. The structure will cover a ground area of 71x70 feet and will have stores below and living apartments above.

SUB-CONTRACT IS AWARDED.

LOCAL CONCERN TO INSTALL PLUMBING AND HEATING IN DEPARTMENT STORE.

To the Thomas Haverty Company has been awarded the contract for the installation of all the plumbing and heating fixtures and the automatic sprinkler system of the mammoth department store now being built by the J. W. Robinson Company at Seventh, Grand and Hope. The contract amounts to $64,000 in all, and is one of the largest of its character ever signed up in this city.

Work is progressing on the construction of some of the massive piers that are to support the superstructure of the big store, while tests are being made of the ground where others are to be sunk. Owing to the tremendous load represented by the building, which will be a block long and seven stories high, extraordinary care is being exercised in the preparation of all supports.

MANY NEW WELLS IN FULLERTON.

GOOD PRODUCERS BROUGHT IN, DESPITE MOVEMENT FOR SHUTDOWN.

Although the policy throughout the State has been to restrict development during the past two months, quite a number of wells have been brought in at various points in the Fullerton field recently. None of these producers, however, have been of gusher proportions.

The most recent well is the Amalgamated Oil Company's No. 4 on the Hualde property. It came in with a production of about 200 barrels a day. This is in La Habra Valley. In the same section the Union has brought in No. 22 with an output of seventy barrels daily. When the Monte Cristo's No. 3 and the North American Consolidated's No. 2 are doing, respectively, 150 and 70 barrels.

The Olinda Land Company has brought in its No. 12 well with a production of about 100 barrels a day, while the General Petroleum's No. 45, in Brea Canyon, is a 300-barrel well.

On the Lehmer property in La Habra Valley the Cal-Okla Company is completing its No. 2 well.

The Fullerton district has felt the influence of the shutdown movement to a lesser extent than other fields, owing in part to its proximity to the Los Angeles market. Most of the companies that are doing development work have to protect their lines, or else they would curtail drilling to a greater extent.

CALIPATRIA SALES.

Carl F. Scharer, who is putting on the new town of Calipatria in the Imperial Valley and who is handling the acreage holdings of the Imperial Valley Farm Lands Association, reports sales to the following: T. J. Douglas, E. J. and S. P. Lyons, George C. Gay, C. C. McCollough, Dr. L. L. Lindsey, W. J. Haneline, A. B. Gillespie, Varney Bros. & Co., W. J. Bathwick, J. K. Lloyd and Michael Widman. Mr. Schader reports that harvesting is now nearly over in the vicinity of Calipatria and that the valley farmers are busy getting in their fall planting.

Dominating.

FESTIVAL HALL GLORIOUS PILE.

Local Architect Creator of Fair Masterpiece.

Splendid Exposition Palace Near Completion.

Edifice will House World's Greatest Organ.

Of the many splendid palaces of art, industry, science and education built or now rising on the 625-acre site of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco none is attracting more attention than the beautiful festival hall planned by Robert David Farquhar of Los Angeles. The huge edifice, with its wonderful dome, is even now, in its incompleted state, one of the landmarks of the exposition grounds, and gives promise of being one of the main attractions of the big 1915 show.

The building is being constructed by the San Francisco firm of McLeran & Peterson, and is costing, with various subcontracts counted in, more than $255,000. The general contract alone amounted to $178,000, an unusual figure for a structure of the temporary type of construction common to expositions. It is estimated that the huge pile, if erected of permanent materials, would, because of its size and the splendor of its detail, cost in excess of $5,000,000.

Festival hall stands to the right of the elaborate formal gardens extending from the main exposition entrance at Devisadero street, and directly opposite the horticultural building. It will be what its name implies—a place of meeting for festival gatherings. In it will be held the great musical and choral gatherings of the fair. Architecturally, it is in keeping with its purposes, being graceful and festive in character, while possessing all the dignity compatible with its important place in the general exposition scheme.

The building is to be the most beautifully colored of all the exposition palaces, burnt orange, vermilion, cerulean blue and gold being among the predominating hues that will serve to set off the body of the structure. In this respect it will be strictly in keeping with the exposition color scheme. The San Francisco world's fair will be unique among expositions in that the uniform whitness that has characterized other such displays will be studiously avoided.

The ornamentation of festival hall will also be strikingly elaborate and beautiful, beautiful figures and groups of statuary being placed wherever the effect is desirable in the architectural plan. These groups and figures are for the most part the work of Carl Bitter, the eminent sculptor, who created the principal statuary at the Buffalo and St. Louis expositions, and A. Sterling Calder of Pasadena, who is best known as the creator of the beautiful doorways of Throop Institute.

The structure planned by Mr. Farquhar is nearly 400 feet in length and approximately 250 feet in depth, and is crowned by a massive but graceful dome 150 feet in diameter. Its auditorium will seat over 3500 persons, and will have a stage 70x35 feet in dimensions. The orchestra pit and other features will be in keeping as to proportions. In the building will be installed the largest pipe organ in the world.

Back of the auditorium and far enough away from the thunderous vibrations of the great organ will be a second hall planned for the use of the various conferences scheduled for the exposition. Numerous committee rooms will be provided for the use of visiting delegations.

Mr. Farquhar is the only Southern California architect on the Exposition Architectural Commission, and the only California architect outside of San Francisco asked to design one of the magnificent main buildings of the fair.

BUY VALLEY FARMS.

Recent sales totaling over $10,000 are reported by the Janss Investment Company at North Lankershim Irrigated Farms. Following are the buyers: Leon Conover, Long Beach, thirteen acres, $3350; G. Vandemark, five acres, $2125; John Ward, five acres, $2125; Duncan Urkuehart, five acres, $2125, and E. A. Beerts, five acres, $1000. Mr. Conover, it is stated, will build a house at once and Mr. Vandemark has already started a bungalow. A new school building has been recently completed by the Janss Investment Company in the tract, and over thirty pupils are now enrolled.

WOULD PRODUCE SULPHUR ACID.

Balaklala Expects Large Market Here.

Bonanza Ore Uncovered in Old Jumper Mine.

Bond Secured on Mine Near Downieville.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDDING, Oct. 5.—The Balaklala Copper Company is considering the production of sulphuric acid on a large scale, according to advices from Boston, the headquarters of the corporation. For years the company has been endeavoring profitably to utilize its vast reserves of sulphide copper ore, but trouble with farming interests has prevented smelting operations, despite the expenditure of more than $300,000 testing methods of fume control.

It is estimated that the Balaklala mine contains in excess of 2,000,000 tons of sulphide ore, averaging 2.5 per cent. copper and $1.20 per ton gold and silver. The ore also contains 10 to 40 per cent. sulphur.

The company still has about $275,000 in its treasury, an amount sufficient to erect a complete sulphuric acid plant. The highly favorable mining methods and other natural advantages will facilitate the production of sulphuric acid at a very low cost, and the management believes it will experience little difficulty in developing a good market for its product. The Standard Oil Company, Hercules Powder Company and other Coast concerns use large quantities of the acid, and the product can also be extensively employed in the manufacture of fertilizers.

The recent closing of the European markets to copper has forced cessation of work at the Balakala mines, and the stockholders are insistent that something be done to reimburse them for the approximate $2,000,000 already expended on the mine and plant. The company, at its Utah plant, is still experimenting with the Hall process, which may eventually be used at the Coram smelter.

John Nefroney and associates of Los Angeles are meeting with continued success in their development of the Hardscrabble group, near Etna Mills. Felix Viole, Jr., an Angel City engineer, is surveying the property, and arrangements are being made for much new work. A good tonnage of commercial grade ore has been developed and recent explorations are reported as particularly satisfactory.

The Forks of Salmon Mining Company is still developing hydraulically the Shumway group, the supply of water this season proving excellent. Considerable work is also progressing on the main properties. At Bonally Camp about ten acres of rich gravel have been placed in shape for mining, and piping will start with the rainy season. The company controls a large acreage of rich ground along the Salmon River and is one of the largest hydraulic operators in California. It is largely owned by Los Angeles people.

Quartz mining in the Cecilville section of Siskiyou county is attracting extensive interest, and several companies are active. The Conzetti group has been acquired by San Francisco people, headed by A. E. Spear. The small stamp mill has been placed in service, and additional crushing equipment has been decided on.

The South Fork Mining Company of Los Angeles is planning the development of its quartz ledge at Forest. In the long search for the elusive gravel channel several veins of good quartz have been intersected at various times, and driving for the main ore body is proceeding.

BONANZA ORE.

The old Jumper mine, near Sonora, is again producing bonanza ore after long years of idleness. Last week specimen quartz was uncovered in the old workings and the shoot is developing well. Some of the ore is heavily laden with gold, and is on display in Sonora. The Jumper was formerly a sensational producer of rich ore, being credited with an output approximating $6,000,000.

The South Eureka Company has placed the full complement of eighty stamps in commission, and payment of monthly dividends has been resumed. In addition to the South Eureka mill the company is operating twenty stamps at the Oneida mine, which is showing good ore in the new workings.

Production of ferro manganese on a commercial scale has commenced at the Noble electric iron smelter. Manganese ore from the Peterson property at Heroult is being handled, and about five tons of the valuable ferro manganese is produced daily with one furnace operating. A second furnace is to be placed in action immediately.

The Pacific Dredging Company, a subsidiary of the Yukon Gold Company, has placed its new dredge in action. The boat was reconstructed from the old Pacific dredge formerly operated at Oroville, re-equipped with modern machinery. It is working in the Butte Creek field, about six miles from Chico. The Yukon Gold is a Guggenheim company.

DOWNIEVILLE DEAL.

A company of Salt Lake people headed by Grant Snyder has taken under bond the Gold Bluff and Oxford gold properties near Downieville. Both mines have been worked to a fair extent, but development has been largely restricted to surface levels.

Dredge operators in the vicinity of Auburn are threatened with trouble by the residents of Fairoaks and Orangevale, the latter alleging the gold boats are polluting the waters of the north fork of the American River. The charge is refuted by the operators, but it is probable that the farming interests will take the matter into court. The Guggenheims are heavily interested in the dredging companies, and it is unlikely that the boats will cease operating without a determined struggle.

Merger and Atlanta.

Increasing interest is being manifested in the affairs of the Goldfield Merger Mines and Atlanta Mines companies by reason of the fact that the new pumping plant, for which the companies have been waiting for some time, is expected to reach here within the next fortnight and immediately upon the installation of the pumps development will be resumed by both companies at great depth.

RICH GOLD STRIKE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 9.—A gold strike that is destined to attract wide attention was made in the old Amalie mining district in Kern county, Sunday last. On the old Aunt Rosia claim in Caliente Canyon, only six miles from the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railways, at Caliente, there was uncovered a ledge of quartz exceedingly rich in gold.

The find was made about 500 feet above the old tunnel on the claim and the outcroppings showed quartz that was literally filled with gold. Everyone knows what picture rock is, but the quartz from this find at the grass roots was prettier than the picture rock that is sometimes found.

The discovery is about six miles up the canyon from Caliente and is on the property of the Kern County Tonopah Mining Company. Samples of the ore shown in Bakersfield on Monday almost caused a rush to the region of the find.

The owners of the claim are so enthused over the find that they do not want people to take their word for the matter, nor the samples of the ore which they are showing, but being from Missouri themselves, ask the other fellow to go and see for himself, to be shown, as it were, just what they have found.

CONSOLIDATED'S FINAL REPORT.

AUGUST FIGURES SHOW LARGE TONNAGE TREATED.

Net Profits for Month Exceed Hundred and Twenty-five Thousand Dollars—Florence Net for August Approximately Fifteen Thousand Dollars.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD, Oct. 9.—The Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company's final report of operations in August, just issued by K. M. Simpson, acting assistant general manager, shows that the company's mill treated during that month, 27,211 tons of ore, yielding net profits of $128,134.60. The company is making preparations for the treatment of the vast tonnage of tailings, which has been impounded below the mill since operations were started, and for this purpose is installing a Lidgerwood cableway, with steel towers and grab buckets of large capacity, and a complete leaching plant. The company's only product is gold bullion, in the form of bars of nearly pure metal, and the gold is shipped direct to the branch United States mint at Denver.

Florence Goldfield Mine.

Shipments were maintained from the Florence mine to the sampler of the Western Ore Purchasing Company at Miller's during September at about the same rate as during the past three months and the average grade of the product has been satisfactory. It is estimated that the company's net earnings in September were about the same as in August, and final returns from the shipments in August show that the company earned approximately $15,000 during that month. Interest attaches to the development work now in progress in the territory of the old Wheeler lease.

Jumbo Extension.

Developments on the deeper levels of the Jumbo Extension property have been of great interest, particularly in the opening of the ore body by a new raise from the 1017-foot level. A drift has been started on the ore from the top of the new raise and both the raise and drift have been yielding some exceedingly high assays.

The Goldfield Oro.

Work on the Goldfield Oro property is now at a very interesting stage and it would occasion no surprise if the new workings on the 700 and 800 levels were to expose commercial bodies of ore at any time. On the 800-foot level the south drift has penetrated vein matter and a cross-cut is being driven to prospect this formation, which is of excellent appearance.

Yellow Tiger.

The manager of the Yellow Tiger property, C. D. Wilkinson, has been notified that the new compressor for the mine has been shipped from Denver. As soon as it arrives it will be installed and then development work will be resumed on the 600 and 700-foot levels, with assurance that good progress will be made in the future.

A STUDY OF LABOR.

The Rockefeller Foundation to Make a Thorough Investigation of this Most Complicated Question.

[New York Sun:] The Rockefeller Foundation announces that it has decided to make a far-reaching investigation of industrial conditions in this country and that it has retained the services of W. L. Mackenzie King, former Minister of Labor of Canada, as director of the investigation.

The announcement was made in a statement issued by Jerome D. Greene, secretary of the Rockefeller Foundation.

"In spirit and method the investigation of the problem of industrial relations will be like that carried on by the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research," the statement says, "and other inquiries instituted by the Rockefeller boards.

"In facing the problem of industrial relations the Rockefeller Foundation is deliberately attempting to grapple with what it believes to be the most complicated, and at the same time the most urgent, question of modern times, and it is precisely for this reason that the investigation has been instituted.

"In no sense will the investigation be local or restricted, or carried on with particular reference to any existing situation, or, for that matter, with reference to conditions in any one country. The experience of the several countries of the world will be drawn upon.

"In going to another country and selecting as the person to have the direction of this most important work one whose public services have gained for him an outstanding position as a leading authority on industrial problems, the trustees have shown their desire to free the foundation from any suspicion of interest or prejudice in the investigation of the most controversial of all problems."

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Impure Talc.

SAN FERNANDO, Sept. 12.—Q.: I am sending you under separate cover sample of ore and some metal extracted from the ore which we qualify as molybdenum, and ask you to kindly put us right by a qualitative test, at your convenience. Thanking you for past favors, and for this, in advance. O. C.

A.: The fused sample is not molybdenum. To get at this, properly, we tested the talc for molybdenum and find a bare trace of the element present.

Impure Quartz.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 13.—Q.: Enclosed please find sample of rock from a claim in Arizona. Will you kindly give me analysis of same through your Sunday column? I believe the rock looks as though it might carry some silver. F. E. T.

A.: Glad to hear from you, and the sample carries a low percentage of silver-bearing azurite with lead (cerussite) sparingly present. Iron oxides in the mass with trace of copper oxide, some malachite, and olivan present.

Quartz-Dolomite.

RICHFIELD (Utah) Sept. 14.—Q.: Please analyze this for what you think is in it? I am sending another sample. A. F. N.

A.: Glad to hear from you. Both samples carry quartz, magnesia, alumina, and lime. Traces of copper and traces of lead with trace of bismuth. Iron and manganese in the rocks. Not tested for gold or silver.

Yes. Cerussite.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—Q.: I have tested this rock for lead, but I am not sure of the result, it may be lead or zinc. Does it carry lead? Is it a mineral? The sample is from San Bernardino county. "STUDENT."

Quite a Mixture.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 15.—Q.: This sample was broken from a cropping in San Diego county. Please advise me through your paper if it has any commercial value, and what it would be best to have it assayed for? G. J. J.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The sample carries no gold or silver. It is a mixture of black uniaxial mica (lepidomelane,) and fractured tourmaline; hornblende present, with manganese and iron.

Sand.

GLENDORA, Sept. [illegible]—Q.: I am sending you a sample of sand, I found it in a small stream of water. I was attracted by the little yellow particles shining in it. Will you kindly tell me what they are, and if of any commercial value? F. B. N.

A.: There is one minute color of metallic gold in the sample, but that is in nowise encouraging in sand like sample. The "shining in" yellow material is occasioned chiefly by iron, with some yellow mica.

Cyanide.

PASADENA, Sept. 15.—Q.: Will you please tell me what is cyanide, used in extraction of gold? Of what is it made? From what countries produced? W. J. H.

A.: Medicinally and chemically cyanide is a combination of cyanogen with a metallic base. It is a deadly poison.

Cyanogen does not occur native, and it derives its name from Kuanos (blue,) and gennao (I generate.) The chief chemical character of cyanogen is that it forms, with iron, the differing varieties of Prussian blue, and "it was from Prussian blue that Scheele, in 1782, first obtained what we now, from our knowledge of its composition, term hydrocyanic acid, but which he called Prussic acid. Cyanogen was isolated by Gay-Lussac in 1814, and was the first compound radical distinctly proved to exist."

Cyanogen is present in minute quantities among the iron furnace gases, and is sparingly present in the distillations of coal for gas. Ferrocyanide of potassium is easily obtained by heating horns, hoofs, hides, and other animal matter containing nitrogen, with potassium carbonate and iron filings, in a covered iron pot. In proportions, horns, hoofs and hides (five parts,) potassium carbonate (two parts,) waste iron, q.s. "The residual mass is boiled with water, the mixture filtered, and the filtrate evaporated and set aside for crystals to form. The cyanogen, produced from the carbon and nitrogen of the animal matter, unites with the potassium, and afterwards, on boiling with water, with iron, to form what is often termed the yellow prussiate of potash or ferrocyanide of potassium. . . . It contains the elements of cyanogen, yet it is not a cyanide, for it is not poisonous, and is otherwise different from cyanides. From this salt all cyanides are directly or indirectly prepared."

The boys in the hills refer to the cyanides of sodium, and that of potassium as "Cyanide," and gold is extracted from some ores by the named cyanides. Potassium cyanide is manufactured in the United States, and is also a big item among the imports of "drugs, etc.," but to the amounts and value of importations of the chemical, it is probably unknown.

To obtain potassium cyanide, heat the ferrocyanide to redness until the gases (chiefly nitrogen) are driven off, then iron carbide settles to the bottom of the fusion, and the molten supernatant mass is "cyanide." By pouring the product off and cooling a crystalline mass of "cyanide" occurs of some 95 per cent. pure. To detect impurities in the salt (carbonates for instance,) the impure salt will effervesce with acids.

Cobalt not Present.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—Q.: Herewith sample of mineral from a locality in New York mountains, and said to "run high in cobalt." Please give your opinion on this. H. B.

A.: The sample is a silicious (altered) anthracite, but it will not answer for coal usages.

Silicate.

SANTA PAULA, Sept. 16.—Q.: I am sending you today sample of white shale (?) What is it, and is there any commercial value to it? Locality Ventura county. S.

A.: There is a trace of lime in the sample, and were it not for this lime carbonate content the sample would analyze as of an impure meerschaum. The sample is whitish-yellow in color. Opaque and dull. Adheres to the tongue. Scratched by a finger nail. Of smooth feeling, and streak shining. Of earthy fracture, and chiefly hydrated silicate of magnesia.

The sample represents material of low commercial value, and could be used in fulling cloth; in the manufacture of "wall packing," etc. Meerschaum should be found at the locality.

Zeolite in Part.

TEMESCAL, Sept. 17.—Q.: I am sending you a sample of earth found with pieces of gypsum. I take it to be infusorial in character. It is fine for cleansing purposes when sifted, and burns to a glassy porous mass. I shall be glad of any information and whether of value. Thanking you for many favors, C. J. C.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The sample is an impure lime carbonate with sodium present; fuller's earth in the mass, and bare trace of phosphoric acid. The material represented by sample possesses a very uncertain commercial value.

Not Tested for Silver.

RED ROCK (Ariz.) Sept. 17.—Q.: Kindly give analysis on inclosed rock. B. E. G.

A.: Glad to hear from you. In the mass of manganese dioxide with iron oxides, quartz and lime, copper is present in traces. Microscopical pyrite is sparingly disseminated throughout the rock.

Mixed Earths.

TEHACHEPI, Sept. 18.—Q.: Am sending you two samples. Will you please tell me in your "In the Earth" if they have any commercial value, and also, will war create demand for antimony? Thanks for past favors. G. W. L.

A.: Glad to hear from you. No. 1 is impure marl; fuller's earth present, and trace of phosphoric acid. No. 2 is silica-lime, with infusorial matter. The prospect for bettering localities where antimony occurs is rather doubtful. Prospect for purer grades of each sample.

Altered Rock.

HOLCOMB VALLEY, Sept. 19.—C.: I have been a reader of The Times for many years, and have taken great interest in the "In the Earth" department. Thinking you would like to hear from this section, I herewith send you a sample from a vein, or dyke, crossing a high-line hill on the edge of "lower Holcomb Valley." Said dyke is about nine feet wide, but does not show on the surface; has solid, smooth lime walls, so far as developed, to depth of fifty feet, and so far as known continues without a break through the hill. High grade gold quartz on each side from four to six inches wide, and carrying values in lead (both galena and carbonate of lead.) Most of the gold values at the surface and down to fifteen or twenty feet are in the lime from three to four feet in width, and much of the lime is what is known as aragonite; all covered up until lately exposed. The sample I send you has been given various names by other parties, and now I submit the sample to you. C. L. M.

A.: Very glad to hear from you. The sample is impure dolomite. Microscopical pyrite is sparingly present in the mass, with pseudomorph after pyrite, and somewhat resembling certain bauxite markings on the coating. Iron oxides present, with fern-like characters and dendritic manganese (forest rock of the mining boys.)

From your description of the locality it is probably a point where interesting discoveries may be further noted as you progress with development, and so forth.

Mica Schist Only.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19.—Q.: Analyze the stone and find out what is in it? A.

A.: Not assayed for gold.

Books Desired.

EL CENTRO, Sept. 20.—Q.: I wish to obtain some information on mining laws and mineralogy. Do you have anything in pamphlet form or otherwise that you could send me touching on the above subjects? If not could you inform me where to obtain such information books? S. H. G.

A.: Write to United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C., for copy of "Bulletin No. 585." Buy a second-hand copy of the "Manual of Mineralogy and Lithology" (Dana,) for a dollar or so, at book stores. Write to the Congressman of your district for copy of "Mining Laws of the United States."

Lime Carbonate.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 22.—Q.: We are sending you samples 1, 2, 3 and 4, taken from the Coyote mountain range, Imperial county, California. Please give us full analysis of same. C. T. D.

A.: Glad to hear from you. Qualitatively we find: No. 1 is an altered dolomite, with fuller's earth now present, and traces of phosphoric acid. No. 2, impure limestone; magnesia, manganese, soda, and garnet present. No. 3, limestone; magnesia present. No. 4 is massive lime carbonate.

Epidote.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 22.—Q.: A prospector sent me this sample and he asked me to refer it to The Times. Is it a rare mineral? If it is not a rare mineral please name it. A. E. F.

Gold Quartz and Tourmaline.

MOJAVE (Cal.) Sept. 22.—Q.: With this are two samples from this vicinity. What is the ash-like substance on the red rock, and does it indicate being from or near a chimney? What are the black crystals in the other piece? Any value in this sample? How may a prospector know when he finds tungsten ore? Thank you for this, and the many good things from you in The Times. P. E. B.

A.: Ash-like substance, manganese dioxide, and it has been in the fire at one time o' day. The blackish matter in "the other piece" is altered tourmaline.

When you find a heavy piece of rock powder a little of it; place the powder on a porcelain dish, add some hydrochloric acid to the powder (an ordinary saucer will do,) set the saucer and contents at the back of the camp stove, or place the mixture and container on a small piece of sheet-iron set over a fire of greasewood, sage or other fuel; let it slowly boil for a few minutes, then set saucer and contents aside. If a "yellow ring" settles around inside of saucer it will indicate tungstic acid.

Silicate.

GALLUP (N. M.) Sept. 23.—Q.: I am sending you under separate cover a sample of mineral. Please test it and state what it is. Has it a commercial value? There is plenty of it and the locality is fifteen miles from railroad. J. S. T.

A.: Sample is a hydrated silicate of magnesia, and meerschaum should occur at the locality where sample was found. A fifteen-mile haul to railroad would result in monetary loss if mineral represented by the sample were mined, etc.

"Pure Kaolin" (?)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 3.—Q.: In reading the items under "Mines and Mining in the Great Southwest" we note your reply to "J. P. C.," Pasadena, Cal., in regard to kaolin and potash. You make the statement that kaolin is not found in any quantity in California. We beg to correct you in this statement, as we have one of the largest deposits of pure kaolin in the country, or perhaps in the world, which is located about 120 miles from Los Angeles. This deposit is probably a mile or more in width; six or eight miles in length, and hundreds of feet in depth. We are now installing a plant in Los Angeles to wash this clay and put it on the market for paper filler, porcelain ware and other uses where kaolin is required. We also have a good ball and slip clay. We call your attention to the fact that we are interested in all commercial minerals, and have been developing in this line for the last six years. We are also looking for good properties along this line; any recommendations to us would receive prompt attention. You will note by our letterhead the kind of minerals we are handling now. Thanking you for your co-operation, we beg to remain. ———.

A.: While your letter is published in full, the only part thereof in which this department takes the slightest interest (present or prospective) is that relating to kaolin.

Our reference to which you take exception, follows: "Ball clay is known to occur in California, and kaolin is of rather sparing occurrence." The greater part of the answer to which you refer is founded on matter taken from old reliable—"Mineral Resources of the United States."

You submitted no sample of your immense deposit of impure clay for reference, but we obtained such, and you are right in your statement when you refer to this mineral as "clay."

The deposit is a long way from base. To erect a clay-washing machine; add clay to the water; wash it with the "Blunger" (plunger;) run the liquid mixture over and through the launder; pump and press the clay, well, you will get rid of a lot of silica, with impurities that we are not called upon to give you.

There is a difference between kaolin and kaolinite. If the deposit is of "pure kaolin," as by you positively affirmed, why the necessity of this 120-mile haul and the clay-washing machine?

Of necessity we must be brief, and beg to refer you to "Mineral Resources of the United States" 1912, in which you will find no reference, to your deposit, and furthermore, on page 592, of the volume cited you will find in the clay mined and sold in California no reference to tonnage production of Kaolin other than the reference "a," which stands for "included in other States."

Kaolin, or kaolinite is somewhat "off color," as it were, in California. Chemists, well up in their professions, content themselves with moderate and modest estimates. Dana refers to locations sparingly. The State Mining Bureau has but little to give on the subject, and few are the specimens on display at the museum, of California kaolin ("pure kaolin," of course.)

"Bulletin 585, United Sates Geological Survey, 1914—Useful Minerals of the United States," shows that, "Kaolin, San Bernardino county, occurs near Calico; San Diego county, at Jamul."

We court honest criticism. We object to lengthy communications on unnecessary details, and this department has ever, and always will, stand up for the advancement of the mineral industry of our incomparable country as proved by facts.

Obsidian and Asphalt.

LEDGE, Sept. 4.—Q.: The enclosed samples of rock and gem stones are from the New York Mountains, California. Will you kindly inform me through your column what the rock is, and if any value? What are the stones that appear to be gems? By doing this you will oblige an old prospector and subscriber. C. J. S.

A.: Mighty glad to hear from you. The suspected gem stones are minute forms of obsidian (volcanic glass.) Obsidian is used in the manufacture of certain so-called "phoney" or second-class "gems," but the supply of such, far exceeds the demand. Some day obsidian may be a source of potash, especially that fine deposit of the substance in the Salton Sea locality. The large, blackish-blue, friable sample is partly feldspathic; it carries a low per cent. of asphaltum, and it has a nominal commercial value only.

Very Odd, Indeed.

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Sept. 4.—Q.: Yours received, and I send you all of the material I have representing Nos. 1 and 2.

A.: Glad to hear from you, and to obtain duplicate (and correct) samples. No. 1 is a substance composed of iron traces, sulphur and copper; chiefly a mass of copper sulphide, if you please, and in which mass is imbedded quite a percentage of acicular metallic copper; somewhat on the order of the reddish silicate which occurs near Silver City, N. M., but with this difference; the New Mexico ore is in a rock matrix.

No. 2 (the corrected sample) while resembling, at sight, certain titanic iron, and a variety of siderite, we find that this also, is a copper sulphide; carrying no native copper, but a good percentage of iron is in the mass.

It will always be a pleasure to aid you in any way possible.

A Rare Mineral.

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Sept. 4.—Q.: Sample now in your possession was sent to me for testing out. I have an idea that it is a rare mineral, and that it carries Yttria. I so class the mineral, and arrive at the conclusion for the reason that the "glow" from the mineral is not that of lime or strontia. While the mineral occurs in Southern Nevada, it is in rather low per cent. as to quantity. Will you kindly test the sample, and give your result in The Times column? A. L. T.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The sample is gadolinite, iron-black in color; "dull externally, internally black and shining." Luster vitreous, shining; somewhat resinous. Feebly translucent at the edges. Streak gray-green. Brittle. Of conchoidal fracture. "No distinct cleavage." Hardness 6.6 Sp. gr. 4.225. Before the blowpipe the sample gives a vivid glow, loses color, and does not fuse. With borax melts to a globule carrying iron protoxide. The mineral treated with hydrochloric acid gelatinizes.

Approximately,
yield: silica over
over 4 per cent.
cent. Traces of lime,
magnesia. Protoxide cent. Cerium oxide, oxide, both present.

Every person over 12 years of age and within the property restrictions is entitled to 8 miles of Scrip with every ticket.

This will be given out on the property before the excursion returns.

One mile of this Scrip is good for a mile of travel on any steamship line, railroad line or the Pacific Electric.

All purchasers will receive, in addition to this, one mile of Scrip for every dollar paid on property.

Last week in Brooklyn-West an $800 lot furnished the purchaser a trip to his old home.

If you do not want to go to the Expositions, how would you like a trip back east?

THE GUY M. RUSH COMPANY IS THE ONLY REAL ESTATE FIRM IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA THAT CAN ISSUE SCRIP.

Make no mistake. If you want Scrip with your excursions or with property that you purchase, take only the Guy M. Rush Company excursions.

Office open Saturday evenings for delivery of tickets.

For full particulars call or telephone Home 10695 or Broadway 24.

Scrip that you get on any excursion of the Guy M. Rush Company is equal to Scrip you get with $8.00 worth of groceries, or clothes, or shoes, or hats, or drugs.

"(1.) Enforcement of mining and labor laws of the State.

"We have not willfully violated any of the laws of the State and will render every possible assistance to the civil authorities in their enforcement.

"(3.) Intimidation of union or non-union men strictly prohibited.

"We agree to this without reservation, but the 'tentative plan' provides no way of enforcing the rule.

"(4.) Current scale of wages, rules and regulations for each mine to be printed and posted.

"This practice is already in force in many of the mines in the State, and we will at once put the suggestion into effect at all of our mines."

As to the other suggestions the response says:

"(2.) That all striking miners who have not been found guilty of violation of the law shall be given employment by the employer they formerly worked for, and where the place of the employee has been filled he shall be given employment as a miner at the same or other mines of the company.

"We are and have been willing to employ as many of the strikers as possible without discrimination because of the fact that they laid down their tools and believe that we can give work to a very large majority of those remaining in the State. But it is quite impossible for us to agree to employ all striking miners who have not been found guilty of violence. Whether those who have participated in violence are prosecuted and found guilty or not we cannot agree to give to them employment in the mines operated by us.

UNTRIED CRIMINAL CASES.

"In six of the counties of the State 332 of the strikers, including officers of the United Mine Workers of America, are under indictment for murder and 137 for other felonies. None of them have been tried, therefore none have been found guilty, and much time may elapse before they are tried.

"(5.) Each mine to have a grievance committee, etc.

"This is a favorite method of the United Mine Workers organization to foment trouble and provoke strife, although they have in many cases, notably in West Virginia, waived this demand.

"Our employees have never asked for such a committee and we are strongly opposed to this feature of the 'tentative plan.'

"Sections 5 and 6 provide for a commission which "shall serve as adjusters or referees in all disputes (whether individual or collective) affecting wages, working and social conditions." The decisions of the commission shall be final and binding on employers and employees. Willful violation of any of these conditions will be subject to such penalties as may be imposed by the commission.

"The unlimited authority of this proposed commission of three persons to be appointed by the President of the United States practically puts the entire control of the most important department of our business in its hands. Its power to control the conduct of our business far exceeds any of the demands of the United Mine Workers of America. A commission with such powers has never before, to our knowledge, existed or been suggested.

"The power to regulate the wages of our employees individually and collectively as often as demands are made would prevent us from making an estimate of the cost of production on which to base our contracts for the sale of coal and could be used to destroy existing competitive conditions.

"It is unfair to place our business in a position where it can under any circumstance be subjected to the unappealable mandates of any men or body of men, however well meaning and experienced. We regret our inability to agree to this suggestion of the 'tentative plan.'

"(6.) Paragraph D—There shall be no picketing, parading, colonizing or mass campaigning of representatives of any labor organization of miners who are parties to this truce which will interfere with the working operations of any mine.

"Picketing is prohibited by State law and that law can be enforced by the civil authorities. The limitations placed on the observance of this rule, as above emphasized, could be made a pretext for its constant violation.

"Paragraph G—The suspension of a mine over six consecutive days by the company may be authorized for a cause satisfactory to the commission, but not pending any dispute.

"This rule totally disregards possible market conditions and other industrial contingencies which in the ordinary course of the business frequently make it necessary to suspend operations for considerable periods of time—under some conditions for a month or even longer.

"On account of the mutual benefits derived from the 'truce' employers and employees should each pay one-half of the expenses of the commission.

"Our present employees, who have not been considered in the 'tentative plan,' should not be asked to contribute to the maintenance of such a commission. Neither do we see how we, as operators, can agree that our employees will contribute to the maintenance of such a commission. Neither do we see how we, as operators, can agree that our employees will contribute to this expense except by their individual consent.

"Our employees being now unarmed and our property defenseless, if the Federal troops are withdrawn, great destruction of life and property will surely occur.

"We respectfully suggest that the Federal troops can safely be withdrawn from Colorado when the officers and agents of the United Mine Workers of America cease to incite the strikers to lawlessness and cease to support them in idleness; or when the strikers surrender their amrs and ammunition and the Governor of the State puts into effect by proclamation and enforces the law passed at the special session of the State Legislature held last May relating to the shipment, sale and possession of arms and ammunition in the strike districts.

"We shall be glad to co-operate with you in any practical measures having for their object the termination of the unfortunate labor conditions which, to some extent, still exist in this State. It is our firm conviction that the result universally desired can be obtained by a strict and impartial enforcement of the laws affecting alike strikers and operators. To this end we take the liberty of suggesting that there be such concurrent action upon the part of the Federal and State authorities as will enable the Governor to immediately put into effect, within the limits of the disturbed district, by proclamation, the laws recently enacted by this State relating to the sale and possession of arms and ammunition and to repeat our frequent requests that the orders to the officers in command of the Federal troops in this State restricting the mine operators in the employment of labor, be so modified as to permit the employment of workmen as in normal times."

With Us Always.

STRIKES AND STRIKERS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

SEVERAL hundred machinists who have been on strike at Trenton, N. J., for twelve weeks, have returned to work under the old scale of wages.

Strong efforts are being made to avert the proposed general strike of 12,000 embroiderers in New York, Jersey City and Hoboken. The workers demand higher and uniform wages, a shorter work day, sanitary shops and recognition of the union workers for the United Traction Company of Albany, N. Y., and adjacent cities refuse to accept the proposed sliding scale of wages. The men are getting 27 cents an hour and want an increase of 8 cents. The sliding scale offered would give the old men about 2 cents an hour increase.

Union men of Phoenix, Ariz., have bombarded a cafeteria there for choosing to employ some non-union help. The serious "bombardment" was of practically no effect.

More than 2500 children of striking miners in the Eastern Ohio coal district are unable to attend school because of lack of clothing. Children and women are always the worst sufferers by strikes. This strike has been on since March 31, last, with no signs of settlement.

President Wilson's efforts to settle the "civil war" Colorado strike by a three years' truce have not succeeded. Both sides object. The strike has cost the workers $2,500,000 aside from the loss of wages. It has cost the operators fully as much and both sides are estimated to be losers of $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, with the joint losses still going on.

In some sections where goods are made similar to goods that we have been importing, there is a disposition to demand and strike for higher wages and all kinds of things, taking advantage of the stoppage of imports by the war.

The glovemakers' strike at Gloversville, N. Y., is over, on an increase of 15 cents a dozen pairs to the cutters. The demand was 25 cents a dozen increase.

The strike of wine grape pickers at Ontario, Cal., was short and ineffective.

The last general strike of coal miners in Great Britain cost the trades unions of the men engaged in that industry just $5,000,000, and notwithstanding an increase of 220,000 in membership of all trades unions, the grand total of union funds at the beginning of this year was over a million dollars less than before that strike in 1913, the last year for which a report had been made. There were 683 trades unions in the country with a membership of 2,597,772, and funds amounting to nearly $30,000,000. The income of the unions alone amounted to nearly $20,000,000 and they expended $3,000,000 in unemployed benefit; $8,500,000 in strike pay; $2,500,000 in sickness and accident benefit; $200,000 in funeral benefit and $2,000,000 in other benefits.

The labor disputes of 1913 had a serious effect upon the British pottery industry. At the end of March, 1913, three sectional strikes occurred in the pottery trade. A dispute involving two tile works was settled after a two weeks' stoppage. A strike in the jet and Rockingham trade, involving 600 or 700 workers, continued for nine weeks and entirely disorganized that department of the industry. It was concluded by concessions to the workpeople. The terms of settlement were as follows:

(1.) Throwers: Price for scorage to be 2s. ($0.49) on all branches, and in addition 2½ per cent. advance on Rockingham.

(2.) Rockingham: Jiggerers, turners, and handlers, 5 per cent. advance each.

(3.) Jet, Samian and Rockingham: Cover makers, spout makers, women jolliers, and fettlers, 2½ per cent. advance each.

(4.) White ware: Turners, handlers, and jiggerers, 1d. ($0.02) per board advance each.

(5.) Thrown coffeepots and jollied jugs to be referred to the conciliation broad.

(6.) All other notices to be withdrawn.

(7.) These terms to be in settlement of all matters in the jet and Rockingham trade for a period of two years from March 25, 1913.

As compared with making prices paid prior to the dispute they represent advances as follows: Workers included under paragraph 1, 9½ per cent. advance, and a further 2½ per cent. to Rockingham throwers; workers included under paragraph 2, 5 per cent.; workers included under paragraph 3, 2½ per cent.; workers included under paragraph 4, 11½ per cent. It will thus be seen that the advances are considerable, though they do not go to the full extent asked by the operatives.

In the sanitary ware trade several minor firms were affected by a strike of 120 workers, who were out for about nine weeks. Coincident with these disputes was a stoppage in the marl industry, which affected the pottery trade as a whole much more than the other troubles, owing to the difficulty in obtaining sagger marl and wad clay. This dispute lasted ten weeks. On the top of these troubles a strike commenced in the Cornish clay industry, which came to an end only in October, after nearly three months' duration. Had the pottery works been running, briskly a serious situation would have been created, and a shortage of china clay would have brought about a partial stoppage of the industry. As it was, great difficulty in securing supplies resulted. Some time will elapse before the china clay trade is again normal; meanwhile higher prices prevail. The danger of a coal strike was threatened in North Staffordshire from August to November.

Death Rate.

FATALITIES IN QUARRIES FEWER IN UNITED STATES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Fatalities in and about quarries in the United States were fewer in 1913 than in 1912, but were higher than in Great Britain and France for the corresponding years.

Figures issued by the Federal Bureau of Mines yesterday show that 183 men were killed in 1913 compared with 213 in 1912, a decrease of 14 per cent. The number of men employed was 106,278, and the death rate per thousand was 1.72 compared with 1.88 during 1912.

In France the death rate in 1912 was less than one in every thousand men employed. In Great Britain for the ten years, 1895 to 1904, the rate was 1.09 for every thousand men.

"The higher death rate in the American quarries," declares Albert H. Fay, engineer of the Bureau of Mines, "probably results from less stringent regulations and less systematic inspection."

NATIONAL GUARD NOT SUSTAINED.

MONTANA SUPREME COURT SAYS COURT-MARTIAL SENTENCE IS ILLEGAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HELENA (Mont.) Oct. 8.—The Supreme Court of Montana today held that the National Guard of Montana now maintaining martial law in Butte has no right to punish for insurrection or other violations of the law. The decision was rendered in the case of Dan Gillis, who was tried and convicted in the military court at Butte.

The court refused to grant Gillis a writ of habeas corpus and ordered that he be dealt with according to law, holding that his trial and detention by the militia were void. The court held that while the Governor is authorized to detail the militia to suppress insurrection, neither the Governor nor the militia can lawfully punish for insurrection or other violations of the law.

Some Wrong Labor Assumptions.

[Baltimore American:] The assumption that the American laborer today stands where the French laborer stood before the revolution, where the English laborer stood before the passing of the first Reform Bill and the repeal of the corn laws, shows a lack of historical perspective. The assumption that all strikes represent an agonized protest against tyranny, an agonized appeal from injustice, is a perversion of truth. The assumption that child labor in the United States is the blot upon civilization that it was in England seventy years ago, denies the duty of comparison. If the people who write verses about labor crucified would make a table of the wages paid to skilled and unskilled workmen, from the Chicago carpenter to the Philadelphia street cleaner, they might sing in a more cheerful strain. If the people who today echo the bitterest lines of Mrs. Browning's Cry of the Children would ascertain and bear in mind the proportion of little boys and girls who are going to school in the United States, how many years they average, and how much the country pays for their education, they might spare us some violent invectives. Even Mr. Robert Hunter permits himself the use of the word cannibalism when speaking of child workers, and this in the face of legislation which every year extends its area, and grows more stringently protective.

FROWN UPON DEMAGOGUES.

Men Who Invest in Industrial Properties Should be Freed from the Present Uncertainty.

[American Industries:] The natural human desire for supremacy causes cities to grow. The growth of any place may be accelerated or retarded by local sentiment. In the struggle for growth, different classes of citizens are attracted to a given locality, writes Charles C. Hanch. One man may invest a million dollars in a corner block, place the care of it in the hands of a rental agency, while the owner spends his winters in Florida or California, and his summers in Canada or elsewhere. This block owner does not give direct employment to more than a handful of people. His wealth is practically creating nothing. Of course, such a citizen is acceptable and desirable to any community, but I hold that his value to a community is practically nothing as compared with the citizen who comes to a city with a million dollars, which he invests in an industrial institution, with all of its hazards, employing a thousand workmen, supporting, say, 5000 men, women and children. I acknowledge, freely, that the motive for both men is the same; that is, to make money. In result, however, without any eleemosynary motives on the part of the manufacturer, he becomes in fact a practical philanthropist.

Except in case of ports of entry and great natural distributing points, there is substantially no foundation for urban growth except in industries. Without industries the city of Indianapolis would be practically valuable only for agricultural purposes. Without industries there would be no tenants for the corner blocks and skyscrapers. Without industries there would be no subscribers for the daily papers; without industries there would be no customers for the department stores; without industries there would be no fees for the lawyers; without industries there would be no congregations able to support their pastors with a living salary; without industries preachers would become circuit-riders, dependent upon charity or hospitality for their subsistence. These statements emphasize the importance of understanding and appreciating both the value and the problems of industries.

Permanent prosperity of industries requires the elimination of industrial uncertainty. Prosperity of industries will do more than anything else to remove the so-called industrial unrest and proper settlement of the relations of the government to industries will do much to bring about industrial certainty with the consequent elimination of industrial unrest.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Interesting figures, throwing light on the way in which the breadwinners work, are furnished in the report on occupations issued by Director William J. Harris of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, Washington. This report, based on the census of 1910, shows that when the enumeration was taken there were 2,152,433 persons 10 years old and over engaged in gainful pursuits in the city of New York. This was 45.2 per cent. of the total population of 4,766,883, and 56.3 per cent. of the total number of inhabitants of 10 years of age and more. It is curious to note that in the metropolitan and cosmopolitan town 9950 persons were occupied with agriculture, forestry or animal husbandry. Of some of the largest classes of occupations the following may be mentioned: Manufacturing and mechanical industries, 873,497, or 40.6 per cent. of the total; trade, 361,053, or 16.8 per cent.; domestic and personal service, 333,954, or 15.5 per cent.; clerical occupations, 234,860, or 10.9 per cent.; transportation, 169,834, or 7.9 per cent.; professional service, 127,395, or 5.9 per cent., and public service, 41,004, or 1.9 per cent. Of the workers 1,566,240, or 72.8 per cent., were males and 586,193, or 27.2 per cent., females. Of the males 33,110 were negroes and 5161 other colored, and of the females 26,352 were negroes and 188 other colored. It is also seen that many men and women follow the same calling. Thus there were 4207 male and 3759 female actors; 16,210 male and 3864 female barbers, hairdressers and manicurists; 33,795 male and 21,613 female book-keepers, cashiers and accountants; 87,813 male and 19,409 female clerks, except clerks in stores; 34,629 male and 9947 female clerks in stores, and so on. In specific occupations the largest number of males employed was 107,329 as retail dealers, and 113,409 females as servants. It also appears that from 1900 to 1910 the proportion of females engaged in gainful occupations increased from 27.1 per cent. to 35.6 per cent., showing that the doors of opportunity are opening wider to the feminine sex.

Only 2 Per Cent. More Idle.

The official report of the Board of Trade shows unemployment in the United Kingdom under war conditions exceeds the unemployment in time of peace by only 2 per cent. Seventy-five per cent. of the working people are unaffected by the war. The other 25 per cent. have suffered a 27 per cent. reduction in employment. The cotton industry, one of the two industries most affected, has 40 per cent. of the workers engaged in it working on short time. This, however, is only partially attributed to the war. Agriculture shows no increase in unemployment, but in some instances shows a shortage of labor. Ninety-three per cent. of productive working people are still wholly or partially employed.

Other labor, $4.75 to $7 per week.

Bonuses to Workers.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company will distribute bonuses to employees this month, amounting to 3 per cent. of the total yearly wages.

The Training of Workmen.

An interesting method of training workmen, adopted successfully by the General Electric Company of Schenectady, consists in the establishment of apprentice schools at the different shops of the company, the character of instruction being the same at each shop. The apprentices, while being engaged in commercial production, are placed in competition with the regular journeymen as regards cost of production, and can put to direct and practical use the theoretical instruction received in the schools. The results, it is claimed, have proved that the cost of production by the apprentices compares favorably with that of the regular force, and the training of a body of competent workers has thus become an asset rather than an expense. Contrasted with the system of attaching workshops to educational institutions, in which case the pupils are not obliged to take their practical work so seriously, the General Electric Company's method has an obvious advantage. Again, compared with the older form of apprenticeship, where the youth was usually turned over to the foreman for instruction, it assures individual attention by a competent teacher capable of imparting, both in the classroom and the shop, knowledge of the best methods of his trade, the instructors being chosen with regard to their fitness, not only as good workmen, but also as good instructors. A novel feature of the system consists in making each apprentice, before he is allowed to progress from the machine at which he is at work, train his successor at that machine. This is, of course, carried out under the constant supervision of the instructor. It is well known that there is no better way of fixing knowledge in the mind, or of ascertaining whether or not the knowledge has been actually acquired, than requiring that the knowledge be imparted to someone else. The new system seems to be entirely logical, and should go far to solve one of the most difficult industrial problems of the day.

An Unexpected Truth.

[Chicago News:] We have been told the story of a professional magician who had recently been making one-night stands in little Ohio towns. The other night he was in Mt. Gilead and he certainly made a great hit there. He had been performing for more than an hour and his audience was in good humor. The audience, in fact, was for him to a man when he pulled a bad boy of the town to the stage. A big laugh followed.

The magician brought the lad to the footlights.

"Now, my boy," he said, "I want you to tell this audience that you are sure your pockets are empty."

"My pockets is empty," answered the lad, obediently. "De rabbit you told me to put in me coat got away!"

Local Parasites.

UNION GRAFTERS BLED LOCAL BUSINESS MEN.

Facts Brought to Light in Squabble Among Los Angeles Unionites Show System of Swindles Perpetrated in the Name of Labor—Investigating Committee Called off When Editor Mooney Threatens to Tell.

EVER since the first part of this year considerable friction has existed between the Building Trades Council and the Los Angeles Labor Council, both councils fighting for the control of the labor movement in the city of Los Angeles. The climax was reached when it became known in Los Angeles that the P. H. McCarthy faction of San Francisco intended to start a labor publication in Los Angeles in oppostion to the Citizen, of which Stanley Wilson is the editor, for the purpose of putting the Citizen out of business because of Wilson's testimony before the grand jury in connection with Johannsen.

The leaders of the Los Angeles Labor Council then became busy and caused the submitting of a resolution before the last convention of the State Federation of Labor at Seattle, asking each international organization to donate $5 per month toward a great organizing campaign in the city of Los Angeles, with the clause that the Citizen should be the medium of advertising, the object of the Labor Council leaders at this time being to get full control of the Citizen, have Stanley Wilson resign his position with the Citizen and place C. B. Tracy, who was one of the charter members of the Clerks' Union two years ago, which union went defunct, but Tracy retained the Clerks' Union card to keep identified with the labor movement. This would give the Citizen the full indorsement of labor unions, with the further object, that a certain percentage of the profits of the business be exacted by the Labor Council, which percentage of profits was to be invested in stock in the Citizen until the Citizen was entirely controlled by labor leaders from the Labor Council and Editor Wilson, but negotiations came to naught.

INTERNATIONAL UNIONS REFUSE.

The international unions also refused to pay their $5.00 per month pro rata for the Los Angeles organizing campaign on account of the clause that the Citizen should be made the official union paper; however, some of the International Union presidents did contribute.

At this time the bond issues in Los Angeles county came up. The Los Angeles Labor Council favored the bond issue under the pretense that the American Federation of Labor always stood for municipal ownership. The Labor Council believed that by taking this stand some consideration would be shown it, and union labor employed on the aqueduct project also expected that the City Council would accept the union wage scale submitted by the Labor Council.

THE INSIDE OF THE FIGHT.

At that time it was known to the Labor Council that the Building Trades Council was opposed to it, taking a strong stand against the bond issue and apparently favoring the power corporations. This caused a split in the labor movement. Mooney, secretary of the Building Trades Council, a strong member of the P. H. McCarthy faction, resigned his position as secretary of the Building Trades Council for no other purpose than to become the editor of the Union Labor Bulletin, a new publication. It was broadly announced that this journal was the official labor bulletin indorsed by the Building Trades Council. The first issue dealt largely on the bond issue subject. This caused the Labor Council and the Citizen to get busy. The Citizen put all its powerful allies, such as Atwood, Timmons, Wilson, Peterson and others, into executive positions in the Labor Council after ousting Wright, Marst, McDonald from office. This then caused a bitter fight between the Citizen and Mooney's new publication in regard to advertisement soliciting and donations from the merchants. Meanwhile, Mooney was getting up a Labor Day programme edition, for which he solicited funds, advertisements and donations.

By this time the Labor Council was ready to solicit funds for similar publications, but their emissaries found that Mooney had thoroughly covered the whole territory and gotten the funds. The Labor Day committee of the Labor Council, and the Labor Temple Association, as well as the executive officers of the Labor Council, endeavored to force Mooney to give up the funds collected, charging Mooney with having collected these funds on misrepresentation to the advertisers. Mooney refused.

ATTEMPT TO "GET" MOONEY FAILS.

An investigating committee was appointed by the Labor Council, affidavits were secured, and other information collected against Mooney, but nothing of a serious nature could be placed against him. Mooney then demanded a thorough investigation of his case and also an accounting of the Annual Labor Review funds of the past two issues, and threatened to uncover other gross irregularities of which the Labor Council officials had been guilty—that is, in giving the merchants to understand that all funds secured were for the benefit of the labor movement, whereas, in fact, these publications were promoted in the interest of the individual.

The committee appointed to investigate Mooney finally, after considerable delay, admitted Mooney had not misrepresented his publication in soliciting advertising and donations. The Building Trades Council openly exonerated Mooney of all charges. The Labor Council executives said nothing, but were not satisfied because the Citizen had lost ground and the Union Labor Bulletin succeeded.

C. B. Tracy, who owns the copyright on the Annual Labor Review, and who was strong with the Labor Council officials, decided since the split in the labor movement, to associate himself with Mooney, who placed Tracy with the Union Labor Bulletin as advertising manager.

Tracy, having deserted the Labor Council and joined ranks with Mooney, the executive officers of the Labor Council found themselves in dire straits, and to raise money toward the debt on the Temple started a carnival for October, endeavoring to sell tickets to politicians and also to merchants. It goes to show that the Labor Council is in close straits financially, when it became necessary to make a borrow of about $200 to send two delegates to attend the Stockton convention last week.

TRACY AFTER MORE MONEY.

Tracy, since joining Mooney, not satisfied with his compensation, is now negotiating with Mooney and the Building Trades Council to indorse his Annual Labor Review, promising them a percentage for indorsement. He expects to raise about $15,000 on this issue. It is also known that Tracy's publication is tied up by injunction in Oakland in his wife's suit. Tracy's negotiations regarding the Labor Review with Mooney became known to the executive officers of the Labor Council and the executive officers of the Labor Council now propose to send out letters to all labor unions blacklisting Tracy as a grafter, etc., in order to protect the Citizen, since the business of the Citizen has fallen off considerably since Mooney started the Union Labor Bulletin and merchants are in a quandary as to where they are or where they should put their money.

The Central Labor Council since the split is fearful that the merchants and manufacturers will shut down on all advertising schemes of labor, as there are some who use the movement for personal financial gain.

GRAFT COMING TO LIGHT.

This scheming among local unions has come to the notice of the heads of international organizations, who have caused adding clauses in the bylaws covering just such points, making it a violation of the constitution to enter into any such schemes unless sanctioned or conducted by the international heads of the organizations, except selling of tickets for balls, dances or picnics, and then only by the membership, prohibiting professional solicitors, as is the general system here, who have made big money at the expense of the unions.

THE SPONGING SOLICITOR.

There are many professional solicitors in the labor movement who hold credentials to solicit funds, some of which are of recent date, others of antiquated date. These solicitors call on merchants when short of money and pocket the same. These solicitors "get by" without detection and are only detected by one of their own kind, who happens to call on the same merchants, discovering some one had just called and got money for a certain labor organization. This is not uncovered very readily as one of this class of solicitors will not tell on the other for fear of injuring this profitable game.

Undoubtedly the soliciting of funds for advertising, etc., from merchants and business men in general for the Union Labor Bulletin must be profitable when the solicitor, C. B. Tracy for A. J. Mooney, can afford the purchase of an automobile, although the funds from the last issue of the Annual Labor Review were tied up in Oakland by injunction.

Rumor also has it that A. J. Mooney was in the market for an automobile.

This kind of work is carried on right along in this city. The merchants, not understanding the trickery and being desirious of securing the patronage of labor, give up the coin only to be termed afterwards easy marks. The breach in the labor unions is still further evidenced by the personal aspiration of Secretary Butler for J. J. Tobins's place as Deputy Labor Commissioner and Belcher's efforts to take Butler's place.

Oil Expert has Difficulty Gathering Data.

Fresno Supervisors Urged to Finance Exhibit.

Progress of Shutdown in Various Fields.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 9.—R. W. Pack of the United States Geological Survey, who has been making oil field investigations in California for several years, has just completed a study of Midway-Sunset conditions. It has been understood that his work was in connection with the study of the water problem, but some operators persist in the belief that he was seeking information for use by the United States Land Office in its constant war upon locators.

Mr. Pack sought much information and gave out practically none. He particularly wished to know about the big gusher territory, but it is said that the suspicion with which his work was regarded led many to give misleading data, when they did not refuse to talk at all.

Oil Exhibit.

On behalf of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, D. S. Ewing has asked the Supervisors of Fresno county to appropriate $5000 for an exhibit of the oil industry of the State at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in connection with the great national exhibit of oil. The idea is that such a display in one building will be far better for all concerned than a separate exhibit by each oil county, in connection with its other products and industries.

Mr. Ewing says that similar requests will be made of other oil counties, especially of Kern, the largest producer in the State.

Shutdown Movement.

At Coalinga twelve companies have shut down entirely. All are members of the Independent Producers' Agency and they save all the expense of operating, while at the same time drawing their proportion of all the money secured from the sale of storage oil. Thirty-six other companies are running only a part of their wells or only daylight towers. In Kern River a number of companies are operating where it is considered safe to do so; others have shut down in part until the field may be said to be nearly dead. In the West Side fields few properties have shut down, wholly on account of fear of water. Nearly all of the Agency members, however, are running only daylight towers, and many pump only part of their wells on alternate days.

Sinking of Elsinore.

The sinking of the Union Oil Company's steam tanker Elsinore by the German cruiser Leipzig reported Friday of this week is likely to result either in the transfer of the Union's tankers to the American flag or the abandonment of the South American trade until the war is over. The loss of one tanker like the Elsinore more than offsets the foreign trade of a year or more. Should the company abandon its efforts to supply the South American trade entirely, the effect upon the production of oil in California will be bad, indeed.

European Oil Supply.

In the speech a few days ago of Gen. Bobrinsky, the new Russian governor, at his inauguration, Russia has proclaimed to the world the annexation to the Czar's empire of Austrian Poland or Galicia, within the borders of which are located the Galician oil fields. This means that Russia will conquer the source of practically every barrel of oil produced in Europe outside of Roumania and the shale oil of Scotland. What this means one may imagine.

Standard "Wildcat."

The Standard has had one of its wildcat wells in the western extension of the Kern River field—the one on section 25—on the pump for a tryout the last two weeks. The result cannot be learned, the wells being located miles from any other wells or settlement. The outcome of the Standard's wildcat work, however, will be of much interest to the industry.

New Maricopa Sand.

The Spreckels Oil Company, which has just gotten out of mazes of litigation started by the government to keep it and its neighbors from getting patents, has found a new oil sand in its No. 8 well on section 32, 12-23, at 2010 feet, at which level none of the adjoining wells found oil. The sand has not yet been tested, but it shows gas and also oil.

September Dividends.

Dividends paid during September by California oil companies aggregated about $1,350,000, of which $1,125,000 went to the stockholders of the Standard Oil Company of California in a regular quarterly dividend. Among other dividends paid were the following: Amalgamated, $62,500; American Petroleum, $48,000; Caribou, $8000; Mt. Diablo, $5000; Record, $4000; Rice Ranch, $3000; San Francisco and McKittrick, $10,000; West Coast, $15,000; Western Union, $10,000.

During October the dividends will also be large because of the disbursement of $600,000 by the Associated, a semi-annual payment.

Associated Gasoline.

With C. L. Coppage, assistant secretary of the company, at its head, the Associated Oil Company has established a new department, that its trade in refined oil products may be extended and carried on in a manner similar to that practiced by the Standard Oil Company.

Heretofore the business of the company in a sales way has been almost entirely confined to fuel and road oil, with small sales of refined oil made at times. No effort, however, has at any time been made to boost the refined products until recently.

Agencies for the sale of gasoline, motor oil and other refined products are now being established in several districts. L. T. Adams has been appointed Taft representative of the company. He handles Associated gasoline exclusively.

LIGHT OIL HARD HIT BY CUTS IN PRICES.

Margin of Difference in Price Between Heaviest and Lightest Grade Oil is Twice as Large as Before First Reduction—Present Market Outlook.

How much harder light oil has been hit than heavy by the four cuts in prices which have been registered during the past few months, is indicated by the fact that the difference between the rates for the highest and lowest grade oil is now 12½ to 20 cents—according to the location of the field—as compared with 25 to 45 cents, early in the year.

A complete readjustment of the Standard Oil Company schedule has been necessitated during the months since the cutting commenced. As a result there are now only four divisions in price and gravity in the valley fields, as compared with twice as many early in the year.

The following shows the changes in the schedule for one field, Coalinga, which is now included under the general heading of San Joaquin Valley fields, in the Standard's schedule:

BEFORE CUTS.
14 to 20.9 gravity	$ .40
21 to 23.9 gravity	.50
24 to 26.9 gravity	.55
27 to 28.9 gravity	.60
29 to 30.9 gravity	.70
31 to 32.9 gravity	.75
33 to 34.9 gravity	.80
35 gravity and lighter	.85
PRESENT SCHEDULE.
14 to 20.9 gravity	$ .37½
21 to 26.9 gravity	.40
27 to 30.9 gravity	.45
31 and up	.50

The fourth cut in oil prices registered about a week ago has left the question behind it, whether or not the oil market has reached bottom. This question can be answered to better advantage when the monthly statistics in detail are available. However, there is every indication of a big falling off in production, and in this case it is likely that the market will steady itself somewhat.

Before the full benefits of the shutdown movement are felt, however, it is possible that there will be another cut in price, which will bring the market for low-gravity down to a 35-cent basis, and make the higher grades correspondingly lower. Experts predict that if this cut is made it will be before the end of the year.

If conditions continue satisfactory as regards the shut-down movement from now on, it is quite likely that there will be no more declines following the one predicted. It will require some time for the market to recuperate, however, unless the shut-down policy is continued in force.

HOLDING UP HERE.

The fuel oil selling price in Los Angeles is holding its own despite the general overproduction of oil. Quotations f.o.b. this city is now about 70 cents a barrel. This is only a loss of about 5 cents from the high price earlier in the year.

There is always a good demand for fuel oil in this city, owing to the popularity of petroleum as fuel for manufacturing, heating and other purposes. The market is constantly expanding, on account of the city's natural growth. The era of industrial development which is gradually unfolding promises an even greater increase in the consumption of fuel within the next few years.

Dividends and Assessments.

The Associated Oil Company's $600,000 disbursement is payable next Thursday. The dividend, a semi-annual one, is at the rate of 1½ per cent. The West Coast Oil Company will pay its dividend of $1.50 a share on the same day, to stock of record yesterday. This company, like the Amalgamated, is a subsidiary of the Associated. Both the Amalgamated and the West Coast Oil companies are extensively interested in Southern California.

The Pyramid Oil Company's assessment of 2 cents a share, recently levied, will become delinquent November 3. The sale day for delinquent is set for December 15.

The American Midway Oil Company has gone out of existence, and the cash in the treasury, amounting to some $20,000, has been distributed to the stockholders at the rate of 1¼ cents per share.

WILL UTILIZE NATURAL GAS.

GASOLINE COMPANY CONTRACTS FOR NORTH AMERICAN'S YIELD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FELLOWS, Oct. 9.—W. A. Culp, general manager of the Pacific Gasoline Company at Brea, has made a contract with the North American Oil, Consolidated, to utilize the natural gas from its wells on the Section Two division on section 2, 32-23, North Midway. If successful, this will be about the first casinghead gasoline plant in Midway to operate on a commercial scale.

The Santa Fe, or those of its officials who hold the lease on the Western Minerals property on section 7, 11-23, south of Sunset, has hauled material to the land to resume operations, which have been suspended about two years. A light green oil was found on this property, but never developed commercially.

The Midway-Sunset Catch Basin Association will hereafter burn the waste oil in its sumps around Lake Buena Vista each week to prevent the possibility of their breaking and polluting the waters of the lake. These catch-basins were built to keep the oil from entering the lake.

UNIQUE IMPERIAL TREASURES.

Pipes, Swords, Carriages and Pianos have been Lavishly Decorated for Indian Rulers.

[Baltimore Star:] Among the imperial treasures of Persia is a pipe set with diamonds, rubies and emeralds to the value of no less than $500,000. This pipe was made for the late Shah, and is said to be even more valuable than his famous sword. In the matter of swords the Gaekwar of Baroda possesses the most precious blade in existence. Its hilt and belt are encrusted with diamonds, rubies, sapphires and emeralds, and its value has been put at $1,000,000. There are many costly swords in the treasure-rooms of eastern and European rulers, notably those of the Czar of Russia, the Sultan of Turkey and the King of Siam, but the sword of the Gaekwar outshines them all. The most valuable sword in Europe is that presented by the Egyptians to Lord Wolsley. The hilt is set with brilliants and the sabre is estimated to be worth $10,000.

The Maharajah of Ghened is the owner of the most costly brougham in the world. The handles of the doors are of solid gold, while the rest of the vehicle is silver.

The Sultan of Morocco came into possession of a curious piano, manufactured to the order of his predecessor, which is probably the most expensive instrument of the kind ever made. This piano was made in parts, each part being small enough to be carried by a slave, as the former Sultan refused to trust them to the care of his camels which formed the only other available means of transport. This expensive musical instrument was made principally of tulip and oris woods, inlaid with unpolished jacaranda parquetry and decorated with scrollwork of pure gold. The sum paid for it was $20,000.

Paid Nothing for Repairs.

[Chicago News:] Two men were talking about a friend and his motor car.

"He seems to be very well satisfied with it," remarked one. "Hasn't paid a copper in repairs all the nine months he's had it, he tells me."

"Yes," replied the other. "I heard the same story from the fellow who's done all the repairs."

OPTIMISM SHOULD PREVAIL.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

If ever there was a proper time for optimism in the business world, that time is now. The corn crop of the year is worth two billions, the wheat crop over eight hundred millions, the oat crop nearly five hundred millions, the cotton crop nearly a billion, with barley and potatoes adding hundreds of millions, and the mining industries putting out value to the extent of nearly two billions. On top of it all the cash assets in the national treasury amount to two billions. That fact should add largely to our confidence in the soundness of our institutions.

The indebtedness of our country to foreigners is financed by the great money pool in New York so that that the ill effect of neglect to pay is avoided. The country is now in splendid shape to go forward, having its resources for currency available under the new law, and to enter upon a course of business that should prove to be of the highest profit to the nation.

Industry should be fully employed. Wages should be good. Business must expand, and will expand if let alone by Washington, in every direction in view of the exclusion of our chief competitors from world markets for the time being.

WOULD COMBINE OIL EXHIBITS.

Government Expert Advises Union of Effort.

Oil Men Hear Commissioner Allen on Plans.

Single Great Exhibition is What He Advises.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 9.—In an effort to get the counties of California to combine their oil exhibits in one grand exhibition of petroleum products, methods of development, etc., to be united with a world-wide oil exhibition, at the San Francisco fair, Irving C. Allen, petroleum chemist for the United States Bureau of Mines, arrived in Bakersfield yesterday, and was in conference with various members of the Exposition Committee here this morning. As a result of his visit, the support of the committee was pledged to the movement, with the promise that funds would be raised to carry on the project.

Besides his connection with the Bureau of Mines, Mr. Allen is also commissioner for the World's Petroleum Congress of 1915, and commissioner of petroleum exhibits for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. The idea put forward by him, as an agent for the Bureau of Mines and a representative of the exposition, is to do away with scattered exhibits of oil—originally planned to be identified with the exhibits of each county—and make the display more effective and larger. It would thus have a broader influence and secure more results.

According to the original intention of the Exposition Committee, the county exhibit was to represent both the agricultural and oil interests. For this purpose a large sum was raised by this county. Mr. Allen, however, wants part of the fund set aside and given to the general fund for the oil exhibit planned, together with other funds to be added. A total of about $30,000 is needed to carry out the plans of the Bureau of Mines, which is arranging the exhibit.

MANY FEATURES.

"It is our intention to have an inside and an outside exhibit," stated Allen to C. A. Barlow and E. H. Loveland, members of the Exposition Committee. "The inside exhibit in the mining building, will include the exhibits as already planned by the counties—peg models, oil samples and photographs. But the biggest feature, for which the co-operation of the California counties is asked, is the outside exhibit.

"In this latter display we want to have a reproduction of an oil camp, showing all kinds of cable and rotary tools, steel and wooden derricks, a drilling crew actually drilling a well, which, of course, will be dry, but which will go down 500 feet or more.

"We want to show the different methods of transportation, the different methods of storing oil by means of wood, concrete, earth and steel containers. Practical demonstrations will be given of the problems of seepage and evaporation, together with an exposition of methods for the protection against fire.

"But the principal feature of all will be a real refinery in operation. We will use a carload of oil every week, and refine this into gasoline and various lubricants.

"The products of this refinery we will use in the machinery building, where all kinds of fine machinery will be in operation. The engineers and machinists in charge of the machinery will be asked to make observations and keep data on the results of the gasolines and lubricants used. All kinds of oils, eastern and California, will be used in this way, and we want to show by the results obtained that the California black oil is every bit as good and useful as the higher-grade Pennsylvania product."

"In order to do this we must pool our funds and more will be requested from the counties producing oil than they originally intended to give," he continued. "The entire exhibit was to have been financed by the oil companies of the State, but, owing to the situation at the present time, resulting from the war in Europe and over-production, money is very scarce and the oil companies have been unable to carry out their intentions. Consequently we are compelled to raise the funds in some other way.

"The Standard Oil Company offered to finance the entire project, stipulating, however, that its name should be attached to everything. This, of course, would make the affair nothing but an advertising scheme and the offer was refused. The Union Oil Company offered to do the same thing without any strings attached to the proposal, but owing to the present financial situation the offer had to be withdrawn.

"The Associated Oil Company has promised to donate $1500 and the Royal Dutch-Shell combine has offered to give its share, waiting to see what other oil companies do before making their donation. Fresno has almost assured us $5000. Santa Barbara men in charge of the exhibit there have virtually promised $1000 and citizens have promised to raise $1500 more. The seven southern counties, headed by Los Angeles, which are arranging a competitive exhibit, have a large amount set aside for the oil exhibit and we will probably get that. With the help of Kern County, I think that the petroleum exhibit as planned is assured."

E. H. Loveland asked Allen if the county's oil exhibit would be segregated or would be scattered around with the oil exhibits from other parts of the United States. Allen replied that California oil would have an entire section to itself, and Kern county could have another section in the California exhibit prepared especially for California oil products. The members of the local committee—L. P. St. Clair, president of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency, and H. A. Jastro—all expressed the opinion that, considering the size of the oil industry in Kern county the county could hardly do anything else than make special efforts to have the oil exhibit a success. A final answer will be given the Bureau of Mines through Allen by the middle of the month.

MAPS FILED.

Maps and other official data on the new 1000-acre subdivision of the Nuevo Rancho property, in the Lakeview-Perris-Hemet Valley, have been filed with the Recorder of Riverside county by James R. H. Wagner Company, subdivider and developer of the holding. This is the fourth subdivision of Nuevo Rancho property that has been opened by the Wagner Company.

FOR WILSHIRE CORNER.

Plans Completed for Attractive Residence to be Erected at Third Street and Kingsley Drive.

Plans have just been completed by W. C. Pennell for an attractive house to be started at once by Horton & Bowers at the southwest corner of Third street and Kingsley drive. The dwelling will have plastered exterior walls and composition roof. A garage in keeping will be built at the rear of the lot.

The first floor will contain a living-room, reception hall, dining-room, library, breakfast-room, conservatory, kitchen and quarters for servants, while provision is made on the second story for four bedrooms, two tile baths and a sleeping porch. The woodwork will be in white enamel and mahogany, the walls of the main rooms being decorated by hand.

SCHOOL CONTRACT LET.

Los Angeles Company to Erect Three New Buildings of Alhambra Polytechnic High School Group.

ALHAMBRA, Oct. 10.—The John H. Simpson Company of Los Angeles has been awarded the general contract for the construction of the three new High School buildings to be erected at this place. The figure is announced at $66,435, which does not include some $20,000 worth of subcontracts. Norman F. Marsh of Los Angeles is the architect.

The three buildings will be the first of seven or more structures that will eventually be erected on the present High School campus, and plans for which have been prepared by Mr. Marsh. The buildings will be of hollow tile construction and will have brick facing. The equipment will be thoroughly modern throughout.

LEASED FOR TEN YEARS.

Tenant Occupies New Thirty-suite Apartment-house on South Bonnie Brae Street near Eighth.

One of the newest of the improvements of the Westlake district, the La Court apartments at No. 823 South Bonnie Brae street, has been leased by W. J. Newton, as owner, to N. I. Nearing for a term of ten years. The tenant has just taken possession.

The building with its site represents a reported investment of $60,000. The structure was planned by C. F. Finkenbinder and is of brick construction, with red pressed brick front and stone trim. The exposed part of the roof is of tile. There are thirty apartments, a lobby, an amusement hall and two parlors.

FONTANA ACTIVITIES.

The Thomas D. Campbell Company reports sales at Fontana as follows: Ten acres in naval oranges and seedless grapefruit to Charles C. Angle, an oil man of the Bakersfield district, $6000; seven acres in valencia oranges and seedless grapefruit to DeWitt L. Huff of Pasadena; five acres in valencia oranges to Albert B. Wolf of Indiana, $3500, and twenty acres to Francis L. Brady, $7215.

Bankruptcy Petition.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 3.—The Southern Arizona Smelting Company has filed a petition of voluntary bankruptcy in the United States Court. No value is put on the assets, but the liabilities approximate $80,000. The principal claim is that of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, $27,759. Nearly as much is owed the Imperial Copper Company, and the Consolidated National Bank of Tucson has the company's promissory note for $10,000.

The bankrupt corporation was subsidiary to the Imperial Copper Company, and was organized for the construction of a smelter at Sasco for the handling of Imperial ores. The smelter property already is under attachment at the instance of the receiver of the Imperial company.

WIRELESS IN WAR.

Each Nation has Stations of Wide Range and it has Become Impossible to Prevent Communication.

[Boston Transcript:] The stopping of all telegraphic and telephone communication between the belligerents at the first breathing of war and the partial stopping of control and censorship of such communications from nations at war to non-belligerents has rendered invaluable messages by wireless across and around the regions controlled by the belligerents and especially at sea and across the seas. But the bottling up of any place so that it cannot hold communication with the outside is a thing of the past. The fact that a wireless apparatus cannot be easily hidden prevents the surreptitious use which might be made of it in regions under control of the belligerents, although for short distance communication, such as along frontiers or between close-lying countries as in Western Europe, a small wireless receiving apparatus might be secretly used, especially if it were temporarily strung under cover of the darkness and taken down before daylight. In such work there will be a new field for signal corps work and scouting.

As regards the more powerful land stations, those which will keep up communication 500 miles or more, these can be easily kept under government supervision, but the use of wireless on ships for sending messages up to and from 250 to 500 miles and receiving them at still greater distance from powerful land stations, will be subject only to such artificial interference as may be put in operation by the belligerents.

There can be no doubt that the experience in the present war will result in the closer governmental control of private and amateur wireless installation.

Austria-Hungary has four important government wireless stations—Castelnuovo, Pola and Sebinico, with a normal range of 250 miles by day and 500 by night, and Trieste, with a day range of 150 miles and a night range of 300.

Germany has seventeen wireless stations, of which eight are lightships, with small range of from twenty to sixty miles. The remaining stations are at Barkum, range 100 miles; Bremerhafen, range 200 miles; Bulk (Kiel Bay,) range 110 miles; Cuxhaven, day range 110 miles, night range 170 miles; Danzig, day range 330 miles, night range, 660; Heligoland, range 110 miles; Norddeich, day range 430 miles, night range 830 miles; Sassrutz (Rugen,) range 110 miles; Swinemunde, day range 830 miles, night range 1600.

France has eighteen stations—Boulogne-sur-Mer, range 100 miles; Bouscat, range 160 miles; Brest, range 350 miles; Cherbourg, range 350 miles; Dieppe, range fifty miles; Dunkerque, range 350 miles; Eiffel Tower, large range; Ouessant, range 380 miles; Port Vendres, ——; Rochefort, range 380 miles; Toulon, ——; several other statinos are on the African coast.

Russia has twenty-eight stations, of which the following are on or near the Baltic Sea: Helsingfors, range ——; Kronstadt, range ——; Libau, range 170 miles; Preste, range ——; Revel, range 170 miles; Riga, range 160 miles; Rouno, range seventy miles; Wiborg, range ——.

Great Britain has sixty-eight stations. Literally thousands of ships are provided with wireless outfits, and those on board men-of-war usually have a range of 100 miles or more and are thus equal to a good land station.

Prophetic Canvass.

SAYS NORTH'S SOLID FOR CAPT. FREDERICKS.

"NORTHERN CALIFORNIA will give Capt. Fredericks a tremendous plurality over Gov. Johnson on November 3," declared Attorney E. L. Davin of San Diego, president of the Young Republican Clubs of California, yesterday. Mr. Davin, who has just returned from a tour of the northern part of the State, is elated over the rosy prospects.

"I don't think Gov. Johnson will carry a county north of the Tehachepi," said Mr. Davin. "If the Republicans of this end of the State do their full duty, Gov. Johnson won't carry a single county. Capt. Fredericks is making friends wherever he goes. The fact that the Johnson-Earl machine is holding up civil service employees and forcing them to contribute money to the 'Progressive' campaign dough-bag is proof positive that the fake reformers are in bad straits. Gov. Johnson yells for civil service in one breath and the next minute he is holding his blacksnake over the heads of civil service employees demanding money to run his campaign.

"Thousands of Democrats will vote for Capt. Fredericks. Senator Curtin, the Democratic nominee, is a good man but he cannot win and sane and solid Bourbons will support Capt. Fredericks in order to smash Johnsonism and 'Progressive' hypocrisy.

"The Republican party stands for true progress, protection and prosperity. The party welcomes to its ranks all kinds and classes of citizens who believe in sound government. Gov. Johnson has built up a powerful machine with the people's money and has increased the expenses of running the State government from $7,000,000 in 1910 to $14,000,000 in 1914. Despite the horde of State employees (under civil service) who are plugging for the 'Progressive' ticket, Capt. Fredericks will lead Gov. Johnson about 60,000 votes in the final count. Many political experts in Sacramento and San Francisco place Capt. Fredericks's plurality at 100,000.

"Capt. Fredericks is a strong favorite in the betting in the north. He will beat Gov. Johnson three to one in San Diego county. If the Los Angeles Republicans stand fast it will be a landslide. Capt. Fredericks is gaining rapidly in Alameda county owing to the 'Progressive' registration and election frauds. The decent citizens of Oakland and Alameda are determined to punish the ballot-snatchers and forgers at the head of the 'Progressive' machine in those cities and are going to vote for Capt. Fredericks and Congressman Knowland. 'Roughneck' McDonald, Tom Finn, Dominick Beban and other sterling 'Progressive' bosses openly boast they will carry San Francisco for Gov. Johnson, but Republican leaders claim they will beat Johnson 10,000 in that city."

for which the Los Angeles Tribune also fails to give the District Attorney credit.

Another item of expense attached to the District Attorney's office in Los Angeles county, which is not a part of the prosecuting office elsewhere, is that of four process-servers. All subpoenas and processes connected with the trial of cases in other counties are served and taken care of by the Sheriff. For the purpose of convenience and efficiency, the District Attorney of Los Angeles county has undertaken that work for several years past. The salaries of these men alone amount to approximately $5000 a year, without taking into consideration the expense of transportation, etc., connected therewith.

Additional evidence of the volume of business of the District Attorney's office in Los Angeles county is found in the biennial report made to the Attorney-General for the years 1913 and 1914, which shows that this office handled no less than 1847 felony cases, of which number 75 per cent. of convictions were obtained, a record which is not surpassed, if equaled, in any District Attorney's office in the United States. In fact, the District Attorney's office of Los Angeles county is one of the three biggest offices in the country.

Without going further into the additional misrepresentations, facts and figures here given furnish abundant evidence to show there is no basis whatever for the comparisons given and that it is only done with the intent to deceive the public and to discredit the splendid record of John D. Fredericks and the District Attorney's office.

Briggs Reception.

Sidney L. Briggs, candidate for Supervisor in the Third District, was the first man to ever be a guest of honor at a reception in the Hollywood Woman's Clubhouse, where he was tendered a reception yesterday afternoon by many prominent society women, who have organized as the Nonpartisan League. Mrs. David T. Forbes is leader of the league, and as such presided, introducing Mrs. Cassius Smith, president of the Hollywood Woman's Club. Mrs. Smith, after a formal welcome, in turn introduced Philo J. Beveridge.

Mr. Beveridge asserted that Mr. Briggs was especially under the obligations of Hollywood, because he had donated rights of way through his properties that made possible the extension of Sunset boulevard, until it has become a direct thoroughfare to the beaches. Mr. Briggs, in his speech, told of his interest in Hollywood, because of the property that he owns there.

The political session was followed by a social gathering, at which refreshments were served under supervision of Mrs. I. S. Baass, Mrs. C. S. Abel and Mrs. C. H. Conrad.

Among the guests who thronged the clubhouse were Mrs. David T. Forbes, Miss Edith Gibbs, Mrs. Adelbert S. Abbott, Mrs. Mary Banning, Mrs. Mary I. Barnes, Mrs. Cornelius Cole, Prof. Edgar Lucien Larkin, Mrs. H. S. Fendler, Mrs. F. Williams, Mrs. F. M. Douglas, Philo J. Beveridge, Mrs. S. A. Rendall, Mrs. L. C. Torrance, Mrs. I. Henry Harris, Mrs. Howard Barber, Mrs. M. Adams, Mrs. W. A. Hammel, Mrs. Cassius Smith, Mrs. Seward Cole, Sidney L. Briggs, Mrs. Robert Portion Holmes, Mrs. M. Darlymple, Mrs. M. H. Pehr, Mrs. Henry Haldeman, Mrs. A. J. Aicher, Mrs. W. S. Bush, Mrs. C. R. Luton, Mrs. M. J. Brady, Mrs. G. C. Moody, Mrs. Robert P. McJohnston, Mrs. C. C. Toms, W. A. Hammel, Mrs. H. C. Dillon, Mrs. William Baurhyte, Mrs. Mary B. Ford, Mrs. S. D. Dice, Mrs. Matilda M. Coleman, Mrs. R. T. Brain, Mrs. E. W. Prather, Mrs. O. P. Clark, Mrs. F. R. Hills, Mrs. Jackson F. Durlin, Mrs. Tracy Becker, Mrs. James E. Cutler, Mrs. Frank Blair and Mrs. N. J. Beveridge.

Women's Fredericks Club.

The first of a series of afternoon meetings to be held daily until election day will be started at 2 o'clock, Monday, by the Women's Fredericks Club at No. 301 Stowell Hotel. All women are invited to these meetings. At the initial gathering Mrs. O. P. Clark, president, and Mrs. William Baurhyte will both preside. There will be several speakers. The officers and directors of the club are: President, Mrs. O. P. Clark; first vice-president, Mrs. George Drake Ruddy; second vice-president, Mrs. Wheaton A. Gray; secretary, Mrs. Samuel Cary Dunlap; organizer, Mrs. David T. Forbes; directors and members Executive Committee, Mrs. Dr. Lindley, Mrs. Dr. Becket, Mrs. J. E. Fishburn, Mrs. W. M. Bowen, Mrs. William Baurhyte, Mrs. Henry Martin, Mrs. F. J. Ryan, Mrs. T. M. Sloan, Mrs. Lillian Burkhart Goldsmith, Mrs. W. C. Mushet, Mrs. Andrew Francisco, Mrs. Rhoderick W. Richardson, Mrs. Robert Burdette, Mrs. Oscar Lawler and Mrs. Pearl Morrison.

Orange Stephens Club.

Plans to carry on an active campaign for William D. Stephens for Congress have been made by a number of citizens who have organized a Stephens club. Branch clubs will be organized throughout the Tenth District. The Executive Committee of the club consists of Stoddard Jess, M. H. Newmark, William Rhodes Hervey, J. E. Carr, F. W. Braun, S. Hecht, Robert Marsh, E. A. Geissler, R. W. Burnham, Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, Martin C. Neuner, A. L. Stetson and many others.

On His Record.

"BILLY" HAMMEL AS A WINNER.

COMMENDED BY GRAND JURY AND STATE BOARD.

Just the Man Needed to Handle the Business of the Sheriff's Office During Exposition Year—Clean, Honest and Square and a Terror to Lawbreakers.

Sheriff William A. Hammel, in standing for re-election, has that best of all recommendation, an excellent official record. When a man has made good in an office, when he has conducted it faithfully and in the interest of and to the satisfaction of the people, that very record gives logical presumption that if he is re-elected he will keep right on administering the office successfully. It isn't every man who is fitted by temperament or capability to be a good Sheriff. "Billy" Hammel is naturally endowed with the qualities that make a superior peace officer, while he is a stern nemesis to lawbreakers, to his friends and to all well disposed, law-abiding persons, he is affable and courteous. He has conducted the important office of Sheriff of this county with noticeable efficiency and without scandal in any particular. He takes pride in having the shrievalty clean, honest and square in all its methods. Particularly should there be an able and experienced man in the Sheriff's office next year when the exposition crowds come pouring in, and Mr. Hammel is just the man. The people should look to their own interests in this.

In the grand jury's report of 1913, the comment of the Committee on Jails, regarding the inspection of the Los Angeles County Jail, of which Mr. Hammel has direct charge, is as follows: "This jail we found in most excellent condition; cleanliness and sanitation we found excellent."

The State Board of Charities and Corrections, says in its last report: "The segregation of prisoners is good, prisoners are not locked in their cells, but are allowed to associate together. Condition of clothing, good. Bedding in good condition, and prisoners' blankets are washed up each time a man goes out. A physician, who is an interne in the County Hospital, visits the jail daily. A hospital ward is provided and prisoners are submitted to an examination upon entrance. Good discipline is maintained. The Legal Aid Society is permitted to help prisoners employ legal counsel. The condition of the cells and the corridors was clean. We have no suggestions to offer, as the institution is in very good condition."

The fee system, which has been in vogue for over thirty years, will be abolished on December 31 of this year. The new County Charter provides that all fees must be turned over to the County Treasurer on and after January 1, 1915. The same charter also provides for a system of civil service appointments for the Sheriff's office as well as all other county offices, same being in force since a year ago last December.

As to the illicit selling of liquor in "blind pigs," the Sheriff's office for a period of eight or ten years has had nothing to do with the handling of this traffic, it being placed in the hands of the District Attorney at that time, and a special fund set aside for that purpose.

POLITICAL TIPS.

While President Wilson has personally kept out of the New York contests, members of his administration family have not done so. Secretary McAdoo, his son-in-law, saw fit to espouse the Hennessy-Roosevelt ticket and thus called down on the administration a criticism of the New York organization Democrats. At the primaries the Hennessy-Roosevelt ticket was defeated. Now Mr. McAdoo announces his support of Gov. Glynn for re-election and Ambassador Gerard for the Senatorship. Gov. Glynn has been trying to get the direct support of the President, but the latter has thus far kept out of it, but may write a letter urging the election of all the members on the Democratic ticket. Meantime Secretary Bryan has changed his tune and is now singing the praises of Ambassador Gerard and urging his election as a means of obtaining another Democratic Senator from New York.

President Wilson has begun his letter-writing campaign for the election of Democratic Representatives and Senators by indorsing Senator Shiveley of Indiana and Senator Chamberlain of Oregon. He says he wants the former because of his personal friendship, and the latter because he wants to maintain the Democratic majority in the Senate. Other letters are expected favoring the election of Ambassador Gerard as Senator from New York, Representative Palmer for the Senate in Pennsylvania, Senator Thomas of Colorado, Representative Connolly for the Senate in Iowa, and possibly for Roger Sullivan for the Senate from Illinois. A Presidential indorsement of Sullivan will be a hard blow for Mr. Bryan, who did his level best to defeat the nomination, but it is difficult to see how the President can help indorsing Sullivan if he indorses the other Democratic nominees.

Practically every member of the President's Cabinet will go upon the stump during the fall campaign. Plans are already under way for tours by Secretaries Bryan, Daniels, Garrison, Wilson, Redfield, Lane and Postmaster-General Burleson.

Secretary Bryan's proposed expedition into Ohio in the interest of Gov. Cox is pretty distasteful to the Prohibitions of the State, as Cox favors the dreadful "foe of the Christian home and hearth," while Bryan himself believes in grape juice only. This is the consistency that hedges about politics.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, who is one of the members of Congress blacklisted by Dr. Anna Shaw's Woman's Suffrage Association, says that any statement that he has been opposed to humanitarian measures is absolutely false, and he proves it by stating his position on practically every measure of this character that has been before Congress. It is now up to Dr. Shaw.

There is a question of veracity in Evansville, Ind., between Rev. William H. Brightmire, pastor of Simpson M. E. Church, and the secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Senator Beveridge, Progressive nominee for the United States Senatorship, was refused a chance to deliver an address on "Success" in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium, as Brightmire says, because "Beveridge smoked cigarettes;" as the secretary says, because he was "engaged in a political campaign."

Woman suffrage is at a discount in New Jersey, both the Republicans and the Democrats having refused to put a suffrage plank in their State platform.

Mr. Bryan says there is going to be peace in Mexico. He said he was going to Washington, but in agreement with his sixteen-to-one theory it took him sixteen years to get to the Capitol, and then in a subordinate position. Peace in Mexico may be sixteen years off.

Elections in Chicago this year are expected to necessitate an expenditure of $1,000,000, which is a pretty high price for the public to pay to fill 153 offices. It cost $7000 to elect an Alderman whose salary is $3000 and a like amount to elect a State Legislator whose salary is $2000. And they have the primary election law for the benefit of the people.

Why has Secretary Redfield been dropped as the voice of the administration and Secretary Daniels sent out through the country in his place? asks the Philadelphia Press. This does recall that early in the administration of President Wilson it was Redfield who flitted about the country telling of the commerce that would darken the seas when the Wilson tariff reform programme was completed. For months now Redfield's voice has been silent. Others are telling the story of the halcyon days that are due as the result of the Democratic administration.

Ralph L. Oberlin, Auditor of Stark county, Ohio, accuses Gov. Cox (Democrat) of deliberately falsifying in his speeches regarding the high taxes. "I challenged his remarks in Massillon, but he turned away and would not discuss it with me," says Oberlin.

The aerial campaign of A. Piatt Andrew, who has been asking for the Republican and the "Progressive" nominations for Governor of Massachusetts, did not materialize. He was to make a visit to the towns along the Merrimac River in an aeroplane in the interest of his candidacy, but the owners of the machine sold it and told him if he wanted one he could take another one which they offered him. He tried to, but the machine balked. So has his nomination.

Gov. Fielder of New Jersey is to have the support of at least three members of the President's Cabinet in his campaign for re-election. There is not as much certainty of the State remaining in the Democratic column as there might be. From 1896 to the election of Wilson as Governor the State was in the Republican column. It may be there again.

Ambassador Gerard, who has been given the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from New York, will depend upon his friends for his election. He will not leave Germany to further his ambitions at home. His campaign will, therefore, be one unique in American politics.

The poll books of the strongest Bull Moose wards of Indianapolis show a decrease in the "Progressive" strength of 6000 out of a total of 10,233 two years ago. This is not very encouraging to the Democrats of Indianapolis, who depend upon the "Progressives" for a large part of their success.

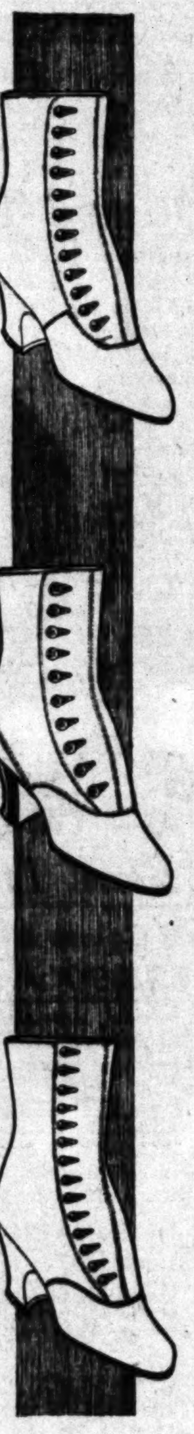
Senator Dillingham of Vermont has filed a sworn statement that his campaign expenses for renomination were absolutely nothing. Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire says his expenses amounted to only a few dollars at the most. These New England States believe in keeping in office the men who have done good work for the State and the nation.

President Wilson's declaration in an open letter that "the maintenance of the Democratic majority in the Senate is of the utmost importance to the country if the present policies and programme of the government are to be sustained and continued," is declared by the Philadelphia Press to be an important argument for the Republicans of the country, who believe in the protective policy, to unite all their forces for the election of every Republican candidate possible. "The Democratic President and supreme leader of the Democratic party points the issue," says the Press.

Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, who won the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Pennsylvania, says: "I have the best of feeling for Mr. Pinchot and wish him the greatest success in his efforts to build up anti-Penrose sentiment in the old Republican party" of Pennsylvania. He thus looks to Pinchot to help maintain a Democratic majority in Congress. This is all that the Progressive movement has thus far accomplished, and it is by the grace of the Progressives that the country has the present Democratic government and its attendant disaster to business of all kinds.

Organizing for Craig.

A committee of 500 women is being organized by women friends of Judge Craig to support his candidacy for Presiding Judge of the District Court of Appeals. It is the purpose of the women to canvass the entire city and county and place in the hands of the voters, particularly the women, the data upon which they base their faith in their candidate and his claims to the office. Every precinct in the county will be organized. Precinct meetings will be held beginning tomorrow and continuing daily until election day. Judge Craig carried ten out of the thirteen counties in the district in the primaries and polled nearly 6000 votes more than his nearest opponent. Judge Craig will leave for San Diego tomorrow, where he will be tendered a reception by the Young Republican Club of that city.



Gude's Greater Shoe Store

Footwear for Women

$3.50, $4.00, $5.00 and to $10.00

HERE you will find the best expressions of the world's foremost shoecrafters, at prices ranging from $3 to $10, with PARTICULAR EMPHASIS on lines to sell at $3½, $4, $5 and to $6½. Each grade offers a broad scope for the exercise of individual taste in selection; and the values, we POSITIVELY BELIEVE, are unsurpassed anywhere. The "Cousins" Shoe, made in New York, for discriminating women—and sold in Los Angeles only at Gude's—splendidly exemplifies the latest footwear fashions.

Late Styles for Women

The present season's vogue of comparatively short skirts renders it imperative that you choose your footwear with discrimination; in order that it may be faultlessly correct, and in harmony with your suit or gown.

The mode of colored and black cloth toppings, with patent or dull vamps, is pre-eminent. In heels, the Spanish-Cuban, covered with cloth or leather, is correct.

Overgaiter effects in boot tops is a prominent development of the new season; and a tendency to shorter vamps and fuller toes is noticeable.

In low shoes for afternoon and evening wear, PUMPS! Light dainty effects, and the cut-out strap effects, ornamented with beading, brilliants and buckles, stand out pre-eminently as the accepted mode.

The attractiveness of the Pump, in its many variations, easily gives it first place for dressy occasions.

Gude's Greater Shoe Store

The following article, which appeared editorially in a recent issue of the Los Angeles Herald, tells of the remarkable growth of Gude's Greater Shoe Store.

"Seldom has the growth of the city been reflected in the growth of its individual stores, as is shown in the progress of Gude's store on Broadway for men's and women's shoes.

"Starting on Spring street fourteen years ago with only half the space of an ordinary-sized storeroom, Gude's grew in size and appointments until now the imposing Establishment at 537-539 South Broadway reveals the ambition for leadership which has brought success.

"The fitting rooms on the main floor for women's shoes, and downstairs for men's shoes, are finished in mahogany and ivory. In arrangement, convenience, comfort, ventilation and lighting features, this store is the equal of any in the country."

BUSY PEOPLE IN BUSTLING CITY.

What Angelenos Do to Earn Their Living.

Men Milliners and Women Carpenters in List.

Wide Variety of Occupation in Federal Report.

Los Angeles is a busy city, and the industry of its people takes a great variety of forms, according to the United States Census Bureau, which has just issued statistics of occupations in cities of 100,000 and over.

The report classifies 114,827 men and 32,393 women. Workers under the heading of manufacturing and mechanical industries far outnumber any other and include 39,500 men and 6041 women. In the list are 609 bakers, 913 blacksmiths, 302 boilermakers, 711 brick and stone masons, 2359 builders and building contractors and 915 compositors.

Men have no complete monopoly in the carpenter field for there are two women listed. Male carpenters number 5731. There are also two women electricians and 1570 men. On the other hand there are four men under the heading of dressmakers and 2978 women. Men have an even larger percentage in the millinery column, there being fifty-two and 789 women.

There are 1311 engineers, 267 jewelers and watchmakers, 4288 in building and hand trades, 471 clay and glass workers, 2542 machinists and millwrights, 567 managers and superintendents, 1692 manufacturers and officials, fifty-seven millers, 338 molders and founders, 2115 painters, 1114 plumbers and 398 shoemakers and cobblers.

Under the general heading of agriculture, forestry and animal husbandry are 3820 men and ninety-two women. There are 822 farm laborers, of which seven are women. There are forty-seven farm foremen, 478 gardeners and nurserymen, fourteen lumbermen, four timber camp owners and managers, 119 stock herders and 122 stock raisers.

Nine women and 1912 men are engaged in the extradition of minerals. There are forty-two foremen and overseers, 482 officials and managers, twelve coal-mine operatives, twenty-eight copper-mine operatives, 451 gold and silver-mine operatives, four iron-mine operatives, forty quarry operatives and 330 oil and salt-mine operatives.

The item of transportation looms big in Los Angeles. In that line of industry alone 13,814 men and 841 women are employed. There are four boatmen, eighty-three captains, 177 longshoremen, 239 sailors and deckhands. The decline of the horse as a means of transportation is shown by the fact that there are 590 chauffeurs and only seventy-two carriage and hack drivers. There are 2875 draymen, teamsters and expressmen, 244 hostlers and eighty-six livery stable-keepers.

In railroad transportation there are eighty-one baggage men and freight agents, 1887 laborers, 465 locomotive engineers, 320 locomotive firemen, 920 motormen, 174 officials and superintendents, 377 switchmen, yardmen and flagmen, 191 express messengers and railway mail clerks, 765 telephone operators and 351 telegraph operators. Of the 302 mail carriers five are women.

In trade in Los Angeles are 26,849 men and 3881 women. There are forty-five women bankers and 1083 men. There are 2999 clerks in stores, 1250 commercial travelers, 100 decorators, window dressers and drapers, 1648 deliverymen, 259 floorwalkers and overseers, sixty-five inspectors, 671 insurance agents and officials, 1393 laborers in coal and lumber yards and warehouses, 548 porters and laborers, 223 newsboys and one newsgirl. There are 3278 real estate agents and officials, 7572 salesmen and saleswomen, eighty-six undertakers and 498 wholesale dealers.

In public service are 284 firemen, 304 guards and watchmen, 167 marshals, sheriffs and detectives, 352 policemen and fifty-four soldiers, sailors and marines.

In professional service are 7717 men and 5094 women. Included are 237 actors, 210 actresses, 252 architects, 550 artists, sculptors and teachers of art, 424 authors and editors, 194 chemists and assayers, 907 civil and mining engineers, 489 clergymen, 124 college presidents and professors, 361 dentists, 422 designers and draftsmen, 1015 lawyers and judges, 1460 musicians and teachers of music, 2281 teachers, 820 trained nurses and fifty-four veterinarians.

In domestic and personal service, including barbers, bartenders, waiters, housekeepers, laundry operatives and hotel keepers, are 10,388 men and 11,240 women.

There are 8590 men and 5054 women in clerical occupations. The list includes 1412 canvassers and collectors, 4064 book-keepers, cashiers and accountants, 4750 clerks (other than those in stores,) 754 messenger and bundle boys and 2681 stenographers and typewriters.

MEETS MAN HE WANTS.

Hotel Manager Finds Person for Whom He Cashed Check in Yuma as a Convict.

The long quest of Manager Mitchell of the Hollenbeck for a guest for whom he cashed a worthless check for $150 ended with his meeting the man face to face recently in Yuma. But Mr. Mitchell was not able to collect the money or to have the satisfaction of having the imposter arrested. The man had already been convicted of a similar charge and is now serving time in the Arizona penitentiary. The culprit was a trusty working on the street when Mr. Mitchell saw him and recognized him during a visit to the Arizona city.

"This man was one of the cleverest 'bad check' men who ever operated among the hotel men," Mr. Mitchell said yesterday. "He came into the hotel and registered, and asked for a sample room, and then called for his mail. We turned over a letter to him which he said was from the firm which employed him. The letter had a check for $150.

"He asked me to cash the check, but I demanded further identification. He gave me his business card, showed me the initials on his watch, and as a final convincing stroke produced his book of transportation. Thus he had all the ear-marks of a first-class traveling man. But the check was no good. The letter was a dummy and the transportation book was bogus. They will get us once in a while, but not often. In the hotel business we can't avoid cashing checks."

HARRY LAUDER AT MAJESTIC.

"Trail of Lonesome Pine" at Mason.

"Neptune's Nymphs" Splash in Empress Tank.

Daly to Amuse Orpheumites with Anatol Play.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Eugene Walter's dramatization of John Fox's story of the same name, will be the offering at the Mason Operahouse during the coming week.

The play has for its motif the feudal war that rages among the mountain clans.

Isabelle Lowe plays "June," the mountain maid. Miss Lowe made her first big hit in playing the difficult role of "Glad," in the "The Dawn of a Tomorrow." It is said Mr. Walter's play transfers to the stage the atmosphere of the Virginia hills.

Majestic.

Harry Lauder, "In Person," will appear at the Majestic Theater for four performances only, twice daily, Friday and Saturday, October 16 and 17.

The famous Scotch comedian will be accompanied by the same support which went with him to Australia, and helped to make that tour a triumphal one. Mr. Lauder has added some new songs to his repertoire.

On Sunday evening, October 18, "A Pair of Sixes," the farce which ran a solid year in New York, will be the attraction, continuing during that week.

Burbank.

"He Fell in Love With His Wife" has proved so strong an attraction at the Burbank that it will be continued for another week.

The play is of the romantic melodramatic type that has somehow struck a popular chord; and the cast, including Selma Paley, Forrest Stanley, Walter Catlett, Beatrice Nichols, James K. Applebee, William Colvin, Thomas McLarnie, H. S. Duffield, Flo Oberle and Winifred Bryson, are doing some of the best work of their careers.

"Fine Feathers" will follow "He Fell in Love with His Wife."

Morosco.

With new features and specialties, the charming musical comedy, "Let's Get Married," will start on its fourth week tomorrow.

One of the new features will be a unique act by Charles Chaplin, Charles Murray and Roscoe Arbucle, the big three comedians of the Keystone Film Company, in which these fun fans will produce a movie specialty, showing just how it's done on the phantom stage.

Other features will be a new song by Miss Josephine Ihmsen, and new classic dances by Una Fleming.

Orpheum.

With a big Lasky musical comedy, "The Beauties," as the new topliner at the Orpheum for the week beginning Monday, and with Arnold Daly holding over in a new play, the bill for the coming week looks like another "fourtime winner." The act promises beautiful scenery, handsome costumes, and lively music by Robert Hood Bowers, accompanying the William Le Baron book.

Mr. Daly is to appear in one of the "Anatol" series by Schnitzler, "Ask no Questions" being the play selected.

Other newcomers on the bill include a real Turkish pianist; Flavilla, a pretty girl who dances to her own accordeon music; Maurice Burkhart and Elmore White, singers. The holdovers are Reisner and Gores, and Boland and Holtz, in song-dance-patter numbers, and Cole and Denahy, in their ballroom dances. There will be the usual pleasing concert and moving picture numbers.

Hippodrome.

The first of the road shows will appear Monday, and the bill promises well. There are to be Webb's Equestrian Seals, the Four Casting Lanceys who promise stunts which only a Hip stage could accommodate; Parson and Parson, clever Dutch kids; Russell and Ione, banjo spankers, and Maley and Mack, song and dance team.

Next week is to be the last week of Abram and Johns, without doubt the most popular sketch team which has ever played the Hippodrome.

Pantages.

Pantages promises "the best show of the season" next week.

The headliner is a melodramatic sketch, "The Night Hawks," a crook playlet; Palfrey, Barton and Brown, in "Follies of Vaudeville," are another attraction; Dave "Popularity" Woods brings his animal actors in a Dogtown comedy; Dan Quinlan, known as "the Chesterfield of Minstrelsy," and his team-mate, Vic Richards, will supply a minstrel act. Rozella and Rozella, in various musical instruments, present a musical and comedy act. Meryl and Reta are two young women who appear in a semi-classic dance, "La Danze Duello," in which electrical effects are combined with dancing and swordsmanship.

The Pantagescope Comedies continue.

Loew's Empress.

Neptune's Nymphs, five of them, headline the Empress bill next week. This act is said to be rated as one of the most beautiful and attractive in vaudeville. A mirror arrangement over the big tank, which holds 10,000 gallons of water, will enable the audience to see the girls in the water as well as during the diving numbers.

Two diving contests are to be held at the Empress this week. The first will be held on Tuesday night, for men and boys, the second on Friday night for women swimmers. Gold medals will be the prizes.

A number of good acts accompany this bill. Arthur Devoy and Evelyn Faber will give a playlet entitled "The Victim;" Edward Aveling and Albert Lloyd, the "home town boys and princes of nut comedy," have a lively act. Others are Joseph Laurie and Frances Aleen, juvenile entertainers; "Swan," the dancing juggler; Miller, Moore and Gardner, singers and dancers. There will be the usual motion pictures.

Republic.

America's most shapely maid, Annette Kellerman, is billed for another week at the Republic, in Capt. Leslie Peacock's film story, "Neptune's Daughter."

There is also a vaudeville list, headed by Fernandez and May, eccentric musicians; Du Bell and Van, singers; the Two Fostellians, Roman ring artists; Pearson and Illmer, in "A Chinese Nugget;" Dixie Southern, character comedienne, and Fred Roberts, "the man behind the voice."

The new policy of the Republic is to present the biggest and best motion-picture productions in conjunction with six acts of vaudeville.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

William Bardel, the American Consul at Rheims, his wife, his daughter and his son, are the only Americans left in the French city. They have spent most of their time during the past fortnight in a wine cellar 100 feet under ground, the opening to which is within half a block of their dwelling. Their residence is in the quarter of the city which has been almost all destroyed by shells and fire, and when things become too active recourse is had to the wine cellar.

William Howard Gibson, Assistant United States Treasurer, in Philadelphia, has been in the employ of the national government for fifty years. He is 71 years old, but he continues at his work with an activity not equaled by many younger men. Appointed a clerk in the Treasury Department during the administration of President Lincoln, he has held a place during all the changing political regimes.

A West Point class ring worn by Capt. Frank P. Avery of Washington, a retired United States army officer, saved him from imprisonment as a British spy while in Munich. He was arrested by soldiers and taken to military headquarters, when an inspector, who had visited the West Point Academy, saw the ring, and not only gave him his freedom, but also pinned a badge on Capt. Avery's coat, which enabled him to go wherever he pleased in Munich.

Wilmer Eggs of Swedesboro, N. J., has quit as Borough Marshal after two years of service without pay. During that period he has made 114 arrests, some of which involved disagreeable mix-ups with belligerents, with considerable costs for flesh and clothing repairs. In his resignation he says: "I do not think it my duty as an unpaid officer to risk my life in performing the duties, especially as I am expected to pay the bill for dressing my wounds and possibly my own funeral expenses."

ABOUT THEATER AUDIENCES.

Who the People are, What They Want and the Effect of the Public on Plays as Well as Plays on the Public.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

WHAT the people bring to the stage is just about as important as what the stage brings to the people.

The people have to take what they get, but they don't have to like it and they won't take it long if they don't like it. On the other hand, if a man has a big idea and knows how to handle it he can really compel the people to listen to him.

The stage is not a good vehicle for any kind of new doctrine nor for the direct preaching of an old one, but if an author has a new idea and is able to couch it in terms that will appeal to common feeling and understanding he has an excellent chance to have his message heard.

It is impossible to think of a good play written purely for the purpose of delivering a preachment. If a man writes his play primarily because he is a dramatist the world will probably forgive him his opinions, although they are the least essential portions of the work.

There is a big difference between opinions and principals. A man may write a glorious play touching on many things without being a fanatic about anything except a mad devotion to art and the beauty of its expression. A man does not have to be crazy about eugenics, socialism or the social evil in order to have something to say in a play. It is vastly more important that the people he creates should have something human, living and alive than that they should say something that the author thinks will do the rest of us good.

A man may sometimes be clever without being abominable, although I seriously doubt if cleverness has anything to do with a high degree of art, and I am afraid it is impossible to preach to us without revealing the fact that we are being preached at. From this deadly, common and current vice may the lord of letters speedily deliver us.

Of course, the people will always demand of anything permanent in the drama that the writer should have had ideas of richness and beauty which he thought superbly worth giving to the world, and which he indited with a heart aflame with noble inspiration. The only excuse for writing anything is that the writer feels that it must be done, and that he cannot rest until he has given it the most beautiful expression of which he can conceive.

Times seem to change and authors vary in style according to eccentricities of their age, but the human heart does not change in anything basic and neither does the audience which the dramatist has to address.

Shakespeare had to talk to the same kind of hearts to which Sophocles spoke, and Pinero, Sir Henry Arthur Jones and Bernard Shaw are talking to the same kind of people that Shakespeare impressed.

The chances for success of every one of them were based on the same postulates. Sophocles, Shakespeare and Henry Arthur Jones did one thing only, and their kind must always do the same thing, and that is to make the people see and feel the things that they are able to understand, the emotions in which they can participate, the ends which they themselves know how to reach and to suffer or enjoy.

The people are not going to care much about doctrines, political nostrums and new ideas, but they will always care about love and hate, jealousy and generosity, about the good and bad of any question, about gratitude and ingratitude, about the chances of success against great odds, and first, last and all the time, and more than anything else, they will care about the outcome of any important struggle. The football game, the national baseball series, the bulletins on the war, will always bring more people to the field and the seats than could a free production of the most sublime tragedy or tender drama ever staged.

This last may not be entirely because the people love a fight, but more on account of the fact that a struggle between wills means action so that something is done that the people can see instead of having something said that they can only hear.

What the people demand of the stage is livingness. They want events to pass before them like big pictures of life. They want to see something happen and they want just enough words to explain what is happening and to give them an inkling of what is likely to take place next.

If this is done artistically the author has succeeded in giving the people what they want, yet has done it in his own way. The way of the people is not always artistic. A big audience is a strangely mixed proposition and falls very far short of representing an average person in feeling, mental culture and refinement.

People in a mass are easily swayed by a few leaders. This is what makes

BERTHA KALICH AT TALLY'S.

Buffalo Bill and Indian Wars at Clune's.

Mozart will Show Sport and Travel in Africa.

"Man of the Hour" Coming to Woodley's.

"Cabiria" is to remain at the Trinity Auditorium for a third week so popular has been the run of the great pictures.

The tremendous Punic war scenes, the savage worship of Moloch, the eruption of Mt. Aetna and the fleeing of hundreds from the vomiting crater are the harsher pictures, softened by those depicting beautiful women of classic times, the sumptuous palaces of the rich, the loveliness of desert oases.

The wonderful music written especially for "Cabiria" is drawing hundreds of people daily to witness the D'Annunzio film picture.

Tally's Broadway.

Mme. Bertha Kalich, one of the world's greatest emotional actresses, will appear at Tally's Broadway for the week beginning tomorrow, in her famous success, "Marta of the Lowlands."

The piece is accompanied by a programme of music which has been especially prepared for this important film play.

Symphony Theater.

Under the direction of T. L. Tally, the Symphony will this week have a big double bill. "A Good Little Devil," with Mary Pickford, will be the attraction during the first three days of the week, and on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Robert Edeson will appear in "The Call of the North," the production which met with such success at Tally's Broadway a few weeks ago.

Clune's Auditorium.

Buffalo Bill and the Indian wars will be seen at Clune's Auditorium next week. The pictures will vividly portray a tale of superstition, frontier bravery, military skill, and the final surrender of the turbulent Indians to the white race. Gen. Nelson A. Miles brought about the triumph of civilization by splendid diplomacy and hard fighting, and he now joins his old generals in securing for the films and the government a reproduction of those fading historical scenes.

Clune's Broadway.

Francis X. Bushman, popular film idol, will play the leading role in "Blood Will Tell," dramatized for the screen from a recent magazine story, at Clune's Broadway, this week.

Miss Louise Santschi, yodler, will be the star singing attraction this week. The other numbers on the programme promise to be pleasing.

A Treat.

MME. FREMSTAD OPENS SEASON.

SHE GIVES FIRST CONCERT IN TRINITY AUDITORIUM.

An Interesting and Charming Programme is Promised—Other Well-known Artists of International Fame Will Follow Her on this Winter's Concert Course.

The Philharmonic year will open at Trinity Auditorium October 20 with Mme. Olive Fremstad, whose varied experiences in light and grand opera and as a pianist brought her to the highest position of the operatic world in America. A more beautiful, interesting and unhackneyed programme of songs than Mme. Fremstad's offering in this city at Trinity Auditorium for the opening of the Philharmonic series has seldom before been offered our music lovers.

Three big numbers from Schuman, as many from Grieg, and an equal number from Hugo Wolf, with folk songs from the old English, Bulgarian, Moorish, Scottish and American, two beautiful Sibelius numbers, one from Sjorgran, another from Sigurd Lie and a closing Weingartner selection will not only prove of intense interest to the auditor, but proclaim Fremstad the great artist she is.

The opening Philharmonic course includes, in addition to Mme. Fremstad, Alma Gluck, a second dramatic soprano from the Metropolitan; John McCormack, the best-known of our modern lyric tenors; Rudolf Ganz, the Swiss pianist who, after serving two months with his regiment on the border at Constans, was excused by his superior officers as lieutenant of his regiment, with these words: "You are worth more to us, the Swiss nation, as our most renowned pianist in America than in active military service in this country, and in America you will bring greater honor to your nation as a master of the arts than at home as a military expert."

The sixth event is Arrigo Serato, Italy's best-known violinist.

The Symphony's First Programme.

The Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra announces the following programme for the first concert of the series, which will be given Friday afternoon, November 20, and Saturday evening, November 21:

Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5, op. 64; Delius, two characteristic compositions; Liszt, "Les Preludes," symphonic tone poem; Goldmark, "Sakuntala" overture.

Later in the season the orchestra will present the well-known Ninth Symphony of Beethoven, the Choral Symphony. Herr Tandler, director, is planning to put into training at once a large chorus of voices, comprising the best talent in the city, and will present the Ninth Symphony for the first time in Los Angeles.

Other symphonies to be heard during the concert season include Mozart's Symphony in E Flat Major, the Brahms Symphony No. 1 in C Minor, and Cesar Franck's D Minor Symphony. A request symphony will be given at the last concert of the series.

On October 20 the season seat sale for subscribers will begin at the Trinity Auditorium box office, Ninth and Grand avenue, and continue for three days. On October 23 the seat sale will be open to the public. Seats will be on sale from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. of each day.

BITS OF VERSE.

Philosophy.

There's a little china paperweight before me on my desk,
A tiny heathen deity, ill-favored and grotesque.
All stained and cracked and battered in the most outrageous style;
But his one redeeming feature is his bright and sunny smile.

My wife is fond of using him on hazelnuts and tacks.
My children smear his cheerful face with sweets and chewing wax.
He tumbled out the window once and lost us for a while—
But nothing can attenuate his bright and sunny smile.

Oh, poor, maltreated heathen with obliterated eyes,
How oft for lesser wrongs than yours our angry passions rise;;
We need to learn, as you have learned, that wiser heads beguile
The pains and ills of living with bright and sunny smile.

—[Nautilus.

The Spirit in the Shell.

Hark at the Delphic lips of this white shell,
And you shall hear soft murmurs of the swell
On quiet seas; far voices may intone
The songs the breakers sing round islands lone,
Or fishermen ases; a solemn dirge
May come to you from some dim eastern verge
Of deep and sky, the wind's low melodies
Through palm on southern isles, the wild storm glees
Of charging billows on the rocky coasts
Where through the swinging mists gulls flit like ghosts.

Its undertone may hint the old unrest
Of Viking hearts, the longing and the quest
For unknown lands and undiscovered ways,
The old, old grief of sundered hearts, the frays
And ancient battles fought by men who sleep
Where sunless depths eternal quiet keep. . . .
A spirit with a thousand themes is here
With a voice of song to woo the listening ear.

—[Arthur Wallace Peach, in National Magazine, for September.

Lessons.

Were you ever as young as I?
  Shall I be as old as you?
Did you have lessons and wonder why?
  Were you ever as young as I?
And much rather run or play "I spy!"
  Than do what they made you do?
Were you ever as young as I?
  Shall I be as old as you?

—[Richard Kirk in Lippincott's

Amos Perkins of Penobscot, Me., is the third generation of Perkins to occupy his home, which is 106 years old. The chimney, which is three feet in each dimension, is built of bricks which were made by hand on a neighboring farm. Among the relics of the owner is an old flintlock gun captured from the English 100 years ago.

The late John Alvah Blaisdell of East Lebanon, Me., lived on his farm without a human companion for more than forty years, but had, at times, eighteen or twenty cats. He read every newspaper he could secure and is said to have read every book in the East Rochester public library, and some of them three or four times.

LAURA JEAN LIBBEY TALKS HEART TOPICS.

Why She Could Not Gain His Love.

"She was all mildness; yet 'twas writ
  Upon her beauty legibly;
'He that's for heaven itself unfit
  Let him not hope to merit me.'"

There's such a possibility of starting wooing all right or wrong! It is reasonable to suppose that his heart and thoughts have gone out to a girl when he seeks her society exclusively. All couples who woo are not intended for mating. Hundreds of letters reach me from disgruntled wives; many of them bewail the fact that they have made bad marriages; their happiness is ruined for life, because they were tricked into matrimony by fraud; led to suppose that they were marrying a man of exemplary habits; that they had gained a true and loving mate.

Also, they declare that they would as soon have jumped into the fire as to have become the wife of a man having such a violent disposition had they but known it, though they kept company steadily for years. As a matter of fact, these women did know the disposition of these lovers. If they did not, it was because they wilfully blinded their eyes to his shortcomings. When a lover begins to get wilfully lax in his attentions to his sweetheart—for instance, having no hesitation in breaking his engagements with her repeatedly for no special reason, indifferent as to whether she likes it or not—he doesn't need to wear a sign to the effect that he'll make her a careless husband.

If his eyes are on every pretty girl whom they pass, regardless that her eyes are on him, she doesn't have to light a dozen candles of her imagination to see clearly that he'd give her no end of trouble after marriage by too much admiration for other women. If he's always chewing cardamom seeds and cloves when he comes to see her, she ought to reason it out that he does not take them for his health. If he's on the street with her and leaves her for the ostensible purpose of getting a cigar in the corner saloon and comes out wiping his lips, explaining that they didn't have his brand, she's a very gullible young woman not to know that he's had a drink; and if he cannot refrain from repeating this operation at least a couple of times during their walk, it's the very irony of amusement to hear her complaining in after years that it was the last thing she ever dreamed of that she was married to a drunkard to disgrace her and the children.

So on the women write, naming all the faults in the calendar. Once in a while one of these husbands writes me trying to defend himself from the charges he knows his wife has made in a letter she has sent out to me. He says, with blunt frankness: "It's all moonshine that Mary didn't know what sort of a fellow I was when we were going together. She knew I came from a long line of ancestors who loved women, not wisely, but too well; and with me money burned in my pocket. It was come easy, go easy. And as for my reason of stopping at saloons, she should have had sense enough to know I did not go there to pray." Girls should study their lovers carefully and raise what complaints they have to make before marriage, or forever after hold their peace.

MISS LIBBEY'S REPLIES TO YOUR LETTERS.

Correct name and address must be given to insure attention, but not to print. Address Laura Jean Libbey, No. 916 President street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Met Another Girl.

Dear Miss Libbey: I was going with a young man; began to like him very much. Two weeks ago he went on his vacation and met a beautiful girl. He returned, but never calls any more. He has written one letter, stating he could only love one girl; that wasn't me. Do you think that if he was a man he would have come to me personally? I have plenty of other boy friends who would jump at the chance to take his place. Please advise what to do.
MOLLIE.

It would do the fickle young man good for you to give him a severe good letting alone for the way he has used you. If anything would help him to repent and return, that would.

Engaged to One, Loving Another.

Dear Miss Libbey: I seek your advice. Have been going with a young man a year and a half; am engaged to him. I always liked him very much; never was tired of him. Lately I met a young man who likes me; wishes to keep company with me. I like him very much, too. I am 18. Both the young men are 23. Please let me know what to do.
BETTY.

Who is fickle in this case it is very easy to determine. It is best to be off with the old love before you are on with the new.

Giving Her a Recipe.

Dear Miss Libbey: Can you give me a tested recipe how to color and press brown velvet a good black to look as if new? Many thanks.
BLANCHE H.

For an inexperienced person it is hazardous to attempt to do the work at home. If the velvet is of good quality, it would be wiser, more satisfactory, to take it to some reliable dyer's, where it would be properly done. Practice on small bits you care less for with home dyes before you attempt anything of consequence.

Who Knows the Author or Publisher?

Dear Miss Libbey: I have a little girl who attends public school. She is 9 years of age. She is required to recite a little piece every Friday afternoon. The name of the author should be given, if possible, also the name of the magazine, paper or book in which it first appeared. Could you help me with a nice selection for her?
MRS. B H. C.

I submit the following. The author's name was not attached; therefore, it is unknown to me. Inquiry at the office of paper might be able to throw light on it:

Little Brothers.

Little children, never give
Pain to things that feel and live;
  Let the gentle robin come
  For the crumbs you save at home.
As his food you throw along,
He'll repay you with a song.
  Never hurt the timid hare,
  Peeping from her green grass lair;
Let her come and sport and play
On your lawn at close of day.
  The little lark goes soaring high
  To the bright windows of the sky,
Singing as if 'twere always spring,
And flying on an untried wing—
  Oh, let him sing his happy song,
  Nor do these little brothers wrong.

MEN AND EVENTS.

William E. Coe of Winona, Minn., has completed twenty-eight years of service as a mail carrier, being the only one of the original five appointed to service when the free delivery system was instituted in Winona on October 1, 1886. Mr. Coe has made a computation of the distance he has walked in the past twenty-eight years and estimates it has been 121,425 miles, a distance nearly equivalent to five times around the world. Mr. Coe will be 55 years old in November.

Persival G. Baum of Lakewood, O., wants his property assessed at a higher figure. He appeared at the office of Deputy Tax Commissioner John D. Fackler and complained that his home is on the tax duplicate at a lower price than those of his neighbors.

An unusual application for admittance in the State bar has been received by S. W. Garrett, clerk of the Supreme Court. Stephen Olney of Sioux Rapids, Iowa, seeks the right at the age of 68 years. A certificate shows that he graduated in medicine from Western Reserve University in 1868.

Malcolm Robertson, aged 14, of Decatur, Ala., has constructed a steam engine without any assistance. The engine is about one foot long and four inches wide, and is run by steam from the tea kettle.

After twenty-five years of wedded life, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Cimiotti of Chicago, secretly left their home to escape a celebration, and went to Milwaukee, whence they wired to their friends that they had slipped away on their honeymoon.

Deacon Roswell C. Boothby probably has an unparalleled record as chorister at any one church, he having served the First Baptist Church at Livermore Falls, Me., in that capacity for fifty years.

In startling opposition to the theories of Prof. Munsterberg are those of Mrs. Edwin D. Mead, wife of the famous peace worker. Mrs. Mead, who recently returned from Europe, says that the women of the world are realizing as never before that all reforms and progress depend upon peace and order. Prof. Munsterberg, on the other hand, believes that if a nation inhabits a rich country they must either fight the nations with the poor soil for possession of the best, else they will deteriorate.

A suit has arisen in Sunbury, Pa., over the business of Philip Bradford, who rented hens for 2 cents a day, the renter taking a chance on getting an egg for his money. One hen which Bradford let out struck and laid no eggs at all, whereupon the rented refused to pay rent. Philip sued and was awarded his money.

Dr. F. V. Stucky of Gosport, Ind., recently received an unwrapped silver dollar by mail. On one side of the dollar was pasted a slip bearing the doctor's address and the address of the sender, and on the other side the stamp was pasted.

After having been selected as one of the teachers in the Vernon (Ind.) High School, Miss Marjorie Hengstler declined the position and will launch into the grocery business.

Rev. H. C. Breese of Bartlesville, Okla., sold the church building because his parishioners failed to pay him his back salary of $40. When a gang of workmen undertook to remove the building, women and children surrounded the church and refused to allow it to be touched. Guards were placed around the property, and feeling against the minister ran high.

A report from Olympia, Wash., states that the following signatures appear on a petition requesting that the question of Statewide prohibition be placed on the ballot for the coming election: Ethelwyn Casebeer, Thomas Beers, Ada Rum, Lenora Sourwine, Francis Ale, Elizabeth Boose and T. C. Stew.

At the campground at Sterling Junction, Mass., this summer, Rev. R. Osborne formed a canary chorus, all present being requested to whistle the chorus of some of the familiar hymns. The fact that the congregation is almost entirely feminine seems to have no effect on the quality or volume of the whistling.

In order to keep an engagement for a golf contest, A. L. Vilas flew sixty-three miles from Chicago in a hydro-aeroplane. The trip was made in about sixty minutes and without accident. The plane landed at the Elks's Clubhouse, on the banks of Lake Michigan.

William H. Lacey of New Haven, Ct., purchased some eggs a day or two ago and one of them bore this inscription: "This egg comes from Detroit, Mich. It was packed by a handsome young lady in the year of our Lord, August 17, 1909."

J. F. Mullaney holds the record for length of service at the Lewiston (Me.) fair, having taken tickets at the main gate for nineteen consecutive years. W. J. Greeley and C. R. Nelson, his assistants, have served for eleven years.

Dennis John Cassin, who has just retired after a record of fifty-two years as an engineer on the New York Central Railroad, has never had an accident since he first took charge of an engine. He is 70 years of age, and enjoys excellent health. Some years ago he was voted the most popular railroad engineer in this country.

Joel Dennis four years ago caught a small trout in a branch of Mountain Creek, Ala., which he marked by cutting a piece from the tail and then returned the fish to the stream. Mr. Dennis last week caught this same fish one mile below and it weighed five pounds.

"This is a wonderful help to the actors," says Miss Hartman, "who miss the inspiration of an audience. No pains is spared to produce the right sort of music to help the performers."

Special attention is given to the teaching of gestures, too, and each performer is schooled in a severe course of study in pantomime.

The Norbig Company yesterday pulled off some big racing scenes out at Exposition Park in "The Man Who Could Not Lose," by Richard Harding Davis. The piece is nearly finished, only the big New York clubroom scene remaining to be done. One hundred and fifty extra people, fifteen jockeys and fifteen horses were used.

Central Park is quite a recruiting station for extra movie people. The park philosophers take kindly to the pleasing environment, and it's handy for the movie managers.

Henry Kernan, one of the leading men of the Norbig Company, who plays Ingraham in "The Man Who Couldn't Lose," tells a story both amusing and pathetic about his Friday recruiting for the race track scenes in his play. Many of the men took the work gladly. Others refused point blank. One said carelessly: "Well, I just dropped $20,000 in Kentucky, so I might as well earn back this two bones!" Another said: "No-sir-ee! Ain't worked for fifteen years, and don't intend to begin now." Still another said: "I can send you a couple of fellows in the insurance business. Nothing doing in the insurance business, now, you know," while still a fourth drawled: "Well, I'll think it over. Come back in ten minutes, will you?"

"Billie" Rhodes, leading comedy woman with the Monte Comedy Feature Films Company, is to have the part of a college girl in a new college play to be put on by the company at a near date.

Harry Fisher has just returned from Mexico, where the Monte Comedy Company put on some scenes from "Happy's Mishaps."

Mr. Fisher was trampled by soldiers and run over by a near-train, and saw some actual Mexican soldiers in the distance, but is still alive and well.

Bert Levey, owner of the Republic, is in town, arranging for an entire change of policy at his house. Yesterday he completed arrangements with the World Film Corporation for one first-run feature picture each week, using the output of the Shubert and Brady studios. This will be in addition to his regular seven-act vaudeville programme. Performances are to be given from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. continuously.

The first of the new pictures will be Wilton Lackaye in Frank Norris's famous novel, "The Pit." It will follow the Kellerman picture.

D'Annunzio, who wrote "Cabiria," was first approached two years ago to write a scenario and lend his name to the silent play, refusing it with characteristic flaming scorn, but later the ashes of his scorn grew cold, and when respectfully asked for a scenario dashed off a trifle and with the emolument bought meat for his favorite dogs. But with the money from his latest scenario, "Cabiria," he can buy dog meat, dogs, dog kennels, land on which to set the kennels and a great house with which to ornament the land.

Japanese Toothbrushes.

[New York Times:] Japanese toothbrush manufacturers are the latest to join in the chorus of complaint of overproduction, according to the Kobe Chronicle. Labor-saving devices in toothbrush manufacture have made it easy to start this work on a small scale, and the manufacturers have greatly increased in numbers. The demand, however, has not kept up with the increase in supply, and as a result the sacrifice of stocks by the smaller producers has caused the market to collapse. The finished goods are being sold at a price less than production cost, while the raw materials are advancing in price. American beef bones are about 20 per cent. higher than they were two years ago, and Chinese pig bristles are about 10 per cent. higher. The advances have caused quite a few of the smaller manufacturers to close their establishments.

Theater Audiences.

oratory so effective and why Shakespeare used a sort of second audience on the stage when Mark Anthony spoke over Caesar's corpse to ignite the enthusiasm of the first audience which is there to see the play. Perhaps I am wrong to say that Shakespeare does this for any such reason, but I am sure that the effect amounts to this and it has often happened that theatrical managers are so sure of this that in certain foreign countries they have placed hired hands about the audience to start the applause at the proper time and place.

Two or three men can completely dominate an audience by giving free vent to their feelings and it often happens that first productions are strangely affected by the presence of a few such people in the house.

The same thing works at baseball at the crisis of a game when the fans by dint of much noise succeed in disturbing the pitcher, angering the umpire and almost demoralizing the opposing team. A man will sometimes pitch a flawless game for eight innings and let the audience so upset him in the ninth that he will walk two or three men and in a minute lose a game which he should have won.

A few days ago a man fell down as a boy on a bicycle passed him. A man half a block away saw the pedestrian fall and imagining that the boy had knocked him down gave chase to the young bicyclist and called on him to stop. Others saw the man running after the boy and joined in the chase. The man himself soon became winded and stopped, but before the boy could ride two blocks two or three hundred people were after him, and when he stopped in alarm not a man in the big crowd had the slightest idea what they wanted him for. This is the spirit of an audience in most cases and is always the spirit of the mob.

At the same time I am sure that the people at heart are all lovers, that they are all believers, that they all hope for the best and that they are every one primarily and fundamentally good.

When Shaw writes one play that the people cannot understand I think he is clearly within his rights, if he chooses to do such a thing, but when he writes another play to prove how far the people have misunderstood his first one, then I think he is going out of his way and it is all right when the people misunderstand him again and think that he is laughing at himself.

Miss Rose L. Fritz, the world's fastest typist, has been out of the contest work for the last three years, having been abroad, but on the evening of September 5 she wrote in New York 7957 words in one hour, in open competition, the greatest number of words ever written in that length of time. She wrote before the King and Queen while in England.

Miss Edythe Havermeyer, who inherited a fortune of something like seven millions from her father, is said to have set up her own bachelor girl establishment in London, having obtained the privilege of doing so when she had attained the age of 22.

MADAME ISE'BELL

Bemoans Complexion Ills that Follow the Summer Holidays. "Where are the Fair Bosoms of Yesterday?"

A lot of girls are returning from their vacations with a nice little V of reddish brown flesh displayed at the opening of their dresstops. My mail is already heavy with requests for "something to take tan off the neck," and I prophesy that when the dancing season begins and these girls wish to put on real low-cut gowns that the wail will be even greater.

"And her bosom as fair as the hawthorn bud,
That opes in the month of May."

Where are the fair bosoms of yesterday? Shall we ever find them again under their coating of sunburn?

A few years ago, when it was the custom to go without hats at the seashore and at the mountains, the majority of girls so abused this fashion that at the end of the summer their faces were as red and rough as we would expect to find in a football player. It took months, in some cases a year's treatment, to get the skin in a normal condition, and in the case of older women I doubt if the skin ever recovered from so severe a burning.

The hatless craze seems on the wane and girls have learned that sorrow follows long exposure of the unprotected face. But they have evidently to learn this lesson all over again in regard to the throat.

Skin of Neck Burns Easily.

In the first place there is nothing to shade the throat and neck; the hat brim is too far away. The skin of the neck is so fine and delicate, naturally so white, that I hate to see it exposed, as I have seen it crossing the ocean this summer or going down the Rhine, to the steady, constant effect of the sun's rays. I noticed some few wise women wrapped thin scarfs about their neck and shoulders when wearing a thin blouse in the sunshine—but it is the foolish virgins we are considering now.

Fortunately, the action of skin shedding is always going on, and there are whitening creams and soothing toilet lotions that will lubricate the dry area of skin that the sun has too warmly caressed, and, little by little, the whiteness and moist softness of the natural skin will return. But don't let the lesson be forgotten.

Sunburn, as has been said over and over again in these columns, can be very largely avoided, or its bad effects at least mitigated, by protecting the skin with a good cold cream and a covering of powder.

Now for a little advice in regard to the condition of the scalp and hair. The natural shedding of the hair continues all the year, but it seems to be more heavy in the autumn. This natural falling should not occasion any alarm, but make sure it is the natural falling and not due to any diseased or torpid scalp condition.

Danger to Hair in Hot Weather.

The girl or woman who has passed the summer in town, subject to excessive heat, is particularly exposed to scalp trouble now, for the acidity in perspiration often produces dandruff and even eczema. A dandruff-infested scalp will not only cause the hair to fall, but prevent new hair from growing, a most dangerous condition at this time of the year when we expect to start a crop of new hair.

The dandruff that comes from excessive perspiration is apt to be of the flaky oily kind that leaves the scalp red and irritated when removed. In treating this remember never to scrape the dandruff away with the fingers or a comb before thoroughly softening it with vaseline or sweet oil.

The night before a shampoo go over the scalp—it is better to have someone do this for you—and cover all the dandruff spots with either of the lubricants mentioned above. Let this remain all night and in the morning shampoo with pure white castile soap, using a fine bath spray vigorously afterwards, not only to rinse the shampoo mixture from the hair, but to invigorate the scalp.

When the scalp is perfectly dry apply a tonic containing either resorcin or bichloride of mercury, these are both specifics for dandruff. If there are any inflamed red spots cover them with dry boric acid.

The hair should be well brushed daily, shaken out and the scalp well aired. Take care that the brush and comb are scrupulously clean.

If the dandruff is of the kind that irritates the scalp, I do not think much scalp massage advisable. Care should be taken not to irritate the scalp.

The head should be treated to a shampoo as often as the dandruff collects, and remember to keep the scalp always aired and clean.

Result of Sea or Lake Bathing.

There is another form of scalp trouble prevalent now that is the direct result of the drying effect of a hot sun, or of sea or fresh water bathing when the hair has been allowed to become wet. The scalp looks white, is covered with a dry white scurf, and the hair begins to lose color and appear lifeless.

When the scalp is in this condition it calls for daily massage with the finger tips, moistened with vaseline or sweet oil.

A shampoo once a fortnight is necessary, followed by a thorough spraying of the hair with the bath spray, using first very warm and then cold water until the scalp is pink and glowing. If the dandruff is heavy, use a dandruff specific mentioned above, if not, friction with eau de cologne or bay rum.

Brown hands are the inevitable result of a summer spent out of doors. With young girls this condition is not serious, but with older women sunburn means a drying of the skin and preparing it for premature wrinkles that mark age on the hands as quickly as they do about the lips or eyes.

What to do for the Hands.

The great good of the summer lies in living out of doors, and its general effect on the health is reflected in a smoother contour of the face, rosier cheeks and brighter eyes. I am not for a moment decrying the summer out-of-doors life, but simply pointing out how to overcome certain unfortunate beauty conditions for which it is responsible. If the skin of the hands looks dry and brown, try the following treatment. The principle item in it is a pair of white kid gloves to be worn at night. These are more comfortable if the finger tips are removed, but the whitening process will go on faster when the gloves are left intact, for the reason that perspiration will be induced and the cream used will sink quicker and more deeply into the skin.

Wash the hands well at night with warm, not hot, water, using a soft flesh brush and a non-drying soap, that is, one that contains no free alkali or is super-fatted. Rinse the hands well with water of the same temperature. Next, while the skin is warm, rub in gently all the cream the skin will be able to absorb during the night. A good mark of cold cream will do unless the hands show signs of wrinkling, or are very brown, in which case use a skin food or a cream that whitens the skin. A month of this treatment will show a marked improvement.

Reducing May be Necessary.

Now about the figure! Remember that the new gowns contain several yards more material than was the case last year and they will need a good figure to carry them.

Have you been doing your physical exercises this summer? It is so hot that you have undoubtedly given them up. Weigh yourself and see if you have gained weight; measure your waist band and see if it is what you want it to be for your new costumes.

If the summer has been easy and pleasant and you have not taken up any outdoor sport, the chances are you have gained flesh. If so, take it off now, before you get to accept it as a natural burden. Eat less, make up your mind to walk five miles a day, or, if this is not possible, devote morning and night fifteen minutes to indoor physical exercises.

New Watches.

Have you seen the newest watches? They are of gold, of course, and the cases are enlivened with enameling in a lovely shade of royal blue. This is used either in an ornamental design or for monogram or initials. I call it lovely and it certainly adds interest to the timepieces.

Fashion Hint.

Comes the flare in skirt of both coat and gown. "I do not like them," say you; and as you gaze at the latest limning of one, you begin to yield—"but that is not bad. It is really quite tolerable. Well, I rather like it. I believe I'll have my suit made in some such way. I suppose the flare must come, so I may as well be in the mode."

Rules for Success and Popularity.

Someone has formulated rules as follows:

Be sociable.

Be unselfish.

Be generous.

Be a good listener.

Never worry or whine.

Study the art of pleasing.

Be frank, open and truthful.

Always be ready to lend a hand.

Be kind and polite to everybody.

Be self-confident but not conceited.

Never monopolize the conversation.

Take a genuine interest in other people.

Always look on the bright side of things.

Take pains to remember names and faces.

Never criticise or say unkind things of others.

Look for the good in others, not for their faults.

Forgive and forget injuries, but never forget benefits.

Cultivate health, and thus radiate strength and courage.

Rejoice as genuinely in another's success as in your own.

Always be considerate of the rights and feelings of others.

Have a good time, but never let fun degenerate into license.

Have a kind word and a cheery, encouraging smile for everyone.

Learn to control yourself under the most trying circumstances.

Be respectful to women, and chivalrous in your attitude toward them.

Meet trouble like a man, and cheerfully endure what you can't cure.

Believe in the brotherhood of man, and recognize no class distinctions.

Do not be self-opinionated, but listen with deference to the opinions of others.

Never utter witticisms at the risk of giving pain or hurting someone's feelings.

Be ambitious and energetic, but never benefit yourself at the expense of another.

Do not bore people by telling them long, tedious stories, or by continually dilating on your own affairs. You will meet—Success.

Representative J. Harry Covington of the First Maryland District has resigned and been sworn in as Chief Justice of the District of Columbia.

OVER THE SEA.

Emperor Francis Joseph a few days since disobeyed his physician, and visited one of the hospitals in Vienna where he spoke to every wounded man in his mother tongue, German, Hungarian, Polish, Slav, Bohemian or Italian, as the case might be. He also spoke personally to every member of the Red Cross organization.

Col. Mariton F. Gage, former military attache of the British embassy at Washington, has returned to England, where he is attached to the Fifth Dragoon Guards, and will join that regiment at the front. He served with distinction in the South African war, and was twice mentioned in Lord Roberts's dispatches.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alfred E. Codrington, who has been appointed military secretary to Lord Kitchener, served in the Egyptian war of 1882, being mentioned in dispatches and receiving the fifth class Medjidie and the Khedive's star. In the South African campaign he was again mentioned in dispatches and received the Queen's medal with three clasps and the King's medal with two clasps and a brevet rank of colonel. He was in command of the London district, 1909-13.

Roald Amundsen has informed the Norwegian authorities that he is obliged to postpone indefinitely his expedition to the North Pole, but that he has no intention of abandoning it altogether. In the circumstances, however, he finds it quite impossible to start in the spring of 1916, as he had hoped, owing to the difficulty of fitting out his expedition satisfactorily in war time. It is especially difficult, he declares, to obtain the necessary aeroplanes and their appurtenances and spare parts. There would also be some difficulty in provisioning. Most of the crew of the Fram who had been engaged by Mr. Amundsen have to serve their time with the colors, and those who have previously served do not wish to leave their country while things are so unsettled.

Dr. Ernest von Heydebrand, leader of the Conservative or Agrarian party in Germany, is called the "Uncrowned King of Prussia," and as the mouthpiece of his party, in both the Prussian Diet and the Reichstag, dictates policies, makes and unmakes chancellors, and finally is credited with having forced the hand of the Emperor in the crisis of last July and sent the German legions pouring across the German frontiers.

The Way of a Woman.

The way of a woman is God's own way
Of making a beautiful thing of life;
Of healing the hurt of the toiling day,
Of lifting with love the shadows of strife;
Of reaching our sorrow and cark and care
With the inner sweet of her perfect soul;
Of giving us courage to trust and to bear,
Of helping us grow to the life that's whole.

The way of a woman is God's own creed
Of patience and sweetness through all that comes;
The grief and the sorrow, the cross and the deed,
The trumpet's call or the roll of drums;
Of making us better that she is near,
Of keeping us better that she hath borne
The gift of the aching heart and the tear,
The grace of the glory of golden morn.

The way of a woman is God's own law
That unto the lives around her feet
Her love shall lift us to holy awe
And make us better and true, and sweet;
And make us wiser than merely wise,
And make us stronger than merely strong,
To struggle and strive for the peace that lies
In the rest that floats from the wings of song.

Classes in Knitting and Crocheting

—You are invited to attend the classes in knitting and crocheting to be held, beginning tomorrow, and continuing throughout the month, in our Art Needlework Department.

—An instructor is here from Philadelphia, who will be glad to teach you anything you wish to know about crocheting and knitting. There will also be an interesting exhibition of garments made of Fleisher yarns, showing the very newest ideas.

(Art Needlework Dept.—Third Floor)

Autumn Silks and Dress Goods

Our Great Annual Distribution and Sale

—As fast as scissors can clip off the lengths for suits, dresses, gowns and blouses, these handsome materials will be sold tomorrow. Some lots are special purchases secured at great price concessions. On others it will be a weeding-out of short lines and broken bolts. But all new goods remember—new weaves, new patterns, new colors. The economy in buying for all fall and winter apparel is unquestioned. Read!

$2 All-Silk Printed Crepe de Chine / $1.25 Silk-and-Wool Poplins—40-inches Wide—the yard } 95c

—A gown of the printed crepe de chine and a dress or suit of the poplin, and your winter wardrobe will be more than half supplied! Save on materials for both from these two special leaders tomorrow. Each is of exquisite quality and very wide; and either worth a deal more than 95c the yard. Silks in street, and evening shades; poplins in all popular colors—95c a yard.

Plain & Novelty Silks } 59c

—From Lines Selling at $1.00 to $2.50

—Nearly a thousand yards—broken bolts with from 15 to 30 yards in each piece! All-silk printed crinkled crepe, charmeuse, pongee, luster and plaid satins, floral and tub silks at one price tomorrow, 59c a yard. All colors and scores of patterns; 24 to 40 inch widths.

Imported Ecru Pongee } 29c

—And It's the Standard 75c Quality

—Bought in great quantities especially for this sale, so the cost was small to us compared to what we generally pay for this fine grade! It is heavy weight—and in a rich ecru shade. It washes like linen—many will want yards and yards for auto toggery, blouses and children's wear.

Silk Satin Lustre, $1.25

The All-Silk $1.50 to $1.75 Qualities

—Soft, clinging and lustrous; a beautiful material 40 inches wide and in new and wanted colorings.

Rich Black Silks at $1.00 a yard

Yard Wide—A Very Unusual Value

—Messaline, Duchess satins, peau de soie, taffetas and plain satins; fashionable weaves in choice variety—$1.00.

Erect-pile Velvet, $1.00

In a Rich, Deep, Lustrous Black!

—Seeing it you will naturally expect to pay more, but we've put no war prices on velvet. Buy now.

All-wool Challis, 49c yd.

They'd Be Low Priced at 65c

—Soft, light weight and 27 inches wide. Pretty patterns and colorings for women's and children's dresses.

English Suitings, $1.25

And They're Well Worth $2.50

—Heavy, all-wool, mannish suitings; short lengths of a high-grade manufacturer's autumn weaves! Plain grounds with hair line stripes.

All-wool Suitings, $1.00

In Plain and Novelty Weaves!

—Gabardine, granite, epingle, poplin, French and storm serge, etc; 40 to 50 inches wide; in colors and black.

Bayedere Suitings at $1.00 yard

—Medium weight and in all fashionable colors.

—All-Wool Roman Stripes, $1.00—in 54-inch width for which you'd expect to pay at least $1.50.

Crepe and Crepe de Chine at 75c

—Crinkled crepe and crepe de chine in all-wool or silk-and-wool; the $1.00 quality of each at 75c tomorrow.

Chinchilla Coatings at $2.95 yard

—2½ to 7 yards each; a clearaway, offering splendid economy—the $3.75 quality. Street and evening shades; 54 inches wide.

All-wool Storm Serge at 85c yard

—A strong, firm quality, 48 inches wide and easily worth $1.00 the yard, you'll agree. In nearly all wanted street shades.

Black Paon Velvets at 59c yard

—A special purchase which makes it a notable economy for you! A deep, rich, lustrous black that will last.

23-in. English Corduroys at $1.00

—New autumn colorings in this popular suit, coat and skirt weave; and of the quality that usually sells for $2.00.

Lustrous, Satin-finish Broadcloth, $1.50 yd.

—50 and 52 inches wide and in a quality which, if bought in the market today would cost nearly as much again. Sponged and shrunk. All colors and black. Other lines at $2.00 and $2.50.

Roman Stripes—in taffeta, satin, poplin, crepe de chine, etc. 22 to 40 inches wide—$1.00 and $2.00 the yard.

Printed Crinkled Cascadeuse—in 36 to 40-inch widths—$2.50 to $3.00 usually. In the autumn sale—$1.39 the yd.

40-inch Crepe de Chine—in 50 colorings. An unusually fine, all-silk quality which will be beautiful in frocks or evening gowns—$1.50 the yard.

36-inch Chiffon Taffeta—a grade, which, earlier in the season sold for $2.50; remaining lots tomorrow—$1.75 the yd.

Printed Pompadour Chiffon Taffeta—in large and small designs; a choice assortment much underprice—$2.50 the yard.

Black Chiffon Velvets—in 42-inch width; an imported line which we can't duplicate at present prices—$4.50 to $10.00 the yard.

48-inch Crepe de Paris—a quality which should sell for as much again! All-wool, very handsome—$1.25 the yard.

48-inch Gabardine Suiting—All wool and in a full range of colors and black. A wonder value—$1.50 the yard.

50-inch Satin Charmeuse—all-wool with satin finish; a beautiful quality for semi-fancy suits and dresses—$2.00 the yard.

Mottled Chinchilla Coatings—quite new this season and very smart for street and sport coats. All-wool; 54 inches wide—$5.00 the yard.

The New Colored Laces

—On at least one dress or blouse this fall you must use the new colored laces.

—A novelty, of course—but an extremely popular one with fashionable modistes.

—White or ecru net embroidered in colored silk flowers or in velvet and silk. These are made in Germany and Switzerland and are from 6 to 20 inches wide. Prices 75c to $3.00 a yard.

(Hamburger's—Main Floor)

Entirely New Fashion Motifs in Tomorrow's Offering of Fall Hats at $13.75

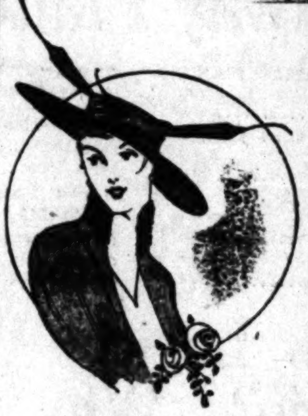
—Just missing the darkness of "midnight blue" some of the models have a sheen which only "old blue" velvet possesses. And some are in black; others in tete de negre; and all are of velvet which comes only from Lyons, France!



—Gold or silver trimming, artistically used with dull leaf flowers or some original ostrich fancy gives an effect we cannot picture here. There are perhaps three dozen models—distinctive and beautiful. Made in our own designing rooms their price is far lower than the same hats would cost you if brought from the East or from abroad.

Millinery Special $7.50

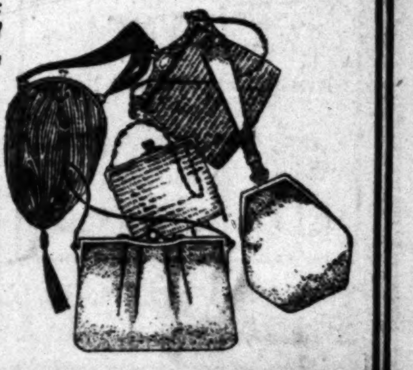
—The $7.50 models demonstrate the diversity of styles one may expect to find at this popular price at Hamburger's. Chic effects in black velvet; scores of them—and hardly two alike. Have you seen them? Scores of new arrivals tomorrow.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor)

Hand Bags, Purses $2.39

$3.50 to $6.00 Lines Now Repriced.

—If those pictured here could reflect their quality; if they could tell you of their pretty fittings and the many other models not pictured—then you could understand the values they represent!



A Variety of Styles—and an Unusually Large Quantity

—There are leather and silk hand bags, gold and silver mesh purses and silver party cases over which you are sure to enthuse. They're all pretty—and coming from lines recently received, but which sold at once down to a few in each, the values are more than enticing!

An Interior.

The grass around my limbs is deep and sweet;
Yonder the house has lost its shadow wholly,
The blinds are dropped, and softly now and slowly
The day flows in and floats; a calm retreat
Of tempered light where fair things meet;
White busts and marble Dian make it holy,
Within a niche hangs Durer's Melancholy.
Brooding; and, should you enter, there will greet
Your sense with vague allurement effluence faint
Of one magnolia bloom; fair fingers draw
From the piano, Chopin's heart complaint;
Alone, white-robed she sits; a fierce macaw
On the verandah, proud of plume and paint,
Screams, (insolent depot, showing beak and claw

Fifth Annual Exhibition.

"To little sand-heaps by the sea,
As much alike as pea and pea."

Thus it happened that the poet, loitering in ruminating mood along the strand, got into difficulties that bordered on the serious with the makers of the aforesaid little sand-heaps. He longed to be appreciative, to say the right thing, but his ignorance plumped him into trouble.

He came to the first one, which had been moulded by a small urchin. "A pie?" he asked. "A fort!" said the lad. Disconcerted, he approached the next mound, the work of a tiny girl. Said he: "That is a noble fort you've made." Said she: "No, 'tis a pie!"

Apparently, then, there is a wide difference between Tweedledum and Tweedledee. The painter, who plays even as the children play by the sea, may pat his paint into any shape that pleases him, and may call the result "A Nocturne" or "An Arrangement," "or "A Nude Walking Down a Flight of Stairs," but he won't like it if you mix the first name up with the last. He knows the difference between his nudes and his nocturnes, if you don't, for he possesses the magic of imagination, which is quite undeveloped in the average man.

What has all this to do with the "Fifth Annual Exhibition," which is the caption of my article? Everything, as you will admit when you fully realize the analogy between mud-pies and pictures, both of which are the products of imaginative children in two stages of development; both, also, being earnest efforts at self-expression. Therefore, it behooves you and me and the man in the street approach the fifth annual exhibition of the California Art Club with considerable circumspection. Here are fascinating pies and forts, but we won't name a single one till we have consulted the catalogue.

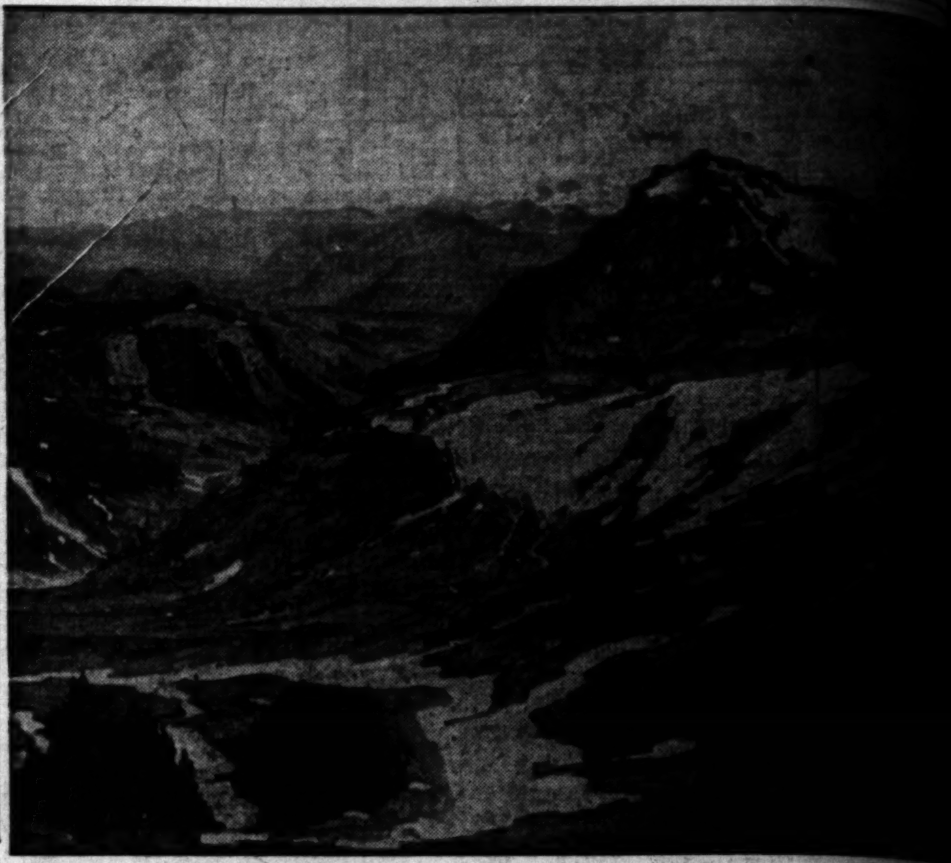
The helpful little catalogue will inform you that the fifth annual exhibition of the California Art Club opened on Wednesday in the gallery at Exposition Park, and that it will remain there to the end of the month; that there are fifty-eight pictures, the work of forty painters; that six sculptors are represented by groups, single figures, reliefs high and low.

The California Art Club, born five years ago, has grown to be one of the strongest and most influential factors in the art life of the West—which is tantamount to saying that it has become one of the most important factors of all the life of the West, since art in its various manifestations means civilization. Most of the well-known painters of Southern California, as well as a number of strong painters in the North and the East, belong to it. Those Los Angeles painters who remain outside it make a mistake, I think, for the club has proved that there is strength in union, and that when artists work together for a common good they will ultimately win out.

Last year the club did not work harmoniously with some other powers in the art world, and it did not have the beautiful gallery in Exposition Park for its exhibition. The loss was ours, the gallery's and the artists', for the excellent collection of pictures was not shown to the best advantage, and nobody could rightly know how good the canvases really were. Now however, all disagreements have been amicably settled, thanks to a potent peace conclave, and now we may see what tremendously significant forward strides the California Art Club has been making in the past few years.

The magnitude, the dignity, the beauty of the present exhibition, covering, as it does, all the four walls of the gallery in Exposition Park, will astonish the man who remembers the struggling conditions of art in Los Angeles ten years ago, and it will exhilarate him with the hope of a wonderful future—a future in which Los Angeles will take a proud place among the great art centers of the world.

Nor is the hope of such a future a mere chimera. The vision is built on truth—the truth of the westward march of a civilization which is growing steadily toward perfection, and which will reach its flower and fruit in California; the truth of conditions of light and atmosphere for the painter so wonderfully right that art expands and flourishes in them as simply and naturally as the rose blooms in summer. Painters come to Southern California to sketch for a month—they remain for a lifetime. Or if they leave, they come back again and again, reluctant to part forever with what they realize keenly is the delectable land, the Ultima Thule for landscape painters. And painters of the portrait and the figure find themselves equally happy and fortunate here, where clouds come not nor mists intervene to lessen the light they must work by.



"Mountain Infinity," by William Wendt.

I have attended countless exhibitions of pictures in New York and Chicago, and these exhibitions have contained works by very famous men, indeed, yet I honestly believe that the present exhibition of the California Art Club can bear comparison with any of them. Yesterday I might have flouted such a thought, but today, having seen the glorious gallery in Exposition Park, my oft-uttered faith in the talent of our western painters is made more certain than ever.

The high key of most of these pictures is what will first strike you, their light, their buoyancy and their individual note in expression. Beside these, all other pictures seem almost dull and dingy, true though they may be to the conditions under which they were painted—clouded skies and mist-covered stretches of field and wood. California herself, of course, full of brilliant light, moulds her painters' moods to her own jubilations, and she is so full of the life that belongs to her alone that she imparts it to her lovers, making them virile and individual and unafraid.

The pictures and sculptures in the fifth annual exhibition of the California Art Club are so many and so interesting that I shall have to defer a detailed account of them—and even next week I may not be able to touch on more than half.

Henri on Western Art.

Robert Henri has just returned to New York after a summer in La Jolla, which he considers one of the happiest and most successful of his career. The output of his work at La Jolla, over a dozen portrait studies of his polyglot neighbors in the enchanted village by the sea, has recently been exhibited in the gallery at Exposition Park. It will be shown in New York this winter.

The famous New York painter and art instructor was more than delighted with his visit—his first—to Southern California. He has painted in every country in the world save one, the exception being Belgium. He has been in Spain many times. Yet he declares that the conditions for painting are here more ideally perfect than those in any other place known to him. One little spot in Spain approaches California in this respect, and only one.

"Without a doubt," said Henri, in an intimate little chat on art matters in general, "California—and more especially Southern California—will develop tremendously in art through the next few years, and ultimately it will have the strongest school of outdoor painting in this country, or any other country, for that matter. It's bound to happen. Consider the conditions! Sunlight all the year round, or so nearly all the year that the few exceptional hours are quite negligible, sunlight so clear and beautiful that the enamored artist may paint all day long without interruption, and may come back to the same spot day after day without the haunting fear that his canvas will need complete metamorphosis every time he sits down to his easel! The right name for it, in the East, is 'hardel.'

"The new western school of painting," said he, "will not be an imitation of all the others that have gone before it, but will be strongly individual, unmistakably of the big, free West. You have the opportunity here to advance in your own way, because you are happily removed from any large center of conservative traditions. Compelled to blaze your own trail, you will grow fearless and strong. You won't go wild, because you are already civilized, and because there will be infusion of eastern blood from time to time, just enough for the right sort of life."

This idea, of course, is not startlingly unfamiliar to my readers, for I have said the same thing over and over again for the past five years. But when one poses as a prophet he mounts a precarious pedestal, and it is assuring to hear much bigger prophets, securely nouncing the same

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, October 9.

Dear Susie: The mater has been suffering from a violent attack of polite calling this week and made it very plain that she required dutiful attendance in beloved daughter. When the mater has that look in her eye it is just as well to capitulate forthwith. So we borrowed Aunt Emma's machine, which is so much more stylish-looking than our own, and sallied forth to shed small talk and imbibe scandal.

Really there is quite a lovely stock of scandal, notwithstanding the season is yet young. Having crowded eleven calls into one afternoon we culled quite a delicious and varied assortment. At one house we heard all about the designing widow who is perfectly furious at a recent engagement. Her case certainly sounds a little trying. She had wintered and summered the gentleman with tender solicitation and womanly sweetness, and then he went and got engaged to a golf-playing, tennis-slogging young Amazon with muscles like a lightweight champion. The young Amazon, it appears, does all the vulgar masculine things that he and the widow used to agree were so vulgar! My sympathies are with the widow. What is the use of curbing one's natural tendencies to vulgarity so indefatigably? Oh, it's a shame!

Then there was the case of the young husband and wife, socially prominent and quite delightful, who waged an acrimonious battle across the dinner table and laundered any amount of family linen in public. That commenced with the war in Europe, because the wife's mamma wrote a violently pro-German letter (which wifey pretended to entirely agree with) and hubby was a blue-blooded, unsullied, unalloyed Englishman with very conservative views. That began it, but it proceeded on its insidious way through fearful personalities, via the kitchen, the bedroom, clear out to the hammock in the moonlight.

Another soupcon of scandal hovers around an automobile which uncle had given to married niece. A trifling financial stress generated a brilliant idea in twin brains, and it transpired a few weeks later that both husband and wife had mortgaged that machine, separately and unbeknown, and spent the money It really was very awkward for wifey had sorely needed new fal-lals and spent the money that way, explaining to hubby that mamma, back East, had furnished the wherewithal. Hubby had needed the money to settle an uncompromising debt and explained that an unexpected business deal had furnished the wherewithal. But unfortunately mamma back East wrote to hubby privately explaining that she was financially broke, and would he please send a little lubricating check to help her out. Explanations, confessions, rude remarks, tears—and all are agreed that mamma back East is hopelessly inconsiderate.

Then there was the case of the four-year bride who had told some sympathetic women friends she simply doted on babies, but that George, etc, etc. You know the sort of talk some of these sweet little hypocrites put forth. So sympathetic women friends drop George a hint to the effect that he is wickedly blasting a young life. George said "So!" and two days later a brand new baby arrived at that house, bought and paid for, with nurse and accoutrements all complete. George insists it's going to stay there, too. Says he always did have a weakness for babies himself and now that he knows. . . . And bridey is awfully mad. It is going to interfere horribly with her winter plans. You see, we shall hear a lot more about that presently.

I say, you do like scandal, don't you, Susie, dear? Of course, I know you are nice and high-minded and cultured and all that—just like the mater and me, but one has to keep one's-self informed doesn't one? Eh? Yes, of course, dear.

Yes, dear, two big weddings this week—the Duque-Walker and the Flint-McKay, and dozens more in the offing. It's a little depressing for we girls who are just about to plunge recklessly into our third season. We have a feeling that a good deal is expected of us, especially when our doting mothers gaze at us lovingly and insist that they hope we will never marry, as it will be dreadful, dreadful, dreadful, when they have to part with their dear, dear girls.

It's a little perplexing, because after the widow's experience one doesn't know whether to give way to one's natural bent and just be flamboyantly hoydenish or continue to suppress unladylike traits and cultivate social charm. Men are very tiresome; they hardly ever fall irretrievably in love with the type of girl they say they admire. And here comes a letter from our Irish relative, whose husband and a son have gone to the war. She is angling for an invitation for her two girls as she has just read in the paper that California has a large preponderance of men, all rich and well-bred and handsome! Ugh! Of course the mater will invite them and they will have gorgeous Irish complexions, large, timid eyes, long, droopy black lashes and soft musical voices—and I can see yours truly being heroically sweet under very trying circumstances. It's a sad world.

Personally, I shall depend a great deal on our pure-bred terrier. All the men who know go crazy over him. So I have asked father to give him to me for keeps. I shall rechristen him Kitchener, the great strong man who can raise an army of 500,000 men where none were before. If you are still on that port wine and egg diet, darling, kindly drink to Kitchener, my Kitchener, every time you take it.

Yes, the country clubs are bucking up and the first dance at San Gabriel takes place tomorrow night. Midwick and Los Angeles are having dinner dances every week-end and Annandale has four new handsome bachelors who don't play golf quite well enough to feel they will spoil their game by playing with a charming debutante. Hurrah!

Another gleam of comfort, too. Mirabel's people are expecting a visit from two young and beautiful Canadian army men. They have been detailed for some special work on the other side of the Pacific and they are allowing themselves five days here. Very eligible from all accounts. One can start a good deal in five days—look at the affairs that manage to materialize on the Atlantic in those five-day voyages. Oh, we mustn't lose hope.

Lots of love, darling.

Your affectionate, DOLLY.

THE WEEK.

PARTIES, RECEPTIONS, DINNERS, WEDDINGS AND THE LIKE.

GREAT enthusiasm is manifested by society over the Red Cross benefit to be given at Trinity Auditorium on the 22nd inst., by members of the Amateur Players' Club. The opera, "Patience," with Miss Elizabeth Wood in the title role, is the altogether interesting treat for those who attend, and judging from the requests for seats the house will be filled. Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. James Souter Porter, Mrs. H. B. Wing and Mrs. Guy Cochran, are among those who are boosting the worthy cause. Chairwomen of the various committees include Mrs. Granville MacGowan and Mrs. Dean Mason, ushers; Mrs. E. Avery McCarthy, Badges and Buttons; Mrs. Maurice Hellman and Mrs. H. W. Frank, Flowers; Mrs. Sumner P. Hunt, Miss Carrie Van Dyke and Miss Inez Clark, Tickets, and Mrs. Ezra Stimson, Cigarettes.

To Country Home for Winter.

Capt. M. M. Cloud, U.S.A., and Mrs. Cloud, with their four daughters, No. 679 Ardmore avenue, have gone to their country home at La Crescenta for the winter. This change was made on the account of little Mary, whose health has not been the best for some time.

Formal Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert Wyatt, No. 2619 West Eighth street, announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Anna Louise Gabbert, to Dr. Louis Thomas Hull. The wedding, a quiet home affair, will take place the evening of the 27th inst., at 8 o'clock.

Series of Teas.

A charming series of teas of the week just closed was given by Mrs. David Unruh, who, with her husband has recently taken a home at No. 977 Westmoreland avenue. The first affair was Friday afternoon, and honored her mother, Mrs. H. A. Unruh, who has just returned from a six-month European trip, and to which her close friends were invited. Among those present were Mrs. Edward Fallis Spence, Mrs. I. M. Van Nuys, Mrs. John A. Fairchild, Mrs. R. M. Widney, Mrs. Stephen C. Hubbell, Mrs. B. Agg, Mrs. Cates, Mrs. J. D. Bicknell, Mrs. John Rose Long, Mrs. John Mott, Mrs. M. W. Myrick, Mrs. Bumiller-Hickey, Mrs. Richard Schweppe, Mrs. Selig C. Howes, Mrs. Hans Jevne, Miss Kate Van Nuys and Miss Kathryn Spence. The second affair took place Saturday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6, when the hostess included about forty of her friends, to a delightful musical tea. Chrysanthemums arranged in huge floor vases adorned the living-room, while a pink motif was utilized in the dining-room, Fair Maid carnations and Killarney roses, interspersed with maidenhair fern, entering into the artistic scheme. Presiding here over the coffee and tea urns were Mrs. Thomas Wright and Mrs. Robert Gortner. The hostess received her guests alone. Other unbonneted ladies were Mrs. Theodore Simpson, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. George L. Spence. Those contributing to the pleasure of the afternoon with a musical programme included Mrs. John W. Thayer, Mrs. Philip Zobelein and Mrs. George L. Penniman.

Home from Ocean Cruise.

Commodore and Mrs. Alexander J. Mitchell, No. 1009 St. Andrews place, have returned from a two-month cruise in their yacht, Yankee Girl, the time being spent in and near San Diego and the Catalina Islands.

Bride-elect Complimented.

Miss Virginia Hayden, the bride-elect of Edward Finney, the announcement of whose engagement was of interest to society people in general in this city, was the honoree at a bridge tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Edwards Youmans and her daughter, Miss Dorothy, at their home, No. 508 South Occidental boulevard. The home had been turned into a bower by the use of a profusion of pink tea roses, with the exception of the dining-room, where Enchantress carnations filled the room with fragrance. Those invited to greet Miss Hayden were Mrs. Phelps Reed, Mrs. Edward Coane, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Jack Reynolds, Mrs. Ross Hickcox, Mrs. Jack Shepard, Mrs. Doyle, Mrs. Henry Bell, Mrs. Hal Maurer, Mrs. Wayland Trask, Mrs. Louise Lines, Mrs. Samuel Reggel, Mrs. George Kress, Mrs. Josephine Holmes, Mrs. Grace Hudson, Mrs. Charles Kysor, Mrs. Englehart, Mrs. M. E. Powers, Mrs. M. E. Ginn, Mrs. Allan Leonard, Mrs. Jacob Hanst, Mrs. F. B. Connell, Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. Edmunds, Mrs. Norman Henderschotte, Mrs. Brewster, Miss Jean Lines, Miss Naomi Stimpson, Miss Constance Colwell, Miss Mary Lines, Miss Edna Cooper, Miss Dolly Haskell, Miss Emma Skinner, Miss Helen Holmes, and Miss Edith Englehart. The hostess asked Mmes. Connell and Reggel to preside at the tea table which was radiant with a shower of Enchantress carnations, huge bows of pink satin ribbon and tulle, the whole glimmering under the shades of rose-colored lights.

Dinner Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Waller Chanslor entertained with a Hawaiian dinner dance at Beverly Hills Hotel Friday evening, their guests including Mr. and Mrs. Walter Story, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Doran, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Featherstone, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Stimpson, Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Janss, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cheney, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. SOCIETY.

Miss Elizabeth Wood

Miss Ruth White, Mrs. James E. Parker, Mrs. Z. T. Malaby, Mrs. D. W. Herlihy, Mrs. Virgil R. Sutliff and Mrs. J. W. Monroe.

Altadena Affair.

Honoring her house guest, Mrs. Maxine Shaw of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Yvonne Short of No. 127 Woodbury road, Altadena, gave a charming dinner party Wednesday evening. For her decorations the hostess chose Marshal Neil roses. A basket of the roses arranged with ferns was used also as the centerpiece for the table. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Los Angeles, Dr. Albert Collins of Chicago, Albert Taylor, Mrs. Maxine Shaw of Boston and Mrs. Yvonne Short.

Wedding at Garvanza.

The Little Church of the Angels in Garvanza was the scene of a pretty wedding Wednesday, when Miss Jessie Stewart Gilman and Bertram Wood of Pasadena were united in marriage. Rev. Harry Thompson, rector of the church, officiated.

The bride looked stunning in a handsome blue broadcloth suit and black velvet hat. There were no attendants. When they return from a short bridal trip they will be domiciled in their home at No. 519 Howard place.

Handsome Luncheon.

A handsome luncheon of the week was presided over by Mrs. Arthur Meidroth at her home, No. 1360 West Twenty-ninth street, honoring a Burlington (Iowa) guest, Miss Marie Krieschbaum, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ward Walker of Ontario. The table was abloom with masses of deep red dahlias arranged in a beautiful brass basket, while coreopsis and marigolds enlivened the living-room. Covers were laid for Mrs. Meredith, Miss Krieschbaum, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. David Unruh, Mrs. S. C. Dunlap, Mrs. Norman MacBeth, Mrs. John G. Treanor and Mrs. F. J. Ryan.

To New York.

Mrs. Charles R. Drake, No. 2833 Hoover street, left Wednesday for New York City, where she will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. W. Kemmler. She will be away two months.

Las Amigas Club.

Fragrant pink sweet peas in a crocheted basket, with smaller ones filled with bonbons at each cover, and sweet pea placecards was the motif of the table presided over by Mrs. George Jenkins Friday afternoon at her home on Western. She entertained with a luncheon for the initial meeting of the Las Amigas Club. Auction bridge was the pleasure following luncheon and prizes fell to Mrs. Charles Funk and Mrs. Med Mosher. A special guest present was Mrs. Harry Hazzard. Others were Mrs. William Bowden, Mrs. Herbert Clark, Mrs. Charles Funk, Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, Mrs. George Jenkins, Mrs. Persis Johnson, Mrs. Edward Mosher, Mrs. Thomas O'Bannon, Mrs. Stanford Parker, Mrs. Thomas Morgan and Miss Robinson.

Dinner and Theater Party.

Celebrating her birthday anniversary, Mrs. Clarence Pierce, No. 521 St. Andrews place, entertained with a dinner party at the Jonathan Club Friday evening, followed by a box party at the Orpheum. The table was aglow with yellow chrysanthemums, the same blossoms adorning the placecards marking covers for Dr. and Mrs. Pierce, Dr. and Mrs. William Mayne and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Davis.

En Route from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pascoe, who have been in England since last April, reaching London just before the war broke out, sailed from Liverpool Wednesday on the steamship Baltic, and expect to reach Los Angeles in about two weeks.

Birthday Anniversary Celebrated.

Mrs. Turner E. Weatherholt of Chicago, who, with her husband, is spending the winter in this city, was the complimented guest at a dinner party given Tuesday evening by Mrs. J. Lockwood Harrington at her apartments in the Weymouth, the occasion being her birthday anniversary. A shower of pink enchantress carnations centered the table, with pink-shaded lights shedding a soft glow over the table. Vari-colored cactus dahlias with huge bows of tulle ribbon adorned the honoree's chair, and gold-monogramed cards marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Weatherholt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Maurer and Mrs. Jacob George Hanst.

Santa Barbara Items.

Numerous pretty attentions are being showered upon Miss Marguerite Doe of Montecito and San Francisco, who is to be the bride of Eliot Rogers, son of Mrs. Robert Cameron Rogers. The date for the nuptials has not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart White were hosts Tuesday evening at a dinner given at their Garden-street home to Mr. and Mrs. Joel R. Fithian, Capt. and Mrs. William Holmes McKittrick and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Park have returned from a honeymoon trip to Los Angeles and other points in that section.

Mrs. W. E. Hodges, who has been spending the summer at Montecito, has gone to San Francisco. After a stay of several weeks there she will go on to her home in Riverside, Ill.

Mrs. Joseph Anderson gave a small dinner Thursday at her Padre-street home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mickle, who leave next week for their Cincinnati home.

Smart Bridge Luncheon.

One of the smart affairs of the fall season was the bridge luncheon presided over by Mrs. M. M. Weilheimer, No. 1012 West Eighth street, and Mrs. Joseph Goldsmith, No. 409 West Twenty-first street, at the home of the latter Friday afternoon. All the appointments for the function were carried out in yellow. The lace and damask-covered table, glittering in its pretty crystal and silver, was centered by a bronze basket filled with chrysanthemums and yellow-shaded candelabra shed a sof glow over the scene. Gold-monogramed cards marked covers for the hostesses, Mrs. Ralph Demming, Mrs. Donald Bowles, Mrs. Wendell McLaughlin, Mrs. G. Saurret, Mrs. Ira Chapman, Mrs. Robert Camp, Mrs. Frank Dick, Mrs. R. Skinker, Mrs. Eva Neubauer, Mrs. Herbert H. Clark, Mrs. Frank Jay, Mrs. E. E. Henderson, Mrs. Persis Johnson, Mrs. P. W. Bresee, Mrs. Barker Van Zandt, Mrs. P. Ketchum, Mrs. Harry Harrington and Mrs. J. Lockwood Harrington. Following luncheon tables were arranged for games of auction, prizes falling to Mmes. Jay, McLaughlin and Van Zandt.

Mrs. Goldsmith entertained the following afternoon with the second of the series, using the golden bronze dahlias to enliven her table, the blossoms resting on a handsome cluny cloth. Those included Saturday were Mrs. Myer Siegel, Mrs. C. C. Cohn, Mrs. Arthur Levy, Mrs. Jake Goldsmith, Mrs. Walter Harris, Mrs. Jake Korn, Mrs. L. Lustig, Mrs. J. Schlessinger, Mrs. A. Goldsmith, Mrs. Isabelle Hauch, Mrs. Ellis Cohn, Mrs. Adolph Klein, Mrs. Isabelle Green, Mrs. L. Holzer, Mrs. Gus Goldsmith, Mrs. Louis Kleinberger and Mrs. Julius Morris. Games of auction followed the delectable luncheon, high score winners being Mmes. Gus Goldsmith, Myer Siegel and Ellis Cohn.

McMahan, Miss Helen Mauzy, Miss Elizabeth Kenney, Miss Anna McMahan and Miss Jual Trefern were asked to enjoy the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mauzy, No. 245 South Normandie avenue, recently, celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Invitations Out.

Members of the Breakers and Crescent Bay Bachelors' Club have issued invitations for an informal tango dance to be given Friday evening.

Tea Party.

Members of the Delta Delta Chapter of the Alpha Chi Omega Fraternity gave a tea party yesterday at the home of Miss Rowena Huscroft, No. 671 South Catalina street. The enjoyable affair was planned in honor of their rushees, the Misses Isabelle Long, Kathryn Stuart, Ruby Yokom and Ruth Yokom, together with all Alpha Chi's of Southern California and their mothers. Guests were received from 3 to 5 o'clock by Mrs. Charles Brown, Mrs. Herbert Cushman, Miss Edna Boycourt, Miss Clara Stevenson and Miss Mildred Finch. Red carnations, the sorority flower, were used profusely in decorating. Mrs. De Witt Brady presided at the coffee urn and Miss Grace De Lano poured tea. Ellen Beach Yaw, a member, added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon by contributing two selections to the programme presented by Miss Edna Boycourt, Miss Clara Stevenson and Miss Ruth Arnold.

Engagement Made Known.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gold of No. 1280 West Adams street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jeanette, to Arthur M. Wernir. A reception will be held today from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Home Wedding.

Miss Harriett English, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William English, No. 917 Lucille avenue, became the bride Wednesday evening of Orrin William Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wright, No. 1663 Roosevelt avenue, Rev. E. Stanton Hodgin reading the lines at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Ira Gay and Miss Nita Venum furnished the wedding music.

The bride was daintily attired in white batiste and silk shadow lace, wearing a long tulle veil caught with sprays of orange blossoms, and carrying a shower bouquet of valley lilies and maidenhair fern. Miss Dorothy M. Blum attended as bridesmaid, gowned in pink, carrying an arm shower of Cecile Brunner rosebuds. The dainty flower girl was the cousin of the groom, little Vesta Castera, frocked in pink and white, showering pink and white rose petals from a gold basket in front of the bride. Don McGee stood with the groom.

Owing to illness in the family, the wedding was a quiet affair, only relatives and intimate friends being included.

In Santa Barbara.

Among the guests at the Potter are Mrs. C. A. Thomas of Dawson, wife of C. A. Thomas, manager of the Guggenheim mining interests; John E. Searles of Ipswich, Mass., and his sister, Miss Corina Searles of Boston; James H. Le Noir of Los Angeles, H. E. Rogers of San Francisco, Harry C. Watanabe of San Francisco and Mrs. J. C. Rhoads of Philadelphia.

Reception to Members.

The ladies of the Wilshire Presbyterian Church gave a reception on the evening of October 6 to the members of the church and congregation. Mrs. Marie Dale Fuller of Echo Park avenue, Miss Emma Hansen of South Serrano street, and Mr. Nelson H. Armbrust of Belmont avenue furnished a delightful musical programme. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, pampas grass and cosmos.

Dinner to Mr. and Mrs. Fog.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcelin Eyraud will entertain with a dinner party next Sunday in the honor of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fog, at their residence, No. 1826 Manhattan place. Their daughter, Lucie, was married two weeks ago to Mr. Fog, and the couple returned yesterday from their honeymoon up north. The Eyraud family is among the oldest French residents of Los Angeles. Mr. Marcelin Eyraud is connected with the firm of Eyraud, Mazet & Co. Mr. Maurice Fog is a well-known member of the French colony in Los Angeles and is editor of the daily French paper, L'Echo de l'Ouest.

Out-of-Town-Society.

South Pasadena.

THERE was a brilliant dancing party at the Woman's Clubhouse Friday evening, the occasion being the initial dance for the new season of the Oneonta Dancing Club. The large ballroom was radiant with myriads of colored lights, while masses of browneyed Susans embellished the scene. In the dining-room, where a buffet supper followed the dancing, great shaggy yellow chrysanthemums, arranged in brown baskets, were utilized, each resting on handsome centerpieces on the various tables.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Robert Hardy, Mrs. W. H. Thompson, Mrs. Arthur Heimann, Mrs. Robert Forbes and Mrs. Howard Kelley. Mmes. Hardy and Thompson poured coffee. The Alexandria colored entertainers played fascinating music for the dancing, and about sixty guests were included.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Johnson of Minneapolis are the guests of their sister-in-law, Mrs. Wilbur O. Dow, No. 1807 Fremont avenue, en route to Honolulu to visit their son, Capt. Walter H. Johnson, Second Infantry, U.S.A. Mrs. Johnson is a Past Worthy Grand Matron of the Order of Eastern Star.

A garden wedding was chosen by Miss Lucile Yielding as the scene for her marriage to Mourton Allison of Detroit, Mich., Friday evening. The garden is enclosed by ivy-covered walls, while large oak trees formed a canopy overhead. The bridal couple stood in a bower of roses and ferns.

The bride, who was girlish in a white satin gown, with a tunic of chantilly, her veil caught with a coronet of orange blossoms, extending to the end of the train, carrying a bridal shower of white roses and valley lilies, was preceded to the improvised altar by two little flower girls, Genevieve Baird and Margaret Stuart, frocked in white lace. There were no attendants, but Richard Cary Jones and Dr. Emmerson L. Moore assisted as ushers.

A short reception followed, after which supper was served in the house, which was fragrant with the odor of pink roses, Cecile Brunner predominating in the dining-room, caught from the ceiling with strands of asparagus plumosus over the table, held with a huge bow of rose-colored tulle. The honeymoon journey will include all interesting points between here and Detroit, where the young people will make their home.

Mrs. Grace Hudson, No. 1825 Oak street, who has been spending the summer in New York, returned home Thursday.

Mrs. Sherman Hoyt, No. 917 Buena Vista street, has gone to New York City for two months, and will stop at the Vanderbilt Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Foote Marsh entertained with a chicken dinner Monday evening at their home, No. 91 Fair Oaks avenue, honoring the members of the executive board of the Baptist Sunday-school of this city.

Mrs. Mossom G. Ritchie and son, Harry, No. 1806 Fletcher avenue, have returned from a three months' eastern trip. Palmer Ritchie, who accompanied his mother, remained at Ann Arbor, where he will take the law course.

Members of the Wednesday Afternoon Kensington Club were the complimented guests at a luncheon given by Mrs. Mary Ayers Godfrey at her home, No. 1139 Mound avenue, Wednesday. Fluffy yellow chrysanthemums in a glass vase graced the center of the table, from which extended broad yellow satin ribbons, ending in huge bows at the corners of the table. Dinnergrams marked covers for Mrs. Godfrey, Mrs. John W. Moore, Mrs. T. I. Gifford, Mrs. Rebecca Cairns, Mrs. A. J. Hoffman,

SOCIETY.

Mrs. W. P. Freeman, Mrs. E. N. Grant, Mrs. Noble Harter, Mrs. Estella Johnson, Mrs. E. H. Rust, Mrs. M. Fernandez, Mrs. Henry Perkins, Mrs. S. Custer, Mrs. Louise Axtman and Mrs. George Wilson.

Miss Margaret Brickel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brickel, No. 2053 Milan avenue, was married Tuesday evening at a simple home wedding before relatives and friends only, to Guy M. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Martin, No. 1952 Huntington drive, the Rev. Dr. Isaac Meserve, pastor of the Oneonta Congregational Church, reading the lines.

The house was a bower of pink and green for the occasion. The mantel was banked with roses and ferns, in front of which the bridal couple stood for the ceremony. White net and lace formed the bridal gown, and a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley was carried, while she wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair. She was unattended.

After a short reception supper was served, and the young couple left on a wedding trip, at the conclusion of which they will make their home in Santa Ana, where the groom is a merchant. The bride, who has lived in this city a number of years, is a graduate of the local High School, as well as of the Los Angeles Normal School.

Monrovia.

THE board of trustees gave a reception to all the faculties of the High School and grades at the High School Friday evening. Santa Ana.

RESPONDING to roll call with news items or suggestions pertinent to "California Landmarks," the members of the Woman's Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Christina W. Young, in the first meeting of the 1914-15 season. In the paper of the afternoon, Mrs. W. G. Gould, dealt interestingly with the subject, "In and Out of the Old Missions—Our Old Forts and Their Histories." She paid a tribute to the memory of the great padre, Father Junipero Serra, whose marvelous leadership and devotion to the uplifting of the Indians and Spanish of California is such a wonderful page in the history of the development of the Southwest. She declared Fts. Sutter, Rosecrans and Sonora as being of the greatest interest to the old settlers of the Pacific Coast. In the "California Landmarks" response California's famous trees, the mammoth grapevine at San Gabriel and the localities made notable in Helen Hunt Jackson's "Ramona" figured largely. Mmes. F. A. Marks, Prince L. Tople, W. R. Sylvester, H. H. Benney, C. P. Kryhl were named as delegates to the Orange County Federation of Woman's Clubs, held Wednesday at Fullerton. Mrs. Maud Tiffany, a new member, and Mmes. Mildred Griffith of Santa Ynez, and Mrs. Hutchins of Santa Ana were special guests of the club.

That the handsome Orange County Country Club will be the scene of many of the social gaieties of the county is an expectation that has every promise of being fulfilled. It has already been the scene of several delightful events, the latest of these being the dance given on Wednesday evening for the club members and their wives. The privilege of two guests was given each member and over 100 society men and women assembled from Santa Ana, Orange, Tustin, Huntington Beach, Balboa, East and West Newport and Newport Beach. Yellow chrysanthemums glowed throughout the rooms given over to dancing, and gaily-flowered Japanese lanterns lighted the sun parlor. The affair was informal, and the Chapman Orchestra furnished exhilarating music for the dancers. Punch was served throughout the evening and supper was at order after dancing. A schedule of hospitality events for the winter season will soon be announced to the members. The clubhouse, beautiful for situation, easy of access and finely equipped for entertainment, is fast becoming the vogue for private parties and entertainments.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rurup have recently built and occupied a very handsome new home, No. 814 South Broadway, and on Tuesday evening the attractive domicile was opened for the entertainment of a party of twenty friends, invited to celebrate the natal day of the man of the house. Splendid Maman Cochet roses of glowing pink added floral charm to the spacious parlors. Five tables of players enjoyed progressive whist, and after cards were over, the small tables were rearranged for dainty refreshments, place cards designating covers for the guests. The list of invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. Fred English, Mr. and Mrs. E. Rurup, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bond, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rurup, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. McKain, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kostemeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rurup, Mrs. Emma Shay, Miss Mary Arp, Miss Anna Peters, Miss Minnie Rurup, Max L. Huberman and Paul Arp.

Honoring Miss Alice Robinson, soon to be wedded to Rudolph Divver, Miss Grace White and Miss Esther Fluor gave a miscellaneous linen shower recently, which was a progressive affair. It began at the Fluor home on Ross street where dancing and a mock wedding with Miss Olive Newcomer as the minister were the initial proceedings. An automobile ride followed, ending at the home of Miss White on Hickey street, where a most elaborately appointed dinner was waiting for the guests. From an electrolier where the globes were shaded with pink water lilies was suspended a white umbrella, streamers of pink and green ribbons ending in lily favors at the covers. A dainty package was fastened to each streamer, altogether constituting the "shower" of gifts. Following the final course, the bride-to-be opened the packages of dainty linen. Those at the table were Miss Robinson, Miss Fluor, Miss White, Miss Lurline Dickey, Miss Oliver Newcomer, Miss Opal Baker, Miss Mary Whipple, Miss Gertrude Potts and Miss Frances Potts.

Casa Verdugo.

THE fiesta given by the Tuesday Afternoon Club at La Ramada on Saturday was continued on Monday afternoon and evening, owing to the inclement weather, but was none the less a success for the fact. About 250 were served to the Spanish dinner, and about 700 enjoyed the various entertainments given the guests during the afternoon and evening. Especially noteworthy were the musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental. All in all, the fiesta was an unqualified success, both socially and financially.

Herman Berner and family of No. 1117 Remington street have removed to Corona, where they expect to locate permanently, as Mr. Berner has extensive ranch property in both Corona and Colton.

Nat Browne of No. 1620 Stocker street was again host at one of those delightful Sunday functions, which are so popular, at that charming home. During the day tennis was enjoyed to the fullest extent, the participants in the game being Messrs. Lawrence Turrentine of Los Angeles and Gerald Blue, J. Bowers, Frank Littell, Miss Rae Davis, Mrs. Will Raitt and son, Will Raitt, Jr.; Miss Ruth Browne and the genial host. Others who happened in to enjoy the evening were Miss Barbara Mitchell of Kenneth road, Miss Marjorie Duncan, Leland Duncan of Casa Verdugo and Miss Marie Inda and Hunter Graham of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Lawrence W. Eley of North Louise street has had as her house guest for the past ten days Mrs. Loren Janes of Los Angeles. Mrs. Janes has been spending some time at the extensive Janes stock ranch, at Piru.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clemment of No. 1321 North Pacific avenue entertained most charmingly with a full course dinner, the guests being Mrs. James Littell and son, Frank Littell, of Dryden street and Mrs. Shaw, the house guest of Mrs. Littell, and Mrs. Samuel Eastman of Eagle Rock, daughter of Mrs. Littell.

Miss Elizabeth Lange of No. 904 Dryden street was entertained by friends in Los Angeles over the week-end. Miss Lange will leave for the East about October 15, to remain an indefinite period.

FIVE HUNDRED was chosen as the source of celebration for their ninth wedding anniversary by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cross, who, together with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Guthrie of No. 1470 Sycamore avenue, entertained with a delightful party in the home of the latter Tuesday evening of this week. Red carnations and ferns were used in abundance for decorative purposes, and in keeping with this preferred color scheme were the score cards, which served as prize bulletins at the close of a merry evening. A delicious and elaborate collation was served at a late hour by the gracious hostesses, who took great pleasure in awarding handsome prizes to Mrs. Harry L. Howe, Mrs. W. S. Corwin, Mr. W. S. Corwin and Mr. H. V. Henry, holders of the highest and lowest ladies' and gentlemen's scores. Guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Wooster Gist, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Leppleman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Corwin, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Farrow and Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Lane.

Miss Ethel Tarr, the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tarr of Isabel street, was married on Tuesday to Mr. Archie Gillies, son of A. I. Gillies, a well-known Glendale business man. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's brother. The bride was beautifully attired in white crepe de chine and carried a lovely bouquet of white carnations, while the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Tarr, sister of the bride, carried pink carnations, which harmonized well with her pretty pink dress of voile. Eugene Gillies, brother of the groom, stood with the happy man. The decorations were tastily arranged and beneath a bell of white marguerites the bride and groom were united in the bonds of holy matrimony by the Rev. Elmer K. Fisher of Los Angeles. The affair was very quiet and was attended by the very near relatives of the bride and groom. Following a brief honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Gillies will be at home to their friends at No. 443 East Third street.

The Elrose Thimble Club enjoyed the usual industriously busy afternoon with Mrs. Louis Grafions, who entertained the eight members in her home, No. 144 Elrose avenue, on Wednesday afternoon. Dark red dahlias were were effectively arranged about the rooms in which the guests were received, and later served to a dainty collation. Mrs. Charls S. Foss of No. 131 Elrose avenue will be the next hostess, enttertaining Wednesday afternoon, October 14.

A very pretty afternoon tea was enjoyed Wednesday afternoon by women of the Presbyterian Church, when, as hostess to the twenty-five or more guests, Mrs. M. P. Harrison proved herself most gracious in her home, Nr. 245 South Kenwood street. Dark red dahlias lent warmth and color to the dining-room, wherein Mrs. W. S. Perrin poured tea, and in the living-room, where a delightful programme was given, beautiful Cochet roses and ferns were arranged in showers. Those who cheered the social hours with gifted talent were the Misses Vera Holloway and Monica Smith of Glendale, in piano duets, and Miss Grace Black of Mendoto, Ill., with songs, all of which were highly appreciated and greatly enjoyed.

Among the enjoyable informal affairs of the first the week was the dinner presided over by Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Dodge in their attractive home, No. 101 South Central avenue. Roses and ferns lent an enchanting pink and green motif to the table settig, and tiny cards marked covers for Mr. and Mrs. John Tweedy, Mr. and Mrs. John Brice and Miss Catherine Chipman of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dryden of Porterville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Dodge, Miss Kathleen Dodge and Master Fred Dodge of Glendale.

In compliment to Mr. W. Eungewitter of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Keleher of No. 228 North Louise street entertained Mrs. Katherine Hunt, Miss Ida Jordan and Mr. Boylan at dinner in their home. All of the appointments were in yellow and white and conclusive of an elaborate repast a most enjoyable evening was spent.

The St. Margaret Girls have issued invitations for a large dancing party to be given in Masonic Temple Friday evening, October 16.

As a surprise to Mr. A. C. Gage of Los Angeles, Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Martin were host and hostess at a prettily arranged dinner party in their home, No. 828 West Colorado boulevard, recently. Pink roses and ferns reposed in the center of the table and in other parts of the house, where dancing and music were later enjoyed. Carnations of pink and white were grouped about. Besides Dr. and Mrs. Martin and Mr. Gage, those who shared the joys of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. H. Oswald of Glendale, Mrs. Gage and Miss Louise Holland of Los Angeles.

Mrs. F. King and daughter, Miss Pearl King, together with the Misses Miriam and Winifred Reyonlds of Los Angeles, were entertained at a delightful informal luncheon in the Central avenue home of Mrs. T. S. Provolt Tuesday. Roses were used as floral tributes and covers were laid for eight.

Rev. and Mrs. Bede A. Johnson of West Third street, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoskins of West Sixth street, and the Rev. H. J. Hartsell of Pacific avenue were among the Glendale clergy and residents who spent the past week at the annual Methodist Episcopal conference in Pasadena.

Miss Ethel A. Potter is among the recent arrivals in Glendale, having come from New York to spend a short while in the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre V. Potter, of Pioneer drive.

Prof. and Mrs. Francis Morris of Los Angeles were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ellis of Kenwood street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tenney and daughter, Miss Eliza Tenney, who are visiting on the Coast from Sand Point, Idaho, were the over-Sunday guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McIntyre of Cedar street.

Mrs. R. H. Kimball of West Tenth street is home again from a delightful four-weeks' visit in San Francisco, from which puace she was accompanied by Miss Lucile Belle, who will be the guest of Mrs. Kimball for some time.

Mrs. J. A. Neel of No. 146 South Louisa street, accompanied by her daughter, Mary Jane, left Thursday for Pittsburgh, Pa., where they expect to remain until after the first of the year.

Glen Eyrie Chapter, O.E.S., entertained with a dancing and card party at Masonic Temple, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Barrows of West Sixth street entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Stevens of Los Angeles at dinner in their home Wednesday evening. Mr. Stevens is a well-known 'cellist, and together with Mrs. Barrows, who is also a talented pianist, rendered some delightful music during the evening.

Tropico.

THE initial meeting of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon Club for this year was held Thursday afternoon at the home of, Mrs. Leigh Bancroft, No. 119 South Brand boulevard. Mrs. Bancroft's beautiful home, nestled among the rare tropical plants and foliage, with its vine-covered ramada and artistic interior furnishings, is beautifully adapted for entertaining, and the charming hostess, with Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, Mrs. H. H. Davenport, Mrs. Harry Bowman and Mrs. W. C. Mabry, dispensed most generous hospitality to the large number of club members and their guests.

The business session, which proved a most interesting one, was presided over by Mrs. Charles A. Barker, club president. A special musical programme, under the direction of Mrs. Charles M. Turck, chairman of the music section, was rendered on a victrola.

Mrs. Randall Hutchinson of Los Angeles gave a most interesting talk on "Some of the Beauties of the Pan-American Exposition." This talk was cleverly illustrated with views of the beautiful buildings and samples of the building material. During the social hour plans of the new clubhouse were exhibited.

The first meeting of the Tropico branch of the Parent-Teachers' Association was held Friday afternoon in the Los Cerritos school building. Upon Mrs. Percy De Gaston presenting her resignation as president of the association, Mrs. Albert Chadwick was elected to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Estelle Lawton-Lindsey gave an interesting talk relative to several of the amendments that are to be voted upon at the coming election.

Mrs. Martha McClure, principal and teacher of the eighth grade, assisted by her pupils and Mrs. Helen McNaughton of the first grade, and her pupils, assisted members of the association, with the afternoon's programme.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Glenn of Ashland, Or., who have been spending the past two years at their ranch home near Cambria, N. M., who are en route to their Oregon home, were the guests the first of the week of Mr. J. B. Hickman and daughters, at their home, Palm Villa, on West Park avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn and their host were neighbors and friends in Indiana a half a century ago, and this reunion proved a most happy one.

Mrs. Flora Pixley and her daughter, Miss Olive Pixley, have returned from a month's delightful vacation trip which was enjoyed at Yreka, visiting former Colorado friends, who are now residents of the northern city. The trip from here to San Francisco was made by boat, while the remainder of the journey was over the Southern Pacific with a pleasant sojourn at Shasta Springs.

Mrs. Frank E. Peters of Glendale avenue is entertaining as her house guest her nephew, Mr. Victor Moliere of New Orleans, who is en route to Washington.

Dr. A. O. Conrad and his sister-in-law and son, motored to Newhall, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conrad.

Samuel Parker of Glendale avenue is spending the week in Imperial Valley.

Dr. and Mrs. George Bahrenberg, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George Wicks, have returned to their home in Bakersfield, after a most delightful week's visit as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg at their attractive home, Twin Pines, West Park avenue. Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg and guests enjoyed a visit in Redlands, where they were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Bahrenberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Weston entertained at a well-appointed dinner party at their home Sunday, when their guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ellias, Miss Lillian Ellias and Emily Ellias of Glendale.

Miss Nanna Hess has returned to her home in San Fernando road after a two weeks' delightful visit to relatives in Bakersfield.

Mrs. Lydia Cutter of Long Beach was the week-end guest of Mrs. Charles E. Scheu.

H. H. Tisdale has returned from a two weeks' visit in Pueblo, Colo.

San Gabriel.

ONE of the most important events of the week was the dinner given yesterday at the Alexandria Hotel by Mrs. Erasmas Wilson of Wilsonia Court on Rose road, as a gracious compliment to Miss Catherine Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Mason of Sierra Madre, whose wedding next Wednesday will be one of the most brilliant of the early fall events. Covers were laid for twelve, and a delightful time was enjoyed, whilea delectable menu was served at exquisitely-appointed tables, and Miss Mason was the subject of cordial greetings from her friends who were present.

The departure of Mrs. Warren E. Rollins of San Marco street with her charming daughter, Miss Ruth, who is a student at Cumnock School of Los Angeles, is the occasion for much regret in the artists' colony here. Mr. Rollins will remain at work in the desert during the winter months, and it will be early spring before the return of this popular family to the Lodge.

The ladies of Mountain View Methodist Church, who have been enthusiastically at work for several months in preparation of their annual bazaar to be held in the church parlors, announce November 12 as the day for the fete. The entire day will scintillate with brilliant entertainment provided for the guests, and in the evening a programme has been arranged that will surpass any previous bazaar. Much of the work is being done under the supervision of Mrs. J. R. Alexander and a corps of capable assistants.

A merry juvenile party was given at Johnson's Hall during the week by the young men of the U.N.O. Club, the honored guests of the evening being the members of the N.B. Club, a secret society, composed of a bevy of the community's most popular young girls. Dancing was the pleasure of the evening, for which music was furnished by local musicians. Following dancing delectable refreshments were served the guests, among whom were Miss Dorothy Robins, Miss Olive Edwards, Miss Nina Seabree, Miss Helen Taylor, Miss Maude Fischer, Miss Minnie Fitzer and Messrs. Theodore Robins, William Holmes, Gilbert Nichols, Aaron Nicolaides, Maurice Nearly and Lewis Barlow.

The attractive home of Mrs. George S. Patton will be the scene of a brilliant event next Saturday when a silver tea will be given. Proceeds from the affair will be used in connection with the work undertaken by the ladies of the little Church of Our Savior on Rose road, near San Gabriel boulevard.

Oxnard.

MISS LORENA MONTGOMERY, who is soon to become the bride of Wesley Bialock of Bakersfield, was the guest of honor at a delightful miscellaneous shower given by the Misses Frances Printz and Elizabeth Kreisher on the lawn at Ellheim, the country home of the latter. Favorite recipes, written by the guests in a dainty book provided by the hostesses, formed a pretty and practical souvenir of the occasion for the guest of honor. Miss Bertha Havens, in a dainty fairy costume, presented the gifts, which consisted of linens, silver, embroideries and other beautiful articles. Miss Allie May Gunnell of Ventura gave several solos during the afternoon. The hostesses were assisted in serving refreshments to the seventy-five guests by the Misses Scott, Lulu Havens and Allie Gunnell.

Robert Snow, son of H. K. Snow, Jr., has arrived home from a two weeks' wedding trip, having been married in Riverside September 15 to Mrs. Mary D. Hunter, who has been living in Elsinore since leaving Oxnard a year ago. Mr. and Mrs. Snow will live on one of the Snow ranches near Moorpark.

Members of the adult Bible class of the Presbyterian Church held an enjoyable class party at the Manse Thursday evening. About thirty members were present and enjoyed an evening of games of various kinds, concluded by the serving of refreshments.

Miss Beryl Bard of Berylwood was elected president of the Improvement Club of Hueneme Beach at the annual meeting this week. Other officers elected were Miss Annis Baggus, secretary, and Mrs. John Dewar, treasurer.

Mrs. Rose Hancock has returned to her home in Los Angeles following a visit with her sister, Mrs. N. A. Marlborough. Mrs. Hancock was in Europe at the outbreak of the war, and, like many others, experienced considerable difficulty in returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Davis of Pomona are visiting Mrs. Davis's mother, Mrs. L. E. Carnes, at Hueneme Beach.

Mrs. William Lanyon, who has been the guest of Mrs. Joseph Hummel, and in whose honor several pleasant social affairs were given, departed Wednesday for a stay in Long Beach. Miss Marvel Lanyon is the guest of Mrs. Hummel's daughter, Miss Constance.

Mrs. I. F. Ball went to Ashville, N. C., this week, to join her sister, who is ill in a sanatorium there.

Mrs. Hugh Reed and daughter, Miss Mildred, have returned to Los Angeles after a visit with Mrs. Reed's mother, Mrs. Charles Brigham.

Miss Ida Borchard, Miss Pearl Lamb and W. E. Borchard have returned from a voyage to Hawaii. The trip was taken largely on account of Miss Borchard's health.

Mrs. T. Tieman entertained a few friends Tuesday evening at her beach home, the occasion being her wedding anniversary. The home was decorated with sweet peas, pansies and carnations, and a delicious supper was served.

Santa Paula.

CASA LADRILLO, the picturesque home of Mrs. T. D. Clayton, was the scene of an elaborate affair last Friday evening, when Dean George F. Weld of Montecito was the host at a dinner party honoring Rev. Douglas Atwill, the new rector of the Episcopal Church. The guests were gentlemen of the parish. A color scheme of soft rainbow colors was artistically developed in the different rooms, pink roses and pink-shaded lights transforming the reception-room, with lavender flowers and decorations in the dining-room, and golden glow in the den, all softened and united by lacy greenery. A large canopy of green extended over the dining table, with purple fringed lights of the chandelier peeping through. All the appointments for the table were carried out in white and lavender, a large basket of white beauty roses tied with lavender tulle, and resting in a miniature lake, surrounded by kewpies with lavender sashes, forming the center decoration of the table.

The young ladies of the senior class of the Santa Paula High School were hostesses to the boys of the class Friday evening, at the home of Miss Pearl Derbyshire. The affair was also complimentary to Miss Gertrude Younglove, a member of the class, who has since gone to Los Angeles. Games and music were enjoyed, and a dainty collation served. The Derbyshire home was artistically decorated in roses and asparagus fern.

A number of Santa Paula young people, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Glen Good, motored to Sulphur Mountain Springs Saturday evening and enjoyed an informal hop. About thirty young people made up the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson entertained with an informal dancing party and musicale at their home Thursday evening.

Mrs. E. W. Kuhlman and Mrs. George DeTroy were hostesses at a small dancing party at their home Friday evening, to which eleven guests were invited.

Miss Edith Grundy, Miss Franc Palmer, Miss Wilbur and Mrs. C. Palmer spent the week-end at Sulphur Mountain Springs.

Mrs. C. L. Frost was the honoree at a pleasant informal party Thursday evening given by the girls of the J.O.C. class, whose teacher she was for several months. The affair was given at the home of Mrs. George Cliff, and a pleasant evening spent in playing cards was followed by an old-fashioned candy pull.

Miss Alice Case arrived Thursday evening from Chicago for a visit with her cousin, Mrs. Belle Bowker and family.

Mrs. J. W. Greer left last Friday for a six weeks' visit in Texas.

Ted Henderson has returned from a two months' pleasure trip to Hawaii.

An enjoyable evening was the Christian Endeavor social Friday evening at the Presbyterian Church. A musical programme, followed by a dress-designing contest, which caused much merriment, preceded the serving of refreshments. Prizes in the contest were won by Messrs. Floyd Ransdell and Douglas Shiveley.

Pomona.

MRS. GEORGE A. HALL pleasantly entertained the members of the local Shakespeare Club at her home on Piedmont street on Monday afternoon. During the afternoon, Mrs. Frank Wire rendered several piano selections and a bright little play, "Nance Oldfield" was presented under the direction of Miss Theresa Cogswell, by Misses Irene Hall, Mary Nichols, Alma Evans and Helena MacKenzie. Following the entertainment, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Katherine Ullyott has moved to Pasadena and will reside at the Herkimer Arms apartments.

Mr. and Mrs. George Belcher entertained a number of young people at dinner on Sunday at their East Holt avenue home, in honor of their daughter, Marion, and two friends, Misses Yancey and Dorsey, who are the latter's house guests.

Misses Bertha Yeend and Browning opened a society dancing class for adults at the Ebell Club House on Monday evening. Both young women have been studying dancing in the East.

The members of the Modern Woodmen of America and the Royal Neighbors enjoyed an old-fashioned picnic and social time at Ganesha Park on Monday evening.

Miss Alma Booth of North Gordon street has been the guest of friends in Los Angeles, the past week.

Mrs. Arthur M. Dole attended the luncheon of the Associated Collegiate Alumnae at Hotel Clark, Los Angeles, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva S. Booth of No. 790 North Gordon street announce the matrimonial engagement of their daughter, Miss Alma M. Booth to Edgar Lyle Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Clark of East Holt avenue. Both young people are popular here.

Miss Moneta Ruth Abbott, daughter of Mrs. Nettie Abbott and Harry B. Westgate were quietly married at the home of the bride's mother, Washington and Olive avenues, on Saturday evening, Rev. Albert P. Davis officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stevens of Lincoln Park drive entertained at their home on Monday evening, the ladies of the staff of the Pomona Progress in honor of Miss Florence Middaugh, who has been employed by the Progress, but who will soon be married to Ralph W. Carter. The rooms were attractively decorated and a merry evening was passed in games. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Miss Emma Balzhauser of this city and Andrew D. Logan of Brawley will be united in marriage on Thursday evening at the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Balzhauser of No. 343 East Eighth street.

Miss Ruth Wallace arrived from Kansas City, Mo., on Sunday, to pass the winter with her sister, Mrs. Frank B. Ward.

The ladies of the Pomona Ebell Club were delightfully entertained at a song recital, given in costume by Miss Nell Lockwood McCune of Los Angeles on Friday afternoon. In the evening the members of the Board of Education and the board of directors of the Ebell Club gave a reception at the clubhouse to all of the local public school teachers, Superintendent of Schools G. Vernon Bennett, being a special guest of honor.

Rialto.

THE formal opening of the Woman's Club for the year 1914-1915 occurred Wednesday afternoon, when the president, Mrs. Raymond Hodge, assisted by the officers of the club, and the hostesses of the afternoon, Mmes. L. E. Newcomb and Clarence Milligan, entertained. Each member was permitted to bring guests, and more than fifty bright women assembled. Mrs. Hodge's message was an interesting resume of work accomplished during the past year, and a cordial welcome to the members. An announcement of the bazaar to be held November 18 was made by the chairman of the Building Committee and plans for the event discussed. Mrs. B. E. Sibley had charge of the programme for the afternoon, and the company enjoyed one of her interesting readings, most delightful piano numbers by Miss Mae Nichols of Del Rosa, a beautifully-rendered vocal duet by Mmes. William Needham and Wilbur Tolle. The clubroom was prettily adorned in a graceful arrangement of white and red, lilies and geraniums being used.

Mrs. D. B. Crediford entertained the

—and we want to emphasize just as emphatically the rightness of our styles. In this showing of new hats which we make Monday, are creations from every section of the Fashion world —there are hats from the cleverest of American designers—there are hats that have been copied from imported models, and then there are hats from our own work rooms that suffer not a whit when displayed side by side with the gorgeous strangers from the east.

—We want to impress upon you, too, that our millinery is marked and sold on a merchandise basis—that means we've added no extra profits for art's sake—that it will not be necessary for us to take tremendous losses at the end of the season.

—In our French rooms, we're showing a great number of fascinating models for dress and semi-dress wear at $15 and at $25 and more.

—We're showing hats at $12.50 that are causing a world of comment among the women who know the most about millinery and values.

—And we've hats at $9.50 and $7.50 that are so unusual that they would warrant our using a whole page advertisment in their exploitation.

—And deserving of a mention all by themselves are our wonder hats at $5.00. These have caused no end of talk in the millinery world.

—And shapes. Why! One woman after another has come to us and told us how really exceptional are those we are offering at $1.95—at $2.95 and at $3.95 and women are buying—buying—buying.

—Hand blocked shapes of velvet—turbans and toques and sailors are offered at $7.50—at $9.75 and at $12.50. You'll say they're all underpriced.

Exquisite new laces and trimmings

Fashion has made it wonderfully easy this year for a woman to choose the trimming she would have on her new frocks and waists.

The range is prodigal.

And each one it seems is just a little prettier than the others.

Fashion has said that every frock and waist must have lace upon it, and she has spoken quite as emphatically for her new trimmings too.

You'll find much to interest you in this showing which we are to make Monday. In it will be—

—Gold bands and edges, 10c to $3.50.
—Gold flouncings, 85c to $6.00.
—Oriental flouncings, 65c to $3.25.
—Oriental edges, 10c to $1.00.
—Maline edges, 50c to $2.00.
—Lining nets, 25c to $2.00.
—Trimming nets, $1.00 to $3.75.
—Silk shadow flouncings, 95c to $4.75.
—Cotton shadow flouncings, 25c to $3.25.
—Black edges, 15c to $1.50.

36-in. satin d'Amour, a "Better value" $1.25

Our silk chief hunted through all the great silk markets in this country for better silks for this October demonstration of better values—and he brought home hundreds of yards of silks that are really extraordinary values, but out of all of these he has selected this 36 in. satin d'Amour to head this Monday advertisement.

And he has selected this silk because it is worthy—it's a pure dyed fabric and it's as soft as can be and will not crease or muss because there's absolutely no loading of any kind in it. It comes in black only. A "Better value" at $1.25.

39-in. crepe de chine that will cause a furore $1

You'll understand this silk's unusualness the minute you see it. It's one of the best of our "Better values." It comes in ivory, Copenhagen, pink, wistaria, peach Chinese, blue, Crowswing blue and black.

Yard wide satin Francais a wonderful black silk . $2

We want you to see this silk whether or not you're expecting to buy black silk—for this will do more to demonstrate the betterness of our values than a whole newspaper full of advertisement. $2.00 a yard.

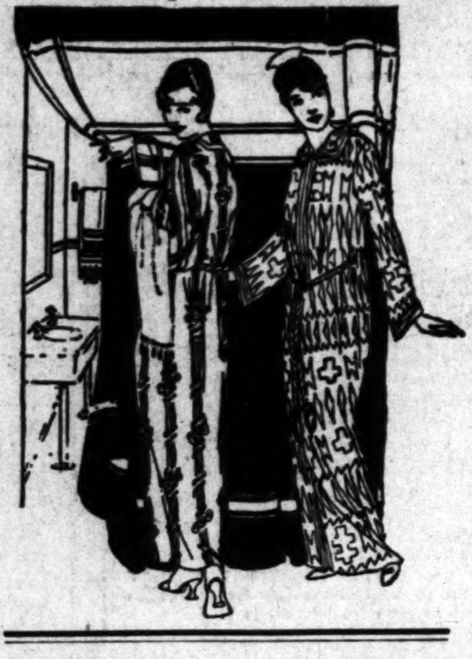
200 women's sample blanket bath robes priced close to half at . $3.50



These cold snappy mornings and nights make one long for a snug warm bathrobe —and remember there are months of just such weather ahead.

How fortunate it is that this great lot of bath robes came to us underworth right at the very beginning of the bath robe season. They're all made of heavy, fleecy blankets in an infinite variety of styles and colors and patterns. All of them are satin trimmed and have silk cords and fasteners to match.

The 200 should hardly last all day.

A special purchase of the famous Rengo belt corsets $1.95

The manufacturers of these well-known corsets have co-operated with us in a splendid way to make this October demonstration of "Better values" a big success. They're made of fancy mercerized broche with special reinforcing over the hips and abdomen. All sizes 20 to 30. Every woman knows how much underworth they are at $1.95.

100 Jersey top silk petticoats while they last, Monday at $1.55

We believe this is one of the most extraordinary petticoat offerings that has been made in Los Angeles in a long, long time. Just imagine silk petticoats at $1.55.

They're of silk jersey with deep plaited messaline flounces and come in practically every shade one could wish for, including emerald, Russian green, navy, purple, Copenhagen, Royal, black and white. There are just one hundred petticoats in the lot. Hurry!

BLAME ENGLAND FOR WORLD WAR.

Haeckel and Eucken Issue a Joint Statement.

Declare Great Britain's Act Due to Jealousy.

Philosophers Lament the Loss to Progress.

The most noted German idealistic philosopher, Rudolph Eucken, and the most famous German monist, Ernst Haeckel, have issued a joint statement in which they bitterly reproach England for joining in the war against Germany. The joint statement is as follows:

The whole German world of letters is today filled with deep indignation and strong moral indignation at the present behavior of England. Both of us, for many years bound to England by numerous scientific and personal ties, believe ourselves prepared to give open expression to this inward revulsion. In close co-operation with like-minded English investigators we have zealously exerted ourselves to bring the two great peoples closer together in spirit and to promote a mutual understanding. A fruitful reciprocal interchange of English and German culture seemed to us worth while, indeed necessary, for the spiritual advance of mankind, which today confronts such great problems. Gratefully we recall in this connection the friendly reception which our efforts received in England. So great and noble were the traits of English character which revealed themselves to us that we were permitted to hope that in their sure growth they would come to be superior to the pitfalls and seamy sides of this character. And now they have proved inferior, inferior to the old evil of a brutal national egoism which recognizes no rights on the part of others, which, unconcerned about morality or unmorality, pursues only its own advantage.

History furnishes in abundance examples of such an unscrupulous egoism; we need recall here only the destruction of the Danish fleet (1807) and the theft of the Dutch colonies in the Napoleonic wars. But what is taking place today is the worst of all; it will be forever pointed at in the annals of world history as England's indelible shame. England fights in behalf of a Slavic, half-Asiatic power against Germanism; she fights on the side not only of barbarism, but also of moral injustice, for it is indeed not forgotten that Russia began the war because she would permit no radical reparation for a shameful murder.

It is England whose fault has extended the present war into a world war, and has thereby endangered our joint culture. And all this for what reason? Because she was jealous of Germany's greatness, because she wanted to hinder, at any price, a further growth of this greatness. For there cannot be the least doubt on this point that England was determined in advance to cast as many obstacles as possible in the way of Germany's existence in this struggle of the giants, and to hinder her as much as possible in the full development of her powers. She (England) was watching only for a favorable opportunity when she could break out suddenly against Germany, and she therefore promptly seized on the invasion of Belgium, so necessary for Germany, in order that she might cover with a small cloak of decency her brutal national egoism. Or is there in the whole wide world any one so simple as to believe that England would have declared war on France also if the latter had invaded Belgium? In that event she would have wept hypocritical tears over the unavoidable violation of the international law; but as for the rest she would have laughed in her sleeve with great satisfaction. This hypocritical pharisaism is the most repugnant feature of the whole matter; it deserves nothing but contempt.

The history of the world shows that such sentiments lead the nations not upward, but downward. For the present, however, we trust firmly in our just cause, in the superior strength and the unyielding, victorious spirit of the German people. Yet we must at the same time lament deeply that that boundless egoism has disturbed for an unmeasurable period of time the spiritual co-operation of the two peoples which promised so much good for the development of mankind. But they wished it so there—on England alone falls the monstrous guilt and the historical responsibility.

WHAT IS A DUMDUM?

Name Comes from Ammunition Works in Calcutta, Whence Some of England's Allies Also Have Come.

Dumdum bullets have been freely discussed in many of the war reports, but exceedingly few people know what this term means, or whence the name was derived. This is explained in an article in the war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, together with other interesting information relating to the subject.

During the Chitral campaign in India, in 1895, the native troops found that the nickel-jacketed lead bullets they were using were not as effective as they wished; that is, they did not "stop" their man. They found the difficulty could be overcome by partially stripping off the nickel jacket and exposing the leaden head. These bullets, because they came from the Dumdum Ammunition Works, at Calcutta, were known as "dumdums." They became greatly distorted when striking a soft body, spreading out into something like a mushroom shape and producing a very serious wound.

This is the true dumdum bullet. It will be appreciated that, as in the Indian campaign, the bullet can be easily prepared by any soldier individually, without the knowledge of his superiors; and if such bullets have been used in the present war, this is their undoubted source.

WHY CITE THE ZABERN CASE AND FORGET KISHINIEF HORROR?

THE Fatherland quoting the axiom of Lincoln that "you can fool all the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time," says:

To the fair-minded American citizen, who can't be fooled all the time, even by the newspapers, the following questions are offered for consideration:

(1.) Why is Zabern cited, but Kishinief forgotten?

(2.) Why is it a crime against humanity for Germany to maintain the biggest army in the world, but a mere means of defense, just, natural, and proper, for Great Britain to maintain the biggest navy in the world?

(3.) Why is it hysterical or hypocritical for Germany to speak of "the Slavic peril," but wise, foresighted and righteous, all this last decade, for England in every possible way to fill the minds of her people with the idea of "the Germanic peril?"

(4.) Why was it outrageous of Austria to question the sincerity of Servia's acceptance of seven of the eight conditions of the ultimatum, but mere statesmanly foresight on the part of Sir Edward Grey to question the sincerity of Germany's efforts to keep the peace?

(5.) Why was it disgraceful of Germany to keep faith with her ally, Austria, but noble and heroic of England to keep faith with her ally, France?

(6.) Why is Germany's invasion of neutral (?) Belgium an outrage, but Japan's invasion of neutral China a negligible matter?

(7.) Why is every Belgian, French and English account of German outrage to be swallowed, hook, line and sinker, while German accounts of Belgian and Russian outrages are to be sneered at as mere fakes?

(8.) Why is it improper and a breach of neutrality for Americans of German descent to express their sympathy with Germany, but proper and commendable for Americans of English descent to express their sympathy with England and her allies?

(9.) Why is it fanatical and barbaric of the German to believe in the destiny of Germany, but right and natural of the Englishman to believe in the heaven-appointed destiny of England to rule the earth?

(10.) Why is it ridiculous and even blasphemous for the German to call on God, but the mark of a righteous cause and a clean heart for the Englishman to invoke Him?

A RETROSPECT OF THE WAR THROUGH THE EYES OF A SEER.

BY WILLIAM H. KNIGHT.

[The noted Los Angeles scientist and astronomer, William H. Knight, has written this "looking-backward" view of the war and its results from a standpoint of ten years hence—the article supposed to be published in 1924.—Ed. Times.]

IT SEEMS like a dream, the gigantic war of 1914, and the complete rejuvenation of the countries of Europe from the ravages of that war—the most terrible that ever devastated the planet—after a lapse of only six years.

Two powerful monarchs, Emperor William of Germany and Czar Nicholas of Russia, each at the head of 4,000,000 soldiers, engaged in a mighty struggle for the mastery of Europe, and within a fortnight after the initial movement six other nations—Austria, France, Great Britain, Belgium, Servia and Montenegro—were involved in the conflict.

That unaccountable, unreasoning, insensate, and, according to many thoughtful persons prior to the war, impossible armed conflict between eight civilized nations of Europe, was precipitated by the assassination of an Austrian Crown Prince in one of his own provinces. But Austria assumed that the crime was instigated by the government of Servia, and promptly declared war against that nation.

Russia, surmising that Franz Josef wished to conquer the little kingdom and annex it to his dominions, said to the Austrian Emperor: "Hands off, Servia is our Slav cousin and she must not be harmed." Austria did not heed the warning, but sent her fleet down the Danube and bombarded the Servian capital. Then Russia, indignant and wroth, began mobilizing her great army, marched half a million soldiers to the Austrian frontier and invaded Galicia, one of the rich spoils of dismembered Poland.

These audacious movements of the Russian monarch stirred the anger of Wilhelm to the boiling point. Metaphorically shaking his finger at the Czar, he ordered that autocrat to halt his troops and withdraw them from the territory of his Austrian ally. He had not the slightest doubt that he could cope single-handed with the Russian bear.

But suddenly there loomed in the western horizon a dark and portentous cloud. With alarm and indignation he perceived that the French army was being mobilized and massed along the frontier of the still debatable ground of Alsace-Lorraine. Now, France had been on very friendly terms with Russia for several decades, and it became evident to the mind of the Kaiser that the two countries were acting in concert, and with characteristic energy he decided to strike the first telling blow.

His great army was already fully panoplied. Indeed, it had been developing into a gigantic military machine for several years, much to the alarm of other European countries. With marvelous dispatch, the Emperor set out to march his troops by the most direct route to Paris, and this took them across the neutral state of Belgium. He did not imagine that the little nation would protest, and least of all, that it would make armed resistance.

But Belgium having, no doubt, a secret understanding with Great Britain, made a sturdy resistance to the progress of the invading army, causing a vexatious, and as the sequel proved, fatal delay for the German arms. Yet the grand army pushed its way through the network of Belgian fortresses, and defying all obstacles, after a three weeks' delay, got within twenty miles of the French capital. The French government, as a measure of precaution, gathered up its state papers and adjourned forthwith to Bordeaux, on the farthest western limit of the republic.

Meantime Great Britain, though monarch of the seas, yet provided with only a moderate land force, had been no idle spectator of these momentous events. On the plea that Belgium was a friendly nation which looked to her for protection, she quickly mustered an army of 150,000 men from her English, Scotch, Irish and Canadian yeomanry, sent them across the narrow channel, and joined her French ally, a most timely relief, for it gave the latter a much-needed physical and moral support. And, it may be added, the outside world regarded the act with approval.

Thus the most formidable battle lines the world has ever seen, the allies facing the Germans for a distance of 140 miles from the beleagured cities of Belgium to the borders of Lorraine, and the Russians facing the Germans and Austrians for a distance of 100 miles from Konigsburg in East Prussia to Lemberg in Galicia, were established and held with great persistence for many weary weeks.

It is difficult for the mind to grasp the magnitude of the embattled hosts

INDIA IS LOYAL SAYS AGA KHAN.

The Mohammedan Leader Offers His Services.

And Seven Million Others are Willing to Go.

Prefer Their Present Lot to Prussian Militarism.

"Germany made a mistake about India, as it did about Ireland. And anybody who counts on India to be false to England will come a cropper."

In these words His Highness, the Aga Khan, the recognized temporal leader over 60,000,000 Indian Mohammedans, sums up the Indian Empire's status in the world war, according to the London correspondent of the New York Times.

The Aga Khan has directed the Khoja Moslems, who alone number several millions and over whom he is the spiritual as well as the temporal head, to place their personal services and resources at the disposal of the government, and has volunteered to serve himself as a private in any regiment of infantry of the Indian expeditionary force.

The Aga Kahn laughed heartily at the suggestion that Germanistic propaganda might undermine the loyalty of the Indian subjects of the King-Emperor. He remarked smilingly:

"Many of my fellow-countrymen have been in Africa and seen the German administration in the East and Southwest African colonies. They know what the Germanization of India would mean, and they know, too, that if England were driven out of India, Germany, should she be successful in this war, would step in.

"The thinking element among Indians of all classes realize that our country, divided, as it is, into hundreds of principalities, each inclined to be jealous of the others, could not hope to stand alone even if British rule were withdrawn. Germany's twofold purpose in striving to create dissension in India is, first, to give trouble to England, which might cost her victory in the war, and, second, to seize India as part of the Kaiser's dream of a world empire.

INDIANS KNOW THEIR PERIL.

"The scheme is as well known in India as at Berlin. India needs no assistance from England to frustrate it, because they fully comprehend the peril of being crushed beneath the mailed fist of Prussian militarism."

Then the Aga Khan continued gravely.

"After all, the one hope of India lies in the King-Emperor and his government. There will be no united India until England has finished her work of knitting together into one strong nation the confusing jumble of races, religions and castes she has governed successfully for 150 years. An apt comparison is the American domination in the Philippines, but there exist now between England and India affections and sentiments arising from long community of interests not yet found between the Filipinos and Americans.

"Such a feeling I believe to be incomprehensible to the Germans. It seems to me that they totally lack the sense of proportion arising from a sympathetic understanding of the needs of another people. It is incomprehensible to them that Belgium should have resisted their advance into France. Apparently they fail utterly to understand the feeling that, for instance, would actuate Americans if an alien nation attempted to send an army through the United States to attack Canada.

HATES THE NIETZSCHE SCHOOL.

"Personally, my antipathy is not against the German people, who possess many fine qualities, but against the Prussian school of Bernhardi Nietzsche and the Kaiser's general staff—a school designed basically for the crushing of liberalism and independence of any kind, whether manifested in Germany or abroad."

"Will Indian troops be able to stand against the German army, considering that they have never before been permitted to fight white men?" was asked.

"I think so," the Aga Khan replied with a smile. "If need be, there can be 700,000 or 7,000,000. That wouldn't be a great number to offer from our 320,000,000 population. No, despite the effusions from the Wilhelmstrasse, you may rest assured that there is not the slightest doubt of India's loyalty to England."

DENY VON MOLTKE WAS REMOVED.

GERMAN MILITARY CIRCLES SAY HE IS STILL CHIEF OF ARMY STAFF.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME (via Paris) Oct. 8.—Inquiries made in German military circles with regard that Gen. Von Moltke had been removed as chief of the general staff of the German army brings forth the statement that the report is incorrect.

The erroneous report, it is declared, probably was caused by the changes of officers made in the German quartermaster's department. Gen. Von Moltke retains his post.

"World Without End."

PEACE FOREVER; WAY TO DISARM.

Great Konigsberg Philosopher is Quoted by Holt.

Reason or Force; Law or War to Rule Men.

The People, not Kings, Must Govern; His Formula.

"The Way to Disarm: A Practical Proposal" is the theme of the leading article in the Independent for the week of the 28th in which Hamilton Holt says:

In his famous essay, Perpetual Peace, published in 1795, Immanuel Kant, perhaps the greatest intellect the world has ever produced, declared that we never can have universal peace until the world is politically organized and it will never be possible to organize the world politically until the people, not the kings, rule.

If this be the true philosophy of peace, then when the great war is over, and the stricken sobered peoples set about to rear a new civilization on the ashes of the old, they cannot hope to banish war from the earth unless they are prepared to extend democracy everywhere, and to organize the international realm on a basis of law rather than force.

The question of the extension of democracy is a domestic one. It can hardly be settled by joint action of the nations. World organization and disarmament, however, can be provided for in the terms of peace or by international agreement thereafter. As the United States seems destined to play an important part in the great reconstruction at the end of the war, this is perhaps the most important question now before American statesmanship.

LAW OR WAR.

The only two powers that ever have governed or ever can govern human beings are reason and force—law and war. If we do not have the one we must have the other.

The peace movement is the process of substituting law for war. Peace follows justice, justice follows law, law follows political organization. The world has already achieved peace, through justice, law and political organization in hamlets, towns, cities, States and even in the forty-six sovereign civilized nations of the world. But in that international realm over and above each nation, in which each nation is equally sovereign, the only way for a nation to secure its rights is by the use of force. Force, therefore —or war as it is called when exerted by a nation against another nation —is at present the only legal and final method of settling international differences. In other words, the nations are in that state of civilization today where, without a qualm, they claim the right to settle their disputes in a manner which they would actually put their own subjects to death for imitating.

But now the great war has come upon us. "When the storm is spent and the desolation is complete; when the flower of the manhood of Europe has passed into eternal night; when famine and pestilence have taken their tithe of childhood and age," will then the exhausted and beggared that live on be able to undertake the task of establishing that world government which the historian Freeman has called "the most finished and the most artificial production of political ingenuity?"

THE HAGUE OF THE LEAGUE OF PEACE.

If it can be done at all it can only be done in one of two ways.

First. By building on the foundations already laid at The Hague the federation of the world.

Second. By establishing a great federation or league of peace, composed of those few nations who through political evolution or the suffering of war have at last seen the light and are ready here and now to disarm.

The immediate establishment of a league of peace, however, would, in fact, constitute a first step toward world federation and does not offer insuperable difficulties. The idea of a league of peace is not novel. All federal governments and confederations of governments, both ancient and modern, are essentially leagues of peace, even though they may have functions to perform which often lead directly to war.

The ancient Achaian League of Greece, the Confederation of Swiss Cantons, the United Provinces of The Netherlands, the United States of America, and the Commonwealth of Australia are the most nearly perfect systems of federated governments known to history. Less significant, but none the less interesting to students of government, are the Latin League of thirty cities, the Hanseatic League, the Holy Alliance, and in modern times, the German Confederation. Even the recent Concert of Europe was a more or less inchoate league of peace. The ancient leagues as well as the modern confederations have generally been unions of offense and defense. They stood ready, if they did not actually propose, to use their common forces to compel outside states to obey their will. Thus they were as frequently leagues of oppression as leagues of peace.

Indians of English Army are Getting Along Well in France and Make Good Impression.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Oct. 8, 1:30 p.m.—The British Indian army is said to be rapidly becoming acclimated. French generals, who have inspected their artillery, cavalary, infantry and engineer and ambulance auxiliary corps, describe the army as splendidly equipped.

The people of the French cities where the men had been quartered are favorably impressed with the solemn courtesy of the orientals. They never, however, enter the cafes or accept hospitalities. All the men, except the Ghukas, are great in stature. There is scarcely a man under six feet in height, while some are giants.

HUGE LEVY FOR WAR.

"Contributions" from Captured Territory Reaches an Enormous Sum.

The following are the "war contributions" which have been demanded by Germany from France and Belgium:

Brussels	$ 40,000,000
Liege	10,000,000
Louvain	20,000
Province of Brabant	90,000,000
Lille	1,400,000
Amiens	200,000
Roubaix and Tourcoing	200,000
Lens	140,000
Armentieres	100,000
Total	$142,060,000

In addition, 100,000 cigars were levied against Amiens. Provisions and cigars were demanded of Ghent, but the Germans evacuated the city before collecting the levy.

Retrospect of the War.

and the sanguinary result of the fierce and relentless fighting. Conceive nearly 3,000,000 of the allies facing as many Teutons in close battle array, all armed with the most effective engines of war ever devised—bayonets, rifles, mitrailleuses firing fifty bullets per minute, and gigantic siege guns capable of battering down stone fortresses, producing the most remorseless destruction of human life, and of the works of skill and genius ever recorded in the annals of history.

Slowly, day by day, sacrificing thousands of lives on each side every twenty-four hours, the allies pushed back the solidly entrenched center of the German army, till, after a Herculean struggle lasting a fortnight, it had, by the middle of September, receded to a distance of more than eighty miles from Paris. And there the German army held fast its ground, grimly and tenaciously, not yielding a single mile for the next two weeks.

But at what a sacrifice of life and treasure! It was manifestly impossible to continue indefinitely to pour into this human hopper tens of thousands of soldiers per week, to be pierced by bullets, carved by sabres, mangled by shells, and otherwise to succumb to sickness, privation and death in their most monstrous forms. The world stood aghast and helpless, offering unavailing protest.

While the fearful strife was going on, and the ghastly details were daily published in every newspaper in all lands, it seemed as if the war would never end, and partisans of both contending armies predicted that neither side would give in, but that the dire conflict must last for years, till one army or the other should give out from sheer exhaustion. But in the very nature of the case it could not last for years like former wars where contestants were armed with less effective engines of destruction. It was too costly in life and treasure, and the resources of both contending hosts were being too swiftly depleted.

About the end of October a flag of truce brought the British and German commanders together—the one representing the dominant power on the sea, and the other the master armed force on the land. After calm deliberation they agreed that this inhuman slaughter could not go on forever, and yet the opposing armies were so well matched that it might continue for weary months without any other result than a final compromise, which might as well be arranged at once as to be postponed till both armies were still further depleted and exhausted.

Yet they realized that such a move would be harshly criticised by the hot partisans of both armies, but on the other hand the prospect of peace would be most welcome to the thinking and substantial people of all the nations at war, and also to those of other lands who have felt its blighting effects. Accordingly an armistice was declared and representatives of the warring nations met in the neutral Duchy of Luxemburg, and there, by mutual and just concessions, on the memorable 12th day of November, 1914, arranged terms for a lasting peace.

The military armament of the three strong powers—France, Germany and Russia, was reduced to 100,000 soldiers each, and that of the other nations involved in the war, to a still lower maximum. Most of the battleships were to be dismantled and turned into useful merchantmen. All mines and torpedo boat destroyers were to be done away with. National boundaries were to remain in statu quo, and Germany consented to pay a reasonable indemnity to Belgium. The powers of the Reichstag and the Douma were to be enlarged and protected, while those of the Kaiser and the Czar were reduced to a scale corresponding to that of the British ruler.

Most important of all, a solemn pact was entered into providing that none of the nations then engaged in hostilities should engage in any future war, either among themselves or with any other nation, without the express consent of all the signatories to the pact. The compact was hailed as a harbinger of universal and perpetual peace, the bright dawn of a new era on earth.

The promulgation of the treaty was hailed with jubilation, not only by the people of the contracting powers, but by those of the entire civilized world. Interrupted commerce was restored, paralyzed industries were resumed, safe travel by land and sea was re-established, and the dreadful fear of having loved friends immolated on the altar of war was forever banished.

But alas, the war statistics form a sad and ineffaceable chapter. In the brief space of fifteen weeks, from the sack of Belgrade on August 28 to the proclamation of the Armistice on November 12, not less than 218,000 soldiers, drawn from the very flower and virile young manhood of Europe, were slain, and 543,000 were wounded—about one-half of them being rendered unfit for useful service, and the other half made less efficient than they otherwise would have been. The war and its dire consequences will form a bitter memory for hundreds of thousands of households for a generation to come.

May we not hope that the lesson so indelibly impressed will ensure an enduring peace, and that the world will never again witness such a fearful holocaust of human lives.

Aftermath.

HOPES RUSSIANS ARE DEFEATED.

Former National Declares It Would Help People.

States Victory Would Make Czar More Tyrannical.

Points to History's Record for Probable Result.

"Why Russia Should Not Win" in the present struggle in Europe is the text of a contribution to the Springfield (Mass.) Republican from the pen of a Russian who came to the United States to practice law. In brief, he says Russia should lose because a victory for the Czar would make him more autocratic and tyrannical than he already is. Civilization requires that Russia should lose. So says A. Terry, a former subject of the Slav Czar, who continues:

"Since the beginning of the present world war much has been said as to who is the actual perpetrator of the war, and on whose side our sympathies should lie. Permit me, as a Russian emigrant and an attorney who, during twenty-five years of professional experience, has learned more than I desired of Russian life, to express my opinion on this all-important subject in the interests of truth and friendship for the Russian people.

The question as to who is the real perpetrator of the war does not deeply concern us because we all know that the seeds of the dispute do not lie so much in recent occurrences as in the Franco-Prussian war of '70, when France lost two of her provinces, and in the Russo-Turkish war of '76-'77, when, being within fifteen miles of Constantinople, Russia was forced to give up the ends of which she had dreamed for centuries. I also consider it unnecessary to debate the question of the common interests of humanity, civilization and democracy in case of victory on one or the other of the warring sides, because one needs only to glance at the liberties existing in Russian under the present bureaucratic regime to have but one opinion on the subject. I wish only to impress the important and almost paradoxical point that the success of the Russian arms will be the greatest misfortune for the Russian people, as anyone knows who is at all acquainted with the Russian bureaucratic form of government, which is founded on the soldier's bayonet, the Cossack's "nahaika," the knout of the black hundred and the fist of the policeman.

The American nation is a disinterested and a more or less impartial spectator of the terrible world drama in comparison with which the recent Balkan war, with all its horrors, seems as child's play. It can only sympathize with every unfortunate soldier, with every wrecked home, with every widowed wife and every orphaned child, no matter of what nation. It can only hope that the present war might be the last in the history of humanity and that it might serve to effectually disarm all nations and to establish a true brotherhood of man upon this earth. However, although these hopes be not realized, and international conditions remain unchanged in any material way, the success of Russian arms in the present war will mean not only a terrific blow to world civilization in general, but it will also be the greatest misfortune for the Russian people, panting under the heavy paw of Russian bureaucracy. Such is the conviction of the best sons of Russia, of the most untiring fighters for a democratic form of government, for freedom of worship, for the liberty of speech and press, for the freedom of association, and for economic, moral and mental progress.

To him who doubts the correctness of this conviction it is sufficient to point out the direction which Russian internal politics have ever taken after victory and after defeat.

The conquests of Catherine the Great in her wars against the Sultan of Turkey and the Khan of Crimea, ending in the annexation of Crimea and Bessarabia, led to the granting of millions of acres of land, together with the peasants living upon them, to court favorites and nobles, thus establishing a feudal system and a burdensome serfdom for the people. Alexander I, after repeated defeats in his wars with Napoleon, contemplated reforms and the liberation of the serfs, but as soon as the tables were turned and the great army of the Emperor was annihilated, the Czar forgot his democratic ideas, became a despotic reactionary, and founded what is called the terrible regime of Arakchaev, with its military settlements. The same regime continued with even greater force during the reign of Nicholas I after his conquests in Persia and Turkey, and his subduing of the Polish rebels. On the other hand, the fall of Sebastopol in the Crimean War was the signal for reform, for the liberation of the serfs, the "zemstvo" and city self-government, the abolition of torture and public whipping, and the establishment of civil courts of justice according to European example. Even the recent Russo-Japanese War led to the issuing of a constitution and the establishment of the Imperial Duma, which lasted only so long as Russia felt her weakness, and was abolished as soon as her strength returned. Thanks to the generous loans of France, Russian reaction became still stronger, and a long series of despotic acts was passed, beginning an epoch of the famous "Stolypin's necktie" (the scaffold,) of court-martial, of Siberian exile, and of the imprisonment of the editors of the liberal papers, to say nothing of the horrible pogroms made at the order of St. Petersburg, and the exciting of religious hatred against other races which terminated in the notorious Beiliss trial.

This is what history teaches us, and such will unquestionably be the fate of Russia, should Russian arms be successful in the present war. On whose side, then, should the sympathies of the Americans lie—on the side of tyranny and despotism or on the side of justice and liberty? If the American nation could not sympathize with such dictators as Diaz and Huerta because they oppressed the Mexican population of 15,000,000, can it sympathize with the Russian ruler who, with his reactionary government, oppresses in a far more cruel fashion, a population of 150,000,000, and who in case of victory will not only strengthen the bonds which chain his own country to darkness and ignorance and poverty, but will also spread his evil influence over many another country struggling against oppression and despotism?

AGED MEN HEAD ARMIES.

Osler Theory Does not Apply in War now Going on in Europe.

Gen. Von Emmich, the capturer of Liege, is 66 years old, and Gen. Von Kluck is 68—the one two years and the other four above the compulsory American retiring age. Gen. Von Hausen, who has just given up the command of the Saxon army, because of real or assumed illness, is 68; Gen. Von Heeringen is 64; Gen. Von Einem, 61; Gen. Von Buelow is also 68, and Gen. Von Moltke is 66. Nearly all of these officers are campaigning in France for the second time, having been young ensigns or lieutenants in 1870. Gen. Von Hindenberg, whose success on the Russian boundary has made him famous, is 67. On the English side, Kitchener is 64; Smith-Dorien, 56; Sir John French, 62, and Gen. Grierson, who died in France the other day, was 55; while the three French generals, Pau, Joffre and Gallieni, are all approaching 70.

Plainly, among the generals of this war the Osler theory does not apply, nor the American military belief that you must have middle-aged men for the highest positions.

"Fifth Arm."

BRITISH AIRMEN DO GOOD WORK.

BUT SUPERIORITY OF THE GERMANS IS ADMITTED.

Whether the Results of the Campaign Waged by the Kaiser's Aviators Is Worth Their Trouble Is Disputed by an Englishman in the Service.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Sept. 4.—So little has appeared regarding the movements of the British aerial forces that the following excerpts from a discussion of its activities by one professing to be closely connected with this branch of the service is interesting.

Speaking of the sending of thirty-six British aeroplanes across the channel by air, which was kept secret for some time, he says:

"As a combined flight, that surpassed anything ever done in aviation; but it was only part of a big movement; other machines had flown across the previous day, and at the present moment three full squadrons, Nos. 2, 3 and 4, each consisting of twelve aeroplanes, besides reserves, spares and motor transport, are with the expeditionary force. But apart from the news of two fatal accidents, and the appearance in the casualty lists of an airman's name among the wounded, nothing authentic has been published concerning the doings of the Royal Flying Corps.

"Even though I knew more than a very little about the work of our army aviators at the front, I should not be permitted to reveal it; yet a few facts may be given without indicating positions or conditions.

"The evidence points to a general superiority of German aircraft throughout, and to a desire on the part of the enemy to create a depressing moral effect on the allied troops by the parade of a vast number of aeroplanes, which are ever actively employed. So far as reconnoissance goes, it is quite unnecessary to make such demonstrations, and, as to the effect on troops of the small bombs that can be thrown from aeroplanes, it is negligible. The German method is to keep up a regular system of aeroplane flights, the machines starting at regular intervals and making a tour, in which it would almost appear that the regularity and punctuality of the work are esteemed of greater value than the results obtained.

"The British aviators, while working by method, pursue different tactics. It may be said that not a flight has been made without some definite object in view. The British "fifth arm" is under the direction of Brig.-Gen. Sir D. G. Henderson, director of military aeronautics; and the commander of the Royal Flying Corps, Col. F. H. Sykes, is also in the field. The Royal Flying Corps has its headquarters at the base; but each squadron also has a base, and these bases are in telegraphic communication with headquarters, and, of course, with the General Staff.

"Many of the wounded soldiers back from the front speak of the persistent way in which German aeroplanes flew over the positions during the different engagements, and signaled to their artillery data by which the range could be corrected and kept. Not a word has been said as to our own aviators performing similar service for our artillery, but that is simply because the testimony that has reached us so far is from men who were only in a position to see but very small sections of the operations. As a matter of fact, our army fliers have been directing artillery fire, and to good purpose."

eightieth anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. Thomas Meredith was the occasion of a delightful gathering of old friends last day at her country home in

Mr. and Mrs. Bayless W. Gerhart the host and hostess and were assisted in entertaining by Miss Wood, Mrs. Meredith's sister. Congratulations and genuine good wishes were liberally bestowed on the of four score years, and after luncheon reminiscence was the order of the hour. The long table at which the guests gathered was handsomely decorated with cactus dahlias ferns and pretty little baskets marked the places for the following: Mrs. Thomas Meredith, Mrs. Pollinger, Mrs. J. H. Fulton, Mrs. C. H. Cox, Mrs. M. Vickrey, Mrs. George Lawrence, Mrs. George H. Mrs. Ledie Gerhart Cross, and Mrs. Hugh Laverty, Miss Wood, Miss Mary Crossley, Mrs. Gar Woodson and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Gerhart.

The ladies of the Methodist Church were tendered a pleasant October reception and sewing party Friday afternoon at half after two o'clock by Nathan H. Marshall at her home. Autumn flowers and were prettily used to decorate rooms, where about forty guests were entertained, and where 4 o'clock tea was served by the younger ladies of the circle.

The Buena Vista Whist Club, the oldest card players' organization of the Duarte foothills, met Thursday evening for the opening night of the season. The gathering was informal but thoroughly enjoyable, and was in the nature of a reunion, held with Mr. and Mrs. William Beardslee, who have for many years been members of the club. The usual game of whist followed the reception and the pleasures of the evening called out expressions of gratification from all the twenty-four ladies and gentlemen of the club, which will meet fortnightly this season.

The thirty-five ladies of the Duarte Reading Circle were graciously entertained last week, Tuesday, at the hill home of Mrs. Stephens of Duarte avenue. Readings were presented, the story "Anybody but Ann," by Mrs. Samuel B. Elliott, and Mrs. Frank Ferguson, and later in the afternoon an enjoyable 4 o'clock tea was served.

GORGEOUS Mexican rugs made a blaze of color on the spacious porch of the Lewis Hillyard home on Wednesday, when Miss Della Hillyard was hostess at a porch party with a coterie of the Daughters of Veterans of the Sarah A. Rounds Tent of Santa Ana as her guests. Cosily ensconced in easy chairs the ladies chatted over their fancy work while plans for the welfare of the organization were considered. Themes of lighter nature also received attention, and the delicious air touched with the tang of autumn seemed to inspire the ladies to complete enjoyment of the hour. Late in the afternoon the ladies were invited to the pleasant dining-room, where cream and white roses bloomed in fragrance. Suggestive of October's one holiday, Halloween, fantastic witch figures were pinned here and there on the snowy cloth, a capricious decoration. Miss Vida Hillyard assisted her sister in serving. Places were marked for Mrs. A. S. Holbrook, Mrs. Homer Peek, Mrs. Maude Wallace, Mrs. J. C. Lamb, Mrs. W. E. Ward, Mrs. Cood Adams, Mrs. W. H. Palmer, Mrs. J. T. Wilson, Mrs. E. A. Bell, Miss Minnie Smith, Miss Edith Ward.

The blaze of brown and golden yellow developed with masses of sunflowers made the parlors of the J. A. Pearce home, No. 626 South Sycamore street, Santa Ana, a cheerful welcome for the ladies of the Tustin Twelve on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Pearce was hostess to the club women. The affair, while merely a regular club meeting, took on the semblance of a musicale. Mrs. Charles F. Johnson and Mrs. Frank Worden contributed an informal programme of vocal and instrumental numbers that was most delightful. Mrs. Johnson has a voice of rare sweetness, and Mrs. Worden plays brilliantly. An effectively appointed supper, of which deliciously hot plum pudding with hard sauce was the appetizing finale, was particularly relished because of the chilly tang of the autumn air. The club women for whom places were named were Mmes. B. F. Nimmo, Charles O. Artz, Albert Fuller, Frank Worden, E. J. Cranston, George Pollard, Charles Johnson, Ellis Smith, J. S. House and the hostess.

Mrs. Ellsworth Mount entertained the ladies of the Coreopsis Club on Wednesday afternoon at her home, which was ornate with fragrant roses, cosmos and yellow daisies, used variously in the different rooms. This club is devoted to embroidery, but ordinarily the object of its existence is more or less neglected, but with Christmas coming each day nearer, no member fails to busy herself over the particularly important thing of beauty that she is lovingly working for some dear one. Accordingly, all meetings are more or less businesslike, fair fingers working steadily. Fortunately, some of the very young ladies are free to entertain the others, and so it was at Wednesday's meeting. Pretty instrumental musical numbers were rendered by the young women, and later a brief hour was given to sociability alone. During this time, the hostess served light refreshments. The women present were Mrs. Charles Lambert, Mrs. Fenlon Matthews, Mrs. Frank Stearns, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. John King, Mrs. Reed of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Leggings, a sister of the hostess.

AN important meeting of the Womens' Civic League was held at the clubhouse Monday afternoon. Judge M. T. Owens addressed the women on the matter of the various amendments and special measures to come before the voters at the November election. Mrs. W. E. Connors was elected president of the league in place of Mrs. Bert Porr, resigned.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Matsen of North Washington avenue have returned from a month spent pleasantly at their former home in Marshalltown, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Howard of East Camilla street arrived home this week from a visit with old-time friends in Michigan.

Mrs. A. Mills entertained Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Lindsay of South Pierce avenue, who are leaving Whittier to reside in Artesia.

Marking the opening of their activities for the year, the Women's Auxiliary of Whittier College gave a large garden fete Friday evening. "The-Carnival-of-States" idea was carried out, each section of the domain of Uncle Sam being represented by a suitable booth. The affair was in charge of Mrs. John Coffin and an able corps of assistants.

As a prenuptial courtesy to Miss Bess Edwards and Miss Cassandra Hazzard, Miss Lucile Reed entertained a large number of young ladies at her beautiful East Whittier home Saturday. Miss Edwards will become the bride of Charles Grace of Rivera October 16, and Miss Hazzard will wed Guy Buckmaster of Lindsay on the 28th of this month.

The W. G. Keen home on North Bright avenue has as guests Mr. Keen's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. H. Armstrong of Marshalltown, Iowa. The guests will remain in Whittier for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bardsley of Indianola, Iowa, were guests this week of former friends here, among their hosts being the Dr. Robbins and J. Cupp homes.

The initial meeting of the Whittier Woman's Club Wednesday afternoon at the clubhouse was a brilliant achievement. The day was old-costume day, and many modes of former days were brought out. Colonial dames mingled with last century Quakers, and shimmering silk skirts of old-time proportions were worn over the old-fashioned hoops. A generous musical programme was given and the entire afternoon given over to social activities.

Wednesday afternoon saw also the regular meeting of the East Whittier Improvement Club. Much of the time was given over to a consideration of the various referendum and other questions to be voted on in November. These amendments were reviewed by Miss Elsie Bacon.

The Whittier Sunday-school Graded Union met at the bungalow of the Friends Church Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. J. S. Norvell of Los Angeles was present and spoke on graded Sunday-school work. The meetings of the union increase in interest.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Broadway school held their regular meeting Friday afternoon.

Sophomores of the High School were at home to members of the freshman class in the High School gym Friday evening. The affair is an annual one in the High School, and the young people of both classes, with a large number of the members of the faculty, were present. Games, music and refreshments formed the pastimes of the evening.

THE home of Mrs. R. Wolfsberg on Garnet street was the scene of a pretty function Thursday afternoon given in honor of the Five Hundred Club. An elegant luncheon was served at 2 o'clock, after which the remainder of the afternoon was devoted to playing Five Hundred, for which prizes were awarded. Mrs. Frank Durlin was the winner of the first prize, a handsome cut-glass bowl; Mrs. Louis Cholvin won the second prize, a hand-painted salt and pepper shaker, while Mrs. Marshal Craig captured the consolation prize, a basket filled with fruit. Mrs. B. A. Minor received the substitute prize, and Mrs. Ernest Butt the guest prize. Those who were present were Mmes. Louis Cholvin, B. A. Minor, H. McCreary, Brooks Moffett, Ernest Butt, Charles McGehee, Marshal Craig, Charles Pendleton, Charles Mosier, Frank Durlin, J. P. Erickson and R. Wolfsberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mosier celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary Wednesday evening at their home on Helberta street. The evening was spent in singing, music and dancing, after which dainty refreshments were enjoyed. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Al Protsch, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Vince Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. R. Wolfsberg of Redondo, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Wagner of Gardena, Mr. and Mrs. Pomeroy of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. Hill of Los Angeles.

Miss Maggie Hennessey entertained the whist club of St. James' Catholic Church Thursday evening at Whichelo Hall. There were enough players present to fill twenty-five tables. Besides the interest given to the card game, a great deal was also added to the drawing for the lot for which tickets were sold during the fair. Mr. Walmsley of Lawndale was the winner. Prizes were awarded to the following for being the best whist players: Miss D. McElligott, Mrs. Duffy, Charles Martin and Rev. J. Morgan.

The Bridge Club was delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Laura J. Hannon at her pretty home on Catalina avenue. After enjoying a couple of hours playing bridge, light refreshments were enjoyed. Those who attended were Mmes. J. G. Gillispie, E. H. Amet, P. C. Ridgley, W. I. de Garmo, Frank Perry, Fielder Slingluff and Miss Maud Gillispie.

One of the most pleasant gatherings of the week was the sewing bee given Friday afternoon by Mrs. P. C. Ridgley at her cosy home on north Broadway, in honor of Miss Maud Gillispie. The hours were pleasantly passed in needlework and social chat, after which a dainty luncheon was served. The invited guests were Miss Maud Gillispie, Mmes. J. Gillispie, E. Amet, F. Slingluff, F. Perry, W. de Garmo, L. J. Hannon.

Mrs. Maury Reed of Los Angeles, who recently returned from an extended trip abroad, is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. George Wilshire, on the Esplanade.

Durham W. Porter, who has been a guest at the home of the Misses Barrett and Miss Meredith for the past week, returned to his home in San Francisco Thursday.

Messrs. J. P. Luxford, E. Chrisman, R. D. Osburn and Dr. E. Packson left Saturday for Big Pine, where they will remain for ten days' hunting.

Hugh K. Walker and family, who have been occupying the Carpenter home on the Esplanade all summer, returned to their home in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lerch and son Bert motored to Banning last Friday and returned to their home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heath will leave Sunday evening for San Francisco, where Mr. Heath goes as a delegate to the Masonic convention.

Jack Funk left the fore part of the week for San Francisco, where he will meet his wife on her return from New York, where she has been visiting for the past four months.

Mrs. J. Forrester of Oakland was the guest for a couple of days of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heath.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Heath and two children returned from a most delightful trip in the San Bernardino Mountains. They were absent two weeks.

MRS. C. W. DAMEREL was the hostess at the Tuesday afternoon session of the Breakers Club when the lady members of the social club gathered for an afternoon of cards. Following the games dainty refreshments were served.

Miss Helen King delightfully entertained members of the Nullos Club at her Fourth-street home Wednesday afternoon. Covers were laid for eight at the dainty 1 o'clock luncheon.

Wednesday afternoon and evening the Prier home at No. 2216 Main street was the scene of a merry reunion, the couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. Prier, celebrating their sixtieth wedding anniversary, while their two daughters and five sons assembled for reunion after having been separated for the past seventeen years. Mr. Prier is 80 and his wife is 60.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vickey and little son, James, Jr., of Houston, are cosily located in the Castenada Apartments, where they will pass the winter.

At this week's card session of the Breakers Club the new October hostess, Miss Jean Magee, offered an attractive afternoon's entertainment. Six tables were utilized by the players, Miss Magee making the high score.

Mrs. M. Cunningham, after having spent a delightful three months at the beach on Dwight avenue has returned to her Los Angeles home, accompanied by her daughter, Elizabeth, and two sons, James and Daniel. Mrs. Cunningham is the mother of Mrs. James P. Hogan of Seventh street, Santa Monica.

Mrs. A. H. Miller of No. 2728 Lake street entertained Thursday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Miss Margaret Miller, who is soon to be married to J. Howard Blanchard, son of Police Commissioner J. D. Blanchard. The announcement of the engagement has just been made. The affair was attended by twenty friends of the young lady. Mrs. Miller was assisted by Mrs. C. V. Hoover, Mrs. Al Jenkins and Mrs. Lewis Barner.

Venice.

MRS. E. M. REED was the high scorer at the Monday afternoon session of the Venice Five Hundred Club in the dance hall on the pier, her total being 4890. Mrs. Margaret Kirk was a close second scorer with a mark of 4840. Mrs. Horsefield of Walgrove was doubly fortunate in drawing both the day and month coupon for attendance.

At the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Venice Woman's Club Mrs. W. H. Anderson, president, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Anderson spoke on the use of grape juice and California fruit juices at afternoon teas instead of the leaf beverage, saying that the juices made a much better drink than the pale-colored teas which many ladies are so fond of. Several interesting topics were brought up by other speakers, among those being Mrs. O. C. Conley, Mrs. Eagers, Mrs. Frances Payne and Mrs. George Dryden.

The California Grape Festival is attracting a large number of out-of-town visitors, as is proved by the immense registration at local hotels, during the week rooms being at a premium. The society folks of many inland cities are here and have been spending the week by the sea to witness the festival. Queen Louise Green of Upland has been the honored guest at many little affairs given during the week-end.

Among the numerous summer visitors who will remain over the winter season is Mrs. Kilgallan and her three charming daughters, the Misses Mary and Veronica, and Mrs. James Mooney of Anaconda, Mont. For the whole summer these visitors have occupied apartments at the Oceanic Hotel, but for the winter will reside in a bungalow on Horizon avenue. They expect to remain away from their home in Butte until next spring.

Skin Like a Lily or a Rose—It Is Easy and Sure—A Few Other Beauty Secrets

Valeska Suratt, Celebrated on the American Stage for Her Self-Made Beauty, Gives Some Extraordinary and Simple Methods of Acquiring Quick Beauty.

BY MISS VALESKA SURATT.

HOW often have we seen women of beautiful features, but with poor complexions attracting far less attention than women of merely ordinary features but with complexions superb and adorable. Faces clear and pure as lilies are the faces that conquer. There is only a small percentage of women who are really beautiful in features. Providence alone regulates this circumstance. But there are millions of women who little realize the tremendous advantage which can be secured by having a perfect complexion in spite of a lack of beauty of features. The quick changes which are now made possible in skin beauty are really startling, but it is regrettable to note that the means employed to obtain these changes are not only weak, but useless in most cases. It all depends on what you use. There is a formula which eclipses any preparation known for beautifying the skin. Its results are extraordinary. I advise every woman to stop using all other skin-beautifying creams and use this formula. Simply mix one tablespoonful of glycerine in a pint of water and add one ounce of zintone. This forms a cream, use it liberally and very soon your skin will take on a most decided clearness and purity, and every muddy spot; red spot, freckle and blemish will have disappeared. This formula should mean a fortune to the woman who uses it. The zintone can be secured at any drug store at a moderate price.

"It Is Now Comparatively Easy to Make the Skin Exquisite in a Very Short Time."

MRS. OPIE F.—There is a wrinkle-removing formula which has the peculiar property of making the skin plump and vigorous. This is the only way in which all wrinkles, both little and big, can ever be successfully removed. The youthful appearance produced in a short time by the use of this formula is really startling. Mix this at home by adding to a half pint of hot water two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol. This makes half a pint of the cream, costing several times less than you would have to pay for a cream at the stores, and which would not be successful. Any drug store will supply you with the eptol. By using this cream faithfully, and liberally, you will have attained in short order your fondest wish for a perfect, quick wrinkle-eradicator.

ROSA B. O.—The only way to remove dandruff is to dissolve it. Soap cannot do it, simply because of the alkali which it contains. No amount of scalp-scrubbing with soap will remove dandruff. The only thing known which will dissolve all fatty accumulations and dandruff is eggol, a teaspoonful of which added to a cup of hot water removes every particle of dandruff and other foreign matter. The lather is exceptionally rich. For a moderate price you can get enough eggol to produce twelve or more of these surpassing head washes. Every head of hair needs a head-wash of this kind.

TEARFUL.—Falling of hair can be positively and quickly stopped by using a mixture of half a pint of alcohol, half a pint of water, (or a full pint of bay rum in place of alcohol and water) and one ounce of beta-quinol, thoroughly mixed. This surpasses any hair tonic or invigorator I have ever known. It is a hair forcer, actually compelling the hair to grow luxuriantly, frequently several inches a month. Hair stops falling, the hair becomes fluffy, silky and thick, and the formation of dandruff is completely stopped.

MRS. G. O. N.—Blackheads are simply a local trouble and blood tonics will do no good. It is not generally known that blackheads may be thoroughly removed in a few minutes by getting a sponge, wetting it with hot water, sprinkling some neroxin on it, and then rubbing it on the blackheads. It is almost magic in result and every blackhead will disappear. Do this every day and you will not be troubled further. It works equally well in very severe cases.

SARAH M. H.—I do not wonder that you did not succeed in removing the superfluous hairs you mention. Why not dissolve them away instead of burning them off? By moistening the hairs with simple sulfo solution, every hair, heavy and light, disappears in a few moments. Instead of leaving a red spot where applied as other depilatories do, the skin, on the contrary, is left soft, smooth and clear. No matter how sensitive the skin or how heavy the growth it will work without fail.

BEREFT.—To develop the bust has often proved a difficult matter. Although you can never be sure of success, nevertheless the following formula is the very best you can ever hope to find. It is safe and if anything can succeed, this certainly should. To a half pint of cold water, add two ounces of ruetone, obtainable at any drug store, and half a cup of sugar. Mix thoroughly. Take of this, two teaspoonfuls after meals and at bedtime.

• • •

MRS. T. M. P.—Applications of hydrolized talc to arm-pits will put an end to the unnatural and excessive perspiration. There is nothing so effective, so cooling and as economical. This keeps the arm-pits always fresh, keeps the perspiration under control, prevents embarrassment and the damage to garments from fading. It also destroys all body odors immediately.

FURS

The sale of furs has often offered the opportunity to sell inferior goods. You can absolutely protect yourself by buying furs from a house of established standing. For years the F. Obrikat Fur Company has enjoyed an unrivaled reputation. Its stock is the largest on the Coast; it has imported direct and manufactured its own goods. It has shown but one quality, that quality always the best. So if you buy of this house, you buy assured satisfaction.

Selma Faley

All of the new and beautiful 1914-1915 styles are shown here now. The selection is unique in its completeness. Prices were never lower. Everything exclusive and beautiful is shown, in every fur called for by this season's fashions.

Truly, his season's presentation is the best in the history of this house.

Overworked Women

AMBITIOUS that their homes shall be kept neat and attractive, children well dressed and family well nourished, thousands of women in our homes are sacrificing their health to duty. They cook, wash, iron, dust, mend and sew, until some female trouble fastens itself upon them and their every day life is a continual struggle with weakness and pain.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest American Safeguard to woman's health. For three generations it has been relieving women from the worst forms of female ills until there is hardly a town or hamlet where women do not reside who have been restored to health by its use.

How Three Overworked Women Found Help.—Their Own Statements Follow:

CUMMING, GA.—"I tell some suffering woman every day of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it has done for me. I could not eat or sleep, had a bad stomach and was in misery all the time. I could not do my housework or walk any distance without suffering great pain. I tried doctors' medicines and different patent medicines but failed to get relief. My husband brought home your Vegetable Compound and in two weeks I could eat anything, could sleep like a healthy baby, and walk a long distance without feeling tired. I can highly recommend your Vegetable Compound to women who suffer as I did, and you are at liberty to use this letter."—Mrs. CHARLIE BAGLEY, R. 3, Cumming, Ga.

FLORENCE, SO. DAKOTA.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Route No. 1, Florence, South Dakota.

ADRIAN, MICH.—"I suffered terribly with female weakness and backache and got so weak that I could hardly do my work. When I washed my dishes I had to sit down and when I would sweep the floor I would get weak so that I would have to lie down before I did my dusting. I got so poorly that my folks thought I was going into consumption. One day I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women. I showed it to my husband and he said, 'Why don't you try it?' I did, and after taking 2 bottles I felt better, and after 3 months use I am well."—Mrs. A. E. BAKER. 9 Tecumseh St., Adrian, Mich.

Every sick woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, for it cannot harm her, and there are a hundred chances to one that it will completely restore her health. THE LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE COMPANY, LYNN, MASS.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour and Mrs. Day was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. H. S. Richardson. The rooms were decorated in blossoms and ferns. Refreshments were served.

A reception Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Foiles, No. 426 Caldwell avenue, marked the fiftieth milestone of their journey through life together. The affair was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Foiles, nee Cooper, a bride and bridegroom of last week. About fifty friends called during the afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Richardson entertained at dinner Thursday evening at their home in East D street, in honor of five of their friends whose birthdays came within the week. Covers were arranged for the Rev. and Mrs. William Morris Perry, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Day, Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crombie Allen, Miss Frances Linell and Miss Lillian Thomas.

Miss Ethel Everel Cook and Pink Frank Kirk were united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Rowe, Judge George R. Holbrook officiating. The bride was attended by Mrs. Harold E. Tracy and the bridegroom by Mr. Tracy. The ceremony was witnessed by a few intimate friends, only, and was followed by a wedding supper.

The Federated Parent-Teacher Associations of the schools of Ontario entertained Wednesday evening at the Odd Fellows Hall with a reception in honor of City Superintendent of Schools J. W. Groves and Mrs. Groves and for the teachers of the grammar schools. The reception was attended by several hundred. The Chaffey orchestra furnished music throughout the evening, and light refreshments were served.

The Woman's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, in session Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. W. W. Phipps, in North San Antonio avenue, set November 19 as the date for their annual bazaar and gift sale.

THE WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BEAUTY EXPERT

October's "Better value" demonstration

Because our buyer gathered so many thousands of garments for this Better Value demonstration we've taken this separate advertisement to give them the display they deserve!

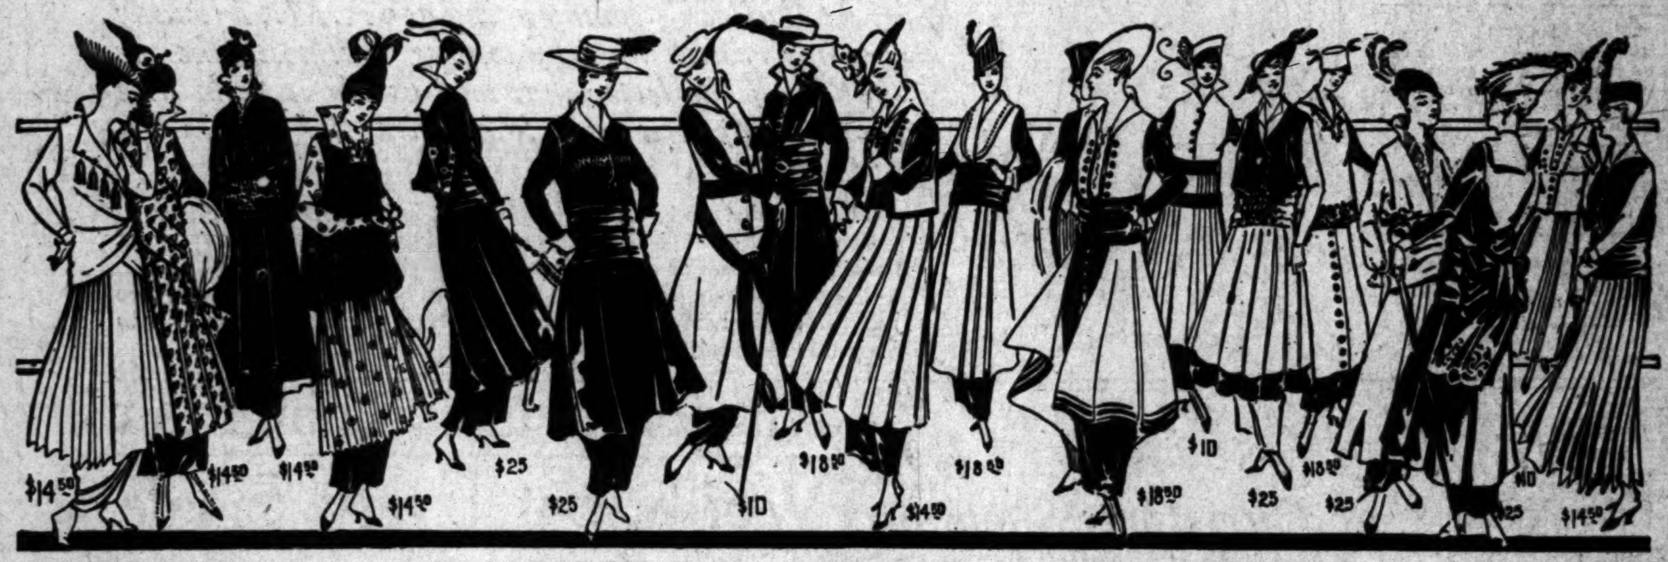
We've another big announcement on page 16, part III, which holds much good news of the "Better Values" ready in the other sections of the store.

Jacoby Bros.

331-335 South Broadway

While we've pictured a great, great many suits and dresses here—we've hardly hinted at the wonderful range of styles—and no advertisement we could print would do the values justice.

How does it happen that we can offer such values as these? Because we buy and sell our merchandise and conduct our store on an efficiency basis!



Here are 18 of the 2000 dresses that go into this "Better value" demonstration Monday

—You can form a good idea of the real unusualness of this "Better value" demonstration when we tell you that there are over 2000 dresses concerned.

—And every one of these 2000 and more dresses is a "Better value" as you will find, if you have the time to compare them with dresses being shown about town at even higher prices.

—There are dresses of silks, of velvets and of woolens of every kind that is good and new.

—There are dresses for street, for afternoon and for evening wear.

—There are included dresses at $10.00, at $14.50, at $18.50, at $25.00, at $29.50, at $35.00, and even more. Dresses that have come to us from manufacturers who were eager to help us make this October demonstration a rousing success.

—The pictures above and the garments which are in one of our windows today, tell the style and value story perfectly.

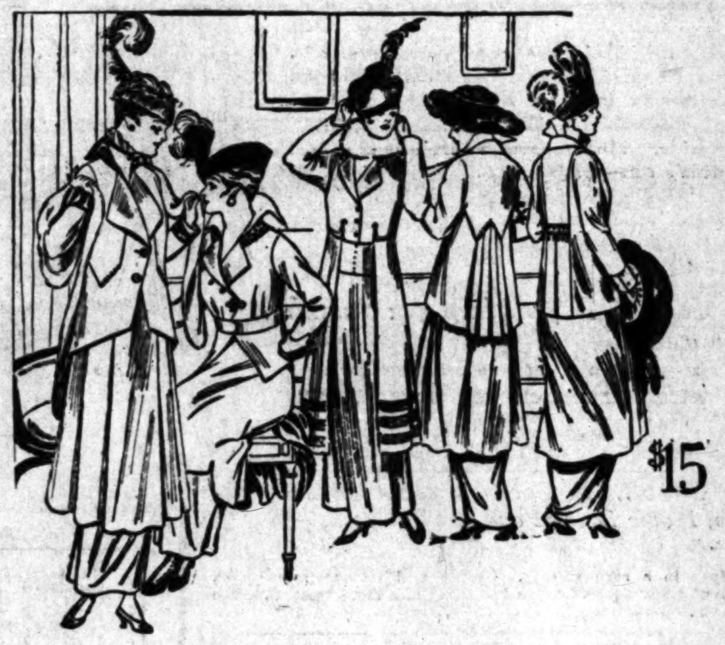
And suits, hundreds of wonder values, $15.00

Fashion show models

—including reception and evening gowns and costumes will be marked

Close to half

—on Monday! It's a wonderful opportunity for women to buy really high grade garments at a fraction of their worth.



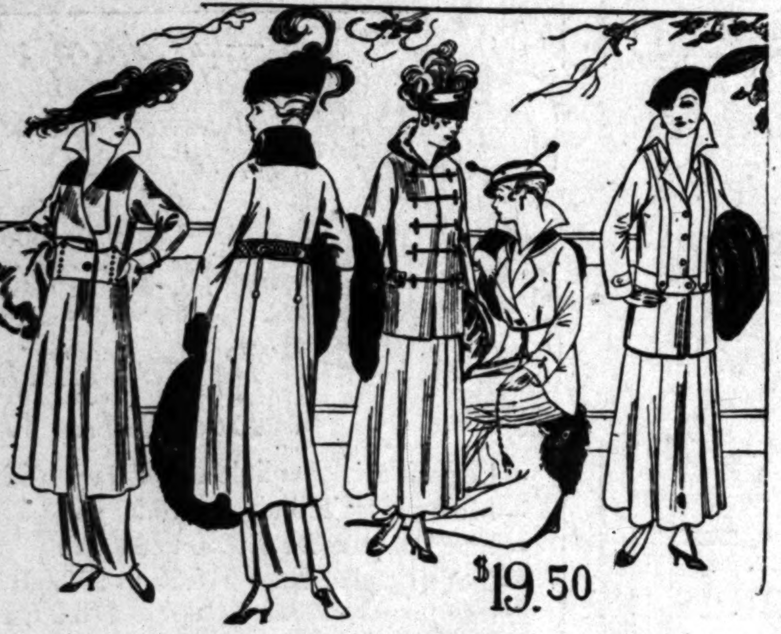
—If we were to hand you this picture which we've printed to the left—with no markings on it of any kind—wouldn't you guess the suits shown at a good deal in advance of $15.00?

—Of course you would—and if you were to see the suits themselves, you'd guess them even higher—for they are all suits worthy a much bigger price.

—We had them tailored just as we have our higher priced suits made—and we had them lined with the same splendid guaranteed satin and peau de cygne.

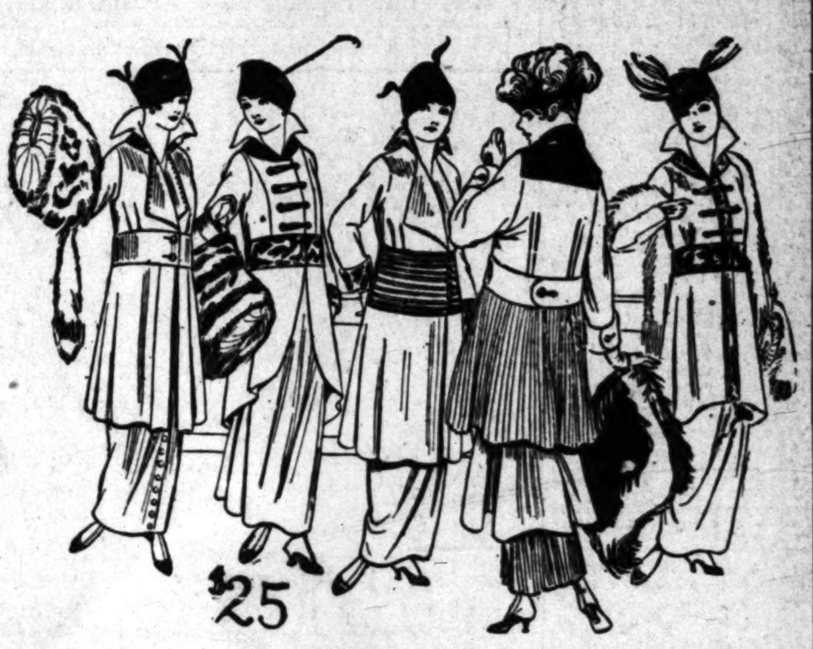
—The materials include practically all of the season's favorites and in all good shades. The pictures show a few of the styles.

Better suit values $19.50



We're not going to supplement this picture story with any flowery adjectives. Every woman who knows suits and suit values will recognize instantly how successful we were in getting "Better values" in suits at $19.50. There's not a material or shade that is good for Fall but what is included.

Suits to cause a stir $25



Our suit department has been famous all over Southern California for its $25 suits, but it's going to be even better known and its going to be talked about even more when women have an opportunity to see these $25 suits that go into this Monday demonstration. Note the six pictures above.

"What do I think of them? Why at $15.00 everyone should sell in a day. $17.50, yes, even $19.50 would be a ridiculously low price."

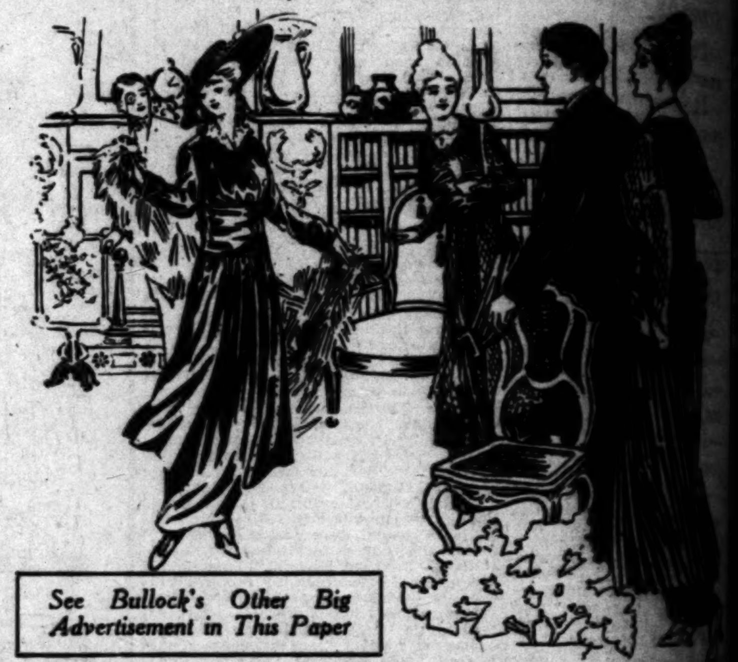
Here Are Two Hundred Dresses

—200 Wonderful Dresses for a Wonderful Sale!

—At Bullock's commencing at 9 A.M., Monday
—They're just here by express—almost like the shadow of the letter that told us about them and how it happened—so closely did the latter precede them.

—They're to be ready on Monday—quick as a flash—with no time to get acclimated or even barely acquainted with the extent and range of Bullock's varieties of other Winter styles—
—They're such superb values—so eager to be out and away—that we just can't help being eager with them—as eager as women will be to share them—Monday, at $15.00.



Many Are Less Than Half Worth, but Every Single One Will Go at $15.00

See Bullock's Other Big Advertisement in This Paper

Just as though many of them could not be taken out and put in regular stocks at double the price and more.

—Wonderful dresses—because of the perfection, the very "up-to-the-minuteness" of their style; the high character of the materials and workmanship; the unusualness of the range of ideas and shades that are included—and the very low price at which they are to be sold—
—$15.00! It is indeed almost incredible. All because of a certain combination of conditions and circumstances of which Bullock's was able to take advantage—and which were as extraordinary and unusual as they were great in the economy they offered—
—See the windows filled with these dresses today. Note the illustrations—all of which have been made directly from models concerned in this great $15 sale. Third floor.

SOCIETY.

of the First Baptist Church met at the home of Frank Shumate Monday evening and elected the following officers: W. S. Inman, president; Hal Gorbett, vice-president; Boyd Beatty, secretary; M. T. Dacus, treasurer; Rev. W. M. Perry, teacher; Frank Shumate, assistant teacher. The business meeting was followed by a banquet.

The Central Circle of the First Methodist Episcopal Church enjoyed a pleasant afternoon Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John S. Armstrong, No. 403 North Euclid avenue. Mrs. Armstrong was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. W. P. Rayner.

Upland.

MISS SAIDEE SAWYER acted as hostess to the Fancy Work Club on Wednesday afternoon of this week, at the home of her brother, J. F. Sawyer, on Euclid avenue. A few guests enjoyed the hostess's hospitality besides the members. Toward evening refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. J. F. Sawyer. Those attending were Mrs. C. M. Sikes, Mrs. W. B. Duncan, Mrs. George Cable, Mrs. A. L. Palis, Mrs. S. G. Moore, Mrs. J. B. Goodrich, Mrs R. B. Bordwell and Mrs. L. R. Bradley.

The first meeting of the season of the Woman's Club was held Friday afternoon at the clubrooms, with the president, Mrs. John Rarick, presiding. After a few opening remarks by the president, a piano solo was beautifully rendered by Miss Elsie Duley. The club quartette composed of Mrs. P. H. McQuillien, Mrs. R. B. Bordwell, Mrs. Ernest Mehl and Miss Maude Gerry favored the audience with a song, which was followed by a talk on the biennial by Mrs. Ella L. Westland, who attended in Chicago in June. The first meeting is always open day for the townswomen and a goodly number took advantage of the opportunity to attend.

A most delightful reception was given on Thursday night by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the Y.M.C.A building to the teachers and Trustees of the Upland grammar school and the Chaffey Union High School. This is an annual affair and the local union always plans a delightful entertainment for the guests.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church met Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors, and, as this was the first meeting of the year, plans for the annual bazaar were well discussed. Tea was poured by Mrs. John Rarick, Mrs. E. B. Reynolds, Mrs. Charles Duedy, Miss Seager and Miss Schaffner.

The Governor-General of the Philippines has appointed George Corner Fenhagen consulting architect to the government in charge of important public work being done at Manila and elsewhere in the islands. Mr. Fenhagen completed the special course in architecture at the University of Pennsylvania in 1905 and won the alumni foreign traveling fellowship architecture in 1906. After some years of practice in this country he was selected by the Philippine government as assistant to the consulting architect, whom he now succeeds.

THE DENTIST.

A Humoresque View of a Painful Subject.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

The more prosperous a dentist is the more he looks down in the mouth. But it isn't his own mouth. It's yours and mine, my fellow-countrymen.

The dentist is one of those luxurious necessities that appertain to present-day living. In olden days the dentist might also be the village blacksmith, horse doctor and notary public. As it is in this high-geared age he specializes, although he is still something of a jack of all trades. He should be something of a plumber, burglar, carpenter, mining engineer and bridge builder.

The times have changed. When Richard Coeur de Lion had the toothache His Majesty's armorer would take a sledge hammer and a goudge and go to it. When he got through, the royal face might look like a blood pudding, but the toothache would be over. In those days people never bothered much about their teeth. After a hearty meal the barons would sometimes pick at them with a toad stabber, but in the main they were passed over in neglect. The victim would endure an aching tooth as long as he could and would then have it dug out with a chisel and mallet. Sometimes a part of the jaw would come off in the operation, but this was held to be one of the risks incident to the occasion. Even the hand-made artificial teeth of our grandfathers were undreamed of, and the first who wore them were gazed upon with some awe. One of my ancestors was one of the earliest to fill his face with a flock of these commercial teeth. He was a pioneer missionary to the South Sea Islands and accustomed to harrowing adventure. At one time he was captured by the cannibal king of Bongo Pongo. He was in process of being served as a pot roast, but while the fire was warming him up he absentmindedly took out his false teeth and held the plate in his hand.

"Let him go, Eczema," roared the king to his cook; "when a man can take out his own bones there's no use trying to do anything. Just watch and maybe he'll eat himself up."

This same ancestor had acquired the tobacco habit and would chew up nearly a pound of plug a day. He seemed to have his jaws going most of the time, but at eventide he would usually drop his teeth in a glass of water and keep them near the head of his bed. Well, sir, from sheer force of habit those teeth would keep on going mechanically and we could hear them click in the glass at times all through the night. It sounded like someone coming up the stairs with a pitcher of ice water.

On one occasion when my ancestor was drawing a bucket of water the sweep slipped from his grasp and accidentally struck him in the back so hard that his teeth were jarred from their moorings and fell with a mild splash into the well. My relative grieved sorely at the loss. He had become very much attached to his teeth, although not sufficiently so as to prevent their loss. Nevertheless they seemed, indeed, a part of him, and the separation was akin to tragedy.

The children fished for them for an hour without avail, but finally Cousin Hezekiah had an inspiration. He tied a plug of tobacco to a long string and lowered it into the well. In a few moments an unmistakable "click" could be heard, and on pulling up the line the teeth were found tightly clenched in the bait. My ancestor had to use a monkey wrench to get them apart. As it was, he bit himself so badly on the thumb that the doctor thought best to cauterize the wound to save any chance of hydrophobia.

From a distance the dentist's chair looks cosy and inviting; but, believe me, it is as trying and uncomfortable as the throne of the white czar or the ducking stool of old England. Most men would rather enlist for the war than go to the dental office on personal business—and who can blame them? It costs on the average $20,000 to kill a soldier, but $20,000 worth of dental work would kill any man. But sometimes there is no alternative. An ulcerated tooth and swollen jowl compelled my presence in a dental office. "My face hurts me, doc," I explained.

"I should think it would," he replied, scornfully. "A face like that would hurt anybody. In fact, I am not sure it is a face. It looks more like a blister on the collarbone of chaos. Did it grow on you or was it grafted on by a frenzied hod carrier?"

"Never mind, doc," said I, grimly. "Get busy."

And he did.

After lassoing me with the aid of a lady assistant who looked like a very Red Cross nurse I was landed in the chair, where I reclined perspiringly while the doctor went over his collection of instruments. This seemed to include drills, jimmies, handsaws, pruning shears, pickaxes, grindstones, steam shovels and other tools of terror. Picking out a handy marlinspike he deftly pried open my face and jabbed the steel in my jaw about a foot and a half—or at least that's the way it seemed to me. After a bit of exploration he figured that I would lose one tooth, but he could save the next.

"Oh, can you?" gargled I, with sarcasm. "Do you think you can save my ears?"

"Don't try to talk."

After sampling a few of his tools the doctor picked out what seemed to be a healthy pair of ice tongs and sent them hurtling down my throat. They locked on the erring molar with an ominous crunch. "We will now get at the root of the matter," exclaimed the doctor in a tone that was meant to be pleasant.

"O-o-o-e-e, doc! Have a heart," I gasped. "You ran your harpoon in my gizzard."

"That's nothing," said the dentist, taking a stranglehold on his tongs and pulling his full 200 pounds with both hands. Just before the top of my head came off the blamed thing came out.

"Now for the nerve!" exclaimed the doctor, bloodthirstily, as he made a new sortie into the basement of my jaw with a frog spear.

"Oh, doc!" I pleaded. "Not that. Don't take my nerve away. You'll put me out of business."

"Can't help it," said the dentist. "Got to drill out the center, kill the nerve and put on a crown. Here's a piece of the nerve now," he added as he stabbed me to the quick and held up something that looked like a bit of string.

"Wow, doc!" I pleaded. "Can't you blast it out and save time?"

"Be a sport and hang on," said the doctor. "The worst is yet to come."

"But, doc," I insisted, "I thought you said you were a painless dentist."

"I am," replied the doctor, smilingly. "This doesn't hurt me a darned bit. I feel no pain whatever. In fact, I rather like it."

What can you do with a man like that?

So I stayed on and went through a course of drilling, sapping and mining that would scare a German reservist. When it was all over, my face was a fine example of open, sanitary plumbing, and, like all well-regulated angels, I had a golden crown.

GERMAN SIEGE MORTAR.

It is an Eleven-inch Affair and a Very Terrible Engine of Modern Warfare.

Something of that terrible new engine of war, the great eleven-inch field motar with which Germany is battering the magnificent old cities of France and Belgium into heaps of useless rubbish, and how it is transported, is told by a gunnery expert in the special war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, as follows:

The German eleven-inch mortar marks a great stride in power and weight, and particularly in mobility, over any other mobile artillery as yet constructed. The outstanding feature of this great mortar is that it is so mounted that the gun and its carriage can be hauled either by motor or by horse power at a speed approximating that of the lighter siege artillery, and that when it has reached the designated position it takes but a short time to have the gun in battery ready for the attack.

The barrel of the gun is made of steel, and it consists of the inner tube and an outer jacket, the total length of the gun being eleven feet. The breech is opened and closed by turning a handle through a horizontal arc for about 135 deg., and a safety device operated by hand is provided which prevents premature firing or accidental opening of the breech. In spite of the fact that the breech mechanism weighs over 1100 pounds, the construction is such that the opening and closing of it can be effected easily with one hand and in a few seconds' time.

The gun is transported on two separate vehicles, each of which can be hauled by a single motor truck. During transportation one unit consists of the gun carriage, slide, recoil cylinders, trail and permanent axle and wheels, the last-named being fitted with broad flat feet after the manner of the Diplock pedrail. The after end of the trail during transportation is mounted upon a pair of wheels. The gun itself is transported upon a carriage, upon which it is placed in such a position that the majority of the weight will come upon a pair of pedrail wheels.

To mount the gun when it has reached its assigned place, all that is necessary is to back up the section carrying the gun against the section constituting the mount, and then, by means of wire cables, draw the gun forward into the sleeve and bolt the lug to the piston rod of the recoil cylinder. The gun transporting section is then drawn away, the trail is lowered to the ground and the gun is ready for firing.

Mrs. John Stewart Kennedy of New York, it has just been learned, is the generous woman who is providing funds for Sir William M. Ramsey's excavations at Antioch, in Western Asia, which is throwing great light on Christian history.

JAP WAR UPON GERMAN DECLARED A POPULAR

The Kaiser's Administration Is Blamed for ditions Which Have Aroused the Ire of the States a Correspondent at Tokio, Among the Cry of "Yellow Peril."

BY DR. J. INGRAM BRYAN.
[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDE

TOKIO, Aug. 25.—Now that Japan formally declared war against Germany, and is at this moment prosecuting it with all essential activity in an attempt to drive that country out of China, it will be illuminating as well as interesting to take a survey of the situation in the Far East.

No sooner had the international rupture occurred in Europe than Japan began to contemplate the possibility of being asked to take a hand, should Great Britain be involved. That Japan was bound by the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance to participate if required, there was no manner of doubt in the public mind, but whether to wait the request was the question. There were, and are, many Japanese who long to get even with Germany, but there was much speculation as to waiting for an invitation to initiate operations in that direction.

Suspense was more or less relieved when a note came from the British government on August 4, asking what Japan could do in the way of safeguarding British shipping in the Far East. An Imperial council was called and the reply at once went back to London that Japan could not guarantee the safety of British shipping so long as the presence of Germany at Tsing Tao existed to menace it. Japan would undertake the responsibility only on condition that she be allowed to remove the German occupation of that part of China. In this suggestion the British authorities acquiesced, on condition that the place be subsequently returned to China and the integrity of that republic be in no way threatened. I may add that all here set down I have received from the highest Japanese authority.

On receipt of consent to the condition from Great Britain, Japan sent her ultimatum to Germany, demanding the evacuation of Tsing Tao, disarming of the warships there and the handing over of the territory to Japan for ultimate reversal to China. As communications with Europe were very uncertain Japan gave seven days for an answer. From the first it was very widely believed that Germany would treat the ultimatum with silent contempt, which she did.

The time limit for a reply was set at 12 o'clock of August 24. The moments preceding the firing of the noon gun in Tokio on that day were charged with utmost anxiety. Newspaper men and others crowded the allotted waiting-rooms of the Foreign Office, waiting for the report of the gun and the news from the Foreign Minister as to whether Germany had sent a reply. As the sound of the gun reverberated over the city a messenger immediately appeared and handed to the journalists a piece of paper with this inscription: "No reply!" At once thousands of newsboys and men, with their extras already printed, swarmed over the city streets. The Cabinet Council then in session continued until 2:30 p.m., when the German Ambassador was handed his passports and war was declared, in the following decree:

IMPERIAL DECREE.

We, by the grace of heaven, Emperor of Japan, seated on the throne occupied by the same dynasty from time immemorial, do hereby make the following proclamation to all our brave and loyal subjects:

We hereby declare war against Germany, and we command our army and navy to carry on hostilities against that empire with all their strength, and we also command all our competent authorities to make every effort, in pursuance of their respective duties, to attain the national aim, by all the means within the limits of the law of nations.

Since the outbreak of the present war in Europe, the calamitous effects of which we view with grave concern, we, on our part, have entertained hopes of preserving the peace of the Far East by the maintenance of strict neutrality. But the action of Germany has at length compelled Great Britain, our ally, to open hostilities against that country; and Germany is, at Kiao-Chow, its leased territory in China, busy with warlike preparations, while its armed vessels, cruising the seas of Eastern Asia, are threatening our commerce and that of our ally. The peace of the Far East is thus in jeopardy. Accordingly, our government and that of His Britannic Majesty, after full and frank communication with each other, agreed to take such measures as may be necessary for the protection of the general interests contemplated in the agreement of alliance; and we, on our part, being desirous to attain that object by peaceful means, commanded our government to offer, with sincerity, an advice to the imperial German government. By the last day appointed for the purpose, however, our government failed to receive an answer accepting the advice.

It is with profound regret that we, in spite of our ardent devotion to the cause of peace, are thus compelled to declare war, especially at this early period of our reign, and while we are still in mourning for our lamented mother.

It is our earnest wish that, by the valor and loyalty of our faithful subjects, peace may soon be restored and the glory of the empire enhanced.

FLEET MOVEMENTS.

No news of naval or military movements are permitted publication at present; but it is supposed that as soon as the declaration of war was issued, if not before, the Japanese fleet was in readiness for necessary activity off Tsing Tao. Whether there is to be the landing of an army at once seems uncertain, as there are reports of a joint action of troops representing Russian, British and French from the land side. Though the Germans at Tsing Tao have been making great preparations for a state of seige, it is not expected that the place can long hold out against an attack by Japan. There are said to be no more than 3000 soldiers with a few cavalry at Tsing Tao, with three aeroplanes and a few guns. In the harbor there are four small gunboats and an Austrian cruiser, but most of the guns were removed from the boats to arm the big North German liners that have been equipped for destroying British shipping.

A peculiar aspect of the situation is that a large proportion of the fighting personnel at Tsing Tao consists of Germans who until called away a few weeks ago, lived in Japan, where many of their families still are, and these will now have to fight Japan.

MEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY AGNES THURNAU.

[illegible] woman like beasts and they will breed you brutes. There is no place on all the surface of this smutty little globule where you will find this more fully verified, even to the Nth degree, than Turkey.

In the Ottoman empire a woman has always been held not quite equal to a dog, not quite as dear as a horse. And woman has repaid the Ottoman empire by filling it with the most superb satanic types probably to be found this side the crusted cauldrons of hell.

Away back in the morning of life, when the Infinite set His seal of [illegible] on procreation of type by the establishment of sex, He meant [illegible] woman to do an equal share of work in training the humanity [illegible] God-ward, and He meant them to do it in equality.

[illegible] by the debasement of sex attraction, woman gained supreme [illegible] of man, and then, if with great and beautiful justice, the gigantic [illegible] she had fashioned operated to crush and enslave her, let her not [illegible] the Most High by submitting that it is His will for her to be [illegible] that by the burden of race-bearing she has beeen placed at [illegible] of man in this, his world. She has been for centuries only [illegible] in a man-made world; only an incident in a man-made civili[illegible] And the Infinite, who is Law, did not interfere until in her [illegible] travail she paid to the uttermost farthing for her faithlessness [illegible] high behest.

Los Angeles Ebell.

[illegible] October 12, Mary Wood[illegible] man, economist and lecturer, will address Ebell Club on the subject of woman as a consumer. The Shakespeare section of which Miss M. E. Elliott is curator and Mrs. Edward North instructor, will take up act 1, scene 1, of "King Lear;" the special topic for discussion is customs and ideals of ancient Britain. The music section has moved its meeting scheduled for October 14, forward to December 9. The social science department has secured Dr. David Beaton to deliver a course of lectures during the year, however. Thursday, October 15, there will be only informal talks on current sociological topics, after which tea will be served. The civics department will on this date hear speakers on legislative questions to be decided at the November election. Mrs. J. H. Francis is curator of the civics department. Friday, October 16, the French section of which Mrs. Charles Clark is curator, and Mme. Isabelle de Kerpezdron, instructor, will meet.

Ebell officers for the year are, Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, president; Mrs. Chester C. Ashley, first vice-president; Mrs. George P. Thresher, second vice-president; Mrs. H. P. Barton, third vice-president; Mrs. S. M. Browne, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Charles F. Patterson, recording secretary; Miss Ellen Augusta Lamb, corresponding secretary; Miss Charlotte M. Rockwell, treasurer; Mrs. C. S. Ward, general curator.

Audubon Society.

The California Audubon Society, of which the Los Angeles society is a branch, is working energetically to gain support of the Flint-Carey non-sale-of-game act, which will be voted upon this November. The State Federation of Women's Clubs has indorsed the act which aims at the conservation of the wild life of the State. Mrs. Harriet W. Myers, No. 311 North Avenue 66, is secretary of the Los Angeles Audubon Society, and it was due to her energetic efforts largely that the federation indorsed the Flint-Carey non-sale-of-game act.

Highland Park Ebell.

The new psychology section of Highland Park Ebell will meet October 14 for a discussion of W. Hanna Thompson's book, "Brain and Personality." This meeting will be open to interested, but subsequent meetings will be open only to club members who register as students.

"Shakespeare and Shakespeare's England" is the subject of a lecture to be given to the club by B. R. Baumgardt, October 13. Stereopticon views will be used to illustrate the lecture.

Y.W.C.A. Dressmaking.

The trade dressmaking school of the Y.W.C.A. is well launched on its fall term, with several of the old students returning to finish their courses, and many new ones. This school has a system of individual instruction so that young women may enter at any time and proceed as rapidly as their capability will permit. The big room on the sixth floor of the association building where the school is conducted is a busy place, and all classes of dressmaking from the different methods of placket-holing and hemming, to the planning of elaborate dinner gowns, are taught at the long tables. The young women who are ready for the last course in the school are allowed to do ordering work, for which the association charges about 50 per cent. of the commercial rate. The young dressmakers receive half of this charge and many of them are able to earn their last month's tuition in the school in this way. There has been a great demand in the city for the graduates of this school to go into homes and do sewing by the day. Arrangements for such work can be made at any time at the association building.

Woman's City Club.

The programme for October 19 is a discussion of law. Its application will be discussed by Judge W. M. Conley; its defects and remedies by Justice N. P. Angellotti; Amendment No. 41, relating to the law and justice, by Judge N. P. Conrey.

Kappa Alpha Beta.

Los Angeles Alumnae of Kappa Alpha Beta will hold an all-day meeting on Saturday, October 17, at the home of Mrs. E. H. Brooks, No. 411 North Avenue 66. The business meeting will be called at 2:30 p.m.

Busy Mrs. Goldsmith.

With a fine technical training as a speaker, a comprehensive grasp of a wide range of subjects, and a pleasing style of delivery, Lilian Burkhardt Goldsmith is greatly in demand as a speaker before women's clubs and other organizations. On October 16 she will speak before the civics section of Ebell on the prohibition amendment; she will speak to the Wednesday Morning Club on October 14 on the poetry of the Bible. Later in the year she will give two other programmes for the same club. On November 27 she will furnish the Thanksgiving programme for the Pomona Ebell; in December she will talk to the teachers assembled at the Teachers' Institute in Los Angeles on "Social Value of the Modern Drama." The Shakespeare Club of Pasadena will hear her review the latest books in January and May. She will give a course of three interpretative talks in San Francisco, Bakersfield, Taft and Santa Barbara in December. She will deliver an address before the Bible class of the Unitarian Church today.

Drama League.

The Drama League membership of 90,000 extends throughout the United States and Canada, with organized centers in thirty-four cities, individual members and smaller groups in every State. The principal centers are in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Washington and Los Angeles. The total membership of the Los Angeles center is 5000, with nearly a thousand active supporting members, most of which are women. Out of 113 officers and committeemen in Los Angeles center only nineteen are men.

Badger Club.

At the opening meeting of the Badger Club Miss Lloy Galpin spoke on "American vs. European Parties," and Miss Vivien Webb gave a musical programme. Mrs. L. A. Gould, chairman of legislation, spoke on amendments to be voted on in November. Mrs. W. C. Fletcher, who has charge of arrangements for the bazaar to be held some time in December, appointed her committees, and plans for the affair were discussed.

Out-of-Town Clubs.

Great interest in all amendments to be voted on at the coming November election prevails in out-of-town clubs. Women's Republican clubs throughout the State show renewed activity. This is particularly true in the north. Perhaps never before in club work in the State have civics and social science been such engrossing departments. Political speakers of all parties are speaking before the clubs, and for the most part the disposition to become fully informed and judge fairly is very marked. The Senatorial candidates seem to be greatly in demand and many clubs are arranging political evenings and inviting able speakers to talk to them on the legislative measures on which they must vote. The eagerness to be informed and the disposition to sanity and fairness at this time will go a long way toward eliminating forever from political life the objection to women on the grounds that they do not "think." Can aggregations of men voters in the State show the same record for impartial investigation that that of the women's clubs can? They can not. The women know they have a big job on their hands in November. They are taking their duties as citizens seriously. They are not afraid to say they need information. And after they have it they are not timid in deciding how to use it.

Pasadena.

On October 13 there will be a business meeting of the Pasadena Shakespeare Club at the clubhouse. The social hour will be given over to informal talk of happenings at the biennial convention in Chicago. The hostesses for the day are: Mrs. H. G. Cattell, Mrs. Clarence Blood, Mrs. A. G. Spohr, Mrs. Thomas Spohr, Mrs. L. M. Powell, Mrs. Jonathan Price, Mrs. Ella Baker, Mrs. E. B. Fuessle. The Shakespeare section of the club will study during the club year "Hamlet," "Julius Caesar" and the "Merchant of Venice." In the study of "Hamlet" the types given by Booth, Forbes-Robertson and Sothern will be considered. In the study of "Julius Caesar" special attention will be paid to the art of oratory and the ancient art of the politician. In the "Merchant of Venice" the Shylock of Sir Henry Irving and the Portia of Ellen Terry will be given special study. While the work of the class is purely analytical, at the close of the study of each play leading scenes will be given, so that the full dramatic significance will be thoroughly appreciated.

The Washington Heights club will hold the first evening meeting of the year October 16. Mrs. Seward Simons will speak on the amendments to be voted on in November. The committee in charge of the meeting is Mrs. Louis Mitchell, Mrs. W. A. Cleland, Mrs. William C. Humphreys.

The College Woman's Club has an active branch in Pasadena. The Drama League of America has a branch there and gives excellent programmes. The Daughters of the American Revolution, of which Mrs. Thayer is State Regent, has two branches in the city.

The Pasadena Graduate Nurses' Club is a club for graduate trained nurses, and maintains club headquarters and a central directory of nurses.

The Woman's Civic League, of which Mrs. Robert J. Burdette is president, is one of the large organizations, and has projected many public improvements for the community. The club life of Pasadena is live and interesting, and at the bottom of all civic activity, reforms and improvements advocated by the clubs will be found a sincere desire for community as well as individual betterment.

Lincoln Park Study Circle, of which Mrs. George W. Burt is president, has opened the year's study. Following are committee chairmen: Mrs. C. P. Donnell, Music; Mrs. D. Z. Gardner, Legislation; Mrs. E. E. Thompson, Civics; Mrs. Franz Bischoff, Art; Miss Jennie O. Kennedy, Literature. The circle will tage up during this month the study of the amendments to be voted on in November.

One of the pleasant echoes of the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, held in June in Chicago, comes from Mrs. Clara Bryant Heywood of Pasadena, who says: "Mrs. Pennybacker called upon those who attended the convention to carry home to our clubs the gospel of service. This gospel is outlined in the woman's creed adopted at the federation. It was a wonderful time. There was no fault finding, little self-seeking. Ten thousand women from every part of the country worked in perfect harmony. This harmony and the thought of service are the twin spirits now abroad in all the land among club women. It was a joyous biennial. Our president, Mrs. Pennybacker, is a wonderful woman, courageous, tactful, open-minded, gracious, broad and lovable, and has great gift as an orator."

Housewives are now attending the domestic science department of the Polytechnic High School.

The president's reception in their clubhouse opened the year's work of the Women's Improvement Association of South Pasadena Wednesday afternoon. The clubhouse was most artistically decorated under the direction of Mrs. John W. Monahan, who treated the auditorium to represent a California garden. A background of ivy curtained the stage, with bamboo and palms at the base. The footlights were banked with pink and white cosmos from the city parks. Baskets of the same blossoms were hanging from the rafters and windows. In the reception-room, where the handsome new oriental rugs, lately purchased, were placed for the first time, huge baskets filled with pink and white Maman Cochet roses were utilized; in the dining-room brass vases of red dahlias were placed on the tables from which refreshments were served. Presiding here were Mmes. George C. Bush, W. D. Newerf, W. T. Bishop, Otis Byers Manchester, C. R. Howard, H. E. Pearson, E. E. Washburn and Norman Foote Marsh.

In the receiving line were the officers of the club: Mrs. E. M. Mumford, president; Mrs. Jonathan S. Dodge, first vice-president; Mrs. John W. Shenk, second vice-president; Mrs. Hartley Packer, recording secretary; Mrs. George Alfred Miller, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Edward H. Rust, treasurer; also past presidents, including Mrs. Frank Stephens, Mrs. Arthur Walker, Mrs. Leo Longley, Mrs. Ernest Lockwood, Miss Collier and Miss Bertha Moore. A mandolin orchestra furnished delightful music during the reception hours. One hundred and fifty guests attended.

Mrs. Mumford made a short address of welcome, outlining the work for the coming year, and called on the chairman of standing committees to tell their plans.

San Francisco.

Bringing the work of western women artists into notice is the outcome of a movement in the Cap and Bells Club three years ago. The club began the establishment of a permanent gallery where the work of prominent women artists could be viewed. Pictures, sculptures, miniatures and protography in the club's gallery attracted seceral hundred visitors at a recent exhibition, and the gallery is now a strong feature of the Cap and Bells.

Mrs. Percy S. King, president of the San Francisco district S.F.W.C., has instructed all her committees to make ready for the district convention to be held at Pacific Grove October 27, 28 and 29. Mrs. Robert Burdette of Pasadena, first president of the State federation, is scheduled as one of the speakers.

The Woman's Club Building Association, of which Mrs. C. E. Grunsky is president, and Miss Roberta Deal secretary, has for its object the erection of a half million-dollar structure where all the women's clubs of the city can be housed. The project is backed by some of San Francisco's most prominent club women, and the Woman's Athletic Club now being formed along the same lines as men's athletic clubs is one of the first to signify its co-operation with the plan of a union clubhouse.

Helen K. Williams, now a member of the Republican State Central Committee, and owner and editor of the Woman Citizen, a woman's magazine, is throwing her considerable club strength and political strength to the support of Capt. Fredericks' in his campaign for Governor.

Women's clubs in the bay region and elsewhere in the State are taking part in the financial campaign of the Pioneer Mother's Monmument Association. The purpose of the association is to raise money to build a splendid monument to the pioneer mothers of 1849. The statue is to be executed by a sculptor of eminence and be one of the leading art attractions of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. It will cost $25,000. Miss Caroline A. Snook, No. 702 Exposition building, is secretary of the association.

Oakland Ebell will devote the greater part of the month of October to the study of the amendments.

Fresno.

The Ladies' Parlor Lecture Club opened the season October 1 with a business meeting. It is the largest organization in Fresno, and stands for the highest culture and advancement. Officers for the year are: Mrs. S. L. Wiley, president Mrs. C. W. Musick, vice-president; Miss Marguerite Humphrey, recording secretary; Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. G. Baymiller, treasurer.

Stockton.

The civic section of the Philomathean Club has engaged some of the ablest lawyers in Stockton to talk on the amendments to be voted on in November. The talks will be given at the clubhouse. The club has announced that the discussions will not be legal or technical, but that the members must be told in plain English what it means to vote "no," and what it means to vote "yes." The club has invited the general public to these talks.

Riverside.

The Woman's Club at Riverside, of which Mrs. Martha Dudley was recently elected president, opened the season October 2 with a "pink luncheon," which was followed by a programme of a very high order.

Venice.

The Venice Democratic Women's Club has permanently organized and elected the following officers: Mrs. Carrie N. Fraser, president; Mrs. Mable Thomas, secretary. Democratic candidates will address the club from time to time.

Santa Monica.

Club life in Santa Monica has had two sudden leaps forward in public interest. The completion of a modern, spacious, luxuriously-appointed house for the Woman's Club, and the organization of a brand new, live, active club, known as the local chapter of the Schoolwoman's Time to Time Club. The organization is composed mainly of the teachers of Santa Monica. It has arranged a series of talks on the amendments, and lectures on important economic and educational subjects by well-known lecturers as features of the October programmes. Miss Ethel M. Robinson is president. Miss Charlotte F. Corder of Corder, Mo., teacher of French and German in the Santa Monica High School, is in charge of programme arrangement. Mrs. Seward Simons and Judge Meyers spoke to the Woman's Club Friday evening on the amendments.

Mothers' Congress.

The California Mothers' Congress, of which Mrs. H. N. Rowell is president, has for its chief object the elevation of the standard of home life. In her annual letter outlining the years' work, which she has just issued, Mrs. Rowell says: "The occasional programme at regular meetings can accomplish little beyond arousing interest in the subject. But members may decide upon topics to be studied, and arrange supplementary meetings, preferably in homes, to give opportunity for reading and discussion of the many subjects necessary to be understood by the conscientious mother, who would know how best to direct her child's moral, physical and mental development." Mrs. Rowell urges the hearty co-operation of individual members with the home education division of the United States Department of Education in the circulation of papers, magazines, bulletins, etc., devoted to home subjects and child welfare.

Long Beach.

In choosing Mrs. T. S. Oldroyd of Long Beach to arrange and classify the shells at the Panama-Pacific Exposition next year, the San Francisco Academy of Sciences has, it seems, made a very fine choice. Mrs. Oldroyd has been all her life a close student of conchology. She, with her husband, is owner of a collection of shells which was valued by Smithsonian Institute at $8000. The collection contains two of the extremely rare volutes from the inland seas of Japan. The tribute paid Mrs. Oldroyd's progress in this science is a tribute to the genius of woman and all women

MRS. CARL SCHURZ VROOMAN.

Wife of the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Who Is Well Known Socially and Has Resided Here at Varying Periods Since Her Early Girlhood.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

Mrs. Carl S. Vrooman.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—In a social sense the appointment of Schurz Vrooman to succeed Dr. Galloway as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture is eminently satisfactory. The present regime is well endowed with intellectual, serious-minded and grave chatelaines. The coming of Mrs. Vrooman, who is intellectual to a degree and the author of books, but who is also witty, vivacious and young enough to plunge heart and soul into the relaxing side of official life, augurs well for the winter. From the butterfly viewpoint, the office of the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture has been negligible. None of Mr. Vrooman's predecessors took the slightest interest in the social amenities, beyond figuring with the head of the department on solemn occasions like New Year's receptions or the coming of learned bodies to hold congresses or consultations. Mrs. Vrooman has been reared in the social atmosphere and she knows Washington as well as a native and she knows all the capitals of Europe as well. Her family has long been on terms of intimacy with the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan. She is the niece of the late Adlai Stevenson and with Mrs. Scott had the pleasure of entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Bryan during the campaign when Mr. Stevenson was second on the ticket and this friendship has been cemented with the years. She is also a warm friend of the Postmaster-General and Mrs. Burleson and their daughters.

The daughter of Mrs. Matthew T. Scott is assured a cordial welcome in the conservative social set which is apart from the consideration given to officials. Mrs. Scott first lived in Washington when Mr. and Mrs. Adlai Stevenson occupied such an exalted position in the second Cleveland administration. She brought to Washington at this time her young daughters Letitia and Julia, both still at their books, though they were permitted an occasional glimpse of social doings. The elder, Letitia Scott, after two years at a finishing school at Dresden, was introduced to Washington society and the same year married Charles S. G. Bromwell of the army, afterwards superintendent of public grounds and buildings here. The second daughter studied for some years longer in Europe and seventeen years ago married Carl Vrooman, whom she had met abroad. Mr. Vrooman has since his youth been interested in sociological studies and the pursuit of them led him to spend many years abroad and his wife has been his constant and sympathetic companion. As these sojourns sometimes extended into months and twice into two years, Mrs. Vrooman tired of life in hotels and several times she was brave enough to lease a furnished home and to keep house on her own account. She had some amusing experiences which in collaboration with her husband she will soon publish in a considerable volume called "The Lure and Lore of Travel."

"Going to Europe is a nationally universal habit," said Mrs. Vrooman, "and so frequently were we confronted with the query how to get the best and most out of travel that we have given deep thought to the answer. Intensive travel appealed to us just as the intensive method applied to market gardening has enabled the young peasant to make a comfortable living out of a patch of ground the average American would disdain as a chicken yard. It is this method when made use of by tourists and students of comparative art, politics, history and present day civilization which is fast making of travel a royal road to learning. A Harvard professor once remarked to my husband in his student days that he would learn more by loafing about Europe for a year than he would grinding away at the university. We have both realized the truth of this if, however, one can decide before setting off for the wander year, what sort of programme is to be followed. Not so important as it seems are the books to be read, the preparation, the lectures attended, the studies undertaken, though all of these play their part, but how to live, how to establish the most intimate and agreeable relations with the people among whom one's lot is cast. For, unless we can become sufficiently naturalized in the mental and emotional sense, to feel a reasonable sympathy with the native point of view, the traveler will miss what is best and what is most distinctive about that country. While it is highly useful to have a working knowledge of another people's language and a nodding acquaintance with its literature, art and history, all such knowledge avails little unless we adjust our mental lenses and see things in their normal relations to their proper environment and in their true perspective.

"In Europe as in America, the things most worth while will not be given for mere asking and still less for money. Beauty is only for those who can appreciate it and the charm of romance of history or of legend only for those who naturally feel high and noble impulses. Many tourists are constitutionally unable to understand, still less to sympathize with the habits and customs of other people. Judging everything and everybody by the standards of their particular country, section or community, they miss what counts for most and what is most delightful about a foreign tour. It matters not how many times such travelers circumnavigate the globe, or how many scraps of information they pick up about various races and continents, they will die as they have lived—provincials. So answer the question, how to travel in order to get the most repaying things, requires a complex analysis. Our physical nourishment does not depend so much on what we eat or how much, but on how much we assimilate, so our gain in travel cannot be so dependent on industrious sightseeing or intelligent acumen, as on sympathy and emotional responsiveness. Then the mental and spiritual baggage we bring home is another. Memories which are distinct and separate and which continue joys throughout our lives certainly count for much, and they are often obtained in a haphazard way outside of conventional lines. Perhaps the best way to travel sums itself up in the way in which naturalists say hedgehogs eat grapes. They simply roll among the grapes and eat those which stick to their quills.

"On a recent trip abroad our fellow-passengers presented a rather more amusing scratch collection of human beings than is usually to be found even on a trans-Atlantic liner. Fragments of the conversational mix-ups on various themes entertained by this composite lot of people furnished amusement for the passing hour and gave us much to ponder on in dealing with the true reason for the national habit of going to Europe instead of remaining in our own country. Intensive travel gives a key to usefulness and to a preparation for worthier efforts when we return. Mere globe-trotting can have no place in the post-graduate school either of knowledge or of travel. The first view of Europe or of any land must necessarily be telescopic or even kaliedoscopic, if as it is generally the case, the traveler wants to see an entire continent and to merge twenty centuries of history into one brief tour. But one's later views will become more like a microscopic one and if they have been formed from thoughtful study, from sympathetic insight and from pleasant adventures, they will be valuable to the individual and to his future efforts in any direction. We always went abroad with a steady purpose and having accomplished it, we came home to enjoy the blessings and good things which our own country provides. I would not give my memories alone for anything which money can purchase, still less the greater things in knowledge usefully applied."

Mrs. Vrooman has been naturally interested in the Daughters of the American Revolution, since both her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Adlai Stevenson were so prominent in its foundation. Mrs. Stevenson was twice president-general of the society and to her zealous effort, the organization is largely indebted for its splendid Valhalla, the Continental Memorial Hall. Mrs. Scott served two terms as president-general of the society and her administration of its affairs was conspicuously brilliant and successful. She removed the offices from a rented building into the exquisite marble memorial hall and she placed the affairs of the society on a modern business basis. Mrs. Vrooman spent much of her time here during her mother's tenure of office and she was socially prominent in all the corellated affairs. Other than this she has not been actively identified with public movements. The cause of conservation has appealed to her and she has accomplished some excellent work for this crusade. Mrs. Scott also was one of the first to enlist under the banner of conservation and to accept important offices in the national work. Mrs. Vrooman was a delegate to the conservation congress held in Kansas City two years ago and her address was one of the ablest and most practical papers read during the sessions of that body. At the present time, Mrs. Vrooman is the chairman of the Illinois State Committee on Conservation, and gives much time and consideration to the problems which are locally applicable. She has also taken a part in the deliberations on public waterways and this is a theme on which she feels there is good work to be done. Mrs. Scott has been a pioneer of this important public project and her holdings in Iowa and Illinois have improved in such a rapid and substantial way, that she stands as a leader in this line. Mrs. Vrooman has in a way followed her mother's trend, but she possesses much originality and has suggested some valuable methods. Mrs. Scott has taken waste land off the beaten track and as Jean Ingelow so poetically puts it, "With her foot she has turned the river to water grasses that were fading." Many thousands of acres in Iowa are now the home of happy tenants making a good living for their families and adding to the well earned income of the woman who made their use possible. Irrigation ditches and the conserving of the water in the rivers have been Mrs. Scott's principal method and Mrs. Vrooman has taken up the study and applied it in particular ways.

Returning about three years ago from a prolonged stay abroad, Mr. Vrooman wrote his excellent book on railroad problems, a study which embraces the subject on both sides of the water. He then took up the subject of scientific agriculture and in this his wife has been a keen and interested assistant. They have taken over the supervision of nearly 6000 acres of land in that belt of wheat land in Illinois so often compared in fertility to the delta of the Nile. Mr. Vrooman has watched the evolution of scientific principles with tireless zeal and no man, who has come to the Department of Agriculture in recent years can render more useful and unique service. Mrs. Vrooman has been the constant co-worker with her husband throughout the seventeen years of their marriage and she has entered into his new work with characteristic enthusiasm. She is at present spending the late summer and early autumn at "The Wilds" near Charleroi on Lake Michigan, the handsome country home of Mrs. Scott. She will join her husband here early in October and will at once seek a suitable home. It is understood Mrs. Scott will pass at least part of the winter with her daughter.

Like her mother, Mrs. Vrooman, though publicly little known among club women and those affiliated with reforms, gives her time and energy and much of her income to private benevolences. She is constantly seeking out cases of privation and suffering and rendering aid in person. She has a long list of proteges, though she objects strongly to this term. They are friends whom she seeks to aid temporarily until happier days dawn for them, sometimes, a little seamstress to whom fate has been unkind, a hanr dresser, a little hunchback, who like Jenny Wren, makes dolls' outfits for a living. Mrs. Vrooman takes pride in the noble philanthropies of her mother, especially those which are so beneficial to a class which is particularly appealing, the mountain whites of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee. Mrs. Scott supports an entire school at Phelps, Ken., The Matthew T. Scott Memorial, which is a technical academy for mountain boys. She gives most generously to a girls' school close by where the daughters of these isolated mountaineers are taught practical household arts as well as book learning. Mrs. Vrooman has been frequently her mother's almoner, making trips to Kentucky and elsewhere and she learned to love and to aid the worthy cause on her own account.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vrooman add to the large literary contingent of official Washington. Besides being joint author of the "Lure and Lore of Travel" she has written a novel, a study of life here and in Paris, a strong story, which no doubt appeals to the social reformer. Mrs. Vrooman is attractive in appearance and is always well-gowned though never conspicuously so. She is a charming conversationalist and has mastered several continental tongues. She has a handsome income and generous impulses and she will be one of the important hostesses this coming winter.

Developing the Forearm.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] It is not difficult to rig up some sort of a pulley for home use and nothing is better exercise for developing the forearms. A simple exercise to improve the forearm is to clasp the hands behind the head and bend the elbows forward and back several times.

An excellent deep breathing exercise may also be enjoyed standing with the hands clasped behind the head. In this case the elbows should be thrown back as far as possible. Keep the lips closed and draw a deep breath, rising on the tip toes at the same time. Exhale the breath and descend on the heels again.

Repeat these exercises several times when standing near an open window in a loose negligee without corsets.

Forearms that are too fat can be benefited by frequent applications of a stiff brush and plenty of hot water and soap.

Piano Lessons Free For Times Readers

By New Method of Teaching

IF YOU WANT TO KNOW HOW TO PLAY THE PIANO, HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY TO LEARN BY THE SIMPLEST AND EASIEST METHOD KNOWN :: :: ::

Starting Sunday, Oct. 18, the Los Angeles Times will publish the first of a series of twelve music charts, perfected by W. Scott Grove, which will enable any one to learn how to play the piano or organ. The other charts will be published on succeeding Sundays for twelve weeks, each one accompanied by full directions.

Any One Can Learn by This Method

Two exercises are given in each of the twelve lessons. They are indicated in the customary note signs which are familiar to all of us, but Greek to those who have never studied music. In addition to this, the exercises as charted so that any one, with or without knowledge of music, can pick out the exercises on the piano. Each chart indicates the white keys and the black keys that you are to strike and how you are to strike them; in fact it plans the whole exercises for you as simple as a-b-c.

After following this course you should be able to play the piano or organ. Of course, you will not be an expert, but you will be able to play ordinary music for your friends who sing and you will have a good foundation for future study.

Women's Clubs.

can be justly proud of her distinction.

The Woman's City Club, one of the livest civic organizations in the State, has opened its third year's work. The club is zealously studying the amendments on which the people must vote in November. Many able speakers from all parties will lead discussions of these questons. On October 16 Lee Gates will speak to the club on the blue sky law and bonding act; Edward O. Edgerson will speak on constitutional amendments affecting public utilities. Among the speakers for the year are Rabbi S. Hecht, Mary Foy, Mrs. Herbert Cable, Judge G. W. Craig, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Judge Monroe and Mrs. Elizabeth Baker Bohan. The officers for the year are: Mrs. C. H. Spence, president; Mrs. W. E. King, first vice-president; Mrs. Harry E. Aylsworth, second vice-president; Mrs. Adelaide Tichenor, third vice-president; Mrs. John Meteer, recording secretary; Mrs. A. L. Bowman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mary G. Welles, federation secretary; Mrs. William Holtz, treasurer. The club is strictly nonpartisan in its character, and has announced through its president that it wants to hear statements of facts, not personal opinions, and that, as a club, it will not indorse either men or, measures. The Torrens land bill and the redlight abatement act are among the legislative measures which have been before the club for discussion this season.

The theme of the year's work of the Gaviota chapter, D.A.R., is colonial women. The year's work begins October 13 at the home of Mrs. Louise P. Frary.

Tropico.

Thursday, October 15, the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Tropico Thursday Afternoon Club will be held at Knights of Pythias Hall, on San Fernando road. This will be an open meeting and a large attendance is anticipated. The topic for the afternoon is, "Propositions to be Voted on November 3." The discussion will be led by Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of legislation. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. Charles Finley, Mrs. R. L. Fryer, Mrs. Wayland Brown, Mrs. E. V. Lawton, Mrs. A. J. Becker and Mrs. W. L. Anderson.

San Diego.

Mrs. Lillian Pray Palmer reports that the southern district now has all its county federated. She will attend the northern district convention at Pacific Grove late in October.

The county federation meeting, which was held at U. S. Grant Hotel October 8, was one of unusual interest. Amendments to the Constitution were discussed by Edgar Luce; immigration and housing by Mrs. Mary Gibson.

Mrs. Cora E. Carleton, president of the Public Welfare Commission, is a staunch Republican and suffrage worker. She was sent from Utah to the national Republican convention in Minneapolis in 1892 as a county delegate. The commission of which she is president is composed of club women, and has for its object the beautification of the city, better education, efficient care of garbage, sanitation, housing and immigration work.

Women at San Diego Fair.

This exhibition, which is intended to represent the achievements of the women of Southern California, is organized by the Woman's Auxiliary of the Southern California Panama Expositions Commission, and will be shown in the Southern California building in the exposition grounds.

The Woman's Auxiliary has undertaken to draft the regulations, receive and judge the works submitted for exhibition, oversee the placing of the same and assume control of the preparation of the exhibition as regards the works shown, by arrangement with and at the request of the commission. The auxiliary, in conjunction with the general manager, has been given complete authority in these matters, and assures fair and impartial consideration of all work submitted.

The district or section of California which the exhibition will cover includes the counties of Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and San Diego. A general invitation is extended to women resident in the above section to submit work in ceramics, bookbinding, fancy and miscellaneous articles.

The following general regulations will govern all entries:

(1.) Three entries will be received from each intending exhibitor and placed in the exhibition, if favorably passed upon by the auxiliary and the general manager.

(2.) Each entry must be the original work of the sender, or exhibitor, whose name will appear on the exhibit.

(3.) Works will be received in Los Angeles. Transportation charges must be paid by sender, in both directions, excepting that the return charges on accepted works will be paid by the commission. All exhibits will be at sender's risk, although all reasonable precautions will be taken to insure safety. Those not accepted will be immediately returned.

ITALIAN NEUTRALITY MISTAKE.

Lieut. Bellone Leaves Spezia in Submarine on his Own Hook but is Captured and Sent Home.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LEGHORN (Italy) Oct. 8, (via Paris.)—The cruise of the Italian-built submarine, which disappeared from the Gulf of Spezia some days ago and later turned up at Ajaccio, Corsica, has come to an end. The French authorities of Ajaccio, who took possession of the vessel, asked Paris what disposition they should make of her. Paris communicated with Rome. Italy sent a destroyer to get the submarine, and there is every reason to believe she is now on her way home under the escort of the convoy.

The submarine was under the command of Retired Naval Lieut. Bellone, who, leaving a letter in which he said Italian neutrality was a mistake and that it was the duty of Italians to work individually to bring about Italy's intervention in the present war. He said to his crew that he had been entrusted with a secret mission and that he was on his way to the Island of Corsica.

Miss Martha Bowers of Washington, who is to wed Robert Taft, son of former President Taft, in October, is said to have a $100,000 trousseau, all made in America. She has inherited millions from her father, the late Lloyd L. Bowers, and could spend as much money as she wished on her wardrobe.

in preserving the harmony of Europe."

Prof. Munsterberg says that anyone who reads the history of Germany and looks at the map of Europe may understand why the creation and maintenance of the Germanic war-machine were absolutely necessary to the safety and peace of the Teutonic states.

He further asserts that the Germans as a people, not the Emperor or any autocracy, knew the war was inevitable, prepared for it, and accepted it as a duty; that the Germans know they are fighting for their very existence, realize that they are opposed by almost invincible odds, and yet go forward with indomitable confidence to accept whatever verdict the god of history may record.

FICTION.

NEWSPAPER NOVEL.

THE CLARION. By Samuel Hopkins Adams. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

ONCE upon a time a banquet of newspaper men and magazine editors was being given. The topic upon which each was to speak was written out and distributed at the table. When it came time for a certain magazine editor to make a few remarks on the subject allotted to him, he arose, saying: "Gentlemen, I fancy there has been some mistake here—perhaps just a slip of the pen. The topic upon which I have been assigned to speak is, 'Does honesty pay in business.' Now, unquestionably, what was meant was, 'Would honesty pay in business?' "

In "The Clarion," Samuel Hopkins Adams gives us the story of a man who runs an honest newspaper—and he has some time of it. In the first place he is green in the newspaper "game," and in trying to be honest thinks it a disreputable compromise to be diplomatic. As a result he is impetuously foolish at times—much like the proverbial bull in the china shop—and we suspect, if the author had written according to judgment instead of according to desire, he would have recorded Mr. Harrington Surtaine's venture as a dismal failure—not because Surtaine is honest, but because he is conceited about his honesty.

As the son of Dr. Surtaine, he comes into a half-million dollars extended by his father as a sort of present. Dr. Surtaine is worth millions and made every dollar of it out of patent medicine and printers' ink. And young Surtaine spends a half of the gift in purchasing "The Clarion" to spite its editor, who has truthfully—but not honestly—called Dr. Surtaine a fakir and refused to apologize. The editor was hammering the doctor because he refused to advertise in "The Clarion."

So Hal bought it. In the rosy flush of innocent, twenty-five-year-old-youth conceives that there shall be one "honest" newspaper in Worthington. But just how very simple and unsophisticated he is may be judged from the fact that he never suspected his father of being dishonest when the old man, speaking of "Certina"—his favorite brand of patented medicine—and the pure food law, says: "I'm not even sure it didn't help. You see, now we can print 'Guaranteed under the U. S. Pure Food and Drug Act' on every bottle. In fact, we're required to . . . The public takes it to mean that the government officially guarantees everything we claim for it. It's a great card."

So Hal starts in to tell the truth about the same time he falls in love with Esme, a clever, lovable and fashionable young lady who has the predatory instinct in about the same degrees as Schopenhauer has credited it to all women.

Dr. Surtaine tries to give his son the comfortable formula that "nothing is news until it is printed," and as the paper's subscribers only want the news there's nothing difficult at all about favoring friends and advertisers by the courtesy of omissions.

But Hal spares no one. He "roasts" the daughter of the leading citizen for fast driving and writes an exceedingly youthful editorial on the matter, whereby he loses practically all of the paper's advertising. He goes after everything and everybody in the usual way that "honest" newspapers do in fiction and dishonest journals do elsewhere. He published the story of a typhus epidemic in Worthington which had broken out in the tenement district, and follows it up with pictures and stories of the owners of the tenements. It chanced that among the owners is Esme. He knows that more than likely she does not know the property is her own, since her affairs are managed by a trustee, but without enlightening himself, young Surtaine goes ahead, and in spite of the fact that her uncle had, the day before, saved "The Clarion" from being wrecked by dynamite. It is all very much like fiction and comes to a solution extravagantly idealistic.

Mr. Adams pays his respects to medical quacks as well as to dishonest newspapers. He knows the newspaper game, but he has somewhat overdrawn the corruptness of the dishonest papers as well as the difficulties of those that are honest.

MR. McCUTCHEON'S SURPRISE.

THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK. By George Barr McCutcheon. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

WE HAVE READ—well, the stenographic angel who's supposed to keep track of all such things may know the number of novels, but we don't. And to make one of those confessions that are alleged to be good for the souls to admit that Mr. McCutcheon gave us one of the biggest surprises ever met with in the popular novel. "The Prince of Graustark" is an O. Henry story stretched to the snapping point. Having read the book in a manner not feminine, we did not look ahead to see how it was "going to end." As a result, when it did end, we felt baffled, almost indignant, but after the first flush of amazement considered ourselves initiated. It is a joke novel, large, well written in truly McCutcheon style—but nevertheless a practical joke on the smug reader.

Billionaire Blithers, being a self-made man, conspires to loan 'steen millions of dollars to the kingdom of Graustark in the hope of having grandchildren who will play about the imperial throne. Prince Robin, son of Princess Yetive, the "heroine" of "Graustark," is in the United States endeavoring to raise money to meet the Russian loan with which Graustark is encumbered.

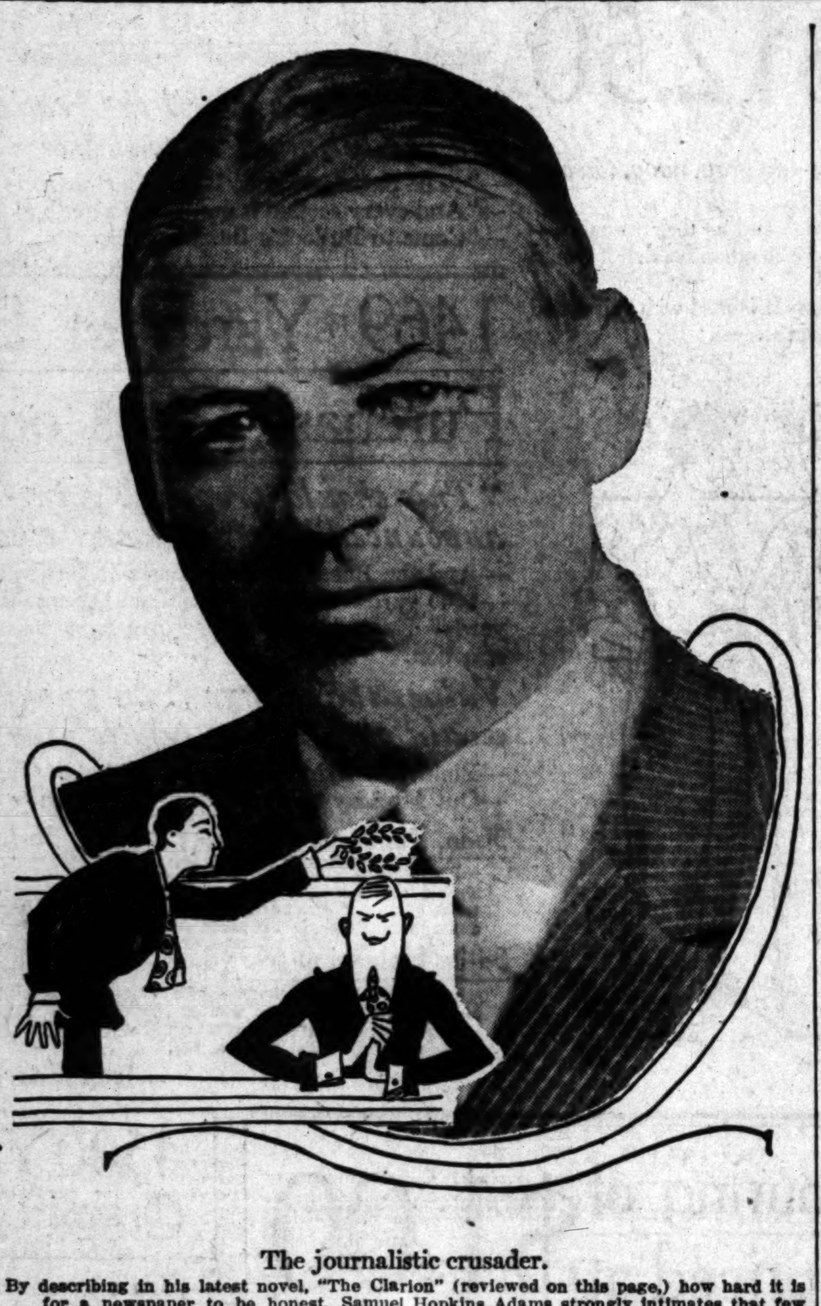
Truxton King, to whom Mr. McCutcheon once devoted a novel by that name, reappears as the host of Prince Robin. Blithers desires to be a host to royalty himself, and lays a luxurious plan to bring his daughter Maud and the Prince together, at a lavish dinner. But Maud, being a maiden of some initiative and determination, avoids the dinner by a trip to New York with a blond young man whom she's not supposed to love.

Blithers is determined that the Prince shall marry his daughter. The Prince is determined to marry for love. The Graustark statesmen insist, for political reasons, that he marry the Princess of Dawsbergen. Maud telegraphs her parents that she is sailing for Europe. The Prince is sailing about the same time, and Blithers conspires—with some success—to make them, unknown to each other, take passage on the same boat.

The Prince, under the name of R. Schmitz, meets a delightful young lady, obviously traveling under an assumed name. They more than flirt, and both are amazed to reach Paris and find it announced in the papers that Prince Robin is definitely engaged to Miss Maud Blithers. The Prince issues a flat denial, saying he has never met the lady. Miss Maud issues the same statement.

And after that the ending is not far away. Guess it.

It almost seems a shame that some enterprising geographer does not put "Graustark" on the map. Several years ago Mr. McCutcheon brought out his first novel—"Graustark"—and sold it outright for $500. Somewhere near a million copies have gone into the hands of the readers and he could not claim a penny in royalties. But his name was made as a writer of romantic fiction, and the Kingdom of Graustark has served well the author who discovered it.



The journalistic crusader.

By describing in his latest novel, "The Clarion" (reviewed on this page,) how hard it is for a newspaper to be honest, Samuel Hopkins Adams strongly intimates that few of them are, and places a halo over the hero who makes a success by losing advertisements. Also Mr. Adams devotes much satirical attention to medical quacks.

MARINE CORPS ROMANCE.

THE WALL BETWEEN. By Ralph D. Paine. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

THERE is a song in the Marine Corps which few officers ever heard and which contains the line "for Congress makes a gentleman where God has failed on man."

And Lieut. Burkett is made "an officer and a gentleman" without the trouble of going to Annapolis, because his father is a Congressman. It sometimes happens that way in the Marine Corps, for many of the officers come in from civilian life—but seldom are any as utterly incompetent as Burkett, and very, very few are cowardly.

It also happens that men of metal, character and education drop into the ranks, and usually climb up the non-commissioned scale, just as John Kendall does in "The Wall Between." The ordinary marine is not the social or mental equal of the officer—but Kendall is vastly the superior of Burkett.

And when Kendall meets the niece of the colonel, and neither knows the other is connected with the service, there is no particular reason to explain. And when, at a fashionable dance, Lieut. Burkett attempts—to use a marine phrase—"to tell Kendall where to head in," the lieutenant finds himself up against a man—a man though rated by military service as only a quartermaster sergeant.

Troubles develop fast. The girl remains loyal to Kendall while preserving the uncompromising dignity due her position in the colonel's house.

Burkett goes out of his way to annoy Kandall, as an officer may easily do. But the day of retribution comes—a little too poetic for realism, but nevertheless very pleasant to read of—when the expeditionary forces land in Nicaragua and the lieutenant proves himself a craven and a coward, and the sergeant wins a Medal of Honor for bravery.

Though there are fellows among the officers like Burkett, most of them are rather like Capt. Ramsay, the bulldog with a heart, who works his men, drills his men, feeds 'em and cusses 'em and loves 'em, and they are willing to fight for him and die for him.

"The Wall Between" is a well-told story, absolutely accurate as regards service regulations and traditions in the Marine Corps, sustains the interest and comes to a close with dramatics enough to satisfy the most thrill-loving fictionite.

MARRIED MEN AND SINGLE WOMEN.

THE WOMAN ALONE. By Mabel Herbert Urner. Hearst's International Library Company, New York.

MRS. URNER sings the sorrows of married life, and there is little that is blithesome in her songs—which, of course, are not songs at all, but direct, almost breathless prose.

As long as married men become enamoured, infatuated, find "affinities" among and love other women than their wives—as has been done, to our certain knowledge, since Abraham and probably before—there will be tragic and pitilessly realistic themes for novelists, poets, essayists and moralists of the pulpit and of the pen.

Graham Whitman respects his wife, but loves Margaret Warner. And she—self-sacrificing as women must be under the stress of such circumstances—conceives that his love alone will be sufficient for her throughout the years. But there grows the feeling that the man she loves should give her a home and protection, and she logically insists that such must be the culmination of their relation.

Mrs. Whitman, guiltless of any wrong to her husband other than that she is not pleasing and attractive in his sight, makes the inevitable discovery and believes the faithless promises of her husband to the effect that he will see no more of "the other woman," who, since she is a woman loving a married man, cannot be, in Mrs. Whitman's orthodox opinion, other than designing and wicked.

Across the plot falls the shadow of Katherine's pathetic tragedy—she also loved a man who was the husband of another woman.

"The Woman Alone" is a book with but one distinctive and superior quality. The style of the writing is too jerky, the chapters are bunched in a manner that is inartistic and crudely hastens the action, but the plot moves to a realistic solution that is no less tragic because it is bloodless. "The other woman" is more noble than the man—as is usually the case, though public opinion will not have it so—and the one really fine thing of the book is psychological penetration into the minds of the characters with which the story is brought to a close. It is forceful, it is almost as Zola might have written it—only that Zola was more violent than Mrs. Urner.

CHRONICLE OF A BROKEN HEART.

A MOTHER IN EXILE. ——————? Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

"A MOTHER IN EXILE" is a poignant book, tedious enough to be true—but not wholly tedious. The author has spared no pains to lay bare the suffering of a mother who was forced from her children and her husband by his insufferable cruelty.

She lets us know that as an Englishman, although he is really Scotch, he may strike his wife and go scathless under the law.

The letters are addressed to her daughter, and tell the story from the day of marriage until the end of the husband's life, when what may be called a sorrowful pleasure comes to the mother.

From first to last she is loyal to the man unworthy of her, and though another dies of love, offers him scarcely more than sympathy—much to her husband's disgust.

The writer acknowledges herself to be French, but the book is colored with zealous arguments of an English suffragette, and shows the injustice and bias of courts toward the woman who is a "minor at law" when in conflict with her husband.

Robbed of her children, the mother is not only compelled to endure their absence, but to know that they are being insidiously taught to hold her in contempt as a wicked woman. Time and again she makes a fight against the misfortune which encircles her, but is beaten back. She humiliates herself to the extent of offering forgiveness to her husband for his wanton cruelty, and finds herself rebuffed.

The book is absolutely devoid of sex scandal; it is without even the faintest flash of humor at any time to relieve its somber, depressing and impressive tragedy. Between the lines are the underscoring marks of truth, the intangible but distinct traces of sincerity, and it is a vivid, strong portrayal of the psychology behind the suffering of a woman who is helpless, but not weak.

POETRY.

MANY SONGS.

THE SISTER OF THE WIND. By Grace Fallow Norton. Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston.

THERE is nothing listless in the poems of Grace Fallow Norton; nor is there any high degree of craftsmanship, but a certain strength, impetuosity, and one may almost say restlessness sustains them throughout.

For beauty of expression this from "Mood" may be taken:

"Were it melted into music
Would a soul go pure of stain?
Voiced by viols should our weeping
Sound a silver strain?
Bodied in a flute's outflowing
Might a grief elude its pain,
Fault and flaw and scar and blemish
Healed in song again?"

This from "At Sunset" is vivid and highly poetic:

"The West is burning and our hearts catch fire!
Lo, with bowed heads, in awe before the pyre
Of all day's dreams, I dare my dreams unread.
Oh, august sacrifice! Driven to thy flame
Was it a thousand bulls of heaven that came,
When the white day by night's first shaft lay dead?
Or hath Heaven's Rose, at last—too late—unfurled
The petals of her passion o'er the world,
The purple and the amber and the red?"

The songs of "The World's Child," included in the volume, are more on the order of rhythmic editorials, with laudable intentions, than poetry from the same pen as that which wrote "Mystery" from which are these excellent lines:

"Once I had touched and all but clasped thy hand;
Once I believed it was thy lips I kissed;
Thy mouth was mirage and thy feet were sand!
Yet will I run beside thee all day long,
Cloak me at noontide in thy silver mist,
And weave thy web and sing all day thy song."

HISTORICAL

HISTORICAL SCANDAL.

PAULINE BONAPARTE AND HER LOVERS. By Hector Fleischmann. John Lane Company, New York.

MR. FLEISCHMANN denies that when Pauline was aged 14 she went swimming with another who was not a girl, having neglected to take a bathing suit for the occasion. And that is about the only defense of her reputation this scrupulous historian, who has searched infinite records, does make of the notorious sister of Napoleon.

Her lovers are too numerous to mention in a brief review. She was twice married, and came to her first marriage through a little incident that happened as follows: Gen. Bonaparte was working in his room at Milan. Leclerc was on the general's staff, and took advantage of a screen in the room to express his affection for the beautiful Pauline in rather too unceremonious a fashion. Gen. Bonaparte heard a noise, arose hastily to investigate. The marriage was celebrated without losing a minute.

Much to Pauline's regret, her inexorable brother compelled her to accompany her husband to Hayti, where he was instructed to put down the negro rebellion. Leclerc succeeded, but died of the fever. Pauline came back a sorrowful widow and allowed more than one young man to assist in consoling her.

For some time she played hob with the moral standard of even that lax period, and was finally more or less peremptorily shoved into the arms of a dummy husband, Prince Borghese. The marriage ties proved no inconvenience to her pleasure, and she played the game of love with skillful audacity.

Petulant, selfish, beautiful and unafraid, Pauline whirled from one affair to another. A sybarite to the heart, she reveled in luxury and kept suitors dancing attendance.

The fall of Napoleon found a different, an exceedingly different woman from the one who came out of Corsica with the poverty-stricken Bonaparte family years before and sought a daily pittance from the French government with which to buy bread. From the first to the last she was beautiful, fascinating, and in the hour of crisis developed an unsuspected courage—even offering to share Napoleon's exile.

Mr. Fleischmann may be a little too historical, too cautious of facts, and too lacking in the imaginative descriptions to suit the taste of most of those who are likely to be attracted by this book. But the information is present, and as a volume of historical scandal presents one hitherto unpublished "romance" in which Pauline had the dominating role.

THE TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

NAPOLEON THE GAOLER. By Edward Fraser. Brentano's, New York.

FOR the first time a book appears in the English language giving extensive information regarding the prisoners, and their subsequent treatment, which were taken by the French during the Napoleonic campaigns.

We are told that Napoleon was especially courteous to English prisoners for the rather logical reason that the English held more Frenchmen than Napoleon held Englishmen. The Austrians and the Russians and the Prussians suffered severe treatment. They were farmed out through France and compelled to cultivate the soil and harvest the crops for their conquerers, as well as to work on roads and bridges. When captured, their clothing and shoes were seized to be replaced by the worn garments of the French, and almost barefooted and in rags, these prisoners were marched hundreds of miles across the frontier into France to become slaves.

Another charge that Mr. Fraser brings against Napoleon is that after peace would be established between France and any country other than England, Napoleon would refuse to give up all of the prisoners he held. Also, when prisoners were released, every inducement was offered them to win their enlistment to the French Foreign Legion.

The treatment of the English prisoners was different, but severe. The privates were thrown into the dungeons of Bitche and Sedan. These dungeons were often filled with vermin, damp and unsupplied with straw.

The officers met with more consideration, and at Verdun, the officers' depot, were permitted to live as a sort of a colony, enjoying various clubs and considerable liberty.

A large part of "Napoleon the Goaler" is given over to a series of personal narratives of captivity by British officers, the chief of which is a manuscript recently discovered in Hampshire relating to the imprisonment and attempted escapes of Lieut. R. B. James. The manuscript, which was clearly written and bound in volume form, fell into the hands of a country bricklayer last spring and subsequently came into the possession of the author, Mr. Fraser.

The book is exceedingly interesting. Most of the narratives are personal accounts, and vividly describe the conditions, both physical and mental, of the prisoners, telling how they laid their plans for escape, failed or carried them out.

ANALYZING THE KAISER.

One of the most interesting chapters in Stanley Shaw's book, "William of Germany," which was issued less than a year ago, is the one entitled "The Emperor Today." It is from this chapter that the following paragraphs are taken:

"What strikes one most, perhaps, on looking back over the Emperor's life and time, are two surprising inconsistencies, one relating to the Emperor himself, the other to that part of his time with which he has been most closely identified.

"The first arises from the fact that a man so many-sided, so impulsive, so progressive, so modern—one might almost say so American—should have altered so little either in character or policy during a quarter of a century. This is due to what we have called his medieval nature. He is today the same Hohenzollern he was the day he mounted the throne, observing exactly the same attitude to the world abroad and to his folk at home, tenacious of exactly the same principles, enunciating exactly the same views in politics, religion, morals and art—in everything which concerns the foundations of social life. He still believes himself, as his speeches and conduct show, the selected instrument of heaven, and acts toward his people and addresses them accordingly. He still opposes all efforts at political change, as witness his attitude towards electoral reform, towards the Germanization of Prussian Poland, towards the Socialists, towards Liberalism in all its manifestations. He is still, as he was at the outset of his reign, the patron of classical art, classical drama and classical music. He is still the War Lord with the spirit of a bishop and a bishop with the spirit of the War Lord. He is still the model husband and father he always has been. Most men change one way or another as time goes on. With the Emperor time for five-and-twenty years appears to have stood still.

"The inconsistency relating to his time arises from the contrast between the real and the seeming character of the reign. For, strikingly and anomalously enough, while the Emperor has been steadily pursuing an economic policy, a policy of peace, his entire reign, as one turns over the pages of its history, seems to resound, during almost every hour, with martial shoutings, confused noises, the clatter of harness, the clash of swords, and the tramp of armies. From moment to moment it recalls those scenes from Shakespearean drama in which indeed no dead are actually seen upon the stage, but at intervals the air is filled with battle cries, 'with excursions and alarms,' with warriors brandishing their weapons, calling for horses, hacking at imaginary foes, and defying the world in arms.

"And yet in reality it has been a period of domestic peace throughout. Though there has been incessant talk of war, and at times war may have been near, it never came, unless the South West African and Boxer expeditions be so called. Commerce and trade have gone on increasing by leaps and bounds. The population has grown at the rate of nearly three-quarters of a million a year. Emperor William the First's social policy has been closely followed. The navy has been built, the army strengthened, the empire's finances reorganized; in whatever direction one looks one finds a record of solid and substantial and peaceful progress and prosperity. A great deal of it is owing, admittedly, to the Germans themselves, but no small share of it is due to the 'impulsive' Emperor's consistency of character and conduct."

INDIAN BLANKETS.

A. C. McClurg & Co. have just issued one of the finest—if not the finest and best illustrated—works on Indian blankets that we have seen. It gives the history of the blanket-wearing—as far is the history is known—explains the motifs of design, color and arrangement, and aids the collector to distinguish the respective values.

Among other things, the startling and welcome statement occurs that "Navaho blanket-weaving is not 'a lost art,' nor are the weavers a vanishing race . . . as good blankets are being woven today by the Navahos as were ever fashioned in their history, and the fact that there are over 30,000 of these Indians in 1914, where twenty years ago there were less than 20,000, is proof that they are not decreasing."

Prior to 1892 the "modern" Navaho blanket was unknown. It was then that the tribe began making blankets on a commercial scale, and there came a rapid deterioration of the art, and conditions became so deplorable that "out of mere instinct of self-preservation the Indian trader sprang into the breach he himself had made and refused to buy the inferior specimens of the loom, for, as no one would buy them, they remained as dead and unprofitable on his shelves.

"The result is that today as fine blankets are being woven as were ever produced."

The book was written by George Wharton James of Pasadena, and the full title is "Indian Blankets and Their Makers."

PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,

NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.

STUDIO PARLORS 621 S. BROADWAY, A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 30 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, investments, changes, talents, environments, about children, relatives; when and where to travel, what to seek or avoid; when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Schumann-Heink, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Senator Smoot, Baron Rothschild, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Sousa, Modjeska, Capt. Hobson, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Sembrich, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, etc.

EXPERT PALM READINGS. READINGS BY MAIL.

DR. J. A. LARSON writes: "Your reading was the most satisfactory I ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences, and I consider your work the most THOROUGH and RELIABLE of any reader in the United States."

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND reading has brought him a LARGE and SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention given. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years' experience can produce. HIGH CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

PERSONAL—

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

A TALK

To a Square Peg in a Round Hole.

How many times have you felt that were your occupation only different, more congenial and inspiring, and your opportunity of making good only more apparent, you could put so much more vim and energy into your efforts, and get so much more enjoyment out of your daily work? In short—that you were a square peg in a round hole—not giving out the best in you, nor receiving your full measure of what life has to offer. Perhaps you have made many changes in business during the past few years, and have become quite unsettled in casting around looking for a golden opportunity to make of yourself a permanent success. Perhaps you have been tied to one occupation for years, because you feared to break loose and take a chance. In either event, if you are a real man—a true man, at the bottom of your heart you have the overwhelming desire of every ambitious man—a desire for a permanent and lasting success. LISTEN: Perhaps I can help you to solve this problem that means so much to you. I have men with me today, and can point out many more, who a few months ago were in the same position that you find yourself today. At present they are earning from $[illegible] to $[illegible] per month. Ambition was their incentive, success their goal, and I their guide. MY MAN, if you have a little better than average appearance and personality, good manners, are capable of sticking strictly to the truth at all times, and will do exactly as you are told, I will patiently and thoroughly teach you the successful selling of real estate, and start you on the road to success, as I have these men whom I mention. Face this question squarely—Are you willing to be a plodder or a drifter for the rest of your life? Of course you are not. DON'T DELAY. TH[illegible] MATTER. Come up and let's talk it over, any morning after 9 a.m. Room 323 Los Angeles Investment Company Bldg.

CLAUDE S. HAMILTON,

General Sales Manager,
LOS ANGELES INVESTMENT COMPANY.

WANTED—

MALE HELP.

Live, energetic salesman, experience not necessary, but you must take our course of instructions which costs you nothing. We have one of the best selling propositions in Los Angeles. If you are at all ambitious to double your earnings see us at once. Come in and talk with

R. G. DAVIS,
Assistant Sales Manager,
HARRY H. CULVER COMPANY,
202 Hollingsworth Bldg.

WANTED—

SALESMEN!

If you could give a free pass to each one of your buyers to the San Diego or San Francisco Exposition, would it help?

If in addition to this you could get full commission with leads and assistance of every character, including transportation, lunch and literature, would you be able to make good money?

We have room for 50 more men—new offices. Splendid equipment, complete instructions and giltedge property.

Our salesmen are making money. Are you? Do you want to?

If so, call not later than 9 o'clock Monday morning and ask for Mr. Armstrong.

GUY M. RUSH COMPANY,
733-735 South Hill st.

WANTED—

THIRTY MEN.

Did you get that? I said MEN. Men who can lay claim to selling ability; men who can sell a business proposition to business men. In short, I do not want just plain flesh, nor cold feet of the "wish-bone" variety. You're going to work with men and you've got to be one to be with them. A fellow told me I could not find any red-blooded men in the whole city—men who actually want to work and make good. I maintain he's dead wrong. How about it? If you've the courage of your own convictions and can talk to a man like a man, I want you if you truly want to work. A very decent income the first month, and it must increase 15 per cent. each succeeding month. And it's not real estate, either. It's a man's calling for a man. Call Monday, all day. ROOM 522, Washington Bldg.

WANTED—LAND SALESMEN. ARE YOU LOOKING for farm lands to sell; where every owner in the tract is a booster; where you don't have to dodge kickers; where you can show the property and be back in LOS ANGELES the same day; where the water development and all other improvements are in, and you don't have to make promises; where you get all your commission the moment the sale is closed? If so, and you are a closer, and are willing to work hard, see me. I am looking for high grade men—men who know their business, and to whom I don't have to teach first principles. I can offer one of the very choicest territories close to Los Angeles—a territory where I can supply you with many high grade leads. Understand, this is not the tail-end of a tract, but one of the largest bodies of good land within 75 miles of the city. Agents also wanted in outside towns. Don't call unless you are a thorough farm land salesman in every sense of the word. JAMES R. H. WAGNER, 631 S. Spring st., 2nd floor Realty Board Bldg.

WANTED—BRIGHT, ACTIVE, INTELLIGENT YOUNG mechanic, or builder, with motorcycle, or small automobile, to make himself generally useful in repair and contracting department of leading realty firm; must be able to make repairs on plumbing, such as leaky hydrants, closet tanks, keys, etc., and minor repairs of nearly every kind, and be willing and anxious to assist in work in general; prefer a young married man who owns his own home; well acquainted with the city, and who has good reputation and references, and who wishes good steady place, with prospects of advancement in wages and position. Address, stating age, nationality, length of residence here; references, if any, and wages expected, to J, box 60, TIMES OFFICE.

WANTED — A LIVE, WIDE-AWAKE, SPANISH-SPEAKING INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE MAN. CALL BETWEEN 8 AND 10 A.M. SUNDAY. 831 MARSH-STRONG BLDG. ASK FOR MARTIN.

UNEASINESS IN VERA CRUZ.

[BY MEXICAN CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 10.—Fearing the consequences of the unrest caused in this city by persistent rumors that he intended to attack the town if the American forces did not leave by Monday, Gen. Candido Aguilar today caused a manifesto to be circulated in Vera Cruz, denying any such intention.

The manifesto also asserts that the Americans certainly will evacuate the city as soon as details connected with the transfer of power have been arranged.

So widespread was the uneasiness in the city today that the schools were closed early.

THE QUEEREST COINAGE.

The Manillas Used in Southwest Nigeria Resemble a Horseshoe and Weigh Eight Ounces Each.

[Wide World:] Among the strangest coins in the world are those used in certain out-of-the-way towns and villages in Southwest Nigeria, on the west coast of Africa, and called "manillas." In shape they resemble a horseshoe with the two extremities flattened out like a camel's foot. Being made of solid copper, three-eighths of an inch thick, they weigh over eight ounces each. In "face value" seven of these queer coins are equivalent to one quarter, so that a dollar's worth would be an uncomfortable, heavy load.

Not only are these "manillas" used among the natives, but white traders accept them as legal tender for goods sold at the various stores. At one time the strangely-shaped money had quite a circulation in certain parts of the coast, but its use is now restricted to a few bush towns and one or two of the smaller seaboard places, including Bonny, Brass and Akassa. "Manillas" are now very difficult to obtain, and curio collectors value them not solely by reason of their scarcity, but because of the novel serviette rings they make when silver plated.

Health and Efficiency.

[Chicago News:] The Norton Company of Worcester, Mass., has saved an average of 19.2 plus hours a month to each man through the work of its medical department. Consider this from the standpoint of the workman. Say he is paid 25 cents an hour. By allowing the company to keep him in a healthy physical condition and a more contented state of mind, he is enabled to work nearly an hour more each day; his earnings are increased $4.80 a month, or $57.60 a year. That isn't much, but not every man was let off with the loss of one hour a day.

Original.

THROWS VERBAL BOMBS AT MEN.

Walker Hill, Banker, Fearless with His Opinions.

St. Louis Financier Believes Business Should Fight.

Say Attacks Should be Met with Counter Blows:

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Oct. 8.—A dozen gaping men and women saw Theodore Roosevelt—he was then President—stand up in a carriage and excitedly talk and gesticulate right into the face of Walker Hill.

A local and distinguished passenger on the front seat said afterward that Mr. Hill had called Mr. Roosevelt an aristocratic Socialist. Thereupon Mr. Roosevelt bounded to his feet, stooped over and with a flourishing fist made answer to the charge.

Mr. Hill smiled and steadied the arm of the President to keep him from toppling over. Smiling is one of Mr. Hill's common practices. He smiles, mostly, because he is an optimist and believes in the United States of America and its inhabitants.

"And," Mr. Hill went on to say when Mr. Roosevelt sat down, "an aristocratic Socialist is the most dangerous kind of a Socialist in the world."

Oddly enough, the President was a guest at Mr. Hill's house and Mr. Hill was taking him to a function prepared in his honor by notable residents of St. Louis. The distinguished passenger on the front seat, in describing the event later, said that Roosevelt and Hill had been discussing public matters.

At that time, and it is also the case at present, Mr. Hill regarded Mr. Roosevelt as one of the greatest characters in American history, honest and unafraid and the best informed man in either the Democratic or Republican party.

"What you do," he had stated to Mr. Roosevelt, "is, perhaps a benefit and no menace to the nation, but some ambitious man in the future, elected to the Presidency and remembering and following your precedents, may suddenly proclaim a dictatorship over the republic. I would say, Mr. President, that you are an aristocratic Socialist."

Then the blow-up occurred in the carriage. It was during the same visit of Mr. Roosevelt to St. Louis, and at a dinner, that Mr. Hill told his story of the President's expedition to Mississippi for bears. The hunt was suggested and engineered by John A. McIlhenny, the Civil Service Commissioner and the rough rider, whose gallantry at San Juan Hill lifted him from the ranks into a second lieutenancy.

No bears were found and McIlhenny, much chagrined, set out on a visit to Mose, a colored person, who owned a famous pack of dogs. Mose, however, refused to lead the dogs, saying that no one ever hunted with them but himself and, besides, they couldn't understand the language of white men.

"But we must have them," McIlhenny persisted. "Mr. Roosevelt, remember, is President of the United States."

"Yas, that is what you said before," Mose indifferently replied. "Why," and he became emphatic, "I wouldn't let Booker Washington have them dogs."

President Taft was also a guest at Mr. Hill's house and Mr. Wilson will be, no doubt, if he ever goes to St. Louis, in which event there will be more arguments. Mr. Hill likes to talk with Presidents. "Twenty, thirty, forty years ago," he told Mr. Taft, "men died and left their wives and daughters Pennsylvania, New York Central and other gilt-edged stocks. 'Keep the stocks,' the men had said on their death-beds. 'They will always be good.'

"The advice was followed," Mr. Hill remarked to President Taft, "and now drastic legislation by the States separately and by the national government is making all railway securities speculative and depriving them of their investment value. Did you ever think, Mr. President, that the time may come when no man in this country, rich or poor, will know on going to bed at night, how much he will be worth the next morning?"

VERBAL BOMBS FOR MIGHTY.

It was a startling political and economic inquiry. Mr. Hill is in the habit of exploding verbal bombs over the heads of the mighty. "Mr. Taft," he said to me, "is a learned and lovable man and fifty years hence will take his place in history among the greatest of our Presidents, but I told him that he was a Hamilton Republican and believed in a strong central government, while I, through my father and my grandfather, was a Jefferson Democrat and believed in having as little government as possible. Our men in Washington forget that centralization will inevitably lead either to absolutism or socialization."

From boyhood up Mr. Hill has been a banker. Once he was president of the American Bankers' Association. He is president now of the Mechanics-American National Bank of St. Louis, which has deposits amounting to $36,000,000. He is likewise a director of the Federal Reserve Bank, which is soon to be established in this city. The cheer, courage and confidence of the west are to be heard and seen in his conversation and his face.

The people, he says, are rational and trustworthy. The future, he is sure, is safe with them. He lives in the region where things are being done and the air is charged with enthusiasm. The Socialist may cause some uneasiness in Paterson, N. J., but west of the Mississippi River he is unnoticed in the rush of business, being looked upon as an idealistic person or one who has found life to be a failure or fears, at least, that it will be a failure.

"The voters," Mr. Hill said to the writer, "have never as yet failed to do the sensible thing when serious matters were before the country. I am an optimist concerning the United States and its people. We are to grow greater and greater as a nation and wiser as individuals each year, materially and intellectually.

"The men of the country would not follow Mr. Bryan in 1896, nor in two subsequent campaigns, though the arguments then were peculiarly attractive to the ignorant and the unthinking. They will support no one who preaches dangerous doctrines. We shall never see government ownership and operation of the railroads. Letter postage would now be a penny if a private corporation were collecting, transporting and distributing the mails. The suggestion that every man in one way and another be an employee of the government is positively absurd and there is no possibility of its being accepted by the people."

Walker Hill,

The St. Louis banker, who explodes verbal bombs over the heads of the mighty.

"Would you say," I asked, "that too many demagogues are meddling with the business affairs of the country?"

"I would not use the word demagogue," Mr. Hill answered, "because it is offensive. Instead, I would say that the country is filled with men who are seriously or selfishly trying to improve matters, but that they don't know how to go about the task, being ignorant with respect to financial, industrial and commercial subjects.

"Should business men take a more active part in politics?"

"Oh, surely. They ought to turn out at the primaries and earnestly and energetically attempt to nominate reliable and sensible candidates for office. They should do this, I say, but they don't. I was a member of a committee of one hundred that tried to improve municipal conditions in St. Louis.

"We studied the nominees of both political parties, indorsing some and opposing others. The effort toward reform looked big. I placed the auditing department of our bank under the orders of the committee. We circularized the city and sent personal appeals to the voters. Great and good men were in the movement. Well, we didn't accomplish anything. I figured, after the results were made known, that we had probably influenced about 2000 of the 130,000 votes that were cast.

"You see, the attacks made in recent years on business and business men have gone, for the most part, unanswered. Furthermore, I would almost say that the public as yet, doesn't care to hear any answers. People prefer listening to the other side. They would take notice, however, if business men became aggressive, vigorous and interesting in meeting the accusations brought against them. Standing aloof in dignity and silence will gain neither the sympathy nor the applause of the public."

"Who began the war against the big interests of the country?"

"The large corporations themselves. They drove little men out of business by better methods and lower prices, and the little men raised a storm. The consumer was getting the benefit and didn't say a word. He remained disinterested, or at least, speechless, until he was made to believe that he was being robbed. If I were a smaller banker, I would fight big banks. But big banks and big factories are here to stay, because they are sound economically and fighting them will do no good."

"Does the banking business dehumanize a man?"

"On the contrary, it humanizes him. It could not be otherwise. Persons in spiritual sorrows and difficulties go to preachers. Persons with legal trouble consult lawyers. Sick persons call in their physicians. Persons financially entangled asked their bankers for assistance. If there is a panic in a city, the bankers, acting individually or together, do everything that is possible to save business men from ruin. The burdens and responsibilities on such an occasion are very great and are never understood except by those who have been pulled out of the water by the hair when going down for the third and last time.

"The panic of 1890, I am sure, hastened the death of George S. Coe, president of the American Exchange Bank of New York. He was one of the ablest financiers of his day. It wasn't his panic, but the panic of others, and he toiled night and day to keep the Sheriff and the receiver away from his customers' doors. Charles M. Fry, president of the Bank of New York, lost his life, I have always believed, by the strain of 1893. He died, I think, in saving his friends and patrons from bankruptcy.

"The character of the banking business, its intimate relations with large and important depositors and borrowers, makes the man behind the counter sympathetic and compels him whether he is naturally so or not, to be thoughtful and helpful. He comes to know human nature and to respect it. Manufacturers and merchants often appeal to him when faced by disaster. He is a witness then of their courage, and comes more fully to understand their character and is proud that he is a man among them.

"I recall the case of a merchant whose bank, in 1893, refused to carry him any longer. Those were desperate days, with stores empty of customers. The merchant was in great mental distress, but no braver man ever lived. It just happened that I was enabled to give him a useful suggestion. He rode out the storm, and today is worth $1,000,000. He had character and I knew it.

"Then J. Pierpont Morgan was right," I said, "in stating that character is a better asset than cash?"

"Yes, but he didn't fully explain what he meant and the newspapers were in error when they interpreted his language. Of course, no one without proper security or collateral can borrow money at safely managed banks. Manufacturers with products on hand, merchants with goods on their shelves and dealers with warehouse receipts in their pockets for wool, cotton or grain, have good collateral and can get accommodaitons at their banks, if they are known to be honest and capable.

"When Mr. Morgan said that he once let a man have $1,000,000 when he knew that the man wasn't worth anywhere near that amount, he meant that he gave the man $1,000,000 in securities to be sold to a customer on a promise that the check in payment for the securities would be delivered the same afternoon or early next morning. The man, you understand, was a broker. So was Mr. Morgan.

"By the definition we follow in the West, Mr. Morgan was not a banker. He was the greatest organizing and consolidating genius, however, the world has ever known and an honest man. No tainted dollars were in his possession when he died. The collapse of the New Haven road was neither an impeachment of his judgment nor his integrity.

"The vision of Mr. Morgan was true but the national government and the States stepped in and undertook to run all our transportation lines and things happened which no human being could foretell. Nor could Benjamin F. Yoakum know in advance that a revolution in Mexico would put his line to Brownsville out of business. He paid $11,000,000 for that property. Even the Railway Commissioners of Texas have said that it was worth $13,000,000. One St. Louis shoe factory had twelve traveling salesmen in Mexico. They were called home. 'If you want shoes,' the owners of the factory sent word to the merchants in Mexico, 'you must pay us gold in advance.' The unexpected occurred and Yoakum's plans were knocked into a cocked-hat.

"When men gather, as in Wall street, occasionally there will be mischief. A scoundrel was found among the twelve apostles and he sold the Savior for thirty pieces of silver. One to twelve was the ratio in that very select group of superior men. There is no such discouraging ratio among American bankers. We hear much evil as to Wall street. I have yet to buy my first share of stock in that celebrated thoroughfare. I do not speculate, but I am acquainted with Wall street. An insolvent man or firm cannot do business there.

"The word of one broker to another is good. I never heard of a broker repudiating the contracts made on the floor of the stock exchange by his representative, although the contracts were merely scribbled on pads of paper and were unsigned and being carried out, caused the broker's bankruptcy. Once in a while Wall street turns cannibalistic and speculators go to eating one another. While I commend all such performances, I will say that some of the critics of Wall street might go there and get needed lessons in truth-telling and fulfillment of bargains, no matter what disastrous results are likely to follow."

"Please say, if you mention the matter," Mr. Hill remarked during the course of the interview, while answering a question about his boyhood, "that my father, a Virginian, was a poor and well-educated man. Place emphasis on the word poor. The fathers and grandfathers of so many Southerners were rich, when we hear about them, that I would like it to be known that now and then there really was a Southern man who was poor and that he didn't count his slaves by the hundred because he didn't own any slaves to count.

"I became a messenger at the age of sixteen in the Planters' National Bank of Richmond. Wages $50 a month. John B. Davis, brother of Henry G. Davis, who ran for Vice-President on the Parker ticket in 1904, managed the bank. He taught me the banking business. No credit man I have ever known was his equal in common sense, perspicacity and a knowledge of human nature.

"'You let Smith have $5000,' I might say. 'He isn't worth $4000.'

"'Yes, he is,' Mr. Davis would reply. 'He is worth $11,675, and he made it in five years. In the meantime he has supported his own family and his father and mother, has put a brother through school and is giving his sister a musical education. He will be a big man one of these days and I am going to help him build up his business.'

"Then the next day Mr. Davis would refuse a loan of $10,000 to Brown. I would say: 'Why, he is worth $250,000.'

"'More than that,' Mr. Davis would answer. He has got $400,000, but his father left him a million six years ago. He will spend or lose all that is left before he cuts his eye teeth, if he ever cuts them at all.'"

"Before your eighteenth birthday," I said, "you were a teller in Mr. Davis's bank, and at the age of twenty-six you were the cashier of another Richmond bank. Your advancement was remarkably rapid."

"I guess banking ran in the family," Mr. Hill said with a smile. "My brother and my brother-in-law were also officers in Richmond banks. I might have remained in Virginia had I not married a lady who lived in St. Louis. It was understood when we became engaged that we should some time move to Missouri.

"I was doing well in Richmond and was reluctant to leave that city, but inside of two weeks I was glad I had emigrated. I became associated with strong men, and in a few years I was president of a bank myself."

COTTON HARVEST IN FULL SWING.

Many Indians Employed by Arizona Planters.

Heated Season is Broken up by Heavy Rainfalls.

Shriners Lay Corner-stone of New Auditorium.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 5.—The cotton harvest is in full swing, with a heavy yield of both Egyptian and short-staple, but with somewhat of a lack of pickers. Around Mesa are employed 500 Pima Indians, the red men showing remarkable aptitude for the work, producing better results than either imported southern laborers or Mexicans. Many more would be employed if they could be secured. It has been found that the matter of cotton picking would be seriously handicapped were the proposed "80 per cent." law passed at the coming election, for it would cut out the greater number of the Mexicans now working. Now the whole family works in the cotton field, collectively earning a large weekly wage.

According to H. B. Atha, the largest local grower, "the cotton industry is due to suffer a sudden death if the proposed law is placed upon the State statutes. I myself will leave the State if it does." The initiated measure, is backed by labor union influence and especially is directed against the mining camps wherein Mexican labor is employed. It permits employment of not over 20 per cent. of aliens. The quality of the crop is excellent this year, at Mesa four-fifths of that ginned being graded as "first." In an afternoon, by picking cotton, members of a Chandler Sunday-school raised $12, to be applied on the salary of their pastor.

GENERAL RAINS.

The heated season in Arizona rarely has been longer than it was this year, only now broken by general rains. For the year the accumulated temperature excess amounts to 435 deg. There have been no floods, the Roosevelt reservoir showing thus far a gain of only a few thousand acre feet, but from the northern cattle ranges comes a report that the fall round-ups have had to be abandoned on account of boggy grounds.

BEDROCK DEVELOPED.

Good bedrock in a hard conglomerate has been developed in a row of ten holes bored along the downstream side of the dam site on the Verde River, northeast of Phoenix, where the Salt River Valley Water Users' Association is starting on the erection of a dam that shall store the flood waters of the stream. The depth to bedrock varies between seventeen and forty feet.

In Phoenix is being held the annual convention of the Arizona Federation of Labor, with about forty delegates present from all parts of the State. Gov. Hunt delivered an address of welcome, in which he expressed his friendliness to organized labor, which he hoped would make fullest use of the initiative to secure relief from conditions that displease them.

CAFETERIA TROUBLE.

The Palace Cafeteria trouble still is unsettled, pickets being permitted to parade in front of the establishment in an effort to ruin the proprietor, who will not surrender to the union. The owner has appealed to the City Commission for redress and the Phoenix Trades Council has asked the same body to rescind an ordinance lately passed prohibiting the gathering of pickets around a place of business or the carrying of offensive banners. Marvin Smith, son of the owner, arrested for assaulting police officers at a time of riot in front of the restaurant, has been discharged, on showing that he did not recognize the officers as such, they being in plain clothes at the time.

Eugene Chafin, Prohibition candidate for Senator, has defied Senator Mark Smith and his oratory, asking for joint debate with the veteran legislator at five points within the State.

Gov. Hunt has become interested in the plan of Attorney Fred A. Larsen for the formation in Phoenix of a newsboys' club.

Regarded as furnishing refuge for outlaws, Mexican woodcutters' camps in the mountains are not to be permitted hereafter on any permanent basis. This decree of the sheriffs of Pinal and Gila counties has followed four murders that lately centered at a wood camp near Ray.

SHRINERS LAY CORNER-STONE.

Yesterday in Phoenix a couple of hundred pilgrim Shriners participated in a pre-dated laying of the corner-stone of the new Shrine Auditorium on North Center street. While the ceremony was with all Masonic rites, the real start of the great building will not be made for some time to come. But the ceremonial was considered good material by the moving picture people.

MINING CONGRESS.

Will L. Clark, chairman of the Entertainment Committee for the American mining congress, which meets in Phoenix December 7, already has listed automobile excursions to the great irrigation works of the Salt River Valley, a trip to the low-grade mines at Ray and to the Ray concentrator at Hayden, a banquet and a smoker. The Phoenix Women's Club will participate actively. About 1500 delegates are expected. After the sessions most of the attendants are expected to visit the principal mining camps of the State, especially Bisbee and Globe.

RIFLE MATCH.

At the divisional rifle match at Ft. Riley, Kan., the Arizona rifle team won the regimental match, against six other States, and the individual championship of the West went to Sergt. Jackson McCrea of Co. A, Phoenix, with a score of 202.

In Phoenix, January 12, next, under the auspices of the Woman's Club, will be presented an Arizona art exhibit. All artists living or working in Arizona are invited to send pictures. Assistance has been offered by the California Art Club, which will send a collection.

An Old Roman City.

[Indianapolis News:] Near Basel-Augst, in Switzerland, is the site of the old Roman colony of Augusta Raurica, with remains of a theater, and at the nearby town of Rheinfelden are walls and towers partly preserved, for this was one of the outposts of the holy Roman empire, notes a London paper. It has only belonged to Switzerland since 1802, and is picturesque, like the majority of the towns on the Rhine.

JAVANESE SET LATEST MODES.

Original of Hobble Skirt in East Indies.

Traveler Discovers Source of Fashion There.

Favors to Foreigners Make China Restive.

With Paris temporarily out of the race as a fashion-setter, modistes may find inspiration in the Far East,, whence, according to Dr. Ian Maclaren, a traveler and explorer, who is now in the city, has come the idea embodied in the hobble skirt and other more recent varieties of "standing-room-only" dresses.

"The original hobble skirt is found in Java," said Dr. Maclaren yesterday. "It is worn by both men and women in that country, and is known as the 'sarong.' It is made by taking a piece of cloth six feet long by three feet wide and draping it tightly around the lower part of the body. A similar costume is worn in other parts of the Far East, but in certain sections has lost its popularity. In Java, however, it will be retained as the national garment for many years."

Dr. Maclaren is a cousin of the Scotch writer whose pseudonnym was Ian Maclaren, and whose most famous novel was "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush." He has spent about seven years traveling in various parts of the world, and has circled the globe three times. The last two years of his travels have been spent in Java, Sumatra, Borneo and the immediate vicinity.

Dr. Maclaren intends to remain in Los Angeles for the present. He is accompanied by his wife, who was formerly Miss Emily Thomson, superintendent of nurses at Colon, Panama, and who received a gold medal for her services from President Taft.

Dr. Maclaren also traces a very early form of woman's suffrage to the Far East in Menanghakahaus, in the Padang Highlands of Sumatra.

"A form of suffrage has flourished in this section for about 1000 years, according to all best accounts," he said. "As a matter of fact, the woman is the dictator of the household in the matter of its economics. It all came about because the men squandered the resources of the home in gambling, etc.

"When a man marries he goes to live at his wife's house. There the women sit in council upon all matters of importance and dictate the affairs of the home.

"The moral code is very good, although the only restraint is the fear that some one else might know. Strange to say, there is no poverty in the country. One reason for this is that when a man becomes old, he goes back to the house from which he came. He is therefore always taken care of."

Besides his travels in the East Indies, Dr. Maclaren has spent a great deal of time in China, Japan, Hawaii and the Philippines. He contends that it would be very unwise for the United States to give the last-named islands independence.

"The natives are not ready to govern themselves, and will not be for several generations," he said. "Allowing them to govern themselves at this time would result in revolutionary upheavals throughout the islands. The United States should thoroughly educate them for several generations in order to fit them to govern themselves."

Dr. Maclaren believes also that another revolution in China is imminent. "The privileges which the younger party in the government is according to foreigners is not meeting with the approval of the Manchu, who, despite the fact that they have had the reins of government taken from their hands, are still in the majority."

WOMAN'S THREAT SECURES TICKET.

TALK OF QUARANTINE CAUSES STORE TO PAY; POLICE HUNT FAILS.

A woman obtained a free ticket to Chicago yesterday by a novel method of extortion. Early yesterday morning, she called one of the managers of a downtown department store to the telephone.

"I've got the smallpox," she said. "It doesn't show yet, but I have it. If I can get to Chicago I can get all the help I need, but if I stay here I shall have to go to the County Pest House. I want you to send me a ticket to Chicago, and if you don't I'm coming to your store, get sick there, and you will have to quarantine the whole place."

Then she detailed her plans to escape detection. She demanded that the store manager should give the envelope containing the money or ticket to a messenger, the first messenger to give it to a second, who would meet the first at Sixth and Olive streets, and the second would give the envelope to a third at Fifteenth and Vermont avenue.

The department store notified the police and then consented to the woman's demands. The envelope was turned over to a messenger boy, who called. The police followed him to Sixth and Olive streets, where a second messenger awaited. They followed the second boy to the Vermont meeting place. The police were in an automobile. The third messenger had a motorcycle. He dashed up Vermont avenue, turned cross-town, and circled back, came into town, dashed through a congested crossing and disappeared in the traffic, while the police motor car was delayed at the crossings.

CITY HELPS 'EM.

Mrs. Rebecca Northrup, 18 years old, her husband, D. E. Northrup, and cousin, Merrit Brown, arrested Friday night at Seventh and Alameda streets while waiting for a train to "beat" their way to Denver, were released from the City Jail yesterday. Policewoman Lillian Bowen took the trio to the offices of the Municipal Charities Commission, where they were assured of board and lodging until tomorrow, when an effort will be made to provide employment for them.

FOR RIVERSIDE COUNTY FAIR, the Salt Lake Route will sell tickets at reduced fares from all stations west of San Bernardino on October 12 to 17, return limit October 19; and for Colton Carnival, sell October 19 to 24, return limit October 26. Excellent train service in both directions.

Dr. Ian Maclaren,

In Javanese costume. He says we may have to go to the Far East for more dress inspiration because of the war enveloping European fashion centers.

HUGE SIEGE GUNS FEATURE OF WAR

GERMAN MORTARS MARK CLIMAX OF DEVELOPMENT.

Special Railroads are Necessary for Transportation of Monsters, While Heavy Masonry Foundations are Required to Withstand the Shock of Recoil.

The siege guns that have been brought into prominence recently in the war in Europe are a startling indication of modern progress. Some interesting facts in relation to these big guns, and something of the history of their introduction into modern warfare is told in a special article in the war issue of the Scientific American of October 3, by an ordnance expert as follows:

One of the most striking developments brought to light, or at least brought to public attention, by the present war, is the enormous size and power of the mobile artillery with which the contending armies, and particularly those of Germany, are equipped. The most formidable of these weapons, the one which has attracted most attention in the present war, is the enormous eleven-inch siege mortar.

The eleven-inch mortar was developed and constructed in large numbers at the famous ordnance works of Krupp at Essen. In respect of size, weight and destructive power this piece marks the climax of a rapid development of heavy ordnance capable of being transported with an army and quickly emplaced for the reduction of permanent fortifications, such as those which were reduced at Liege and Namur. Up to the time of the Russo-Japanese War, a distinction was made between heavy and light siege units. The latter were mounted upon wheeled carriages, and they were capable of being moved with an army on the march. The heavier siege units, say of from nine-inch to eleven-inch caliber, required special means for their transportation. The massive parts, such as the gun and its carriage, had to be conveyed by standard gauge railway or by ship to some place adjacent to the field of operations, whence it was customary to lay a light military railroad or devise other special means for transporting the batteries to the locations assigned to them. Before the mortars could be erected and placed in working order, it was necessary to provide heavy masonry foundations, of sufficient area and mass to withstand the heavy shock of recoil. It can readily be understood that this preliminary work entailed the loss of much valuable time.

This was the method employed by the Japanese in the reduction of Port Arthur. This enterprising people was the first to employ eleven-inch siege guns for the reduction of permanent fortifications. They dismantled a large number of their coast defense mortars in Japan; transported them by sea to the port of Dalny; laid a light military railroad from Dalny to the base at the hills encircling Port Arthur; built heavy concrete foundations; and erected upon them the mortars and their gun carriages. It was these siege pieces which assisted in the sinking of the Russian ships in Port Arthur, and contributed very largely to the reduction of the forts which crowned the hills around that city.

BUILDER SELLS HOUSE.

Howard G. O'Hara, a local builder, reports the sale of a new story-and-a-half house of the chalet type at No. 379 North Wilton place to Dr. Reginald S. Potter of this city. The consideration is given at $8600. The dwelling contains nine rooms and a sleeping porch. The first floor is finished in quarter-sawed oak and mahogany, the sleeping rooms being in white enamel. The purchaser will occupy the place as a home.

JAPANESE VOTE WAR BUDGET.

TWENTY-SEVEN MILLION PROVIDED TO FIGHT GERMANY.

Debate in Diet Makes it Plain Nipponese will not Overlook Any Opportunity to Increase Their Interests in South Seas or Any Other Part of the Pacific.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—A few members of the Seiyukai, or opposition party, opposed the government war programme during the special session of the Papanese Diet, but finally, in the interest of national harmony, withdrew all opposition and the war credit of about twenty-seven million dollars was voted. The opposition took the form of a remonstrance against Japan submitting to any form of limitation at the hands of Great Britain as to what she could or could not do in the war with Germany.

It was not in keeping with Japan's national pride, the speakers said, that Japan should be kept from the South Seas or any other part of the Pacific ocean where her interest as a nation at war might call her.

One member of the opposition wanted to know whether Japan had been consulted about the agreement made between Great Britain, France and Russia, without the consent of the others.

"No," said Baron Kato, "our government has in no way been consulted. The Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance provides for consultation only with regard to far eastern affairs."

The member persisted: "Belgium, which is engaged in the war, is also out of this agreement. Am I mistaken in thinking that Japan has been treated as being on a par with Belgium?"

The Foreign Minister replied that he did not think that such was the case. The member then concluded by expressing the wish that Japan would have a powerful voice when the time came for the conclusion of peace so that she might reap good fruits.

Subsequent to the adjournment of the diet, it was announced that Great Britain had informed Russia and France that the agreement as to future peace must not be regarded as modifying in any way the terms or obligations of the alliance with Japan.

At the meeting of the House of Peers Baron Den said that, while the war would strike a blow at trade, it would at the same time open a new market for Japanese goods. Japan might avail herself of the present opportunity by taking the place of Germany in trade with Russia.

Count Okuma, the Premier, in reply to a question, observed that the enthusiasm of the public was naturally less now than during the war with Russia, but the government was not neglecting measures for impressing the people.

The Minister of Education added that war news was being distributed to children in elementary schools in order to impress them with the gravity of events.

The Seiyukai party yielded in the end and the war programme was adopted unanimously. Their opposition is interpreted merely as a political measure to embarrass the present Cabinet and not as in any way indicating a lack of support by the people of Japan in the war against Germany.

On the other hand, the campaign against Germany met with popular favor everywhere because it pleases the Japanese to feel that they are cooperating with the powers of Europe.

Secrets.

SMALL FORTS ARE THE BEST.

Experts say They are the Hardest to Hit.

Great German Guns Fired by American Devices.

Awful Explosive in Teuton Shells is Mystery.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

ROTTERDAM, Sept. 19.—"In view of the great results achieved by the new German guns, a description of the modern fort may be of interest," says the military critic of the Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant. He writes:

"When it becomes necessary to fortify a city permanently, forts are built at intervals of from three to six kilometers. These forts are combinations of earthworks and such buildings and other structures as are needed. They are surrounded by deep moats with steep sides, on the far side of which barbed-wire entanglements are laid out. In modern forts all structural walls are made of concrete, this applying to the turrets and barracks alike. The number of guns in a fort depends upon the system of defense of which the fort is a unit.

"In case a fort is not supported by flank works and is, therefore, a unit in itself, the effort is made to place as many guns as possible, selecting both large and small caliber pieces. In this manner a fort may be made very strong. Another method is not to place so many pieces in the fort itself but to depend upon the support of artillery stationed in case of war on neighboring points of vantage.

"The first system becomes the central point of defensive force which may operate with the fort as support. According to the Belgian Gen. Brialmont (well known military engineer,) this method has the advantage of having all pieces constantly in readiness for action, and surprises are guarded against. But it has the drawback of becoming easily hte target of a concentrated fire of the enemy's heavy artillery. In case of bombardment, the enemy can make the turrets his goal, or he can make the entire fort his target—which usually becomes the practice. If one fais to hit one thing, one hits the other. For theoretical reasons (proved correct by the lessons of this war) there has long been held a prejudice against this system of fortification.

SMALL FORTS BEST.

"The second method seems decidedly better. Instead of having a few separate forts of great strength which the enemy can make the objective of the operations, one offers him a large number of small forts which in the first place are hard to locate, and upon which a large amount of ammunition must be expended. In this case the forts are supporting points of the infantry positions lying between them. Artillery of small caliber is used in this instance for the protection of the front and flanks.

"The new German fortifications near Metz and Strassburg are of this latter type, consisting of small works surrounded by the usual obstacles (such as redoubts, trenches, moats and barbed-wire entanglements.) These forts are grouped and form units, each of which has its armored batteries (long-range runs,) and also sunken batteries of high-trajectory mortars. The intervening infantry positions are supported by small caliber field pieces.

"These forts lie merely a few hundred meters apart, and are connected with subterranean passages, which lead also to the barracks beyond the range of artillery fire, making it possible to move troops into the positions without exposing them to the hostile artillery fire. In this case the arrangement is such that the enemy would have to take one small work after another, an operation which would cost many lives.

"The speedy reduction of the fortresses at Liege and Namur does not of necessity demonstrate that forts of theorder first named have entirely lost their value, but it is certain that the 42-centimeter pieces are "just the thing for them." But against small forts with permanent "tusschenlienlen" (intervening military works,) the fire from these guns, while terrible in effect, would not so quickly accomplish the results wanted. An additional factor in this is that the transportation of these heavy pieces is a difficult undertaking, which is also trueof the necessary ammunition supply. To move these along an extended line of small forts is a heavy task."

GERMANS FOOL FRENCH.

From other sources it has been learned that fortifications of the type favored by Gen. Brialmont would have served their purpose well had the Germans failed to provide themselves with the 42-centimeter pieces. It has been shown at Givet that the Austrian 35-centimeter mortar batteries, though smaller in caliber and of lesser force of penetration, suffice amply to reduce a unit fort in little time. Gen. Brialmont and the French military engineers, it is said, made the mistake of taking it for granted that the 21-centimeter gun of the Germans and their own armies, were the last word in armament, having accepted that the steel they were familiar with could not stand a greater chamber pressure. That a heavier piece would have given more penetration than they calculated in their plans, they are said to have known, but they accepted that it would be impossible to transport such giants. In view of the fact that even thirty-six horses have difficulty in moving one of the German 41's, this conclusion was reasonable enough, explained a Dutch artillery officer, but neither Gen. Brialmont nor the French engineers could foresee that motor traction would make such tremendous progress since the forts they built were planned.

That the Germans and Austrians have moved their 42's and 55's, respectively, by horses is a fact. But this seems to have been done in terrain where the roads permitted of no other course. Invariably they are moved by powerful traction engines, which, in addition to the piece itself, pull from three to four caissons. Recently a type of traction engine, known as "caterpillar," has been observed for use on bad roads and across plowed fields. In addition, both the German and Austrian heavy pieces are mounted on a carriage, the wheels of which are fitted with flanges for use on the railroads. Whether or not this latter device has been suggested by the war cannot be said, but a few days ago several heavy German batteries were taken in this manner over the Belgian railroads, the road tractor running on the rails also. Ordinary railroad cars trailing behind the caissons carried the personnel of the batteries.

GERMAN EXPLOSIVE A MYSTERY.

What sort of explosive the Germans use in the 42-centimeter shells is still a mystery. French officials of forts bombarded by the Germans maintain that the charge of the projectile is melinite, but others have expressed the opinion that the explosive is something entirely new and that the gasses formed by it have even greater expansion than those of nitroglycerin, the strongest high explosive known. There is no doubt that the vapors of the explosive have a violent toxic effect, and nothing but a strong application of oxygen will revive those succumbing to them.

The German 42 is made with two barrels—a long one for flat range fire, and a short one for high angle fire. In the former the ballistic charge is necessarily much stronger, and, with a projectile weighing from 1600 to 1800 pounds, the pressure exerted by the explosion upon the chamber walls cannot be less than 180 tons to the square inch, it is said. The high-angle mortar 42 requires a slightly smaller propelling charge. The long-barrelled gun is used against the faces offered by fortifications, while the mortar drops its shells from a high elevation into the fort or redoubt. Their sight ranges are said to be, respectively, eight and five kilometers, while, according to the Koelnische Zeitung, the flight of the shell exceeds twelve and ten kilomters. The flight of both shells is attended by a number of interesting aerial phenomena, which so far have been merely hinted at by German experts. One of them, however, is that the gases of the chamber explosion travel ahead of the projectile a long distance, but that in the end they are left behind the shell, first the one and then the other having the greater speed, an indication, it is seriously maintained, that the vacuum created by the gases tend to not only support the flight of the huge mass of steel charge, but that they actually accelerate it. At about 2000 meters the shell leaves the company of the gases. Odd as it must seem, the photographic experiments demonstrating this were made by a German ordnance expert during the bombardment of Namur. Such at least is the claim of the German press, which treats the results obtained very guardeely.

[illegible] AND COMMENT.

[illegible] Comment man has [illegible] to shine as a politician [illegible] himself up as being [illegible] to give authoritative in[illegible] advice on political ques[illegible] There is at least one of the [illegible] amendment measures that [illegible] the bewildered voter [illegible] upon his blanket-like bal[illegible] November 3, however, that, in [illegible] of the writer of this de[illegible] should not be overlooked [illegible] California voter. This [illegible] proposition provid[illegible] the expenditure by the State [illegible] of $1,250,000 for a build[illegible] Los Angeles to house the va[illegible] offices that are now rent[illegible] in office blocks in this [illegible] bears the number [illegible] far down in [illegible] amendments and pretty [illegible] the mumble-jumble of [illegible] measures. Because [illegible] building plan is of such [illegible] to Los Angeles and [illegible] California, it would be well [illegible] who realizes the [illegible] of amendment No. 38 to [illegible] of calling the attention [illegible] to it. Unless remind[illegible] voter in his little [illegible] is likely to drop [illegible] and his ten square [illegible] of ballot and flee [illegible] before his startled [illegible] their way to No. 38. [illegible] a cross opposite No. [illegible] should also stamp his [illegible] No. 35 and No. 36, pro[illegible] buildings in San [illegible] Sacramento, respective[illegible] the Southern California [illegible] bound by honor [illegible] of the northern cities hav[illegible] themselves to work for [illegible] of the Los Angeles meas[illegible] their own. There can [illegible] to the importance of [illegible] building in Los An[illegible] that the situa[illegible] Francisco is much the [illegible] State offices being [illegible] rented offices. [illegible] urge the neces[illegible] more room for the [illegible] departments at the capi[illegible] to be entirely just, [illegible] three measures [illegible] together.

[illegible] danger that the be[illegible] voters at being [illegible] staggering a col[illegible] as will appear [illegible] ballot will lead an [illegible] stamp "No" [illegible] to express their [illegible] political methods [illegible] side. It is be[illegible] apparent that only [illegible] appeal will serve [illegible] worthy meas[illegible] long list. [illegible] widespread satisfac[illegible] the pet meas[illegible] Governor of Cali[illegible] upon, but it [illegible] to see the scant [illegible] propositions defeat[illegible] they happened to [illegible] or in too much

[illegible] to erect a State [illegible] Los Angeles was put on [illegible] the eleventh hour, [illegible] efforts of the [illegible] Realty Board and other [illegible] seconded by a [illegible] from the County [illegible] Never was a petition [illegible] in shorter order. The [illegible] secured arrived in [illegible] time. San Fran[illegible] Sacramento had been more [illegible] The realization of the [illegible] plans for State build[illegible] to the absolute confusion that was sure to be created in the average voter's mind by the avalanche of other measures, appears to have come to all three cities at once. The result was a striking of hands and a triple alliance for mutual benefit.

The three building propositions appear on the ballot as absolutely separate measures and hence the arrangement is strictly a "gentlemen's agreement," but it is an agreement nevertheless. The committee that is now energetically setting about to complete and fulfill the good work started with the launching of the original initiative petition is earnestly urging Southland voters to support all three amendments.

Amendment No. 38, if carried, will insure the expenditure by the State of $1,250,000 for a site and building in this city. San Francisco, which has already reserved a site for a future State building in its splendid civic center, asks for $1,000,000 for a building. The requirements of the capital call for a bond issue of $3,000,000. Forty-year bonds are provided for in all three issues.

The State needs a building of its own in Los Angeles and Los Angeles needs a State building. This city, considering its size and importance, has been practically ignored in respect to general State appropriations. The State of California owes it to Los Angeles to be more than liberal in the future to make up for past neglect. Los Angeles for its part should have absolutely no hesitancy in asking for greater consideration from the State at large. It is high time some of the State funds were being distributed in this community, anyhow—Los Angeles "antes" enough.

Los Angeles is sadly lacking in public buildings of a size and architectural dignity compatible with the importance of the city. It has a civic center on paper, a dream place for the grouping of stately public edifices, but practically no buildings with which to adorn it. Here is a chance to secure one such building that is actually needed not only by Los Angeles itself, but by the State of California, and which would be paid for by the people of the State as a whole.

Los Angeles has long put off the erection of a vitally-needed city hall and has felt too poor to even seriously consider the erection of a central library, a great municipal auditorium or many other of the kind of public buildings boasted by so many progressive American cities. The State of California will build a magnificent public structure in this city for the asking, or rather for that authorization that it lies within the power of the voting population of Southern California to give. Surely no one, who has the best interests of Los Angeles at heart can remain indifferent in the face of such forceful arguments as these.

CHAUTAUQUA CORPORATION.

Organized for Permanent Attraction and Option Secured on Mt. Washington Property.

The Los Angeles Chautauqua Corporation has been organized for the purpose of establishing a permanent Chautauqua in this city. The officers are: John H. Francis, president: L. E. Behymer, vice-president; Bishop Bell, general secretary; R. P. Foote, secretary; J. A. Foote, business manager; W. D. Larrabee, executive engineer; James C. Penn, treasurer. Offices have been opened at 705 Temple Auditorium building.

An option has been taken on about 1000 acres of land on Mt. Washington and the whole public is invited to co-operate in its development. Inasmuch as it will be impossible to provide the buildings for the present season, arrangements have been made with the managers of Trinity Auditorium and a series of ten entertainments will be given, beginning November 9 and closing April 19. A full week of Chautauqua entertainments will be given in January, both afternoon and evening. The officers are anxious to consult with all interested people.

Modern Fireproof Banking and Office Block for Shore City.

Up-to-date.

MODERN BLOCK FOR LONG BEACH

FINE IMPROVEMENT TO RISE IN SHORE CITY.

Structure will be Five Stories High and of Fireproof Construction. Building Planned by Los Angeles Architects—Work to be Begun at Once.

Work is to be started at once upon a fireproof banking and office block of the most modern type, projected by Mrs. L. Hauerwass of this city, for the northwest corner of Pine avenue and Broadway in Long Beach. The project is noteworthy as marking the progressive trend attendant upon the rapid growth of population in the shore place.

Plans for the new beach building were drawn by John P. Krempel and W. F. Erkes of Los Angeles, and the letting of the contract to the C. J. Kubach Company of this city was reported in The Times last week. The improvement will represent an investment of approximately $130,000, including the handsome fixtures to be installed by the Marine Commercial and Savings Bank of Long Beach, which has leased a space fifty feet square at the corner of the building, taking in the ground floor and basement.

The structure will be five stories high and will be of the most up-to-date steel frame construction. The street fronts will be faced with pressed brick and trimmed with terra cotta. The building will have a frontage of 150 feet on Pine avenue by 50 feet on Broadway.

On the first floor, in addition to the banking quarters, will be four stores, all of which have been leased. On the four upper stories will be eighty offices, two entire floors being especially arranged for doctors and dentists. The main entrance on Pine avenue will be protected by an iron marquise.

The lobby will be in marble andtile. The woodwork of the offices and corridors will be of mahogany. All store fronts are to be finished in ornamental iron. High-speed elevator service is to be installed.

The building is replacing a two-story brick structure erected sixteen years ago from plans prepared by the same architectural firm that has designed the new and more modern improvement. The site has been in the same hands all the time. The ground has already been cleared for the new building and it is expected that excavations will be started this week.

FOR TERM OF YEARS.

The sixth floor of the Lanco building, No. 738 South Los Angeles street, has been leased to Michaelson & Director, manufacturers of cloaks, suits and skirts, who were formerly located at No. 347 South Spring street. The lease is for a long term of years and was negotiated by the W. Ross Campbell Company, represented by W. E. Bridwell. The Los Angeles Notion Company is the lessor.

INVESTOR BUYS FIGUEROA SITE.

PAYS OVER FIFTY THOUSAND FOR INSIDE LOT BETWEEN SIXTH AND SEVENTH.

Edwin J. Bowes, Jr., of the Bowes Realty Company reports the sales for Mrs. Lucinda Foy of a fifty-foot lot on Figueroa street, facing west, and having a depth of 155 feet back to Lebanon place, and situated 219 feet north of Seventh street. The consideration is given at $52,000.

The purchaser, P. S. Brown, represented by T. F. Burke, assumed an incumbrance amounting to $40,000, of which he has paid off $15,000 to the Security Trust and Savings Bank, leaving $25,000 still upon the holding. In addition, he gave fifty feet on Central avenue near Pico street, valued at $12,000. He expects to improve the property within a short time with a substantial building.

Mrs. Foy is also the owner of the northwest corner of Seventh and Figueroa streets and it is rumored that this location is soon to be the site of an unusually fine improvement.

TRADES FOR LAND.

Los Angeles Builder Exchanges Apartment-house on Bonnie Brae Street for Montebello Acreage.

An exchange deal of the past week involving nearly $100,000, and in which the Starling apartments at No. 1420 Bonnie Brae street was exchanged for sixty acres of land near Montebello, is reported by Greenlee & Keefer, managers of the exchange department of Robert Marsh & Co.

George W. Scott, vice-president of the Montebello Bank, becomes the owner of the apartment-house, while G. F. Borton, a Los Angeles builder, acquires the acreage, which is partially improved. The apartment-house is a three-story brick structure and is stated to have been valued in the trade at $60,000. The value of the acreage is given at $30,000. The difference was adjusted by mortgage.

SEEK LOWER RENTALS.

Association of Lessees Seeking More Satisfactory Arrangements with Owners of Hotels and Apartments.

Declaring that apartment-house conditions here have been unsatisfactory for more than a year, the Los Angeles Apartment-house and Hotel Association, a new organization in this city, has opened offices in the Investment building. John W. Sharpe is president and Grace M. Terry, secretary, of the association.

Los Angeles, say those in the organization, has not attracted its usual quota of tourists during the present year, a great number remaining away that they may prolong their visit during "fair" year. At the same time, numerous apartment buildings have been going up in the city. As a result, many apartment-houses have only been partly occupied for months.

In view of the situation said to exist, the Apartment-house and Hotel Association has taken up the proposition of securing lower rentals from owners generally. Another matter taken up has been the abolition of the seasonal rates. Los Angeles, it is pointed out, is an "all-the-year-round" resort for visitors and for that reason a double scale of prices is held to be unwarranted. The one rate is looked upon as more equitable to both landlord and tenant and, it is believed, would prove a boon to winter visitors. The association is also working to have straight rates prevail throughout 1915, as an expression of the hospitality of the city.

FOR WILTON HEIGHTS.

Harry J. Coger of the Buick agency has had plans prepared for a home to be erected on the west side of Wilton place, between Temple street and Elmwood avenue, on a lot recently purchased from the McCarthy Company in its Wilton Heights tract. The plans for the house show plaster exterior for the lower story, clapboard for the second story, and broad cement porches. The living-room will be in mahogany and the dining-room in oak. The cost of the place is given at $5200.

House at No. 427 South Alexandria.

Attractive place purchased by Maria A. de Woodworth from Charles C. and S. J. Chapman through C. M. C. Raymond of the Briggs Company.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern five-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charge for our Architectural services if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

CONTRACTORS—
And Builders.

ARE YOU GOING TO BUILD NOW,
OR WAIT FOR PRICES TO GO UP?

Do you know there are hundreds of new people coming daily? They will want to buy or rent, have you a place to sell or rent? If not, get busy on that vacant lot of yours.

Or let us fix that old house up, so as you can get a better income out of it.

We do all kinds of alterations and repairs.

WE BUILD ANYWHERE.

A few of our prices:

$575 builds 3 rooms and bath, plastered, all built-in effects. A nice little home.

$625 builds 4 rooms and bath, plastered, everything up to date.

$735 builds 5 rooms and bath, plastered, painted and stained complete, front and rear porches. One of these you can rent the year around.

$875 builds 6 rooms and bath, plastered, three bedrooms, or could have two bedrooms and a breakfast or sleeping room.

$3200 will build you 4 three-room flats strictly modern and up to date, nothing like it in the city at this price.

$1800 will build you a large, high-class six or seven-room house, with everything your heart could wish included. If you contemplate building a nice home, you had better let us show you these. We have two just being finished.

And then we have others at most any price you want to pay, or if you have your own plans bring them in and get our prices, if you don't we both lose.

No matter where you live or want to build, come to us, we can always save you money.

If we build for you we will refund any car fare you may pay out in coming to see us.

Now don't pass this up, but come in this week and get that building started before prices advance any more.

REMEMBER A DOLLAR SAVED IS A DOLLAR EARNED.

FOR SALE—
City Lots and Lands.

I HAVE A BEAUTIFUL LOT IN W. 38TH ST., next to the corner of Wilton place, and I am going to sell it now. I believe it to be the best bargain in the southwest at $825 and I believe if you see it you will say the same thing. It has gas, water, phones, electricity and the best of street work in and paid for. The car service is exceptionally good, as you will see when you come to investigate this offer. The soil is good and the view fine. The neighborhood is exceptional, there has never been a shack or an undesirable building in this section. Surrounding streets are built almost solid with the best type of bungalow homes and vacant lots near sell for as high as $1200. I will not trade, but you can make your own terms. I want you to see this lot today and make me an offer. Take a W. 38th-University car going north on Spring st., get off at Western ave., walk two short blocks north to 38th place and Western, I will be there all day Sunday to show you and to answer satisfactorily any questions you may ask. City Lots and Lands.

FOR SALE—I HAVE A BEAUTIFUL LOT IN WEST 38th Place next to the corner of Wilton Place and I am going to sell it today. I believe it to be the best bargain in the southwest at $825, and I believe if you see it you will say the same thing. It has gas, water, phones, electricity and the best of street work in and paid for. The car service is exceptionally good, as you will see when you come to investigate this offer. The soil is good and the view fine. The neighborhood is exceptional—there has never been a shack or an undesirable building in this section. Surrounding streets are built almost solid with the best type of bungalow homes, and vacant lots near sell for as high as $1200. I will not trade, but you can make your own terms. I want you to see this lot today and make me an offer. Take a West 39th University car going south on Spring street and get off at Western avenue. Walk two short blocks north to 38th Place and Western. I will be there all day Sunday to show you and to answer satisfactorily any question you may ask. If you want the best lot in Los Angeles for $825 on easy terms, see me Sunday. PERCY B. WALLS, with Hawthorne Investment Co., 406 Central Bldg., corner Sixth and Main sts. JOHN P. HOLLAND COMPANY, F3562. 342-43 Title Insurance Bldg. Bdwy. 690.

FOR SALE — 3200 ACRES, $75 PER ACRE. THIS is the finest level tract for subdivision in Madera county, eight miles from Madera, adjoining the famous Fairmead Colony and just south Chowchilla Colony. Soil very finest known in valley; silt or sandy loam. Between S. P. and Santa Fe. Any section within 1¼ miles from railroad town. Two towns on each side of tract. Fine for fruit, grapes, alfalfa, etc. Water supply is simply phenomenal. Wells 25 to 50 feet in depth supply large pumping plants. Procured at very small cost; no waiting your turn for water like in some of the colonies. This is a bona fide proposition, and the price is extremely low. Can make suitable arrangements with syndicate or reliable party who will develop this fine tract for subdivision. Will guarantee this proposition to be meritorious in every respect. You must furnish A-1 references; we do the same. For full particulars will call on you, or address W. A. KENNEDY, 57½ OZONE AVE., Ocean Park, Cal., box 66.

FOR SALE—
2000 acres of first-class level land in San Joaquin Valley, 2 shares of water to each acre. Close to railroad and town. Price $100,000, one-third cash, secured by first mortgage, 6 per cent., will arrange annual payment or straight mortgage with release clause. I am not scared, going East, or sick or broke. I am getting old and prefer to sell as I want to relieve myself of obligations. Therefore don't waste time trying to trade. I will arrange terms to suit and will consider any reasonable proposition regarding terms. Address D, box 470, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

FOR SALE—
I think I own the best tract of acreage in Southern California for subdivision. On car line, boulevard and two county roads, two subdivisions adjoining. If a good reputable selling company with an organization behind it that can produce results wants to buy it, I might consider a very small payment plan. Address PF, box 251, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

FOR SALE—$200,000, 1-3 CASH, BETWEEN RIALto and Fontana, two sections, 1284 acres, is crossed by one mile each of Santa Fe Railway, Pacific Electric Railway and State Highway. ASK THE MAN
Who Wants to Sell You
"AN ACRE FOR A LITTLE FARM"
TEN QUESTIONS.

(1.) Is your land fertile, deep, mellow, ready to work every day in the year? Does it ever get "slick," sticky, clodded or caked?

(2.) Is your land high and dry? Did storm waters run over it LAST WINTER?

(3.) What is your actual rate for an ACRE FOOT of water for irrigation? Never mind about "inches" or "minimums" or "all you want." FIND OUT what irrigation water costs.

(4.) How much water is available for ALL your land? How large are your wells? What is the "lift?" What is the capacity of your pumps? How large are the mains? How large is your reservoir, if any?

(5.) Do you recommend a man keeping a cow on one acre? If not, why? Are soil and other conditions PROVEN THE BEST for Belgian Hares, chickens and other live stock?

(6.) Has ALFALFA been raised on this land? How much water does it take (acre feet?) How much does it cost?

(7.) Can you PROVE that these acres are DIRECTLY in the PATH of an ORGANIZED, large, important development, which should before long give them a much increased value for subdivision?

(8.) Can you show LOCAL MARKET within WALKING DISTANCE of any acre, likely to take all these acres will produce?

(9.) What's the chance for a man to GET A JOB, in walking distance, who lives on one of these acres?

(10.) On terms of payment you propose how long will it take a man to PAY OUT?. What will be the total cost of his acre, principal and interest?

Every one of these ten questions is VITAL and IMPORTANT. Ask these of any man selling acreage in Los Angeles' metropolitan district. MAKE HIM ANSWER, without dodging or evading, then come and ask them of us about

FOR SALE—
Country Property.

FOR SALE—
A BEAUTIFUL HOME
A PRODUCTIVE ACRE
A PROFITABLE BUSINESS
All for $4100.
Easy terms.

A Civil War veteran owns an acre of land, with an established Belgian hare business, which he has put into our hands to sell.

The location is quarter of a mile from Pacific Electric station, 30 minutes from the center of Los Angeles, close to school, churches, stores and all conveniences. Less than one block from a paved boulevard. Provided with electric lights, gas and an abundance of very pure, cool, clear water at lowest rates.

The "plant" has been carefully built up and represents the fruit of years of careful experience and "know how."

IT IS PAYING ACTUAL AVERAGE NET PROFITS ABOVE $100 PER MONTH.

The reason for selling is simply that the owner has grown old. He has priced the place at exactly inventory value—the value of the land, plus a comfortable house, plus nearly 100 fruit trees, grapevines, shrubs, etc. plus a scientifically correct "rabbitry," several hundred breeding does, bucks, young stock, etc.

THROWN IN—is this, that the owner will turn over to the buyer his established and developed markets and will show the buyer the methods which have brought him a complete success.

The price is $4100—$2000 cash, terms on balance; no trades considered; no offers considered for any lower price. This is a real opportunity for a man or for a woman.

FOR SALE—

GOOD IRRIGATED LAND, WELL LOCATED IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.
$250 AN ACRE.

We believe there is no other large tract of level land, with good water rights, in Southern California, close to railroad, suitable for oranges, apricots, peaches, olives, etc., which can be bought within $100 an acre as cheaply as this. Those who buy promptly get superior advantages in location.

The price of the land includes dependable water rights, water delivered in concrete mains, ample in quantity, pure in quality, and at a moderate cost.

Buy where you will be in a large, compact, prosperous community, close to railroads, near the Pacific Electric line, near the Foothill blvd., near to and surrounded by prosperous, growing productive communities. Living is pleasanter in localities like this, and values increase more rapidly.

Arrangements can be made to have the land planted in any sort of citrus and deciduous fruits—oranges, olives, peaches, apricots, etc.; for purchasers, and at moderate cost.

The terms of payment bridge over the "hard times." Only one-fifth now, NOTHING MORE FOR TWO YEARS; but interest at 6 per cent. There will never be a better time for you to get your land and get your trees growing than NOW.

WE INVITE COMPARISON OF OUR

NORTH WHITTIER HEIGHTS

ORANGE, LEMON AND WALNUT LAND SUBDIVISION

WITH ANY PROPERTY OR DISTRICT OF ALL CALIFORNIA.

We are confident that a personal investigation and inspection of this high-class property will convince you that it is both an ideal investment and a desirable location for a foothill suburban home.

We are selling this property in unplanted tracts of 5 to 50 acres or in tracts of 5, 10, 15 and 20 acres planted to Eureka lemons, Valencia oranges, Marsh seedless grapefruit and grafted soft-shell walnuts and on exceptionally easy terms if desired. We will also contract to plant or care for groves for those who desire to have us do so.

Successful citrus orchardists of the surrounding districts are investing in this property, which is an assurance that it has the conditions necessary for success.

If you are in the market for a property of this kind, we shall be pleased to take you out by automobile to see North Whittier Heights any day in the week. Call or write for descriptive folder containing map of Southern California.

FOR SALE—
Dairy, fully equipped; consisting of 52 milk cows, one thoroughbred registered Holstein bull, 26 heifers, with calf, about 40 calves, 400 acres of strictly first-class alfalfa land; 40 acres in alfalfa, producing 10 tons per acre per year; 40 acres leveled, checked, ditched and connected with reservoir; 80 acres having about half the work of leveling completed, with well and pump pit completed, well, pump and reservoir, now in operation, sufficient for 80 acres; water can be obtained anywhere on ranch at depth of 80 to 100 feet, and it stands within 20 feet of surface; water, climate and soil conditions as near perfect for growing alfalfa as can be found in California.

Full equipment of farming and leveling machinery, 10 horses and mules; new 10-room house, bungalow style, with bath and modern conveniences; large dairy barn, milk house, tankhouse, with 3000 gallon tank; gasoline engine, chicken-house, toolhouse, bunkhouses; two windmills, to furnish stock water; land all fenced and cross-fenced into many fields; numerous other features to make a thoroughly equipped ranch; conditions absolutely perfect for successful dairying enterprise. Alfalfa can be produced here at a lower cost per ton than in any other section of the State. Refrigerated express car to Los Angeles every evening; express rate on cream 54 cents per hundred pounds. Pixley, the railroad station, is 8½ miles distant. Conditions have recently developed which make it necessary for my partner to dispose of his interest. This interest consists of one-half the stock, land and all equipment, and can be sold for $22,500. It will take $10,000 to handle deal, $5000 is to be paid on purchase, and $5000 in nature of a loan to be used in purchase of dairy stock and improvement of land. Balance of purchase price on very easy terms. Address J. J. ADAMS, Pixley, Cal.

DO YOU KNOW A BARGAIN
WHEN YOU SEE IT?

If you do you'll buy this

ALFALFA RANCH

on sight.

I own it, I have no time to run it and I can't make it pay unless I can give it personal attention; therefore I am ready to sell it for less than two-thirds of its value.

A farmer who knows anything about alfalfa, hogs and irrigation can make this ranch pay big profits. I want to sell it to such a man. The ranch is completely outfitted with animals, tools, etc., a good little house and a fine new pumping plant with more water than the place requires.

If you want a real bargain, write me for price and terms. I will make very easy terms. Ready to show you the place myself any day.

Address owner, LC, box 460, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

FOR SALE—STOCKMEN, ATTENTION—
A well improved stock ranch of 4320 acres of all choice farming land, with plenty of water and close to good markets, on main line of Santa Fe Railroad. Good house, hay barns, stock sheds, fences, corrals, etc. Over 200 acres in fine growing crops at present, balance all in heavy set Grama grass. Alfalfa and other feed cheap and close at hand. This ranch controls through its water, several thousand acres of choice grazing land in a natural grazing country that cannot be surpassed. Very little feed being necessary as stock can graze on pasture the entire year. This is not ordinary desert grazing land, but is every acre good farm land, with well improved farms and growing crops on all sides. Owner has refused $45,000 for this ranch when money conditions were normal and it is worth every dollar of it. Circumstances make the price for quick sale $25,000, or just about one-half actual cash value. Can give terms on this, but no trades considered. We court close investigation and bank appraisals on this property. See me at once.

40-ACRE TRACT.
I have 40 acres of land in Tulare county that I can guarantee to be perfect from corner to corner. Level as a floor, no hardpan or alkali. Soil is loose, sandy loam. Pure, soft water for irrigation can be found any place on the tract at a very shallow depth. This 40 is surrounded by improved ranches on all sides and is only fo[illegible] from one town and five from another. Price of this ideal tract of land is only $125 per acre, on terms of one-fourth cash, balance in three years. Might consider a small property if clear as part payment. If interested, see WILSON, 504 Story Bldg., corner Sixth and Broadway.

FOR SALE—
Five acres, 9 miles from the city, $275 an acre. Good, light, sandy loam soil, fine vegetable and deciduous fruit land. Crops on adjoining land are absolute proof of what this soil will produce. Irrigating water piped in steel mains. Special easy terms. A small cash payment, and 8 years to make the balance. I will take you out in my machine. See me at once. G. S. REYNOLDS, 611 S. Hill St., Home 10345.

FOR EXCHANGE— 2700-ACRE RANCH.
MR. FARMER, MR. INVESTOR, TAKE NOTICE!
In the Paso Robles district on two main county roads. The fifth crop of alfalfa growing without irrigation, and a deep fertile soil that will make any farmer or soil expert "sit up and take notice." You can't beat it anywhere. Is an excellent combination hog, alfalfa, grain, fruit and stock ranch, or a fine almond and fruit subdivision. Can grow any crop without irrigation. Peas on one ranch in this district averaged $75 per acre this year. Good buildings, abundance of water, unsurpassed climate. Price $40 acre. Will take A-1 exchanges to $60,000, balance long term, 6 per cent. This is a bargain and you won't be able to duplicate it at double the price in 12 months. REMEMBER, there is not one misrepresentation in this ad and we will make our word good in every detail if you will investigate. SAN LUIS OBISPO LAND COMPANY, 606 South Spring. 61603; Main 4540. Regular excursions. Ranches all sizes.

RYAN'S LIST OF BARGAINS—
The Theater Salesman of Southern California.
Suite 417-18 L. A. Investment Bldg.,
Eighth and Broadway.

Picture Theater
Buyers
If you are in the market for a house on Broadway,
Spring or Main st.
Suburban House,
Large or Small,
Beaches
Or any town in Southern California.
Here Are Some Snaps.
CITY HOUSE, DOWNTOWN.

$2800—Picture theater, fully equipped, has eight years' lease. I can figure up $6500 actual cash value on this house. Under good management in 1915 this house will clear over all expenses $1000 per month. This is worth investigating.

$2000 buys 600 opera chairs, two pianos, Edison S. machine, stage equipment, house completely furnished, making money, and will net you $1000 per month in 1915.

HAVE A HOUSE ON BROADWAY.
If You Are Looking For a Big Deal.
SUBURBAN HOUSE.

Make me an offer on this house, owner must go East. 400 opera chairs, Powers 6 machine, piano, drapes, runners, etc. Everything new, four years' lease, running; doing a good business, but must sell at once. This house will pay $60 a week if properly managed.

$7500—Some terms, buys picture theater, fully equipped, 750 opera chairs, new building and equipment, opened two years. 8 years more lease. Cheap rent. Making $500 per month; good reason for selling. Will take same exchange.

$1800—Fully equipped house, 400 opera chairs, 3 years' lease, doing a good business, some terms, good management. Will make $40 week.

$500 cash, balance easy; a little beauty, fully furnished, no opposition. Just the place for man and wife.

Picture Theater Equipped for Vaudeville.

$1200—Cash, here is not alone a good buy, but a great sacrifice. New building, new equipment, 700 leather upholstered opera chairs, new piano, Powers 6A, mercury ark, heavy velvet drapes, cork and carpet runners, screen, advertising and picture curtains, flags. Everything new and elegant. No opposition, big territory to draw from. Three-year lease at $100 month. If you can beat this I pass.

I Have the Bargains.
See RYAN, 417-18 Los Investment Bldg.
PICTURE AND VAUDEVILLE HOUSE.

Here is a house, never been opened, 800 opera chairs; without any question the finest house in the State of California and built in the most thickly settled part of this city; no opposition. This is worth looking up if you mean business and got the money.

$1750—Balance easy, buys a house, 650 opera chairs, fully equipped, no opposition, netting now $50, can be doubled by good management.

$5000—$3000 cash, buys the best house ever offered for the money. It is making money and getting better every week. Has 600 opera chairs, new equipment and building; no opposition. Elegant class of people to handle.

$2500 buys pretty little house, 325 opera chairs. This house is making money. Man and wife can make $40 to $50 per week.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA HOUSES.

$6000 cash buys picture theater, absolutely guaranteed to net $200 per week over all running expenses, no humbug. You can check it any way you want. This is located in the best town and is the best buy in Southern California.

$4250—Picture theater in suburban town. I will guarantee this house to net $100 per week over all running expenses. You can check it any way you want to. This is a pick up.

$2500—House, only theater in the town. I will guarantee this house to net you $60 per week over all running expenses.

$300—Pasadena house, man and wife can net $30 per week. It is doing a good business, no opposition and a beauty.

And other bargains too numerous to mention. See me, I have every house in Southern California listed that is for sale. I know the houses and what they are doing.

As far as my guarantee is concerned
It is exactly as I represent.
I guarantee to protect the buyers,
So my guarantee must be good,
For large or small houses,
City, Country or Beach.

FOR SALE—RESTAURANT MEN AND BAKERS, prick up yer ears!—here's a "solar-plexus-humdinger," B'Gosh!!

Charter members of the "Ancient Order of Pikers and Lookers" keep off the grass!

Just a bit of historical fact: I've been in this line of business 15 years—fifteen, yes, sir!—worked purty faithful, so I have; kept sober; been satisfactorily prosperous, and I'm thinkin' that I deserve a little time off!!—and Pard, that's the VERY REASON WHY!!

This place has been established now over two years; it has enjoyed a good reputation and a prosperous business; just ask anybody who knows! This is a most exceptional location for this very line; the rent is $500 per month (much cheaper than adjacent locations;) we have 26 months more on present lease; but I figger that some line will pay rent here after that and it may as well be this business, so "ISHKOBIBBLES!"

I'll make the sale price in keeping with present and past profits; I'll even show you 100 per cent. per year, based on actual past results, for your investment! I'll take about $4000 cash to get in and I'll take chances with you for the balance! —How's that!!

You've got all the essential facts right before you. DON'T come in and bother me with a lot of fool and irrelevant questions.

If you will notice, this is a true Bull's Eye, characteristic of the Man Behind the Gun. Look me up in Dunn's or Brad's, and when you happen in to talk it over, bring your certified rating with you and show me how YOU stack alongside!! Usual courtesies to responsible brokers.

Revolutionary.

AIR BATTLES, MODERN WAR.

A Military Development Out of Theatrical Stage.

Each Nation Has Devices Peculiar to Itself.

Dirigibles and Aeroplanes to Supplement Infantry.

Most spectacular of new developments in warfare is the advent of the airship and the aeroplane on an imposing scale, says John S. Gregory in the World's Work. Military authorities of all Europe appear to have become convinced of the value of these new fighting machines. At least, France, Germany and Russia, and more recently, England, have displayed an energy amounting to frenzy in the development of these machines. With a current appropriation of $32,500,000 for the purpose, Germany set out to offset England's naval supremacy by building a great fleet of dirigibles. At first the British War Department professed to scoff at Germany's purpose, but after contemplating the possibility of a fleet of airships flying across the North Sea a comprehensive programme for building air craft was undertaken in haste.

Millions have been lavished on experiments with air craft, aviators have been drilled by hundreds, every contingency in war that could be foreseen has been tested at the annual army maneuvers of the great nations. The result has been the development of two widely different types of flying machines, each of which has its own peculiar sphere of usefulness.

Germany pins her faith to the dirigible, "the dreadnaught of the air," of which two principal types have been developed, the Zeppelin and the Schuette-Lanz. These monsters are from 400 to 500 feet long, have a speed of fifty to seventy miles an hour, a cruising radius of 1200 to 3000 miles, and a carrying capacity of from eight to ten tons. They are armored against rifle and machine-gun bullets, carry small guns, wireless telegraph, and a crew of twenty to thirty men.

From the German point of view these craft are battleships of great destructive power, for they can release half a ton of explosives at once, and in experiments they have completely shot to pieces the silhouette of a village from an altitude of 6000 feet. Another, flying at an altitude of 3000 feet, got the range of a canvas target representing a boat on Lake Constance at the third shot, and then scored nearly 100 per cent. of hits. These big ships have a platform on top of the gas bag on which a machine gun is mounted as a protection against aeroplanes.

Against these bulky and somewhat clumsy dirigibles France has developed the "Zeppelin hunter," an aeroplane, armored against machine-gun and rifle bullets, carrying two or three men besides the pilot and a couple of machine guns. The French regard an encounter between an aeroplane and a dirigible as a climbing contest. The strategy of the aeroplane is to get above his big and awkward antagonist just as a kingbird gets above a hawk, and from this superior height to drop explosives upon the big fellow. The dirigible, on the other hand, depends upon its superior armament and the far greater steadiness of its gun platform to protect it from the aeroplane.

These widely different types of air craft are expected to play two distinct roles: the dirigible is a fighting machine to be directed against troops in the field, and more especially against the works of the enemy, trains, bridges, magazines, etc., and to protect its own lines from incursions by hostile aeroplanes on scouting expeditions. The chief value of the aeroplane is in reconnaissance. Its superior speed is expected to enable it to elude dirigibles. Only in an incidental way is it expected to assume the offensive, with its machine gun or by dropping bombs.

An exception to this is the giant Sikorsky aeroplane, a Russian machine capable of carrying seventeen men. With its great bulk and comparatively slow speed this recently-invented type must necessarily be a fighting machine rather than an aerial scout.

Notwithstanding the frequency of tragedies in the air the aeroplane also has been developed into a fairly trustworthy machine. Col. Seeley surprised the British House of Commons last April by informing it that there were only six days in the preceding year on which there had been no flights by British army aviators, and that there had not been a single fatal accident or the breakage of any main part of a machine while in the air.

In France, where the aeroplane is considered more valuable than the dirigible, the aviation corps has been organized with the Escadrille as the unit. The personnel and material of the Escadrille is designed with the object of keeping six machines in the field. Its transport consists of three automobiles for the crews, two motorcycles, six motor trucks with "prolonges," an extra pair of trailing wheels, on which the aeroplanes, folded, are hauled, and two work shops on motor trucks. One of these aviation camps was struck, packed, and ready to move in less than an hour at the 1913 maneuvers.

OBSERVATION IN MIDAIR.

The aeroplane scout must fly high and swiftly to avoid hostile bullets. At an altitude of 3000 feet, at which he is fairly safe, he has a range of vision of four to five miles. Troops on the march can be seen and their number estimated by the road space occupied. Artillery in action is easily distinguishable, as are cavalry and transport of all kinds on the move. Massed infantry in the open is fairly distinct, though khaki-clad men in open order or moving over stubble or plowed fields are difficult to distinguish, and they are not always readily seen on grass. The flying scout can readily obtain an idea of trenches, outposts and methods of occupation of bridges and fords. Field works, if their color and outlines do not blend with the landscape, can be seen at a distance of five miles, though they are not readily distinguishable. It is difficult for the aviator to tell "dummy" trenches from real ones.

French aerial scouting is superb. The commanding general can count on having any specified region examined. The art of observation from midair has been reduced to a system as exactly regulated as that of cavalry reconnaissance. British aviators have also distinguished themselves by their success in aerial scouting.

Yet there is another side to the story, for aviators are as far from perfection as their fellow mortals are in other ways. At the 1913 maneuvers a French general and his staff were surprised and captured despite the utmost vigilance of his aerial scouts. A British "Blue" division of 12,000 men with horses stole a march of sixteen miles on the "Red" division while the aerial scouts of the latter were hunting for it. The men skulked along under hedgerows and other cover, while guns and transport wagons were hidden under straw so that they might be mistaken for farmers' wagons. Whenever a "Red" aeroplane came into view a whistle from the "Blue" lookout warned every man to crouch in his tracks, or under the nearest cover. Aerial scouts have been repeatedly deceived in German maneuvers.

Atlhough the Germans claim to have dropped bombs from an altitude of 5000 feet on a target fifteen feet in diameter, extravagant claims regarding the effectiveness of aerial bombs must be accepted with reservations. In a lecture before the Brooklyn Aeronautical Association, Hudson Maxim, who must be conceded to be an authority on explosives, said that explosives so powerful and destructive when employed in aerial bombs as to fulfill expectations and predictions of the scaremongers could not be made. The destructive power of torpedoes and shells is enormous under favorable conditions, but never so great as the average man supposes after a short course in blood-curdling aerial fiction. Experiments with dropped live shells and explosives showed that although they might land within a remarkably short distance of the target it was just that distance that made all the difference in the resulting damage, for the effects of high explosives are very local. Furthermore, the momentum of a heavy object falling from a great height is so great that it is buried in the ground and the force of the explosion is thus neutralized.

Judging from analogy with artillery practice against towns, aerial bombs are not worth the time, energy, ammunition, and risk of life involved. In the Boer War, Ladysmith withstood the battering of 20,000 or more shells with practically no damage. Similar results were observed at Pretoria. Lyddite shells dug caves and made breaches in the walls of a fort at Omdurman, but did little real damage.

Experiments in defense against hostile aeroplanes and airships have been quite as elaborate as those in offensive operations. It has been found, for instance, that at 3000 feet an aeroplane is a hard thing to hit, though experience in actual warfare has shown that an aeroplane affords a pretty good target.

AEROPLANES VS. SUBMARINES.

A curious development in aerial navigation has been the pitting of the airship against the submarine. In fairly clear and smooth water submarines and even submarine mines can be readily seen from the lofty outlook of an airship or aeroplane. As the submarine moves slowly when under water a battleship guarded by aerial scouts might be able to maneuver out of the way. It has also been proposed to use the airship as a mine destroyer by dropping bombs near enough to the mines to explode them, the ships following close enough in the wake of the aerial pilot to avoid other mines outside the cleared zone.

the others. It may, of course, be presumed that the majority of the stockholders of the Canadian Pacific are in Canada or in Europe. The number of foreign stockholders of United States Steel is loosely estimated at something over 10 per cent. of the total list. It is probably a safe assumption that of the purely American companies United States Steel and Pennsylvania have so far the largest percentage of foreign stockholders. This is, however, an assumption and is not proved by actual statistics. To the extent that foreign holdings complicate the situation, it becomes more and more difficult to guess the actual state of mind of this army of stockholders, but competent critics have estimated that even in the case of the foreign holdings only a small percentage of the holders are anxious to sell at present prices, or anywhere near those prices.

WHEAT PRICES ON UP-GRADE.

HOSTILE REPORT FROM TURKEY AND PORTUGAL FELT.

December Delivery is Especially in Demand by Export Houses in Chicago and Duluth—Falling Off in Canadian Receipts Makes Buyers Anxious.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Foreign buying ascribed to uneasiness over reports that hostilities promised at any moment to include Portugal and Turkey, sent wheat prices today upgrade. The close was firm at ⅝ to ⅞c net advance. Corn finished at the same as last night to ¼c down, oats ⅛c off, and provisions with 2½ to 22½c gain. December delivery of wheat seemed to be especially in demand by export houses both here and at Duluth. Besides, St. Louis had inquiries from European government officials asking terms on a round amount to be shipped by way of the Gulf. In addition to the war developments, the big falling off in Canadian receipts was said to be making buyers in the English trade anxious. Winnipeg arrivals dropped to 470 cars, as against 1219 cars on the corresponding day a year ago. The stock at Minneapolis, too, was shown to be much reduced, the total standing 2,200,000 bushels under last year's figures. Today's advance in wheat prices carried the market to the highest level of the week.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Formal sanction by the Federal Reserve Board of the plan for a $150,000,000 cotton loan fund to be raised by private interests, is practically assured as a result of a conference today between the board and St. Louis bankers who originated the project.

TO SELL ROCK ISLAND.

Chance to Buy a Railroad Cheap at Public Auction in New York Will Soon be Given.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad is to be sold at public auction at the County Courthouse here at a date to be determined soon. The last legal detail preliminary to advertising the property was settled today when Judge Mayer of the United States District Court signed the decree of foreclosure and sale.

Default in payment of interest on 4 per cent. gold bonds resulted in foreclosure proceedings by the Central Trust Company, trustee of the bondholders. The amount of such bonds and the interest due thereon is $74,098,000.

NEW FRAME FLATS.

Construction is to be begun this week upon a two-story frame flat building for Mrs. Gladys D. Vogel at No. 807 South Berendo street. H. J. Knauer drew the plans. F. L. Froley has had plans drawn for a flat he will erect at No. 3168 West San Marino street. A. G. Cain will start a flat on Vernon avenue, between Main and Moneta, within the next few days. C. B. Kingsley has had plans drawn by Rex. D. Weston for a flat to be built at Sixth avenue and Sixteenth street, and will start construction at once. The contract has been let for a flat projected by Mrs. N. J. Halversen at Marion street and Kensington road.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation on September 30 totalled 3,787,667 tons, a decrease of 425,465 tons from August.

CANINES CAUSE CHARGES GALORE.

HUNTINGTON PARK MAN ASKS ARREST OF FORTY-ONE NEIGHBORS.

Warrants charging forty-one men and women of Huntington Park with disturbing the peace were issued by Deputy District Attorney Richardson yesterday. R. J. O'Hanlin, foreman of the Pacific Chair and Manufacturing Company, is the complaining witness in each case.

According to Mr. O'Hanlin the forty-one citizens accused him of poisoning dogs and attempted to run him out of town.

During the past few weeks a dozen dogs of high and low pedigrees have been sent to the happy hunting-grounds via the poison route. The owners of the dead dogs accuse Mr. O'Hanlin. He admits that six months ago he told several of his neighbors to tie up their dogs, but denies that he poisoned the canines.

The matter will be threshed out Tuesday before Justice Cassidy. The warrants were issued for John Robinson and forty John and Jane Does.

COMMERCIAL.

A sudden advance of 5 cents in the price of local ranch eggs proved the feature yesterday on the produce market. The upward movement was entirely unexpected, in view of the strained condition as a result of several advances in San Francisco, where there was a 1½-cent rise yesterday. This caused a similar advance in northern eggs here. Ranch eggs are very scarce, and the local consumption is largely supplied by the eastern product. Receipts lately of local eggs here have only amounted to a few hundred cases, and in the north the fresh supply is, if anything, even less, comparatively speaking.

There was no change in the butter market here. California cheese advanced ½ cent in San Francisco, which resulted in a somewhat firmer feeling locally.

The fresh fruit market continued about the same. Dried fruits are coming in, and prices in one or two instances are slightly easier.

Reported receipts were: Eggs, 122 cases; butter, 239,290 pounds; cheese, 7740 pounds; potatoes, 1890 sacks; sweets, 131 sacks; apples, 9333 boxes; grapes, 4327 boxes; peaches, 337 boxes; tomatoes, 3778 boxes.

SOLD FOR CASH.

Reported Consideration of Twenty-five Thousand Dollars Paid for House in Chapman Park.

An important realty transfer of the past week was the sale by Charles C. and S. J. Chapman to Maria A. de Woodworth of a fine twelve-room house at No. 427 South Alexandria avenue. The deal was handled by C. M. C. Raymond, manager of the house and lot department of the Briggs Company. The consideration is announced at $25,000 cash.

The house has a white cement plaster exterior. It is finished in hardwoods, the walls being hand-decorated on canvas. The lot is one of the sightliest in the Chapman Park tract and is 70x155 feet in size. The grounds are highly improved.

TO SALT LAKE MAN.

The John P. Holland Company reports the sale to J. H. R. Franklin of a two-story residence at No. 1343 Fifth avenue. The reported price is $12,000. Mr. Franklin is a business man of Salt Lake City, who has decided to make Los Angeles his permanent home.

FRAIL LOOKING BAPTISTS ARE OUTCLASSED.

Trojans Have Little Trouble with Redlands—Kelly Scores on Second Play—Baptists Outweighed and Outclassed, but Make Losing Fight. Trojans Rounding into Team.

BY HOWARD W. ANGUS.

The crimson jerseys of U.S.C. swept up and down Bovard Field yesterday afternoon through the frail, limp gray of Redlands to a 41-to-0 victory.

Redlands was outweighed, outplayed and outclassed. The Baptists' offense would strike the Trojan line, only to break and scatter like broken glass. Their quarter either had a mania for bucking or their end runs never got started. Every time the backs rose they jammed themselves into the line-pile.

On end runs, whenever the Trojan interference attended to business, the Speed Secrets Untold.

INSIDE OF GREAT PHOENIX RACE RIDDLE TO MOTOR SPORT PUBLIC.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

LESS is known of the inside of the motor racing game than of any other sport.

A large majority of the fans know inside baseball. The college world knows inside football. Thousands of ring followers throughout the world know the boxing game from the inside; but only the drivers and their mechanics know the motor racing game.

The spectators who lined the course at Santa Monica last spring and watched the greatest drivers of the world grind out the miles, did not realize that at the "S" turn, with the brakes all set and the engine shut off, the cars drifted clear across the course. In practice the speed was worked up by each driver to the limit and in the race the turn was taken at the same speed each time, the drivers knowing that another mile or so per hour would put them over the curb.

Some followers of the racing game know what side of the car lifts first on a sharp turn taken too fast. Few know that a blown rear tire puts the car bouncing all over the course and that a blown front is less dangerous.

DEATH TURN UNKNOWN.

Race enthusiasts fail to appreciate the work of the drivers on a turn like the famous "Death Curve" on the Santa Monica course.

All the skill of the racing profession is called into service in getting clear at the dangerous curve. The cars are shut off and sent into the turn as the limit of speed. The brakes will be jammed one minute, the next the car starts to skid and the driver steps on it. Maneuvering around the turn, getting all the speed into the feat that is possible and then making a fast getaway up the stretch is the inside of the racing game unappreciated by the most enthusiastic followers of the sport.

Perhaps less is known of the inside of the Phoenix road race than any other racing contest staged in the world. The Phoenix contest is the most extraordinary race ever staged anywhere at anytime.

From the first trial trip to the finish at Phoenix, the work of the desert racer is a sporting myth. The boosters who each year ride over on the Howdy Special, see the drivers come into the controls and the finish, blistered, bruised and worn out; but even the Howdies can not really appreciate the skill of the drivers.

ARE OUT ALONE.

No one sees the driver and his mechanic as he rounds a curve in the road and takes a chance on coming up with another car. There are no cheers for the game pilot who goes into a curve a little too fast and barely gets through. Only the crew of the car can appreciate the suspense of waiting to hear a blow-out after hitting a sharp rock.

It is a known fact that the drivers in the great Phoenix road race suffer mental lapses and dream that they are in the lead. In their imaginations the drivers pass cars that were never on the course and often hopelessly beaten, the crew will struggle along to the finish to find that they are several hours behind the last car in the money.

All the encouragement the drivers get is from their own mechanics and the driver is the only one to cheer the mechanic along over the long hours of strenuous desert travel.

After many miles of pounding over the hard course the driver's hands become numb. The mechanic will remove one hand from the wheel and help steer the car while he chaffs the hand and rubs it with whiskey or straight alcohol. The mechanic is half the crew of a Phoenix racing team and in no other speed contest does he figure so prominently.

THE MECHANIC TOO.

When the driver feels that he cannot go another mile, the good mechanic encourages him on. In one case a winner of a Phoenix race was through; but his mechanic made him drive on and he won the race. The driver had fought his way across the desert until he was worn out. He got out of the car and refused to continue in the race until his mechanic, a much larger man, forced him back into the machine and made him fight on to the finish and victory.

Many drivers have mechanics who are also good drivers, and they split the shifts at the wheel; but its always the crew or the car against the world, except at the supply stations and controls where friends are to be found.

The Phoenix race is a strange race in many ways. There is but one rule which governs the "desert classic." The car must travel between Los Angeles and Phoenix on its own power, keep off the railroad grades and on

TIGERS TEAR OFF TWO WINS.

Henley and Hitt Pitch the Beavers Blind.

Rhino Allows Portland but One Bingle.

Kane Starts Winning Rally in the Eighth.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Inspired by the splendid example of the bean-fed Braves, the Tigers knocked the well-known whey out of the Beavers twice yesterday.

That Portland should punch the pill safely but four times in the two games shows that there was some pitching on our side, which is the truth.

Cack Henley, the Bill James of the Coast League, beat the unique firm of Higginbotham and Martinoni, 6 to 0, in the opening clash, holding the hicks to three scattered hits.

HITT WINS.

Rhino Hitt, the only southpaw of this particular species in captivity, worked the supper shift and subjugated Elmer Rieger, 2 to 1.

Rhino allowed but one hit, a single by Ryan in the third, and even then it appeared that he might suffer the pangs of defeat, for an error and a bum decision by G. Whizz Hayes gave Portland a run in the fifth.

But the Tigers came along and batted the ball in a stalwart manner in the eighth, when Kane, Carlisle and Wilhoit slammed out the two runs needful.

MUCH PEP.

For a couple of days it had been faered that the well-known daubers of our athletes were sagging, but this seems not to have been the case. They showed a lot of fight yesterday, and maintained a stiff upper lip when things seemed the darkest.

The game was witnessed by a fine, large hunk of the body politic, and several moving-picture actors.

The crowd, however, ran largely to gents, as the ladies have to pay on Saturday the same as regular human beings, and some of them do not always have the price.

MUCH SORROW.

For three innings Higginbotham enjoyed life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, but in the fourth he was overtaken by a great sorrow and three runs.

The Tigers batted furiously in that round. Bayless tripled to center, was held at third while Borton was beat-

CONSTRUCTION IS IMPROVED.

Worm Drive Great Thing for Motor Truck Game.

Lost Motion Overcome When Chains are Lost.

Increased Tire Mileage for the New Models.

Of the numerous improvements introduced in the motor-truck industry in recent years, according to Watt Moreland, the worm drive has demonstrated itself to be the greatest of them all. The advantages of this method of rear construction are many.

The absence of trouble in the more than 200 trucks of different capacities that are now in operation equipped with the David Brown Timken worm drive has been little short of phenomenal.

"This condition is easy to explain," said the local truck builder. "With the old-style trucks the combination of chains, sprockets and jack shafts were a source of no small amount of grief to both the truck builder and the user. Chains had to be lubricated and it was not long until a heavy coating of dust and grit was collected. With the continual revolving of the chains around the sprockets this dust and grit acted almost like an emery grinder and in a very short time the chains were not only ground until they were useless, but the sprockets were also badly worn."

With the chain equipment it was impossible to overcome lost motion, consequently every time the truck was started a severe jerk was felt throughout its entire mechanism. The strain on the bearings in the motor and transmission was terrific and in a very short time adjustments were necessary.

With the Moreland Timken worm drive jerking is practically impossible. There is absolutely no lost motion. The power is transmitted direct and the instant the clutch is applied the wheels start to revolve simultaneously.

Another feature of the worm drive is the fact that exhaustive tests recently made by some of the leading tire and rubber experts of the country show that on worm-driven trucks from 20 to 25 per cent. greater tire mileage is attained.

Protesting against the recent Common Council resolution against sidewalk obstructions, Detroit garage keepers are circulating petitions in an effort to prevent the removal of gasoline pumps from the curb. The pumps at the curb serve to supply automobilists with gasoline without making it necessary for them to enter a garage.

FRESHMAN COACH STANDS FOR MOTOR SCRIMMAGE.

Linemen Buck Roadster the Wheel of which Team Tutor Handles and Makes All Hands Work—Shows Possibilities to Replace Old-time Shove Sled.

Football has taken in the automobile. Coach Irvine of the U.S.C. freshman squad, has discovered that a motor car makes an excellent charging machine, and is also a handy thing to have about the field.

Don Smith of the local Chandler agency drove out to Bovard field Friday night to watch Ralph Glase put his varsity men through the final paces before the Redlands game, which took place yesterday. While the varsity men were working the freshmen were taking the kinks out under Coach Irvine, and Don persuaded the peppery little coach to allow the Chandler roadster on the field.

Taking the center, guards and tackles of the freshmen line, Irvine lined the rushers up and had them charge the car. The coach took the wheel, and with the car running on the low, charged the freshman line. It was more sport than benefit for the freshmen; but it showed great possibilities. With a bumper widened and properly padded, the coach would be able to sit at the wheel and direct the charging practice of a large squad of linemen.

It is an easy matter to control the car with the hand throttle and brake, and Irvine got a lot of work out of his boys, although it was mostly play. With a modern car it is an easy matter to make quick stops and fast getaways, so Irvine proposes to have Ralph Glaze, the varsity coach, take a machine next week and drive his Trojan eleven up and down the field in signal practice.

The players also were made to dive for the ball under the fender, which was dangerous, but productive of results.

It was Irvine who last spring rigged the automobile tackling dummy for the U.S.C. boys during spring practice, and with his motor car charging machine, the freshman coach believes he has something soft for coaches, but a real work producer for the football squad.

MAIL CARRIED BY MOTOR NOW.

LOW-PRICED CAR IS ONLY ONE CONSIDERED.

Long Route Covered in One-fourth of Time Required for Old Horse-drawn Mail Wagon, after Carriers Purchase Automobile from Local Concern for Work on Highways.

When Hussar Brothers of Brawley made up their minds they would displace Old Dobbin and buy an automobile they were confronted by the problem of which car would be best fitted for their use. The Hussars carry the mail for Uncle Sam, and their route was so long it required the horse twelve hours to cover it. They knew a motor could do better than that.

The Imperial Valley is not an Elysian field for any kind of an automobile, but the Hussars had to consider only those in the $500 class, so their selection was restricted.

They had read of the new Saxon car, however. They agreed the price was right, so came to Los Angeles for a demonstration. The car proved to their satisfaction to have plenty of power, and was low hung, and would not overturn nor overheat the motor, so they bought it. Now patrons on their route are getting their mail much earlier. It takes the Saxon but three and a half hours to make the daily journey.

TRUCK CONVENTION.

The motor truck convention to be held in Detroit October 7, 8, 9 and 10 gives promise of being one of the greatest motor truck conventions ever held in America. The programme for the four days has been drafted with the object of taking up questions of direct value to the truck maker, the truck dealer and the truck owner. These questions are on pertinent subjects rather than academic.

Bridgeport, Ct., has decided to spend $30,000 for motor-driven fire apparatus.

NOVEL DISPLAY FOR AUTO LINE.

A varied assortment of Oakland cars will be placed on display in the showrooms of Hawley, King & Co., within a few days. Unusual features are to mark the four-cylinder cars. When the sun shines through the big plate glass windows they will reflect its rays with the iridescence of the rainbow. Red, blue, yellow, white and gray will add a touch of color never before seen in a display room in this city. Some of these cars were finished on special orders and others will appeal to those who prefer a "flashy" car for some there are who like to hear it said, "He's the man that drives the red, orange and blue Oakland" and their wishes are to be satisfied.

MOON FOR MOON.

Announcement was made by the Moon Motor Car Company this week that Earl J. Moon had been appointed advertising manager. Moon has been eastern sales manager of the company for a year, and has been connected with the concern for eight years. He is a son of Joseph W. Moon, president of the company. When young Moon entered his father's automobile factory eight years ago he donned overalls and went into the shops. He studied the manufacture of automobiles from the ground up. After a year he went into the office and became interested in the purchasing end. Then he went into the sales end, going on the road for the Moon company five years ago.

ELECTRIC VEHICLE MEN IN BUSINESS SESSION.

THE first regular meeting of the Los Angeles section of the Electric Vehicle Association of America was held last Wednesday evening at the Jonathan Club. Dinner was served preceding the meeting, with thirty members in attendance. Chairman J. Harry Pieper presided.

Plans for the year were proposed and discussed. It was decided to hold regular monthly meetings to be preceded by a dinner, on the first Wednesday of every month during the season.

Several interesting addresses were made, notably those of Volney S. Beardsley, president of the Beardsley Electric Company, who just returned from an extended trip through the East. Beardsley described the successful installation and performance of the electric taxicab and electric bus in New York and other eastern cities, and also told of his new product, an electric truck.

A. E. Amos, delivery manager of the Broadway Department Store, told of the successful operation of the electric delivery trucks they now have in use. They now operate four and have four more on order that will be in operation by November 1.

P. H. Ducker, superintendent of transportation of the Southern California Edison Company, informed the members that his company had twenty-one electric vehicles in operation, sixteen trucks and five roadsters, all operating economically and satisfactorily.

Barney Slavin, delivery manager, Bullock's department store, stated that the two electric trucks they have are operating to their entire satisfaction and he maintained that for city delivery the electric truck performs more economically.

John Mitchell, chairman State Board of Equalization, one of the old guard in the electric vehicle industry, told of his early efforts in the promotion of the sales of the Detroit electric.

Those present were J. Harry Pieper, chairman; Harry W. Harrison, vice-chairman; J. F. Regan, secretary and treasurer; Executive Committee, G. B. McLean, J. O. Case, Volney S. Beardsley, I. Solomon; also the following members, W. F. Rath, F. W. Pfaffman, R. H. Morris, A. C. Kendall, S. S. Wilder, R. R. Thomas, A. W. Harrison, C. P. Houghton, C. H. Kay, P. H. Ducker, R. Kysella, A. T. Smith, C. B. Lamoree, A. A. Hobbs, R. C. Holbert, I. H. Stratton, Carl Klemp, A. S. Morton, John T. Shannon, E. E. Hendricks, A. E. Amos, Barney Slavin, John Mitchell.

FORTUNE IN MOTOR FEES.

A total of $1,462,963 has been paid to New York State in fees for the registration of motor vehicles and chauffeurs' licenses. This is nearly $200,000 in excess of the amount contributed for the same purpose during the whole of last year. More than 161,350 motor vehicles have been registered. This is an increase of 26,990 over the corresponding period last year.

TEJON ROUTE IS BEING REBUILT.

STATE HIGHWAY OVER PASS TO BE POPULAR COURSE WHEN FINISHED.

The Tehachepi route to Bakersfield is advised at present, by Jack Deillman, manager for the Weinstock Nichols Company, who has just returned from a tour to San Francisco. He says if motorists will leave Los Angeles early in the morning, they will enjoy a fine day's trip, as there is little bad road.

The Tejon pass route is almost impassable. The construction work on the State highway, which is to follow this route, has torn up the road. The Tejon will be generally used when the State highway is completed.

Between Bakersfield and Fresno Deilman went by way of Porterville instead of over the direct route by Tulare, which is shorter but badly cut up by construction work. He says this is by far the best route out of Bakersfield until the State highway is completed.

Deilman also made the detour over the Pacheco pass instead of following the State highway through Modesto and Merced. This takes one over the ridge separating the valley from the coast. Deilman is enthusiastic over this stretch of road, declaring it to be one of the most beautiful scenic drives in the State, with its great Castle Rocks, and the snow-crested peaks of the Santa Lucia Mountains.

MORE CARS FOR THIS TERRITORY.

Milo Bekins, of the Bekins-Speers Company, local distributors for the Haynes, Lozier and Krit cars, was a visitor in this city last week. Bekins made a hurried trip from San Francisco to inspect the new Haynes light six cylinder model, the car which has created such a sensation along the local automobile row during the past two weeks.

While here, Bekins received a wire from the Krit factory in Detroit, which stated that two carloads of the 1915 models had been shipped by express and that the allotment would arrive in Los Angeles this week.

Up to the present time, the local distributors have been unable to fill all of the orders which have been placed for cars, although two carloads a week have been received regularly. In a few days the factory will commence to ship one more carload each week.

CHANDLER HAS DIVIDEND DAY.

A special dividend of 10 per cent. on the common stock of the Chandler Motor Car Company, the second common stock dividend paid within ninety days, was declared at a meeting of the directors of the company, September 28. The special dividend was in addition to the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock. Besides the dividends already declared, the company increased its surplus out of earnings to an amount equal to its original cash capital.

HUDSON MOTOR CARS

—In a sales demonstration of most automobiles, now-a-days, you will SEE beauty and comfort; will EXPERIENCE power and speed; because the majority of cars are built to appeal in those respects to the buying public.

—But what you will NOT SEE when you purchase an automobile, and yet WHAT IS REALLY WORTH BUYING, is the integrity of the dealer, and the pledge of a great, financially solid company that never knowingly went back on its word or its guarantee.

—THOSE are the true elements that make or break an automobile. The triangle on the radiator of your new car is the pledge of the great Hudson Company that their product is the very best in material, workmanship and finish, that money, brains and sincerity can turn out from a factory specializing for four years on one car of the highest quality.

—In the "Quality" Hudson car there is, of course, comfort, speed, power, sturdiness, plenty room for seven, beauty surpassed by none, and the flexibility that only goes with a perfected "six;" but best of all, BACK OF THE PURCHASER is that integrity of the dealer, and that pledge of the company which for years has given the Hudson cars, "THE CONFIDENCE OF THE PUBLIC." The result:

"It Is ANOTHER Hudson Year."

BRANCH OFFICE FOR THE REGISTERING OF MOTORS.

Corning De Saules, manager of the State Board of Control (motor vehicle division,) has been in Los Angeles this week looking over the ground with a view to opening up in this section of the State a branch office for the purpose of registering licenses for motor vehicles.

This will be a great convenience to motorists in this part of the State, and is something which the Automobile Club of Southern California has been advocating for some time.

De Saules has just closed a lease for a period of years through the agents of R. A. Rowan & Co. for store and office building at No. 1140 South Olive street, and carpenters will go to work tomorrow to remodel the premises getting the same in shape to receive the large number of licenses necessary to take care of Southern California.

Mr. De Saules said in speaking of the project: "Owing to the great rush at Sacramento last year, we think it would be a great convenience for the people of Southern California if we could arrange to open a branch office in this section of the State. This will not only save considerable time, but will, I believe, prove a great convenience to everyone connected with the motor business.

"As it is necessary to have two plates for each number, I am arranging to have space enough to get 100,000 plates in. This covers automobiles, motor trucks and motorcycles."

NEW TIRE MANAGER OLD-TIMER HERE.

BRANCH CHIEF COMES FROM THE NORTH WHERE HE HAS BEEN IN SERVICE.

Tom Wilkenson is the new manager of the United States Tire Company, Los Angeles branch. Wilkenson is an old-time rubber man, having been identified with the leading tire manufacturers for many years. He is not a stranger in Los Angeles, having been located here for the Hartford Rubber Company before the United States Company was formed.

After the consolidation Wilkenson went to San Francisco as manager of the San Francisco retail branch.

C. A. Gilbert, western district representative, was here last week and in company with the new Los Angeles manager made a trip to the various Southern California towns.

During the next month Wilkenson will visit every United States Tire agent in this end of the State. He will go to the smallest of towns.

During the next week the United States branch will receive one of the largest shipments of non-skid tires ever received in Los Angeles. This shipment will consist of Nobby Treads and Chain Treads. They consist of all sizes and will be distributed to the many dealers preparatory to the rush after the rains start in earnest. From indications, tire men expect early rains and this will make the non-skid tire business rushing.

SPEED FESTIVAL TAKES ON BIG LEAGUE FRONT.

Indications Point to Classy Array of Mile Killers for Long Run on Corona's Three-mile Grand Boulevard, Which is Dedicated to Fast Going Event Staged by Corona Racing Association.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

WITH the 300-mile speed duel six weeks away, six entries have been received by the Corona race management. The Stutz and Mercer teams will battle for honors and the rivalry between the drivers of these two fast American-built cars is intensely keen this season.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Mercer factory withdrew from the racing game for the season following the accident which caused the death of Spencer Wishart at Elgin, the Pacific Coast agency has entered three cars and nominated three of the famous drivers as pilots. Eddie Pullen, winner of the American Grand Prize at Santa Monica, is to handle the fast machine which he drove at Elgin. The other Mercers are to be piloted by Caleb Bragg and Guy Ruckstall, according to the entrants.

Pitted against the Mercer trio is the fast Stutz combination entered by Walter M. Brown of this city. For several seasons, Brown has figured at every big league race meet in the country as the pit manager for the Stutz interests and three Stutz machines have already been entered for the Corona classic.

EARL SLATED.

Earl Cooper, the winner of the last Corona speed duel, is slated to pilot the new Stutz No. 8, which is said to be faster than any Stutz racer ever put out by the Harry C. Stutz factory.

Barney Oldfield has been nominated as the driver of the second Stutz, although Barney told friends while in the city last week that he did not expect to drive on the Corona speed trail.

Gil Anderson is the third member of the team entered by Brown. Anderson is a veteran Stutz driver and with fast No. 11 and Barney driving the new No. 2, the first American car to finish at Indianapolis, May 30, the fight between the American-built speedsters should be a thriller.

Should Oldfield fail to appear, which is hardly probable as the veteran always comes in before the lists close, another driver will be nominated to handle the wheel of the third Stutz so that there will be the full trio in the competition. As Oldfield is also entered for the Phoenix road race, it is probable that he feels that he will not be in condition to make the best showing after the strenuous grind over the desert trails.

The King racer which appeared in the 500-mile race and in the events held in the Northwest this summer, is still at the local King agency and William R. Ruess, King distributor for the Southern California territory, intends to enter the car at Corona with "Kantclever" Klein as pilot; but the entry has not been officially announced as yet.

YOUNG'S ONO.

Frank Young has made arrangements with F. S. Brock, the famous motor boat pilot and owner of the Oregon Kid and the Wisconsin Kid, to drive his Ono racer, but Young has not entered his car as yet.

Since the accident on the Corona speedway which almost cost the lives of Bert Dingley and Ed Swanson, his mechanic, the Ono has been rebuilt and is said to be faster than ever. With the new Pope-Portola motor which has replaced the powerful Fiat engine, the Ono is said to be good for a fraction under 100 miles an hour.

According to the Corona race management, a number of foreign cars from the East have been lined up, although the entries are not in at this time. Baron Rickenbacher, the skillful pilot who appeared at the wheel of a Mason in the last races on the Santa Monica course, will pilot a Peugeot at Corona, it is claimed, and will bring a second Peugeot out, which will be driven by a driver not yet named, but in all probability Dave Lewis, George Joerimann or Lou Sorrell. It is also stated that Harry Grant will bring a Sunbeam and Delage to the Coast and will drive one of the machines himself.

Grant played in hard luck at Santa Monica last spring and is anxious to show the motor fans of this section what he can do when he is right.

LINE ON RALPH.

Watt Moreland, perhaps one of the closest friends of Ralph De Palma in this part of the country, stated last week that he had reason to believe that De Palma would appear at Corona at the wheel of his Mercedes. It has been announced by the Corona management that De Palma wants to drive at Corona and there is no reason why he should not if he wants to strong enough to come out here and bring his car.

There is no chance to get the famous French combination of drivers which cleaned so successfully at Indianapolis. The speed men are all in the French army either driving cars, serving as engineers or members of the aviation corps.

With the Vanderbilt cup and Grand Prize coming to San Francisco next spring and the foreign drivers tied down by the military service of their countries, the Corona race should bring out some new American talent.

MANY SHINERS.

Southern California has always been able to put cadet drivers in the lists and these youngsters of the speedway have almost always made good. Billy Carlson is a home product, who was practically unheard of until he defeated Earl Cooper in the Vanderbilt cup race with Sam McKee's Mason last spring.

Bill Taylor is another comer, who made his debut as a dark horse and who came to the front rapidly. Guy Ball with the Marmon made a showing that entitles him to a place among the rest of the speed kings and George Joerimann, winner of the light car race at Santa Monica two years ago with a built-over Maxwell deserves great credit for the showing he made at Santa Monica last spring.

There are a number of other big league drivers, who will very probably be heard from at Corona and in the Vanderbilt and Grand Prize at San Francisco.

There are the Ninrent brothers, Louis, Joe and Fred; Frank Verbeck, Dave Lewis and a number of others who will show if they get cars to drive in these great events.

PERRIN TAKES ON THE ABBOTT.

C. L. Perrin, well-known Los Angeles automobile man, has secured the Southern California agency for the Abbott-Detroit line and has located on South Olive street. Perrin was formerly Michigan distributor throughout this territory and is now handling Michigan parts in addition to the Abbott line.

GERMAN COURTESY SHOWN AMERICANS.

MAYOR OF MUNICH AND LADIES OF FAMILY GIVE FLOWERS TO TOURISTS.

P. W. Eigner of the Waverley Company was among the Americans marooned in South Germany at the outbreak of the war.

Sailing on the ill-fated Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on her last trip from New York, he joined his family in Bavaria just before war was declared.

Delayed for some three weeks in Munich by the temporary loss of his baggage he was a passenger on one of the trains provided by the German government for American tourists, and a witness of the many courtesies bestowed by Germans of all ranks upon their American guests. Though intensely hostile to the English who were similarly caught by the war, they could not do enough to please and gratify the Americans.

At the departure of each of the tourist trains the Mayor of Munich and the ladies of his family, paid a last visit of courtesy, and made a parting gift of flowers to all Americans on board, while crowds gathered at the stations along the route and cheered as the trains went through.

CLOSED CARS NOW POPULAR.

LIMOUSINES FOR WINTER USE ARE CORRECT.

First Rain of Season Brings Out Fall Models Which are Almost Necessity for Evening and Afternoon Social Affairs, and Women Appreciate Handy Appliances.

The first rain of the season last week turned society's thoughts to the closed cars for fall and winter use.

Among the earliest of these favorite machines of the 1915 models to arrive in Los Angeles is a Hudson Six-40 limousine, received a few days ago by the Harold L. Arnold organization.

This limousine is the first of several carloads of the closed car type which Arnold has ordered for the 1915 season. The original allotment of limousines will have to be doubled to satisfy the demand if present indications are to be considered.

Refinement in detail, convenience and comfort, is the keynote of design of this Hudson product. The ladies appreciate the many handy appliances which have been embodied in this particular car for their individual use.

The case for calling cards and sundry little toilet articles is a convenience appreciated by the ladies, and for social uses—afternoon calls, receptions, evening affairs and the theater, the closed cars are almost a necessity.

The Hudson closed car bodies are from special Rothschild design and the roofs are of one-piece aluminum, making them absolutely water-tight. At the edge of the roof on both sides of the car there is a rain groove which conducts all rain water away from the sides of the car.

Auxiliary seats when not in use fold into the back of the driver's seat, and when pulled out are so arranged that they are reversible and permit the occupant to face either forward or back as preferred.

For the convenience of those sitting on the rear seat when there are only two occupying it, there is a wide arm rest in the center, which, when not in use, folds back out of the way and forms the usual easy cushion back.

FROM AUTOS.

T. Gray Coburn of Norfolk, Va., figures that, if the license tax paid by the owners of Studebaker cars in and about Norfolk were devoted to local road improvement, the sum would be itself sufficient to provide a complete system of high-grade highways throughout the entire Tidewater Virginia region.

RECORD ORDER NOW PENDING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SOUTH BETHLEHEM (Pa.) Oct. 3.—Not only are motor trucks included in the large order of motor vehicles the government of France has requested the Bethlehem Steel Company to procure for use in the European war, but touring cars as well. The company has invited manufacturing concerns to send touring cars to South Bethlehem for tests. The number of such cars is not designated.

The recommendations for the types of 1000 motor trucks of American manufacture have been cabled to the French government and a reply is expected in a day or two. The trucks are to cost about $3000 each.

In addition to motor trucks, the French government directed the steel company to contract for 250 motor tractors and 750 trailers to cost from $3000 to $4500 each.

AFTER PHOENIX ROAD RACERS.

Special Trip to Factory in Effort to Get Cars.

Machine Wanted for Exhibit Soon to be Held.

Eight-cylinder Models from East by Express.

The Los Angeles manager for Don Lee, J. B. Brown, is on his way to the Cadillac factory to see if there is any way to secure three eight-cylinder Cadillacs in time for the Phoenix road race. Brown will arrive in Detroit early tomorrow morning.

While in the East Brown will look into delivery conditions and will attempt to secure one car in time for the automobile show, which is to be held in the Shrine Auditorium beginning October 17. It will be necessary to make the first two shipments of Cadillacs by express.

Sales Manager A. E. Landman of the Los Angeles branch of the Don Lee company sent one order to the Cadillac factory last week aggregating $250,000, and the cars covered by the order will be shipped as rapidly as possible. The Los Angeles agency for the Cadillac has already booked 150 orders, and ther are as many more buyers who are awaiting the demonstrator before placing their orders for 1915 cars.

The advent of the eight-cylinder Cadillac motor this season has caused no end of comment.

There is no waste space in the new eight-cylinder motor. The cylinders are cast in sets of fours and are mounted in the "V" pattern at an angle of 90 deg. The Delco starting and lighting unit, the tire pump, the intake and exhaust manifolds, the magneto and the carburetor are mounted between the two sets of cylinders, leaving the outside of the motor free from all accessories except the oil and water pumps.

The Cadillac motor develops 31.28 horse power by S.A.E. rating and over sixty on the actual block tests at touring speeds. In spite of the increased power and the eight cylinders instead of four, the motor weighs sixty pounds less than did the Cadillac four-cylinder motor of last year, for the cylinders are, of course, of small bore, and therefore the reciprocating parts and the other parts which enter into the construction of the motor are lighter than on the four.

The great feature of the car is that with the continuous torque provided by the eight-cylinder motor, gear shifting is practically unnecessary. Speeds of from two and a half to sixty miles an hour are attainable on the high gear, and the steady flow of power sends the car over the steepest hills without gear shifting.

The Cadillac motor is of 314 cubic inches piston displacement. The greatest power yet attained was seventy horse power, which was developed when the motor was traveling at a speed of 2400 revolutions per minute.

SALES SCHEDULE IS BEING FILLED.

Maxwell popularity seems to be on the increase all over the Southwest. Orders continue to pour in, the schedule being filled day by day in good shape.

Just this week orders for several carloads have been received from new Arizona agents. Almost a score of newly-appointed representatives are now on the roster of the Lord Motor Car Company, and the way they are turning in business speaks well for the Maxwell.

It was Easy.

SMALL CAR CLASSES WITH BIG MACHINE ON CLIMB.

[illegible] Argo car which has [illegible] introduced in Los Angeles [illegible] performing the favorite [illegible] of the high-powered, high-[illegible] demonstrations.

[illegible] of the Argo was to [illegible]-avenue hill on the high. [illegible] this has been the [illegible] which to measure the [illegible] powers of the automo-[illegible]

[illegible]-five miles an hour [illegible] to carry the Argo over the hill. It gained speed on the first stage of the ascent and it was not until the steepest part of the grade was reached that the car began to lose speed. It went the rest of the distance with ease, and had plenty of reserve power at the top.

This performance of the Argo is one of the most sensational in the history of the light car industry.

The demand for the little car has surprised even Manager Palmer of the Mission Motor Car Company, the local agents. There has been a great rush for cars since the model was announced.

SERVICE ENGINEER.

The appointment of E. R. Maurer, M.E., as service engineer of the Studebaker Corporation of America is announced by Vice-President E. R. Benson. Mr. Maurer has charge of all service, parts orders and claims at the Detroit factory and at the various Studebaker branches.

Didn't Hurt a Bit.

ROADS NOT DAMAGED BY MAMMOTH TRACTOR LOAD.

[illegible] a twenty-five-ton [illegible] the roads of Los Angeles county? This question [illegible] last week by the Homer [illegible], an eighty-horse power [illegible], which was attached to a load [illegible], which is one of the largest [illegible] on a tractor. The sur[illegible] the highway was not disturbed. [illegible] of gravel was not broken [illegible] heavy load.

[illegible] of the serious queries which have troubled the road builders is the action of the wheels of a mighty mogul that is driven over the roads attached to heavy loads. To settle these matters J. E. Myers of the Homer Motors Company caused the twenty-five-ton mogul to be harnessed to a particularly heavy load.

The result was interesting. The load was driven out to the macadamized highway beyond Eastlake Park, over the stretch recently completed. The road was not damaged in the least.

Two Out of Many.

CARS GIVEN AWAY EACH YEAR FAMOUS MACHINES.

A GROUP of fans on automobile [illegible] was discussing the national [illegible] Friday, their conversation [illegible] to the recent award [illegible] Chalmers Light Six to the most [illegible] man of the National and [illegible] leagues. The trophy commission decided John Evers had done [illegible] to bring the pennant to Boston and that Eddie Collins was more [illegible] to the Athletics than any [illegible] man was to any team in the [illegible] League.

[illegible] this world's series is on I'd [illegible] Frank Schulte and Ty Cobb [illegible] onto the ball field in their 1911 [illegible] cars and stop alongside of [illegible] and Collins," remarked one fan. "It would be a good study in cars, and the thousands at the game would be given an opportunity to note the great advance in automobile construction," he said. "That 1911 Chalmers would show up about as would old Charley Comiskey in this series."

When Hugh Chalmers first proposed giving a car each year to the most valuable man on his team in the two major leagues, it created a sensation. The National Commission took it in hand and agreed the selection should rest with a trophy commission appointed from among the baseball experts of the country. The vast majority of big league ball players now own automobiles, but there are no two cars in connection with the sport that are so renowned as the pair bestowed annually by Chalmers.

One Hard Test.

SEVERE RUN FOR TRUCK MADE AS DEMONSTRATION.

[illegible] one of the most difficult tests ever given a commercial vehicle was handed a Willys [illegible] truck last week, when William [illegible] of Merced undertook to [illegible] Ed Webb of the same town what [illegible] would do on the road to [illegible] Valley.

[illegible] took eleven passengers and [illegible] hundred pounds of baggage [illegible] followed the Merced-Coulterville [illegible]. Climbing up to Greeley Hill [illegible] the temperature at 110 degrees [illegible] shade is some demonstration. [illegible] there is 3250 feet and from this point the first glimpse of the Yosemite Valley bursts into view.

From Greeley to Hazel Green the elevation goes up to 3655 feet and from there to the summit the elevation reached 6030 feet. All of this is a very hard, hot climb. From the summit into the valley it is a severe descent, which makes a very fine place for brake-testing.

After arriving at the valley the truck made the return trip through the Big Meadows, going over grades of 20 per cent. The entire trip was made with no trouble and without adding a drop of water to the radiator, notwithstanding that there was considerable overload.

He could do It.

SNAGS FLY BALL FROM TONNEAU OF MACHINE.

[illegible] speed of a baseball in the [illegible] big often been the keynote of [illegible] fielding bee, but regardless of [illegible] it has been proved that it [illegible] hauled down by an automo-[illegible] traveling twenty-six miles an [illegible]

[illegible] experiment was tried [illegible] the first time at Hazard Play-[illegible] last Saturday afternoon. The [illegible] Hupmobile ball team [illegible] practicing there when the ques-[illegible] came up.

Harry Hirsch, an old Los Angeles High School athlete, who is playing with the Hupmobiles, climbed in behind the steering wheel, and Louie Canepa got into the back seat.

A high fly ball was batted into the outfield and the little Hup was sent in pursuit. After several attempts the car got directly under the ball, and Canepa with one hand on the robe railing leaned far over the rear door and speared the ball.

The Greer-Robbins Hupmobile ball team is the latest addition to the local semi-pro ranks and is composed of local collegiate players.

the Model K HUPMOBILE is the most easily operated automobile made.

—turning on one switch only, starts the engine and it keeps running until stopped by the operator—there is no stopping or stalling of the engine, this being prevented by the automatic electric starter.

—shifting gears is eliminated almost entirely, but when necessary is so easy that no effort whatever is needed.

—the pressure of the clutch pedal is extremely light—and the brakes work so exactly that a child can slide the wheels with ease.

—the operation of this new car removes the last objection to gasoline cars—its operation is as easy as an electric.

—owners of other cars are invited to come in and drive a Model K Hupmobile and be convinced.

—remember this Model K is not a diminutive car, but instead a full five-passenger car with deep seats, softest upholstering and a longer wheel base than any other car at near its price.

—it's the revelation of the 1915 season and for economy of operation we refer to the past record of Hupmobiles as the most economical car on the American market.

ILLINOIS WINS BY BIG SCORE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

URBANA (Ill.) Oct. 10.—Illinois swamped the Indians in their annual football game today, piling up a score of 51 to 0 against the helpless Hoosiers, and easily beating the score which Chicago made last week against Child's men.

DRAKE MAKES GAME FINISH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DES MOINES (Iowa) Oct. 10.—Staging a game comeback, after Grinnell had scored a touchdown in the first quarter, Drake outplayed her opponents in the first stiff football game seen here this season and won, 20 to 7.

Leslie Mann,

The young gent who stepped to the platter with Charley Deal reposing on third in the ninth inning, at Philadelphia yesterday, two men down and a run needed to win the game, and gracefully singled to right, making it two straight for the Braves over the Athletics.

THE GAME PLAY BY PLAY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Plank and Schang were announced as the batteries for the Athletics. James and Gowdy were announced as the battery for Boston.

Umpire Hildebrand gave the decision behind the plate, while Byron gave the decisions on bases. Umpire Klem went to left field, Dineen to right.

FIRST INNING.

Boston—Plank's first curve was a ball, the curve being wide of the plate. The next came over for a strike. Mann out, Collins to McInnis. Collins took the ball back on the grass and made a fast play on the runner. Evers scratched an infield hit, which Plank could not get in time to make the throw. Cather fanned on three pitched balls. Whitted walked, Plank making a kick when Hildebrand call the last pitch a ball. Schmidt flied out to Strunk. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Philadelphia—James sent up an upshoot which was too low. His second one was a strike. Murphy walked. James got himself in a hole on a batter by trying to keep the ball on the corners of the plate. Murphy was out when James threw wildly to Schmidt, who quickly recovered the ball and threw to Maranville, who touch out Murphy. Oldring out, Deal to Schmidt. Deal also threw out Collins. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING.

Boston—Gowdy was given a big hand when he came to bat. Plank fooled him on the first one with a slow curve. Gowdy walked. Plank was unable to control his wide curve. The Bostons had hit speed yesterday and Plank was now feeding them on curves. Maranville sacrificed, Baker to McInnis. Plank took Deal's smash and tossed to Baker, who threw to Collins, who touched Gowdy as he tried to slide back to second. Deal stole second. He was almost caught between bases and Schang's throw was a little wide, so that McInnis was not in position to throw to second before Deal made the bag. Schang threw wild to catch Deal off second, but Barry saved him an error with a high jumping catch. James fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Philadelphia—The Boston outfielders played out against the fence for Baker, but he only fouled out to Schmidt. McInnis fanned. Strunk also struck out. James was given a cheer when he went to bench. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING.

Boston—Barry threw out Mann. It was a slow roller and Barry got the ball after a hard run. His snap throw had Mann by a few feet at the bag. Evers singled solidly to center after having two strikes called on him. It was his second hit. Evers was almost picked off by Schang, but McInnis dropped the ball. Cather out on a fly to Baker. Evers tried to steal, but Whitted fouled off the ball. Evers out stealing, Schang to Collins. It was pitched out and Evers caught ten feet off the bag. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Philadelphia—Barry flied out to Cather. Schang also flew to Cather, who took the ball over near the line. The crowd gave the veteran Eddie Plank a big hand when he came to the plate. Plank went out on three straight strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING.

Boston—Whitted flied to Strunk. Schmidt smashed a single to right field after the count on him was three and two. Gowdy out on a fly to Murphy. Maranville singled to right Schmidt going to second. Barry made a wonderful stab of Deal's high bounder and touched second, forcing Maranville. The blow was almost a sure hit on which Schmidt could have easily scored. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Philadelphia—James took Murphy's weak smash and threw him out. Oldring could not fathom James's speed and struck out. Maranville threw out Collins at first. James's pitching was gilt edged. He had not allowed a hit in the first four innings and sent the Athletic batters back to the bench in one, two, three order. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING.

Boston—James beat up the air and struck out. Mann shot a hot single over second. Evers flied out to Strunk. Mann ran down to second, but got back to first before Strunk's throw reached the bag. Barry took Cather's grounder and tossed to Collins, forcing Mann. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Philadelphia—Baker flied out to Whitted. McInnis fanned for the second time. Strunk struck out. It was his second strike-out, also. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING.

Boston—Whitted popped out to Collins. Schmidt threw his shoulder in the way of a slow ball and started to walk to first, but the umpire called him back. Schmidt flied to Murphy, who had to go up near the fence to make the catch. Gowdy walked on four pitched balls. Maranville was hit with a pitched ball. Baker took Deal's roller and touched third, forcing Gowdy. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Philadelphia—Maranville threw out Barry at first. Schang got a two-baggeh to left. It was the Athletics' first hit. He was almost caught at second, but a good slide saved him. Schang was out when the ball got away from Gowdy, who quickly recovered it and threw the Athletic catcher out at third. Maranville threw out Plank. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING.

Boston—James struck out for the third time. Mann struck out, Schang to McInnis. Baker threw out Evers. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Philadelphia — Murphy fanned. Evers tossed out Oldring. Collins got an infield hit. Collins was picked off first, James to Schmidt. No runs, one hit, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING.

Boston—Barry threw out Cather. McInnis saved Barry from a wild throw. Whitted was safe when McInnis dropped Barry's perfect throw, Barry getting an assist. Whitted was forced at second, Collins taking Schmidt's grounder and tossing to Barry. Gowdy flied out to Strunk. No runs, no hits, one error.

Philadelphia—Evers tossed out Baker. It was announced that the official figures for attendance were the same as yesterday. Maranville dropped McInnis's foul fly. McInnis fouled out to Deal. Strunk out, Evers to Schmidt. No runs, no hits, one error.

NINTH INNING.

Boston—Barry threw out Maranville. Deal got a two-bagger over Strunk's head. Deal stole third when Schang threw to Barry to catch him napping. James struck out for the fourth time. Deal scored on Mann's hit, which was just out of Collin's reach. Mann went to second on a passed ball. Evers walked. Evers was out at second, Barry to Collins, on Cather's smash. One run, two hits, one error.

Philadelphia — Barry walked. Schang struck out, Barry going to second. Walsh batting for Plank. The scorer gave Barry a stolen base. Walsh walked. A double play ended the inning. Maranville took Murphy's grounder, touched second, forcing Walsh. He then threw out Murphy at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

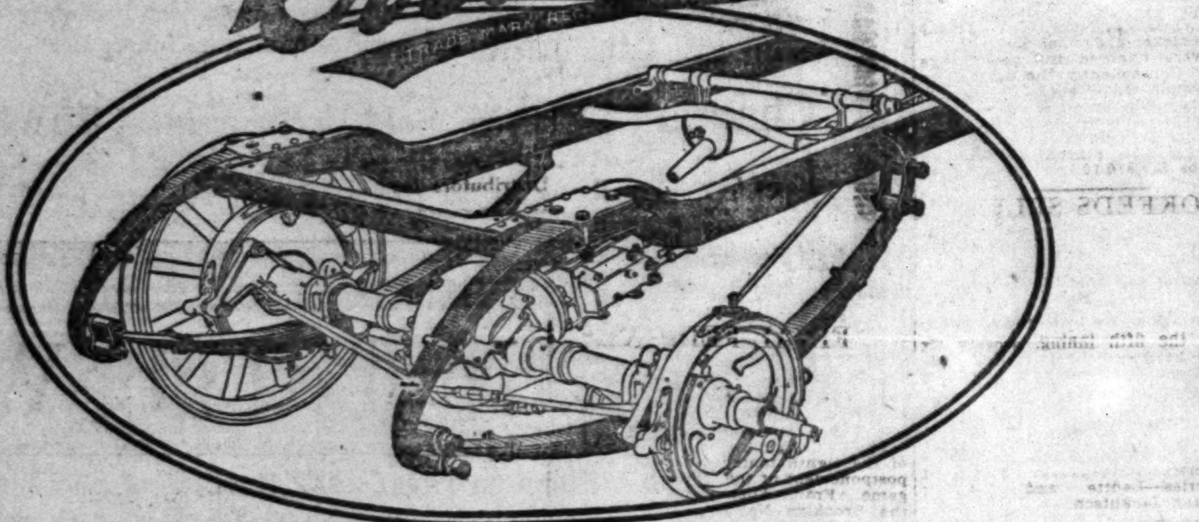
Overland



Real Riding Comfort

NEW underslung rear springs make the Overland one of the easiest and most comfortable riding cars in the world.

Being unusually long and of a new underslung design these rear springs have unusual flexibility.

The Overland type of rear springs is illustrated above.

See how the springs are placed under the axle; that they are long, have a very wide opening, and are of generous dimensions. Notice that the frame is dropped which makes possible a much lower hung and more graceful body. The road clearance is not affected.

The wide opening of the springs permits great up-and-down play—the maximum of flexibility.

These springs are unusually long; in fact are longer, in proportion to the wheel base, than the springs used on most all of the highest priced cars. This means a much more cushioned action.

The Overland swivel seat gives absolutely free movement of the springs, prevents binding and reduces possibility of breakage.

In short the exceptional elasticity of the Overland underslung rear springs makes the car ride with perfect ease and absolute smoothness under all conditions.

Shock absorbers are useless.

The 1915 Overland has grace, style, a beautiful finish, smooth riding qualities and every modern comfort and convenience. It comes complete.

Our dealer will be glad to demonstrate its merits at any time and place you appoint.

Orders are now being taken for immediate delivery.

How the Boston Braves Batted.

The table below shows the batting averages of the Boston Braves week by week during the past season. The general impression among fans is that that Boston Nationals began the season hitting miserably; suddenly found their batting eyes and then slammed the ball all over the lot for the rest of the season. This theory is not borne out by the figures. The batting averages show that the Braves, in some instances, batted better at the first of the season when they were tail enders than later when they were climbing to the top. There weren't many batting stars on the club. Connolly was the only one able to stick above the three hundred mark. The whole club, however, batted consistently. The figures show that Boston has an unusual number of fairly good hitters who keep up their stride all the time. Their sensational climb during the latter part of the season seems to have been due to the fact that they were able to bunch their hits. A perusal of the box scores shows that the Braves are a "one-inning club." They have a habit of suddenly climbing down the throat of the rival team during one brief, but sensational outburst, somewhere during each game. That's all; but that's enough.

Trojans Win.

Baptists were rushed roughly aside. But through the line the Trojans would not go. The backs either shut their eyes and stuck their head into a pile or calmly walked around tackle to practice their straight arm on the end.

The ball was in Baptist territory practically the whole game. Often its nose was white from rubbing on the goal line. On their own ten-yard line the Baptists fought, the Trojans fumbled or something went wrong and a boot would save the gray. Most of the scores were not made on bucks but on wide end runs from the thirty or forty-yard line. Strange as it may sound the beefy Trojans are not a bucking machine.

IMPROVED.

Marked, indeed, was the improvement in the Trojans' playing over that of two weeks ago. They were tackling, running interference, getting off shifts without being penalized, and gaining ground through science rather than accident.

They looked like a varsity. Teamwork had passed beyond the nebulous state. The men did not jump into the play with gritted teeth. They were not off like arrows. They did not always hit the man hard. But then they did not have to. That makes some difference. You can't get excited pushing paper around.

The Trojans were first on the field. As they swept past in a red wave they looked like giants. Shortly after the Redlands varsity slipped in through the west gate. As their gray ran down the field they looked pitiably small and frail, more like high school boys than college men. They had the frightened expression of some hunted thing. When the two varsities lined up for the kick-off the contrast between them was more marked than the colors of their jersies. Speed alone could have saved Redlands and that she didn't have.

KELLY SCORES.

Whittemore of Redlands kicked off to Craig, woh ployed down the field for thirty yards. On the next play Kelly simply ran around the Baptists and sixty-five yards for a touchdown. Craig kicked the goal. The score was 7 to 0. The Trojan bleachers jumped and swayed, but the outsider could only pity the Baptists.

Again Whittemore kicked off. This time it was Capt. Davis who put the ball under his arm and went down the field for ten yards. Then came wide sweeping end runs from regular and shift formations. But a bum pass or two always stopped the march. Redlands would get the ball, feebly attempt a few bucks and kick.

It was near the end of the first quarter before the Trojans scored again. Craig had all the better of the exchange of kicks. Wide runs carried the ball down the field. It took the Trojans four bucks to put it over from the 8-yard line. Holloway finally sneaked through center. Craig kicked the goal and the score was 14 to 0. When the quarter ended the ball was on U.S.C.'s 40-yard line.

The first was the best quarter the Trojans played. The interference was working fairly well. The tackling was a 100 per cent. better than in the L.A.A.C. game. The backs were not running very hard or at full speed but they were going through.

NO SCORE.

There was no scoring the second quarter. The Trojan offense got careless. Backs failed to follow their interference and shut their eyes to such things as holes. Now and then Lund or Davis or Craig or Kelly would get off to a long run. But fumbles were happening with alarming frequence. Of all the backs, Capt. Davis ran the hardest, picked his holes the surest and looked the best.

Coach Glaze must have beggared one of Napoleon's "before the battle, mother" speeches, for the Trojans came back the third quarter with a snap and a dash. They put over three touchdowns with ease.

In a series of close-in end runs and wide scattering attacks in which Capt. Davis was the central figure, the Trojans rushed the ball up to the Baptists 4-yard line. Elmore bucked it to the 1-yard line and Holloway crawled over for a touchdown. Elmore kicked the goal and the score was, 21 to 0.

Len Livernash took Lund's place at half and became the star of the game. Redlands would hold or wait until the Trojans jockeyed themselves out of the ball on fumbles or penalties. Whenever the Baptists got the ball ,they kicked it for dear life.

SHORT ORDER.

In short order two more touchdowns were made before the quarter closed. Len Livernash made both on long runs. Once the kickout was fumbled, so the score at the end of the third quarter stood 34 to 0.

During the last quarter the Trojans experimented with the forward pass without much success. On a fake place-kick formation they slipped over a forward pass to Tipton for a score. But most of the time the passes were weird affairs that did not go near the man. Livernash alone seemed able to get the bal land hold. Rund, who was playing brilliantly, was knocked out cold in the last quarter.

The Baptists did their only gaining by the Trojans using the forward pass. U.S.C. was doing a great backstep up toward their own goal.

WALTER CHRISTIE HAS A NEW STAR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 10.—Walter Christie has a new 100-yard man. He only weighs seven pounds and a half, and his stride isn't very good yet, but "Walt" says that he'll come through in due time.

The stork came yesterday and today "Walt" wears the biggest grin ever. In spite of the youngster's natural ability, "Dad" Christie doesn't think he will be in condition for the exposition meet.

Scores Winning Run.

had to win out in the ninth. Deal and James appeared to be easy outs. The Boston's third-sacker, who had hit into three double plays on Friday and forced three team-mates in today's game, was not considered a batting factor.

DOPE UPSET.

It was Deal, however, who upset Plank's expectations and the Athletics' chances. He drove a long double over Strunk's head, and a moment later stole third when Schang threw low to Barry to catch Deal off the base. Barry turned to throw to third, but held the ball and Deal was safe.

Whether Baker was not close enough to the bag or Barry believed it was too late to head off the runner is not known. James fanned, but Mann lifted a low, puzzling Texas-leaguer over Eddie Collins's head, and although the latter made a great try for the ball, he just touched it with his fingertips and sprawled on the turf, Deal dashing across the plate with the solitary run of the game.

GREAT RALLY.

The Athletics replied with a great rally in their half of the ninth and James, who had carried the game on his shoulders alone up to this point, began to totter.

The thousands of rooters for the home club were stamping, cheering and clapping in unison and Barry waited patiently until James passed him to first. Schang fanned, but Walsh, batting for Plank, also was walked by the rattled pitcher.

With two on and one out, the fans felt sure that the Mackmen were to break through and win, and the uproar was deafening.

Eddie Murphy, lead-off man for the Athletics, stepped to the plate and, catching one of James's curves full on the end of his bat, drove a leaping grounder to the left of second base.

SOME PLAY.

Maranville sprang with the crack of the bat and with a cat-like bound, clutched the ball and with another leap touched the bag, forcing Walsh.

With almost the same motion, he snapped the ball to Schmidt at first for a double on Murphy and a second later went down in a cloud of dust as Walsh crashed into him at top speed. When he scrambled to his feet the other players were running for the clubhouse and the game was saved.

This scintillating play came at a most opportune and dramatic moment, for James had begun to falter after pitching a game which for skill and control has never been surpassed in a world's series match in this city, not even in the twirling duels in which Christy Mathewson, Chief Bender and Plank have figured.

GREAT.

The Boston boxman had perfect control, change of pace and a spitter that broke like forked lightning. He fanned eight of the heavy-hitting Athletics, including Murphy, Oldring, McInnis and Strunk, and when the batters did connect with his delivery the usual result was a weak hoist or roller. This is best demonstrated by the fact that twenty-four of the twenty-seven putouts made by Boston were credited to the infield or batteries.

James gave three passes, two coming in the ninth inning, when the Athletics came nearest to scoring. The Mackmen got but two players safely past first and had but one left on base. Of the two hits charged against James, the one of Collins would have been an easy out for Evers, but for the fact that it bounded so high that the batter beat the throw by a step.

NOT SO GOOD.

Plank, while he pitched a splendid game for his club, was forced to divide more honors with his teammates than James. The Athletics' veteran pitching was not quite the enigma to the Boston batters that James was to the White Elephants.

Plank was several times saved by the sensational fielding of Baker, Barry, Collins and McInnis. He fanned six Braves, Pitcher James striking out four times in succession; gave four bases on balls and hit one batter.

Of the twenty-seven put-outs made by the Mackmen, the battery and infield accounted for twenty-one. Plank had to watch the bases closer than James, for eleven Bostonians were stranded to the Athletics' one.

FINE BALL.

Considering the closeness and strain of the game, both teams played remarkable baseball. There were errors of commission and omission, but all were excusable under the conditions.

Maranville and Deal got mixed on McInnis's first foul in the eighth inning and the shortstop was hardly prepared for the chance. The Athletics' error was charged to McInnis, who failed to hold a wide throw from Barry, although he stretched until he fell over, trying to get a clutch on the ball.

Schang appeared to have difficulty in holding Plank's delivery at times, but escaped without a black mark from the scorers. He also figured in the only play over which there was any aftermath. Following his double in the sixth inning, he attempted to steal third, when Gowdy dropped one of James's shoots.

CAUGHT HIM.

The Braves' catcher recovered the ball in time to nip Schang at Deal's station, but the Athletics declared after the game that he was safe. They claim that the game broke for Boston there, for with Schang safe at third and but one out the chances for a scoring drive by the head of the batting list were excellent.

Although the home fans were more enthusiastic than on Friday, there was little effort on the part of thousands to find fault with the arbiters' decisions. They cheered lustily and endeavored to rattle James and encourage the Mackmen in the closing innings, but frankly acknowledged after the game that the Braves' pitcher deserved to win. It was a more typical American baseball scene today than was the case at the opening game.

PRETTY HOT.

The sun shone from a cloudless sky with midsummer vigor and as a result the fans, especially those in the bleachers, quickly discarded coats and vests. Wherever the rays focused on a particular group the effect was to produce an immediate shedding of outer garments, causing great blocks of white background to stand out in the somber autumn raiment. Although there was no increase in the paid attendance, the surrounding houses appeared to be about to bend and break under the weight of thousands that gathered on roofs, porches and at the windows. Fully 6000 must have followed play from these points outside Shibe Park, paying from 50 cents to $2 for the privilege.

ROOTERS.

Boston's Royal Rooters were very much in evidence again, before, during and after the game. They cheered and sang, and when the game was won, paraded around the field headed by Capt. Johnny Evers, former Mayor Fitzgerald and other celebrities. Many are still celebrating in Philadelphia tonight, while others left with the two ball clubs on the special train that left for Boston early in the evening.

This will be almost twice the attendance at either of the two games in this city. The paid admissions on both days were the same—20,562. This was due to the fact that every seat in the stands and bleachers was sold by ticket and when all the coupons were honored the gates were closed. Consequently the attendance and receipts today were the same as yesterday. The receipts for the second game amounted to $49,639, of which the National Commission received $4963.90, players $26,805 and the clubs $17,870.10.

BROOKFEDS SPLIT WITH BALTIMORE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10.—Brooklyn won the first game with Baltimore today in the fifth inning, scoring six runs by hard and timely hitting. Baltimore took the second, 1 to 0, one of the best games of the local season. Scores:

PITTSBURGH WINS FINAL FED GAME.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10.—Pittsburgh closed the Federal League season here today by defeating Buffalo, 8 to 4, in a seven-inning contest. Rain stopped the playing in the first half of the eighth inning and also caused postponement of the scheduled second game. Frank Allen, formerly with the Brooklyn Nationals, pitched for the locals. The score:

Pride of Ownership
CHANDLER $1595
F. O. B. FACTORY
LIGHT-WEIGHT SIX

The Chandler weighs only 2885 pounds. It runs 16 miles or more per gallon of gasoline, 700 miles per gallon of oil, 7000 miles per set of tires. Speed, 3 to 55 miles per hour on high.

"Built by Men Who Know"

Don't you want to be proud of the new car you buy?—not merely satisfied with it, but satisfied and proud of it?

Chandler owners are proud of their cars.

They are proud of the car that proved a high-grade six of medium size could be built to sell for less than $2000.

They are proud of the car that changed the whole trend of the automobile industry toward light sixes.

They are proud of the powerful, quiet, beautifully made Chandler long stroke motor, with its Bosch Magneto for ignition, genuine imported Coventry silent chain instead of noisy gears for motor shafts, its self-contained oiling system, separate unit electric starting and lighting system, its cast aluminum motor base extending from frame to frame, its pearl gray baked enamel finish, and all its other features.

They are proud because this really marvelous motor is of Chandler design and Chandler make, and not a common stock motor found in various kinds and grades of cars.

They are proud of the grace of Chandler body design, and the deep lasting beauty of Chandler finish; proud of the comfortable roominess of the car and luxury of its cushions.

They congratulate themselves on selecting such a car at such a fair price.

They are proud of the economy of the Chandler

Even the rich man is proud to have found out that he can get everything in power and comfort and luxury at half the price he formerly paid.

You, too, would be proud to get behind the steering wheel of a Chandler and say "It's mine!"

Genuine pride of ownership is worth a lot, but it isn't figured in on the Chandler selling price.

We have the new 1915 models now, ready for delivery. Five-passenger touring car or roadster, $1595. A profit-sharing price made possible only by the unparalleled mechanical success of the car,—the manufacturers' freedom from mechanical errors and expensive experimental work.

We shall be glad to have you drive the Chandler and decide for yourself.

Better Delivery Service at Less Cost

That has been the uniform experience of Federal users in dozens of different lines.

Federal trucks cost less than the horse equipment they replace.

The upkeep and maintenance average less than half of the horse equipment required to do the same territory.

Your delivery radius is greatly widened—you can cover territory with a Federal that horses cannot reach.

You can reach more customers at less expense.

We can demonstrate these facts to you beyond a doubt—if we can't prove them to your satisfaction and our own, you cannot buy a Federal.

SAN BERNARDINO NEARLY TIED BY LINCOLN TEAM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 10.—With the game practically won in the middle of the last half, Coach Fred Johnson of the local High School team almost lost the game with Lincoln High of Los Angeles this afternoon by shifting the men who had played a fast-rushing game during the first period. He quickly replaced the men and on a try in the last minute of play by Phillips, San Bernardino won by a score of 11 to 6.

By fast dribbling rushes in the first half, together with clever booting to touch and nice passing by the backs, the local team scored Cline and Graham converted. A few minutes later Isenhouser crossed the line for Lincoln, but Loud failed to get the ball between the posts for a goal.

At the opening of the second half the San Bernardino scrum, although outweighed by the Los Angeles boys, advanced the ball to the 1-yard line, and after a series of fierce rushes, pushed Holmes over for a try. Then Coach Johnson made seven changes in the line-up with disastrous results for Eckstorm scored a few minutes later by going through the disorganized back fields. With Los Angeles on the offensive, the local coach then replaced Patterson and Holmes in the line and just as play was about to cease Phillips rushed the ball across for the last score.

The local team clearly had the Los Angeles boys outclassed in both scrum and back field and in the first half a stiff wind favored the Los Angeles team.

CHAFFEE AND SAN DIEGO FIGHT DESPERATE DRAW.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 10.—Chaffee Union High School of Ontario and the local High School today played gruelling 7-to-7 tie game here this afternoon on the Coronado polo grounds. The game was replete with brilliant playing.

Vic Davidson, San Diego's star lineman, kicked off. Chaffee carried the ball by line bucks to local 10-yard line. Seiman carried the ball across for touchdown. South kicked goal. The touchdown was negotiated within the first eight minutes of play, San Diego never getting the ball.

Sieman proved Chaffee's greatest ground gainer. Time after time he ploughed through the local line for 5, 10 and 15-yard gains.

South kicked off for Chaffee. San Diego carried the ball to Chaffee's 25-yard lint. Forward passes, Dana to Pike for thirty yards and Shaw to Dana for ten yards, and a trick play, Davidson to Dana, did it. Locals lost ball on downs. Chaffee, 7; San Diego, 0.

Second quarter, Chaffee punted to local 30-yard line. San Diego carried the ball up field by forward passes again, but lost the ball. Chaffee punted. Locals ran ball to Chaffee's 10-yard line. Dana's run of Davidson forward pass did it. Pike caught Dana's forward pass behind the line for a touchdown. Dana kicked goal. Chaffee, 7; San Diego, 7.

There was no more scoring. Both teams tried desperately. In the third quarter, Chaffee attempted a field goal from 15-yard line, missed by a few feet, South making the kick. San Diego punted. Chaffee fumbled on 15-yard line. San Diego carried the ball to 4-yard line. Shaw tried to pass to Dana across the line, but hit goal. Sieman, Abbot, South and Arvet of Chaffee starred, as did Dana, Field, Davidson, Shaw, Pike and Salyers of the locals.

PENNSY HELD BY LAFAYETTE.

LACKED PUNCH AT CRITICAL TIME TO PUT IT OVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Lafayette College held the University of Pennsylvania football eleven to a scoreless tie in the gridiron struggle here today. In the four periods Pennsyvania had four distinct chances to get the pigskin over the Lafayette goal line, but lacked the punch at critical periods and the Eastonians kicked the pigskin out of danger. Pennsylvania's trick double pass worked early in the game for long gains around end, Vreeland and Tucker passing the ball to Murdock or Urquhart, but Lafayette soon solved this play and it failed. End runs were effective.

LESS NOISE NOW PLENTY.

In a sort of fatherly manner the State Department has advised manufacturers of motor cars, especially armored motor cars, to do a little less shouting about the orders received from foreign governments at this time.

While it is good business policy on the part of the manufacturers to tell the American people about the way in which the foreign military advisers appreciate the American motor-truck, such publicity places the State Department in an extremely embarrassing position. "What we don't know won't worry us!" is possibly the attitude of the State Department. But if the alleged orders for this "contraband" are heralded in all the papers, how can the department be expected to remain inactive?

MOTOR STARS AMONG FILMS.

MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTIONS BOOSTED BY AUTO.

Thousands of Dollars Made Each Week by Machines for Moving Picture Companies and in Many Scenes the Automobile Plays Role with the Screen Favorites.

In the moving-picture world, the modern motor car is an essential factor in the production of the films which are displayed all over the world. Los Angeles and Southern California are both receiving thousands of dollars worth of advertising every day as a result of the efforts of about fifty different companies, which turn out miles of film every year.

A large number of the pictures are taken outside of the studios, and the wonderful scenery of Southern California affords the producer numerous opportunities of securing locations which cannot be equaled. In order to transport the members of the company to the selected "locations," the automobile is pressed into service, with the result that scenes many miles away from the studio can be pictured in a very short time.

Each company has a fleet of fast motor cars in readiness to carry the actors and actresses to "locations," and every day one may see a crowd of people in "makeup" spinning along the smooth boulevards in automobiles.

One day last week L. F. Gottschalk of the Oz studio called on the Bekins-Speers company for a demonstration of a Haynes light six car, and it so happened that a one-act comedy, entitled "The Magic Bon Bon," was to be filmed in the afternoon. During the progress of the play a motor car is used, and, as the appointed time for the demonstration of the Haynes and the taking of the picture conflicted, the light six was pressed into service, with the result that Violet MacMillen, Mildred Harris, Frank Moore, Fred Woodward and Pierre Conderc enjoyed a sensational demonstration of the Haynes merits.

In readiness for the filming of the picture, the film stars were hurried from the studio to another "location" in great style, with the result that the "Magic Bon Bon" will be produced on time, and six instead of one received a demonstration of the Haynes light six all in one afternoon. Gottschalk now owns a Haynes and is figuring on another at this time.

Coroner Knight and Superintendent of Police Robinson of Philadelphia are planning to enforce more strictly the law against searchlights on motor cars within the more congested sections of the city. The blinding lights are held responsible for several fatalities recently.

CLOSED MODELS MAKING BIG HIT THIS SEAS

THE newest type of enclosed car to reach Los Angeles is the Winton Sedan, an inside drive model.

This is the newly developed type which combines the coupe and limousine. It eliminates the unsightly outside seat of the chauffeur and still provides the full seating capacity of the limousine.

In body design the absence of a front door permits a long panel effect that is highly artistic and produces an entirely new effect.

Some Surprise.

POMONA HIGH FIFTEEN RUNS OVER HOLLYWOOD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, Oct. 10.—Rolling up a splendid score of 27 to 0, the local High School football team defeated the team from Hollywood High School on the Pearl-street field this afternoon.

A crowd of 2000 persons witnessed the game, which was hard-fought all the way by the locals and visitors. The score at the end of the first half was 5 to 0, the Pomona lads taking the lead in the last five minutes of play.

Hollywood came here with the reputation of possessing a noted scrum, with which it was thought Pomona would have much difficulty. The local team, however, to put it plainly, "ran right through" the visitors, beating them in forward and back play.

Baker, the local colored lad, fell the honors to feature playing, he scoring brilliantly four times.

Capt. Bobby Creswell and Paul Avis, second five, distinguished themselves, but Coach Clinton Evans, who is responsible for whipping Pomona's team into such excellent shape, was well pleased with the playing of all of the boys. He admitted after the game that they surprised him.

The heavier Hollywood boys put up a good game and were accompanied by about fifty loyal rooters, but they could not follow the lighter Cardinals' speed. It was a good, hard, clean, open-cut game, such as the fans like to see.

Attorney Mayer of Los Angeles was the referee. Coach Evans will now cast covetous eyes toward another championship of the Citrus Belt League, which seems to be coming Pomona's way.

His [illegible] play down toward center and later into alumni territory. Three tries were made in this period, but none of them were converted.

The alumni regained their wind between halves and held it long enough to put over their sole try, which came in the first ten minutes. The varsity limbered up after this and grassed the ball three times. Montgomery converted twice.

Varsity play is still ragged. The forwards showed more teamwork today than the backs. Individuals of the back field are good, but their team work is only fair. Fumbles were a feature on both sides.

PASADENA HIGH SWAMPS WEAK WHITTIER ELEVEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

Oct. 10.—Seventy-six [illegible] made the score in [illegible] Pasadena-Whittier High [illegible] here this afternoon [illegible] field, and the short [illegible] Whittier's. [illegible] the locals hold Pasadena for downs. All the rest of the time the visitors had things largely their own way.

The one score made by Whittier was a touchdown by Jordan, right end, when he received the ball on a forward pass and got away for a forty-yard run. The game was marred by many fumbles and by high tackling by both teams.

Pasadena played better on offense than on defensive, while Whittier was weak in both.

Pasadena came over today with 400 rooters and their section was in evidence every minute. Moon, Whittier half, left the game in the third quarter with a broken ankle.

In a grand march down the field Long Beach again worked the ball to the college 2-yard line, where a fumble robbed them of another chance to score. Stiff of Long Beach made a 30-yard dash in the final quarter that broke the monotony of the straight football tactics employed by both teams until this time.

Long Beach opened up in the final period, however, and a long 40-yard forward pass, Marshall to Thomson, constituted the most spectacular event of the game. Peters, left half-back of Occidental, starred both on offense and defense.

TROJAN FROSH BEAT SANTA ANA.

FORWARD PASSES AND LONG END RUNS BRING VICTORY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Oct. 10.—Two long forward passes from Right Half Moseley to Left End Werner and an end run by Moseley, three-fourths the length of the field, netted U.S.C. freshmen three touchdowns in a football game against Santa Ana High School. Score, 20 to 3.

Santa Ana's right end, Burkett, kicked a field goal in the first quarter, after getting possession of the ball on a punt misjudged by the freshman quarter, Blanche.

It was Santa Ana's first game, with a team largely of neophytes, but at times it played the opponents to a standstill. In the third quarter Oertley and McClain at halves and Holsgrafe at full took the ball almost the length of the field by bulldog plunges over the tackles, but were unable to break through the college defense for a touchdown.

Moseley, Holman and Marxen, behind the line for the freshmen, played strong ball together.

L.A.A.C. WALLOPS L.A. HIGH, 8 TO 0.

CLUBMEN WAKE UP IN SECOND HALF AND RUN ACROSS TWO TRIES.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club maintained its winning stride by defeating the fast L. A. High School team on the Hollywood Field, yesterday, by the score of 8 to 0. The game was fiercely fought throughout. The clubmen's superior condition proved too much for the Hill-toppers.

The first half was close, with the majority of the play in the High School's territory. The clubmen had numerous chances to score, but fumbled at the crucial moment. The club forwards seemed unable to heel the ball out. This was caused mostly by Cliff Bowes continually throwing the ball into the scrum among his hookers' feet.

L. A. High backs got off to several passing rushes, but were unable to break through the L.A.A.C. forwards, who were continually on top of the ball or the man. Capt. Fishburn starred for his team, using his head and boot to good effect.

At the blast of the whistle in the second half, the L.A.A.C. forwards were after the ball like a pack of wolves, headed by Capt. Walton, who played the greatest game of his life. Walton dribbled the ball for long gains throughout the second half. His great playing was a revelation to the spectators. In a spectacular dribbling rush, Walton, Wood, Barton, Jones and Toolan carried the ball at their feet for thirty yards. Toolan grabbed the ball on the run, passing to Wood, who passed to Jones, who in turn as he was tackled, shot the ball to Barton for the first try.

After the first score the clubmen came back stronger than ever. It was only a question how large a score the Mercury team could roll up. Five minutes before the final whistle, L.A.A.C. pack heeled the ball on the L. A. High's twenty-yard line into the waiting hands of Harry Allen. He passed cleanly to Frampton, who with a brilliant swerving run through the entire High backfield, went over the line for the second try. Swartz made a fine attempt to convert, passing a foot under the crossbar. Frampton was the star of the club backfield. Alber is beginning to show his last season's form, getting the ball out to his backs with quick dispatch. Swartz played a strong game among the forwards, his work looming up strong in the line-outs. Reliable "Pat" Maguire played his usual game.

Coach Elliot and Manager Weaver were highly pleased with the showing of their men.

In the preliminary game between the Arden Club and the L. A. High School's second team, resulted in a close contest. The only score was made in the first half, when the Arden men went over the line for a try. The final score was: Arden, 4; L. A. High, Seconds, 0.

Ralph Noble refereed both games. The time of halves was thirty minutes.

Every Tire Trouble
Brings You Nearer to Goodyears

Every rim-cut is bound to remind you that No-Rim-Cut tires avoid this.

Every blow-out should suggest that our "On-Air" cure ends a very frequent cause.

Every loose tread will urge reduction of this risk. In Goodyears—by a patent method—we reduce it by 60 per cent.

Every puncture suggests our double-thick All-Weather tread. So does skidding. So does wear.

Those are four exclusive Goodyear features. To get them you must get No-Rim-Cut tires. And that time is surely coming. It has come to hundreds of thousands already.

More men use Goodyears than use any other tire. And they are men who seek just what you seek.

We've Earned It

We have earned this place for Goodyears—the topmost place in Tiredom. We have attained here a quality supreme and unvarying. We have long spent $100,000 yearly on laboratory efforts to better them.

On one exclusive process—our "On-Air" cure—we spend $450,000 per year.

The result is maximum sturdiness, the limit of safety, the minimum of trouble. You want the benefit. Soon or late that want will bring you to these matchless Goodyear tires. From that day on, you will never give them up.

Start now—when our All-Weather tread offers winter security such as no other tread can offer.

NATIONAL LEAGUE DUE TO WIN CHAMPIONSHIP.

Americans Have Held Supremacy for Four Consecutive Years, Which Exceeds Best Showing of Nationals by One Title—On Total Games Played There is Little tc Choose Between Two Majors.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

BASING calculations on the achievements of the past, the championship pendulum is due to swing to the National League—past due, in fact.

The American League has bulldozed the world in a baseball sense for four years now, which is the longest time that either of the major organizations has remained supreme.

LONG TIME.

Since 1910, when the Athletics squashed the Cubs, the American League has bossed the situation—Philadelphia winning three championships and Boston one, New York being the defenseless victim on three of these occasions.

The National League, prior to the advent of the Athletics, held the title for three consecutive years, which would seem to indicate that championships revolve in cycles, as it were.

The first world's series between the American and National Leagues was played in 1903, and barring 1904, when there was nothing doing because of inharmonious relations, clubs representative of these organizations have battled each fall.

THE ELEVENTH.

They are now engaged in their eleventh October struggle. Of the ten series played, the Americans have won six and the Nationals four, giving the younger organization a big edge. But it is only in the last four years that the superiority of the American League stood out so that you could notice it, Ban Johnson's outfit taking only two world's series out of the first six played.

The Boston Red Sox, with Collins, Ferris, Young and other stars gleaned from the National League, beat Pittsburgh in the first clash between the rival organizations in 1903.

The New York Giants avenged this insult by whipping the Athletics in 1905, and the following year the White Sox shocked the entire country by beating the Cubs.

THREE.

This so riled the National League that it at once proceeded to wipe up with the American the three following years, the Cubs beating Detroit in 1907 and 1908, and the Pirates doing the same little thing in 1909.

Then came the collapse of the Cubs in 1910, and since that notable year the American League has terrorized the community at all times.

While the American League enjoys a comfortable margin on total series won, with six to four, it has but the barest edge when the thing is viewed on the basis of games.

A total of sixty world's championship games has been played between the two organizations. Of these the Americans have won thirty, the Nationals twenty-eight, while two have been tied.

A DRAW.

Chicago and Detroit battled each other to a draw in 1907, and the Giants and Red Sox suffered the same pleasant experience in 1912.

Detroit is the only club that ever failed to win at least one game in a world's series. Their drawn game with Chicago in 1907 was the nearest that they came to winning that year.

Bender leads all world's series pitchers with six victories. Christy Mathewson and "Three-fingered" Brown are tied for second place honors with five each.

Pitchers who have won three games in a single world's series are Dineen, Mathewson, Philippi, Adams and Coombs.

Dineen beat Pittsburgh three times in 1903, and Philippi did the same thing to Boston that year. Young won the other two games for Boston.

Mathewson defeated the, Athletics three times in 1905, Adams turned the same kind of a trick against Detroit in 1909 and Coombs beat the Cubs three times in 1910.

GIANTS EASY.

Of Bender's six victories, five of them have been against New York. He beat the Giants once in 1905, giving the Athletics their only victory that year, and downed the same team twice each is 1911 and in 1913. His other victory was achieved in the opening game of the Cub-Athletic series in 1910.

Every one of Matty's world's series victories have been at the expense of Philadelphia. He downed the Mackmen three times in 1905, "Iron-Man" McGinnity winning the other game for New York. Matty took one game from the Athletics in 1911, and repeated last season. Bum support lost m two tough games in the Boston ries of 1912.

Here is the complete dope from days of Dineen and Philippi down dolph and James:

MICHIGAN IS EASY WINNER.

WOLVERINES SCORE HEAVILY ON VANDERBILT IN RAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Oct. 10.—Playing through a rainstorm, which was responsible for fumbles galore, the football eleven of the University of Michigan today defeated Vanderbilt, 23 to 3. The southerners, with a green back field, put up a fierce fight, especially during the last half. The game was rough and spectacular.

Overheating may be due to a defect in the cooling system, rich mixture, retarded spark, improper lubrication or incorrect valve timing, and possibly a slipping clutch or excessive friction in the chassis.

Consistent.

COBB LEADS BATTERS FOR EIGHTH SUCCESSIVE YEAR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—For the eighth year in succession Ty Cobb of Detroit and Georgia has won the batting championship of the American League. Figures published here today—final though unofficial—give Cobb a percentage for the season just closed of .368. In the National League Jake Daubert of Brooklyn retains title as champion, with .329, though several batters in a dozen games or so have higher percentages. Complete records for Cobb and Daubert for the season follow:

	G.	AB.	R.	H.	2b.	3b.	HR.	SH.	SB.
Cobb	97	245	69	127	22	11	2	6	34
Daubert ...	126	474	88	156	16	7	6	33	24

In 1907 Cobb led the American League race for the first time, with an average of .352. Since then he has been champion, with .324 in 1903, .375 in 1909, .385 in 1910, .420 in 1911, .410 in 1912 and .391 in 1913. In 1913 Daubert succeeded Zimmerman as champion, with an average of .346.

The "three hundred batters" of the American League number fifteen, and include Cobb (Detroit) .368, Pick (Washington) .343, Collins (Philadelphia) .339, Jackson (Cleveland) .339, Speaker (Boston) .338, Smith (Cleveland) .333, Hoblitzell (Boston) .324, Baker (Philadelphia) .319, McInnis (Philadelphia) .319, Crawford (Detroit) .318, Fournier (Chicago) .311, Barbare (Cleveland) .308, Cree (New York) .302, Roth (Chicago) .302, C. Walker (St. Louis) .300. In team hitting, Philadelphia, with .270, leads and Detroit, with .256, is second. In the field the Athletics are again in front, with 965, and New York is next, with 963.

Ranked according to games won and lost, the sum of which is twenty or greater, the leading pitchers of the American League are Bender (Philadelphia,) with seventeen and three; Leonard (Boston,) nineteen and five, and Plank (Philadelphia,) fifteen and seven.

Maisel, New York, heads the base-stealers with seventy-three, and Baker, Philadelphia, leads in home runs, with nine.

Cobb's consecutive championships set a record some time ago. This year his feat in climbing over the heads of a group of fast rivals, despite a poor start and an injury which kept him out of the game some time, was one of the features of the season.

There are sixteen batters in the National League doing .300 or better, as follows:

Roche (St. Louis) .667 (eleven games,) Wiltse (New York) .667 (ten games,) Pieh (New York) .500 (sixteen games,) Erwin (Brooklyn) .348 (twenty games,) Steele (Brooklyn) .333 (twenty-two games,) Strand (Boston) .333 (sixteen games,) Daubert (Brooklyn) .329, Becker (Philadelphia) .322, Dalton (Brooklyn) .321, Wheat (Brooklyn) .317, Magee (Philadelphia) .315, Connolly (Boston) .314, Stengel (Brooklyn) .313, Whelan (Chicago) .304, Fisher (Chicago) .300, Hageman (Chicago) .300.

Brooklyn, with .269, and New York, with .263, lead in club batting, while Boston, Pittsburgh and St. Louis are tied for the lead in team fielding, with .964 each. By a margin of one, Cravath's nineteen home runs give him the lead in four-base drives, over Saier, Chicago. In stolen bases, Burns of New York is ahead, with fifty-eight.

The three leading pitchers are James (Boston) with 27 and 6, Rudolph (Boston) 32 and 8, and Doak (St. Louis) 18 and 7.

In the Federal League, Kauff, Indianapolis, again is ahead, but the figures do not include the final games in the East, where rivals still have a chance. The first fifteen to date are: Kauff (Indianapolis) .361, Yerkes (Pittsburgh) .358, Evans (Brooklyn) .358, Chase (Buffalo) .357, Easterly (Kansas City) .330, Lennox (Pittsburgh) .322, Shaw (Brooklyn) .321, Routsch (Indianapolis) .321, Louden (Buffalo) .315, Campbell (Indianapolis,) La Porte (Indianapolis,) Oakes (Pittsburgh,) Kenworthy (Kansas City) and Crandall (St. Louis) .313 each. Kauff has most stolen bases—seventy-five—and Zwilling (Chicago) most home runs—sixteen. Leading pitchers are Hendrix (Chicago) 29 and 10, Ford (Buffalo) 20 and 7, Quinn (Baltimore) 26 and 14.

THE PACKARD
7-Passenger "38"

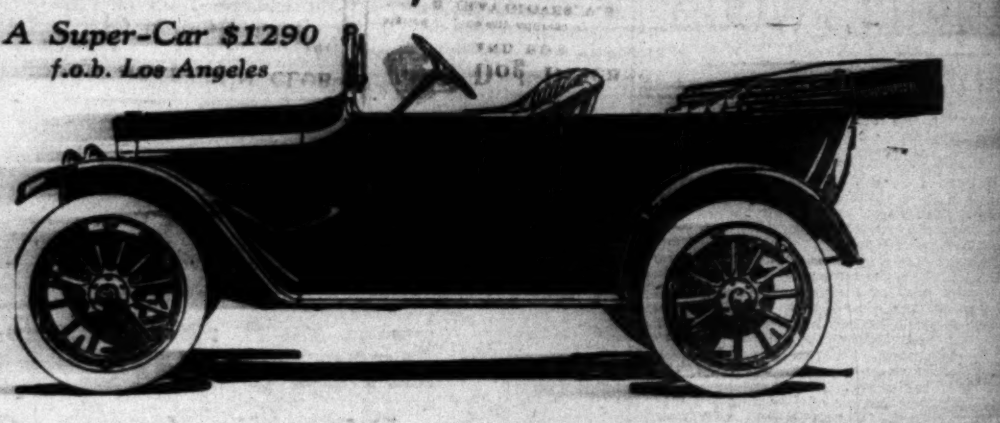
Reo the Fifth
A Super-Car $1290
f.o.b. Los Angeles



The Car All Men Respect

Reo the Fifth is one car which every man respects. Some buy costlier cars—some cheaper. No one car appeals to all. But men who know cars—who go below the surface—pay tribute to this car of R. E. Olds. They know it to be an exceptional car. And tens of thousands choose it when they buy a car to keep.

Look Deep

For your own sake, find out where this car excels.

Go below this beauty and luxury, this comfort and perfect equipment. Those things are desirable—fine appearance and up-to-dateness. And we give them to you in overwhelming measure.

But there are other things—rarer things — which in years to come will prove far more important. Look deep enough to find out how this chassis won its fame.

The Unique Reo Organization

We have here what is widely known as the model automobile plant. Engineers from everywhere come here to inspect it.

At the head is the Dean of Designers—a man who for 27 years has been building cars better and better.

Around him an army of men—able, cautious, conservative — devote their whole time to this single model. They have worked with Mr. Olds for years. And all are uniting to make this and keep it the best-built car in its class.

The factory is mammoth. It has grown and grown—40 per cent in the past year—to keep pace with demands for this car.

It has countless special machines, each designed to produce some part in the most exact, most economical way.

It has an entire building devoted to laboratory—for tests and analyses to insure our high standards.

To prove our parts — to know what is needed—test cars are kept running all the time on rough roads. After 10,000 miles, the test cars are brought in, taken apart and inspected. Each vital part is required to come through in practically new condition.

Reo Efficiency

Reo the Fifth is built slowly and carefully. The parts and materials pass countless tests and inspections. Parts are ground to utter exactness. Six weeks are spent on each car.

Each important part must show at least 50 per cent over-capacity. All our tests — for this 35-horsepower car—are based on 50-horsepower requirements.

Our extremes and precautions—our extra fine parts—make the car's construction costly. By reducing our standards we could save 20 per cent. But we save instead by efficiency. We have brought the cost down until the car now sells—with electric equipment—for $220 less than its former price. Yet there is constant improvement.

One of the greatest marvels in motor car engineering is the value we give you today in this car.

35,000 Running

Nearly 35,000 of these cars are now running. And the users sell the car to others faster than we can build.

The buyers, in large part, are experienced motorists—men who have had their troubles, high upkeep and repairs. Men who now want a better car—a car that stays new.

Equipment

New-style body.
Electric starter, lights and horn.
One-rod control.
Mohair top, curtains and slip cover.
Clear vision ventilating windshield.
Speedometer.
Demountable rims with extra rim.
Non-skid tires on rear wheels.
Improved tire bracket.
Pump, jack, complete tool and tire outfit.
Foot and robe rails.
35 horsepower.
Tires 34x4.

See the Latest Model

Its new-style beauty will delight you. So will its equipment—its one-rod control, its freedom from levers, its ease of gear shifting. We have lately added 18 appealing betterments.

But look below these attractions. This car's ultra value lies largely in the hidden parts. In the years to come it will be the sturdy chassis which makes you glad you chose this car.

We have dealers in 1155 towns. Write for Reo Magazine which tells and pictures how Reo the Fifth is built.

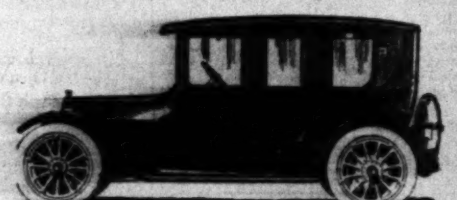
What people will say about your new KISSELKAR

THEY will say that you selected a very handsome car, a beautifully finished, smooth running and completely equipped car—a car that has a marked individuality and distinction, that "stands out from the crowd."

If invited to ride in it, they will enthuse over its characteristics of comfort, convenience, refinement and roadability.

Given a view of the engine, they will agree that for simplicity and improved construction it is unequaled.

The 36-"Four" is $1585, the 48-"Six" is $2500, the 60-"Six" is $3300 f.o.b. Los Angeles—incomparable values each. Body design optional—either four-door or two-door touring, or the roadster type.



The ALL-YEAR KisselKar

For $400 f.o.b. Los Angeles extra, the 36-"Four" or the 48 "Six" two-door model may be equipped with the original KisselKar Detachable Sedan Top for winter driving. You can have your car delivered with the top attached and remove it in the spring without expert aid.

The most eloquent and convincing argument for a KisselKar is the car itself. We have them here now and cordially invite you to look them over.

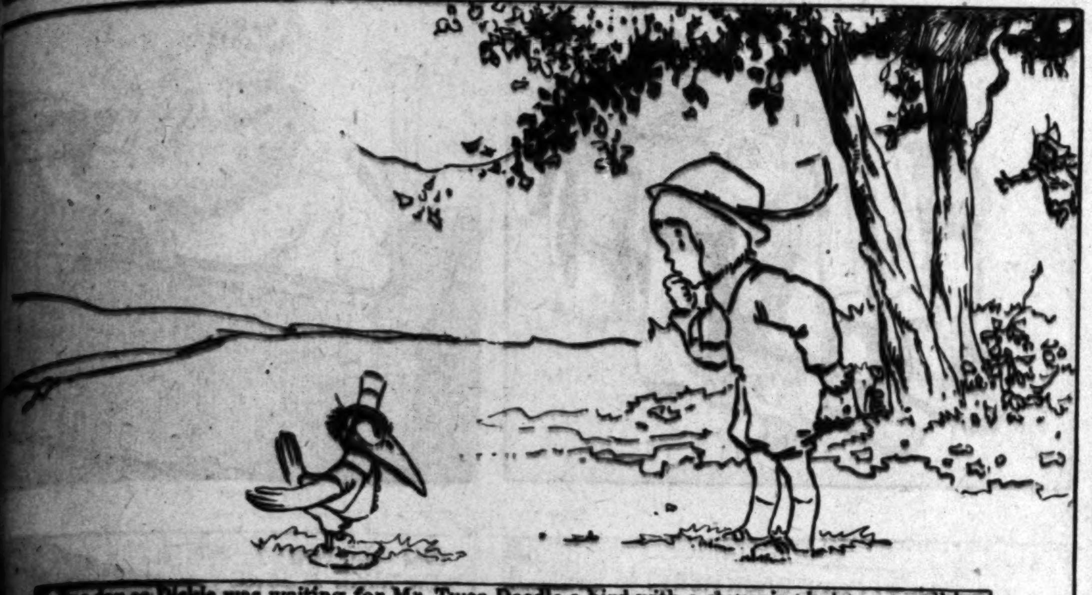
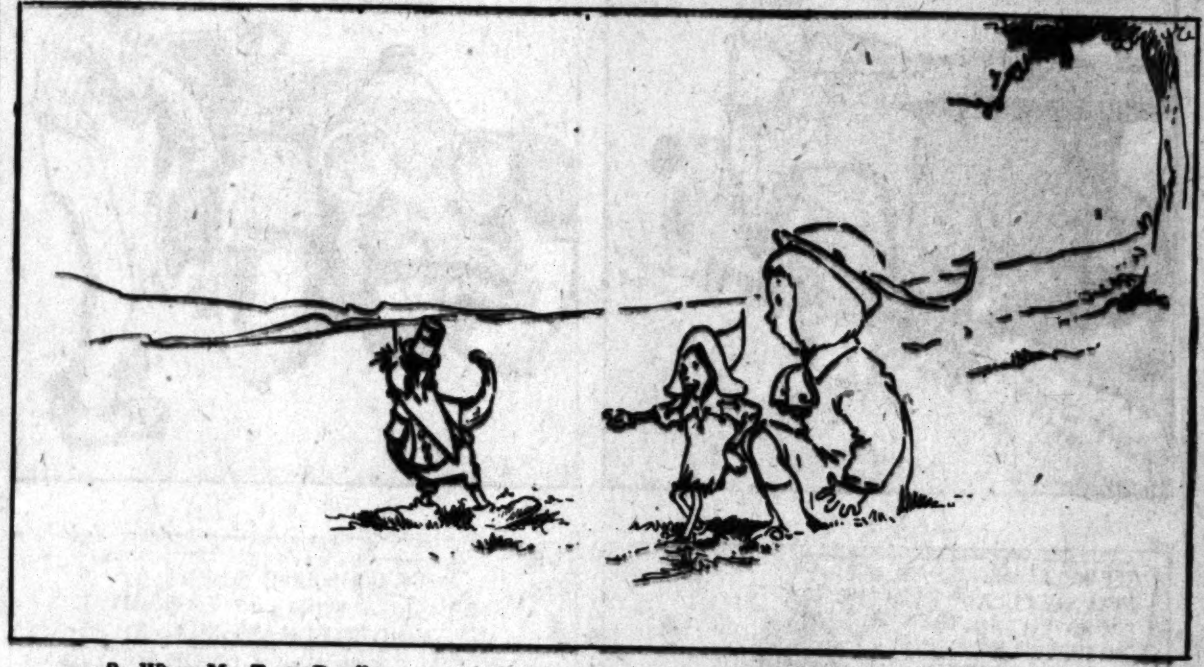
THE ADVENTURE WITH THE PIPPSQUEAK BIRD. BY JOHN B. GRUELLE.



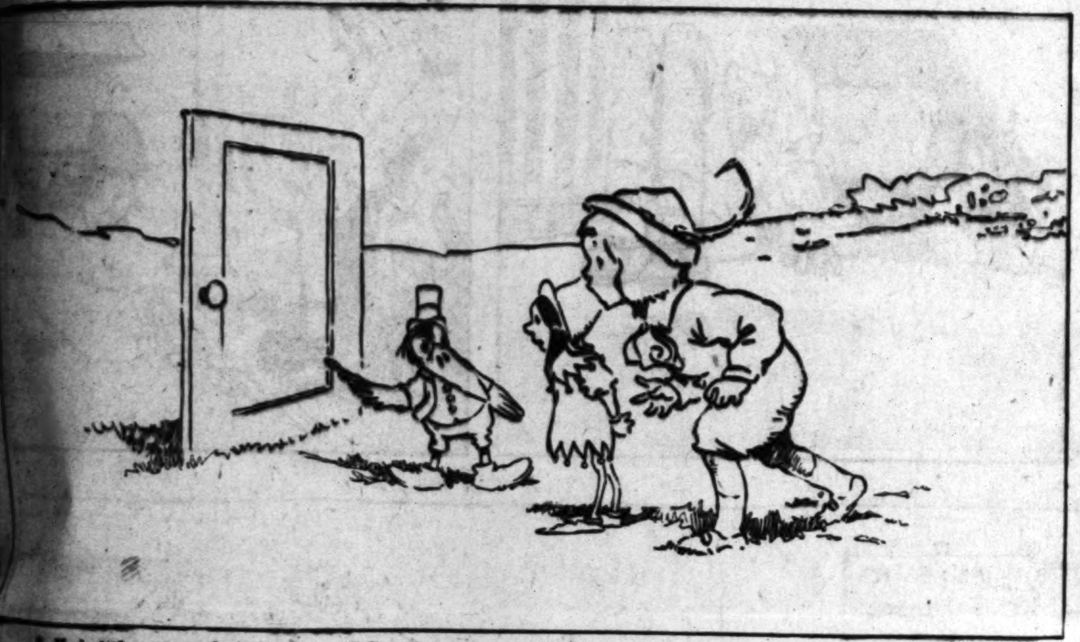
1—One day as Dickie was waiting for Mr. Twee Deedle a bird with a stovepipe hat came walking up to him.

"Aren't you a pippsqueak bird?" asked Dickie.

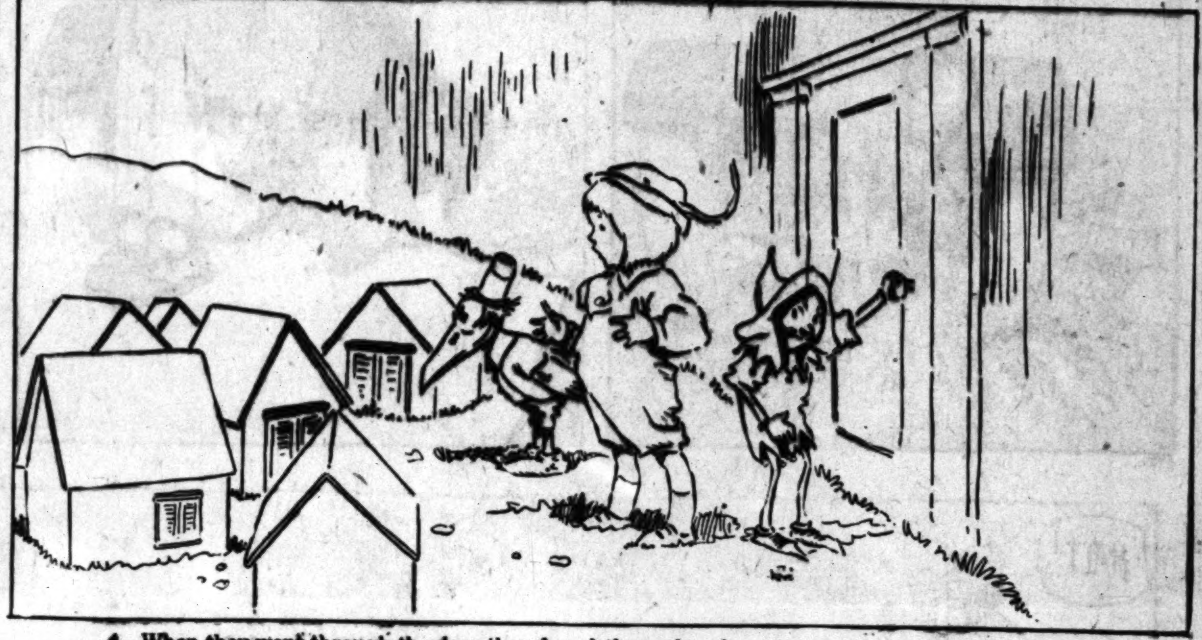
"Yes," said the bird, "and you are Dickie. I know, becasue my sisters told me they saved you from the Meedles up on the moon."



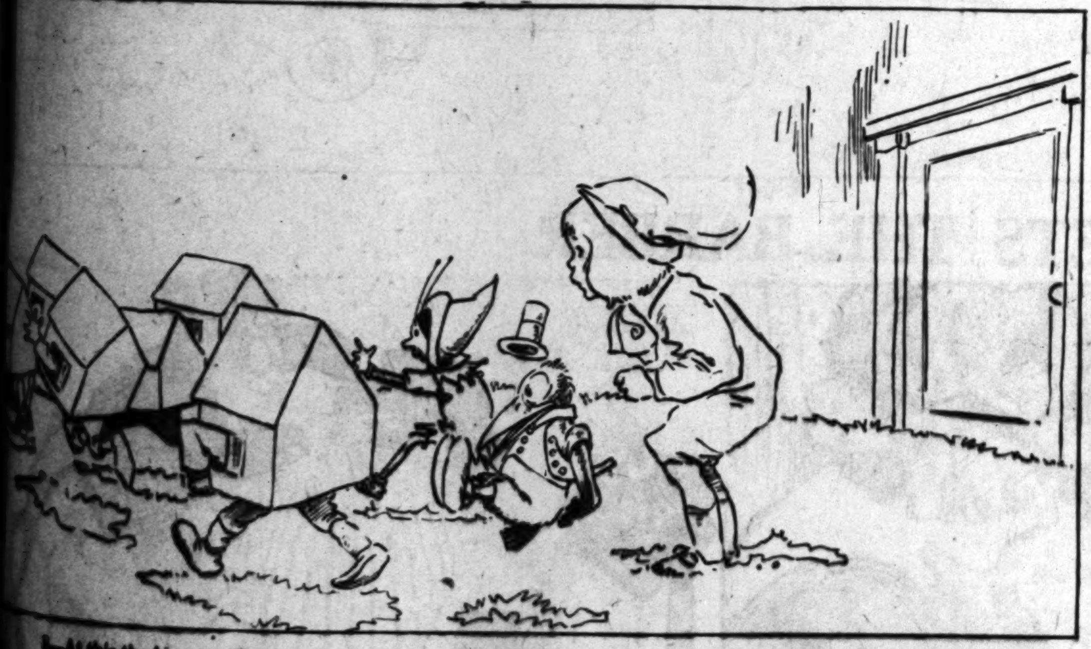
2—When Mr. Twee Deedle appeared the pippsqueak bird told them he had something strange to show them.



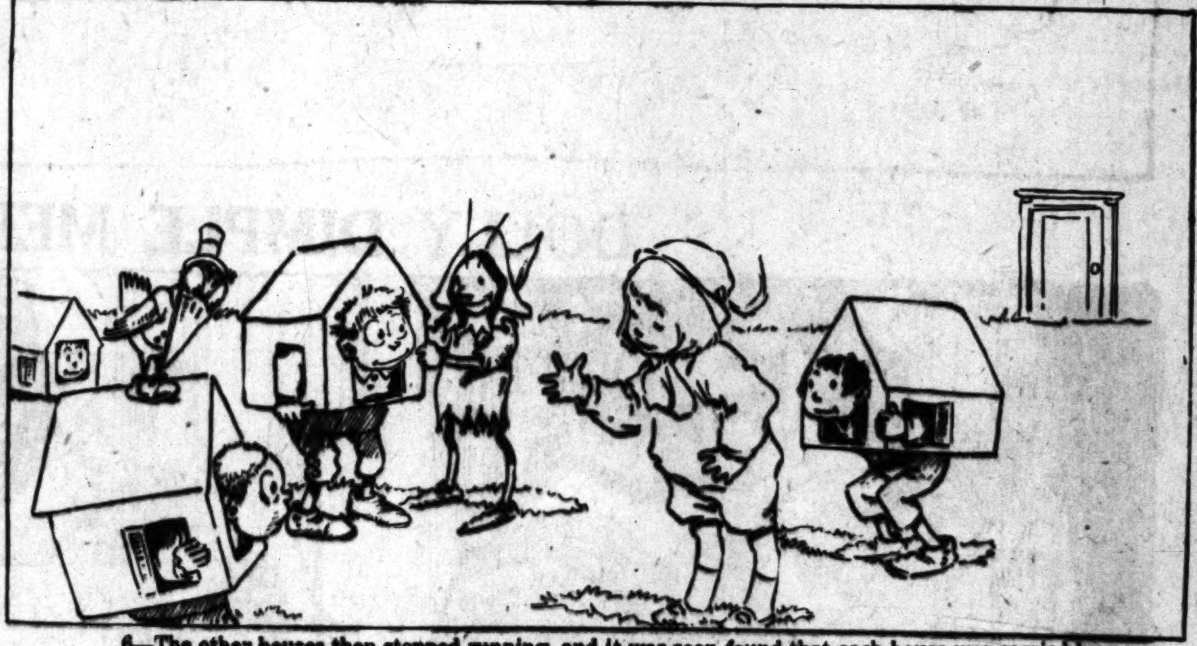
3—He led them to a door in the middle of the field. Dickie could see all around the door, and he wondered why it was there.



4—When they went through the door they found themselves in a strange place where there were many tiny houses. Mr. Twee Deedle knocked on the roof of one of them.

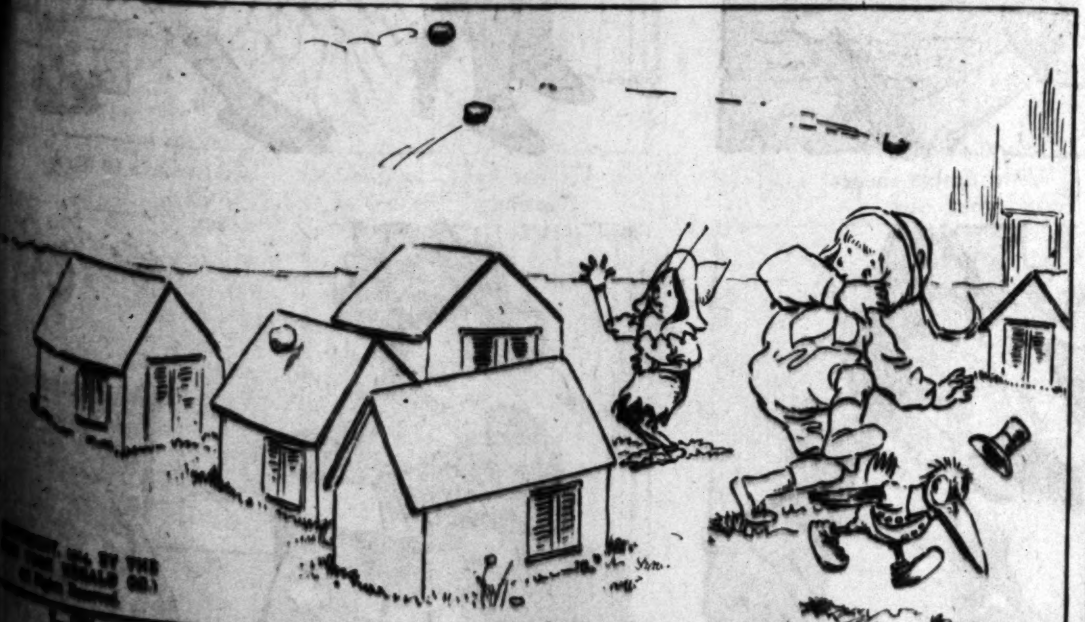


5—At this the houses all jumped up from the ground and started to run away. Mr. Twee Deedle caught one before it had gone far.



6—The other houses then stopped running, and it was soon found that each house was carried by a little boy.

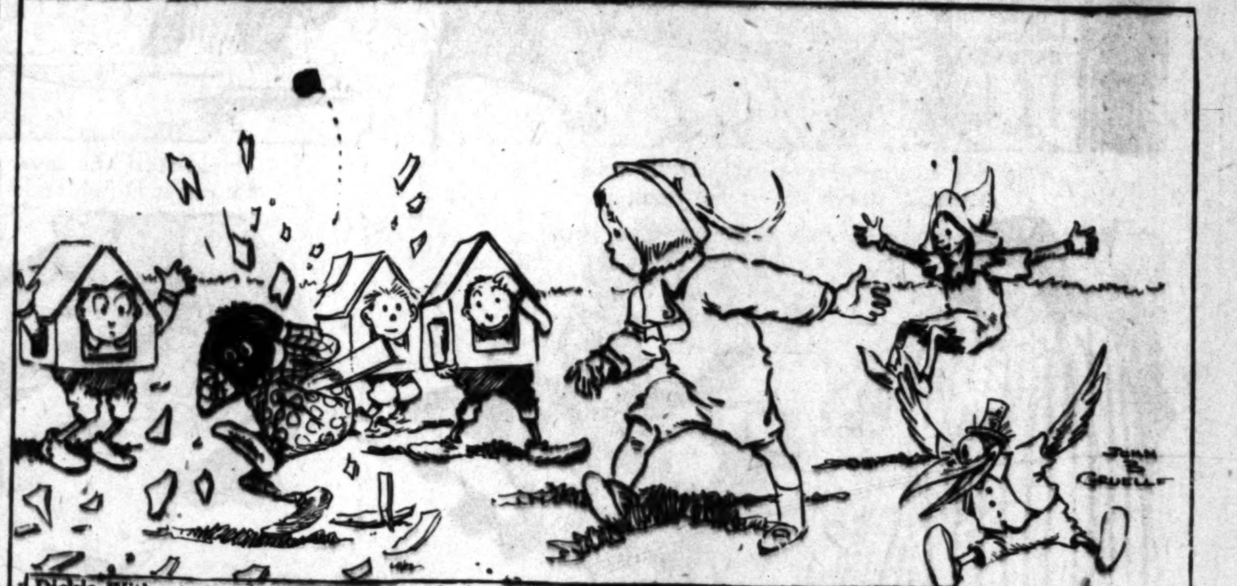
"They must have copied the turtles," said Dickie.



COPYRIGHT, 1914, BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO. All Rights Reserved.

7—"We wear the houses because the bad Fuzzywump throws stones at us," said the boys.

They had hardly spoken when a stone rattled upon one of the roofs. With sharp cries the boys went into their houses. The stones kept on falling on the tiny roofs.



JOHN B. GRUELLE

8—Dickie Without stopping to think, grabbed a stone and threw it at the Fuzzywump, and broke the house he wore upon his back all to pieces. "'People who live in glass houses should never throw stones,'" said Mr. Twee Deedle, "I did not know that," said the Fuzzywump between sobs, I will never throw any more stones at the wooden house boys, So the boys forgave the Fuzzywump and took off their houses.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

OUR SCHOOL CHILDREN'S DIET.

"I WISH you would give me an idea of a good bill of fare for my children, with some suggestions of how to cook dishes with which I am not familiar. They have been running wild out of doors and in the country all summer, and everything seemed to agree with them. Since they have begun to go to school they don't have such good appetites, and are all the time drooping and not up to the mark. I have two younger children who do not go to school yet—they are 3 and 5 years old—but the older boys are 10 and 12, and I think they ought to be able to eat pretty much what grownups do. If you will give me some ideas on the matter in the Corner I believe it will interest other mothers who are worried as to whether their children are properly nourished. I have put a stop to visits to the candy shop and I forbid the children to spend their money on cakes at the bakery. Ought I to shut off on sweets altogether? Please tell me what they can eat to gain health and strength and what things are bad for them.

"MOTHER OF FOUR."

Every mother should know enough of the chemistry of food and of its effects upon the body to have some notion of how to feed her children both wisely and well. It is not enough to know that certain articles must be refused to the child—you must also understand what he needs.

Usually there is little difficulty in finding foods that a healthy child is willing to eat, for, unless he is of the capricious kind who must be coaxed to take food by means of little games and stories, he is generally ready to eat anything put before him. He does not yearn for variety as an older person does until after he has passed infancy, and your small children will probably be satisfied with a much less varied diet than the older boys would crave.

Porridges First in Menu.

When planning for the dietary of children of any age one naturally thinks of porridges, since something of this kind is an important part of their menu. See for yourself that these are properly prepared. Never trust to the statements accompanying some kinds of cereals that from five to fifteen minutes' cookery will suffice to make them ready for the table. When porridge of any kind is to be given to the little people it must be cooked long and slowly in order to bring it to the right condition of wholesomeness.

Take oatmeal porridge, for instance. To make this for breakfast, three tablespoons of it should be put over the fire with three cups of warm water, this brought to a simmer in a double boiler and cooked steadily for several hours. Of course this means that it must be cooked the day before it is to be eaten. Three hours' cooking may be bestowed upon it then, and the next morning half an hour to an hour more will do it no harm.

Cracked wheat, sometimes known as wheaten grits, is mixed in a rather different proportion, since three tablespoons of this will require only two cups of water, but it should be cooked for several hours, and this also is better prepared the day before it is to be used. As it has a slightly laxative effect, it should not be given to children with a tendency to looseness of bowels.

Mush and milk produce the same result. Mush requires long and slow cookery. One cupful of corn meal should be wet to a paste with cold water and then stirred into a quart of boiling water to which has been added half a teaspoon of salt. It must boil hard for two hours, stirring it frequently and vigorously from the bottom of the saucepan, giving it a good beating now and then with the spoon. If the mush seems too thick it may be thinned by the addition of a little boiling water.

Hominy makes a good variety, and this should be soaked for several hours before cooking, and a cupful of it must have enough boiling water poured upon it to cover it well. A teaspoon of salt should be added to the water. At least an hour's boiling will be needed, and the nutritious quality of the porridge will be increased if after it has simmered for an hour the water is turned off and a cupful of cold milk poured into the hominy, stirring it well. As soon as the porridge regains its heat it should be moved to the side of the stove and cooked there for ten minutes. The first cookery of the hominy may be done directly over the fire, but after the milk goes in it should be put into a double boiler.

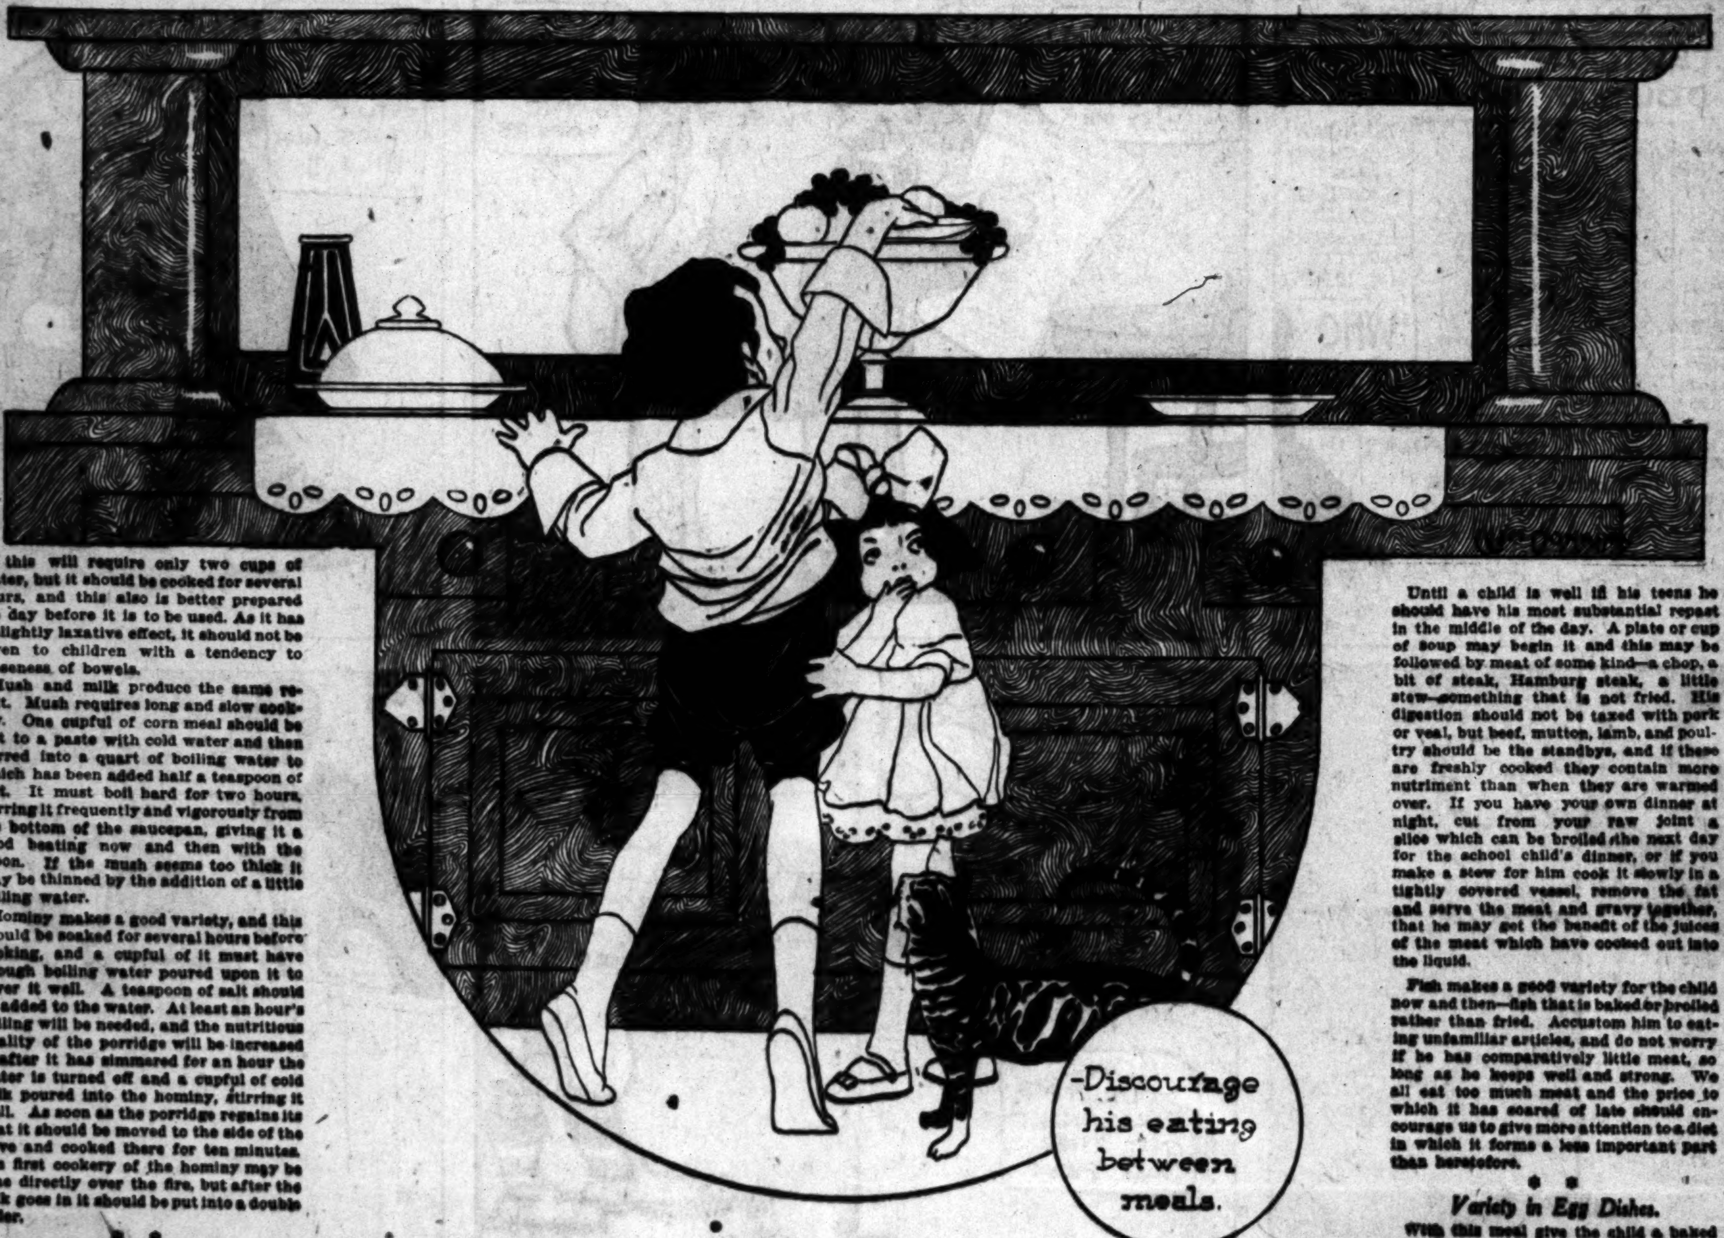
Systems Crave Sweets.

You speak of discontinuing the use of sweets for your children. Do not do this, for their systems crave it; but don't let them get into the habit of eating sugar on their breakfast cereals. There are times when for the sake of a child's health it is better that he should have his cereals unsweetened, and if you once begin giving them to him with sugar the practice is not easily discontinued. Let him have the sugar he wishes in some simple dessert or in the form of jam with his bread and butter.

The child's principal item at breakfast should be cereal with milk, and he may have milk to drink. If he wishes more than this, cook him an egg, either scrambled or soft boiled or poached—not fried—and with this let him have toast or cold bread and butter, or if you give him hot breads have something made of one of the coarse flours—cornbread, Johnny-cake, graham gems, whole wheat biscuit, and the like. Don't let him have griddle cakes or other fried foods, and never begin tea or coffee with him. When he is grown he may choose them for himself, but don't establish the habit in his youth. Bacon is easily digested and makes an excellent breakfast relish. With a good bowl of cereal, a glass of milk, or a cup of cocoa, a boiled egg, a corn muffin or two, you need have no fear that even a growing child will suffer with hunger before the noon meal.



Until a child is well in his teens he should have his most substantial repast in the middle of the day. A plate or cup of soup may begin it and this may be followed by meat of some kind—a chop, a bit of steak, Hamburg steak, a little stew—something that is not fried. His digestion should not be taxed with pork or veal, but beef, mutton, lamb, and poultry should be the standbys, and if these are freshly cooked they contain more nutriment than when they are warmed over. If you have your own dinner at night, cut from your raw joint a slice which can be broiled the next day for the school child's dinner, or if you make a stew for him cook it slowly in a tightly covered vessel, remove the fat and serve the meat and gravy together, that he may get the benefit of the juices of the meat which have cooked out into the liquid.

Fish makes a good variety for the child now and then—fish that is baked or broiled rather than fried. Accustom him to eating unfamiliar articles, and do not worry if he has comparatively little meat, so long as he keeps well and strong. We all eat too much meat and the price to which it has soared of late should encourage us to give more attention to a diet in which it forms a less important part than heretofore.

Variety in Egg Dishes.

With this meal give the child a baked potato, either white or sweet, or one that is boiled or stewed until well done. Underdone vegetables are always unwholesome. Boiled rice, browned hominy, stewed tomatoes, baked tomatoes, peas, string beans, etc., are excellent. Corn is usually rather indigestible and it is well for the child to partake of it with reserve until you are sure that it agrees with him.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"WHAT must you think of my long silence? I hope you don't think me the most unappreciative being in the world for not thanking you long ago for your kindness in asking for a machine for me; but, to tell you the truth, I was ashamed to write. I have decided, though, that in justice to myself I must tell you the plain truth. After my letter to you appeared in the paper a man wrote me that he would send me the sewing machine I wanted. It was shipped to me collect, as I had understood it would be. The next day after it arrived in the city my husband lost his position through a cutting down of the force and we could not get the machine, as it took all we had to move to smaller quarters, get groceries, etc. By the next month storage, etc., charges made the freight bill too large to take up, and, do you know, my husband has never secured regular work since. The city is overcrowded with men and we have practically been living from hand to mouth ever since I wrote to you last. So you see that by now the machine is probably beyond my reach, possibly sold for storage. And, O, how overjoyed I was that I was really to have a machine of my own, only to lose it when nearly in my grasp. So I am still pegging along in the same old way. Since I wrote you both babies have had the mumps. With the little baby the trouble settled in a weak tonsil and caused an operation to be necessary, so that he was at the hospital for three weeks, and then I had the chickenpox and both babies took it from me, and after that they had the whooping cough. Now, thank goodness, they seem to be about all right again, except for teething with the 10 months old baby. He has seven teeth now. MRS. W. L. G."

A chapter of distresses! My heart goes out to the poor mother in her disappointment about the machine and the anxiety for the babies, as well as the other trials of which she writes in a portion of the letter which I have not put into print. I hope members of our big and helpful body of workers will see if they can do something to lend her a hand. Surely there must be another sewing machine looking for an owner. I don't believe any one could make better use of it or would appreciate it more than Mrs. W. L. G. I shall be delighted to supply her address to any one who wishes to do something for her or for the babies.

Seeks Her Father's People.

"You are so kind in helping others that I am going to ask you to assist me in finding my father's people. He died when I was an infant, but he and his family formerly lived in or near Georgetown, Ky. My grandfather's name was Thomas Cummins and my grandmother's maiden name was Mary De Hagen. My father's name was Caswell Cummins. I am lonely, and anything you can do for me in the way of putting me in touch with my relatives would be highly appreciated.

"MRS. M. E. P."

Many family connections have been reestablished through the efforts of the Helping Hand, and I hope we may be able to bring you into communication with the members of your father's family. I shall be happy to give your name and address to any one who has information to give you.

Writing for the "Movies."

"I write in reply to the letter from Mrs. H. B. W., who asked for instructions as to how to write stories for motion pictures. She need not think she has an easy road to travel if she gets a text book on photo play writing. I studied one for six months and then made numerous mistakes. Our work must be correct before we can compete with the chorus girls, stage carpenters, and scene shifters of the companies. The director can easily ask them the meaning of so and so, because they probably are right on hand during the production; but our work must stand or fall alone. The addresses of the different companies will be found in the moving picture magazines, and in many cases the class of story required is added. A few companies produce well known books and plays, and will not accept others; it is well to find out what these are. All the other companies, from New York to California, accept manuscripts for approval. Most of them pay well and are fairly prompt and courteous. A few do not pay so well, because they get so much "inside stuff." I trust this epistle may be of service.

"R. H. O."

I have cut this letter extensively, both because it was too long to be used here in its original shape and also because much of it was taken up with the writer's personal experiences in connection with moving picture plays and would not be of interest to the general reading public. I have kept the letter on file, however, and should Mrs. H. B. W. care to write for it she is more than welcome to it. In fact, the writer stated that I could send it on to her, should she desire to see it.

Pickle of Watermelon Rind.

"The other day some one told me of a new recipe for making pickle of watermelon rind. The method did not require any long soaking in brine and she claimed that the result was just as good and far less trouble. Do you know anything about it? My friend had eaten the pickle but she did not know how to make it, except in the old fashioned way. I haven't much time to spend on such work, and if it is possible to make the pickle without taking hours to do it I should like to learn the way. M. K. L."

It is odd that your application should have come just at this moment and very apropos, for only a few days ago I was dining with a friend who had delicious watermelon rind pickle. I commented upon its excellence and regretted the tediousness of making it when she gave me her recipe for doing the work quickly. The watermelon rind is peeled and cut into pieces, put over the fire in boiling water, and cooked until tender, simmering gently. This requires from twenty minutes to half an hour. A pickle vinegar is then made by heating a quart of vinegar with three cups of brown sugar, putting with them four ounces of stick cinnamon, and two ounces of whole cloves. By the old method these were tied in bags, but my friend told me she merely bruised them a little to bring out the flavor and dropped the spices into the vinegar. All were boiled together for five minutes; the rind, which should be tender enough to pierce with a straw, was put with the vinegar into a stone crock and covered when cool. That was all. The pickle was ready to eat within twenty-four hours, although it improved with time. Whenever watermelon was served in the family more rinds were cooked and added to the vinegar. I have not tried the recipe myself yet, although I intend to do so, but if you have as good results in your efforts in this line as those I tasted on my friend's table, you are pretty sure to be satisfied with the simple method.

Asking Aid for the Deaf.

Here are two letters, both asking for the same object, which, I am sorry to say, has already been bestowed elsewhere:

"I read in the Corner of the offer of an ear trumpet, and I would be so glad if I could be fortunate enough to get it for my father. He has been deaf for years, and would appreciate the ear trumpet greatly. I am poor and unable to buy him one. G. L."

"Will you please send me the address of the friend who promises an ear trumpet? I would be so pleased to get it for my aunt, who is very deaf. She once had a trumpet, but it was accidentally crushed so that it could not be used again.

"MRS. T. D. D."

As I said, the ear trumpet had been given away before either of these letters was received, and all I can do is to print them on the chance of some other reader having such an instrument to supply. Let me again emphasize, as I have often done before, the desirability of deaf persons learning lip reading. It may be a tedious and slow process, but it is infinitely better than deafness, or even than being dependent upon an ear trumpet, which may be lost or broken.

Pumpernickel Bread.

"Will you please send me the recipe for Pumpernickel bread? You probably will know the kind of bread I mean, for it is sold in groceries and delicatessen stores.

"M. W."

I have seen the bread and even tried to eat it. Unfortunately, I do not possess the recipe, but I have no doubt that some of our German Cornerites can help us out, since it is essentially a German product. It is a kind of black bread, very hard, and is often eaten with cheese by those who like it. To the majority of Americans I fancy it is an acquired taste. Still, I am sure we have many readers who would care to know how it is made and for them, as well as for this correspondent, I shall be happy to receive a recipe and print it here.

Training for a Nurse.

"If there are any hospitals in this city where they will take inexperienced girls and train them to be nurses, I would like to know of them. I would be much obliged if you could put me in touch with some one who could tell me anything on the subject. I am anxious to learn this profession. I would also like to get hold of the song, 'Indianola.' It is an old Indian song. If I am helped on these points I will be glad to return the favors in any way I can. L. V. N."

I do not know of any such hospital, but you might write to them for the information. I hope the song may be forthcoming.

Three Requests for Dictionaries.

Two more letters have come to me which should be printed together:

"I notice that Will H. has two dictionaries subject to your disposal. I should like so much to have one of them and will gladly pay postage or whatever is required in the way of transportation. Our home was totally destroyed by fire last November, as well as every article therein, and as these [illegible] in the way of [illegible] to be replaced [illegible]

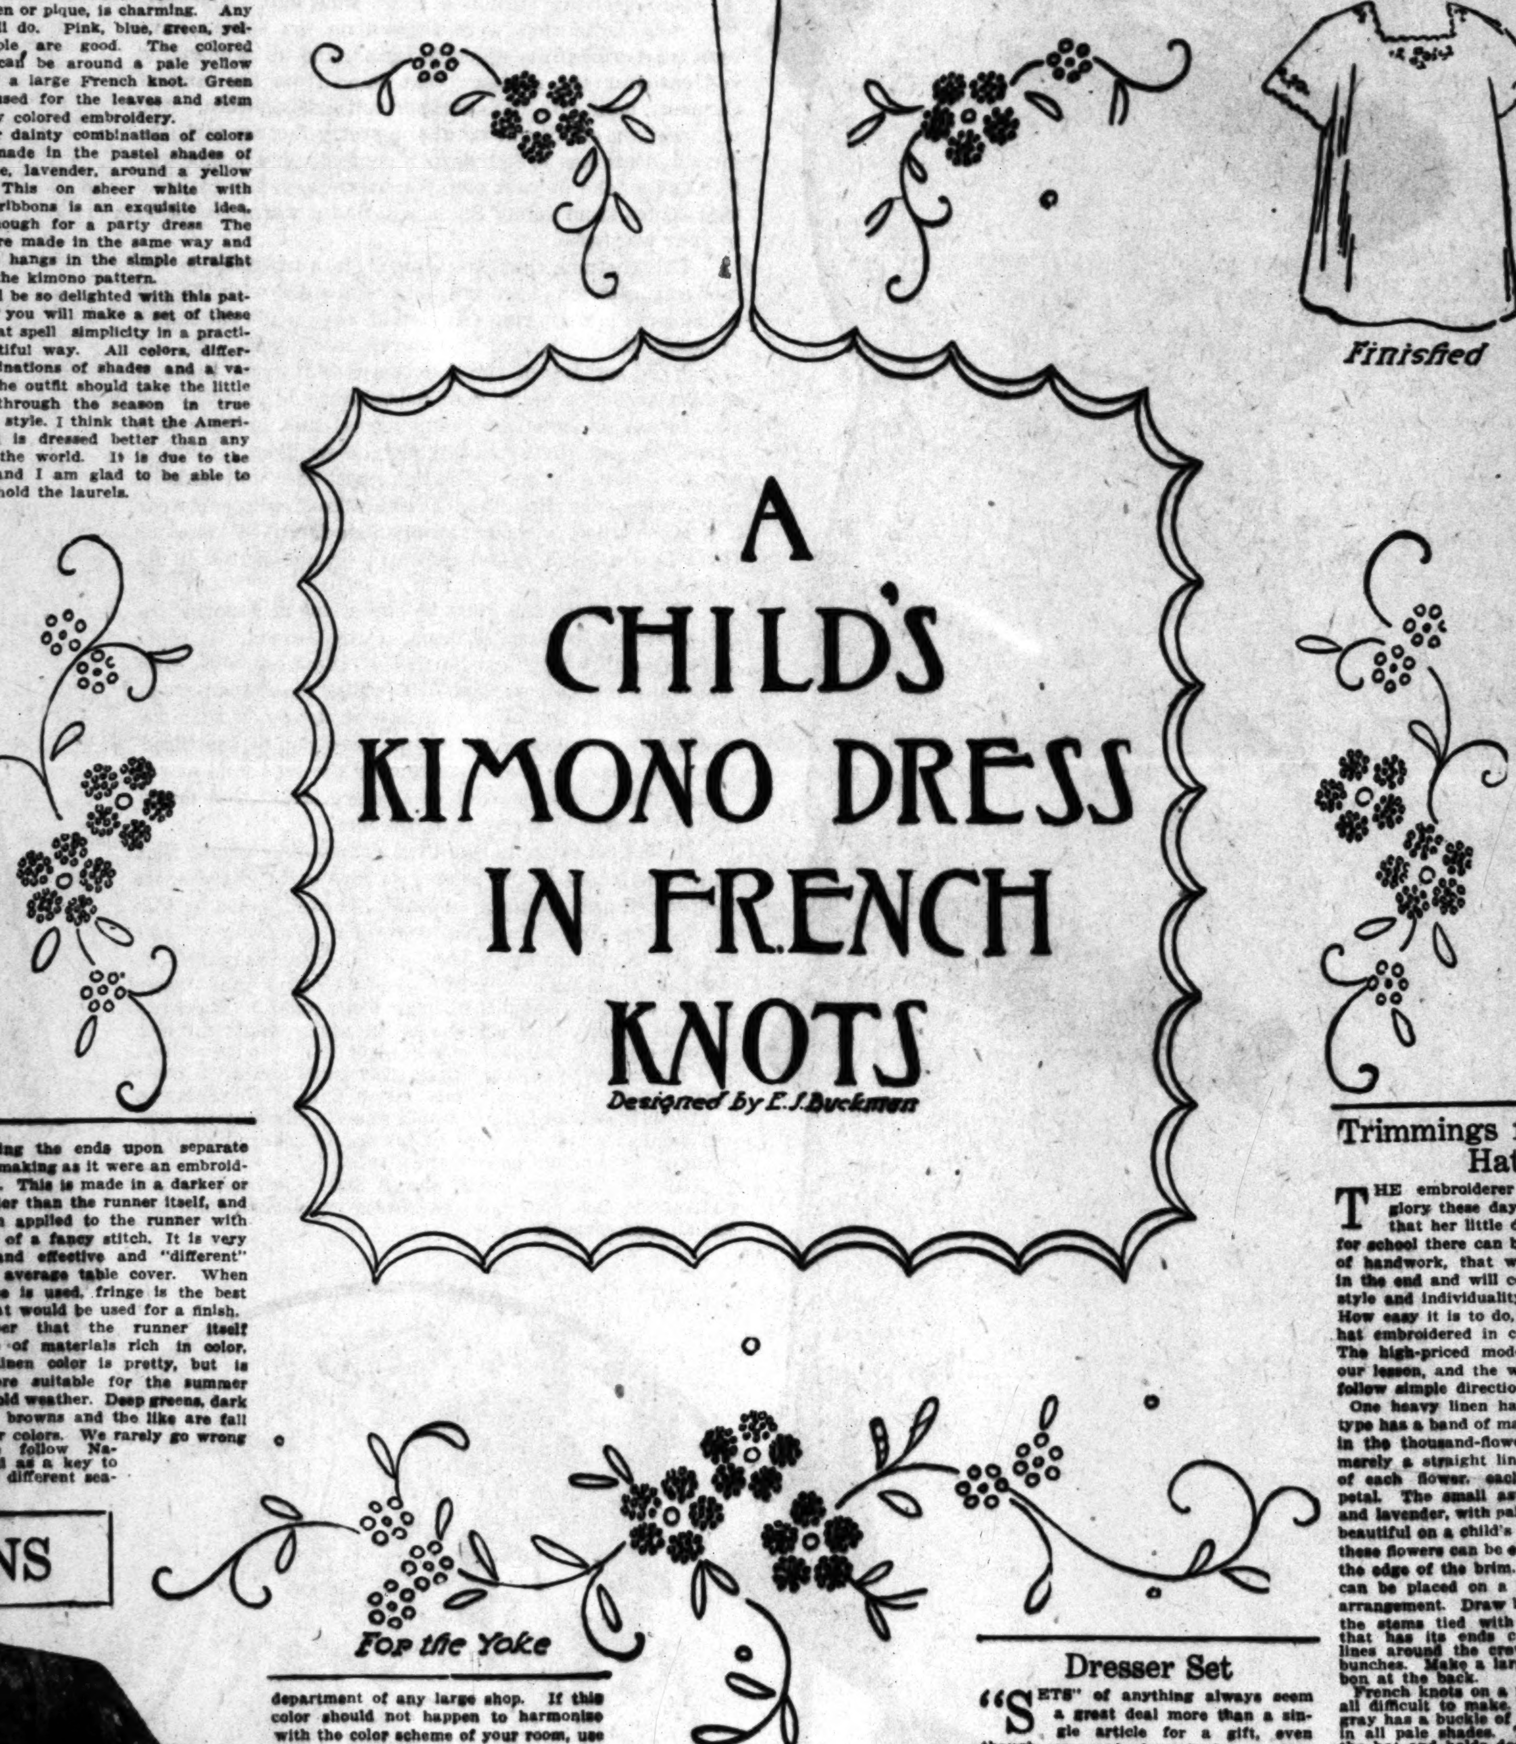
A CHILD'S KIMONO DRESS IN FRENCH KNOTS



Designed by E. S. Buckman

Finished

For the Yoke

[illegible] dress for the little [illegible] is a fashion that stays with [illegible] during all the year. When a [illegible] design like the one that [illegible] today is given with the [illegible] it can be done in a short [illegible] that you will receive it [illegible] and embroidery bags. [illegible] is of a size that will fit a [illegible] 2 to 4 years with a slight [illegible] of the side seams. The [illegible] will slip on over a child's head [illegible] the square in. [illegible] for the neck line and [illegible] the sleeves are given. By [illegible] the latter you can make [illegible] When cutting the slit [illegible] you must remember that [illegible] is attached for a facing [illegible] hem. Any pattern of [illegible] will be available when you trace the design shown today. Trace as you have been in the habit of transferring the patterns of this page. A medium-weight linen is the better, although any of the materials that are used for children's dresses will show this design to advantage.

If the fabric is colored, an embroidery in white or white with a touch of black will be very attractive. Make the flowers of French knots with soft mercerised cotton. The knots can be varied in size, the center a little larger than the others. The stems can be outlined and the leaves done in solid stitch. There will not be required any padding if the thread is moderately thick. The cluster of flowers can be around the dot that is the center. For variety you can work in eyelet at this point.

Pad the scallops at the edge, and work in buttonhole stitch with white cotton. The padding can be a heavy cord or soutache braid, held as you would couching thread and worked as you buttonhole around the edge.

Color in this design, especially on white linen or pique, is charming. Any shade will do. Pink, blue, green, yellow, purple are good. The colored clusters can be around a pale yellow center of a large French knot. Green can be used for the leaves and stem as in any colored embroidery.

Another dainty combination of colors can be made in the pastel shades of pink, blue, lavender, around a yellow center. This on sheer white with colored ribbons is an exquisite idea, pretty enough for a party dress The sleeves are made in the same way and the dress hangs in the simple straight folds of the kimono pattern.

You will be so delighted with this pattern that you will make a set of these frocks that spell simplicity in a practical, beautiful way. All colors, different combinations of shades and a variety in the outfit should take the little wearer through the season in true American style. I think that the American child is dressed better than any other in the world. It is due to the mother, and I am glad to be able to help her hold the laurels.

Cool-Weather Embroidery

[illegible] think that there is [illegible] for cool days and [illegible] for warm weather? [illegible] Nevertheless, an em- [illegible] or cover that [illegible] in the sprightly days [illegible] might be positively [illegible] in warm weather, [illegible] kind of cover in a [illegible] day might add a [illegible] that is not at [illegible] instance, water [illegible] mentally, to [illegible] snow is pelting [illegible] the windows, [illegible] a refreshing [illegible] midsummer's [illegible] interior decoration [illegible] these small de- [illegible] and the result [illegible]

[illegible] it is necessary to [illegible] in white or in rich [illegible] are seen in the fall [illegible] yellows, reds, even [illegible] perhaps, with greens, [illegible] In fact, brown in all [illegible] one of cool [illegible] and blue lavender [illegible] that is welcome [illegible] warm weather. The violets [illegible] lavenders have about [illegible] which gives them en- [illegible] the well-thought-out scheme [illegible] in winter.

[illegible] always has about it, [illegible] the proper colors, a suggestion [illegible] warmth and comfort that [illegible] other kind of embroidery [illegible] Perhaps it is because it [illegible] grandmother's day, [illegible] and its bright [illegible] out a glow of [illegible] who crowded about [illegible] their books and papers on [illegible] and perhaps even [illegible] with a piece of the very [illegible] we are discussing.

[illegible] most appropriate [illegible] for the much-used winter [illegible] It seems to fit in with [illegible] of such a room, and [illegible] for the furni- [illegible] a simplicity about it [illegible] adaptable to all kinds [illegible] the gilded draw- [illegible] especially made, [illegible] together, for "mis- [illegible] adding just that note [illegible] is required to relieve [illegible] mission furniture. [illegible] articles for the living room may include table runners; square covers for any smaller tables that may be about; cushions galore, including sofa pillows and foot cushions; the coverlet that is kept tucked under one of the couch pillows to be thrown over any one taking a short rest during the day or evening; possibly a mantel throw, etc.

The darning stitch, too, is an excellent winter stitch, particularly when heavy silk or wool or thread is used. In this, as in the cross-stitch, however, color means much. Any bold, large stitch is more suitable for winter interior decoration than the fine, delicate stitches. The latter are more fitting for summer materials and weather.

When such details as above are taken into consideration the needleworker becomes, at least in part, an artist, and thought and imagination are put into the beautiful work where some think that only skillful fingers are required.

Table Runners

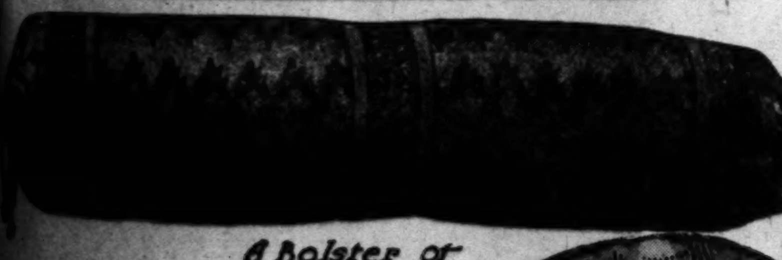
COOL days set us to thinking of bright reading lamps which, shedding a soft glow and pedestaled upon the library table, draw us like moths into a genial circle. This makes the library table the most conspicuous piece of furniture in the library. On this occasion the runner for the library table should have a large amount of consideration. While a library's cushions are important, they are in the shadow and any shabbiness or defects in them will be softened. Devote then your best energies to having a supply of table runners that will do you and your library credit.

Table runners, so far as cut is concerned, have little difference, but there comes to us one with a touch somewhat new, that of curved ends. The cover is not oval. It is the regulation oblong cover, but the two ends are decidedly curved off. The ends may be finished with a fancy stitch, but a more effective way is to use fringe that matches the material used in the runner or matches a note of color in the embroidery. Above the fringe embroider a bold design. A formal design is best for the library. See, too, that the colors are rich and deep rather than the pale, rather insipid pastel shades.

A clever idea in runners is that of embroidering the ends upon separate material, making as it were an embroidered band. This is made in a darker or lighter color than the runner itself, and it is then applied to the runner with some sort of a fancy stitch. It is very striking and effective and "different" from the average table cover. When this device is used, fringe is the best edging that would be used for a finish.

Remember that the runner itself should be of materials rich in color. Natural linen color is pretty, but is really more suitable for the summer than for cold weather. Deep greens, dark reds, rich browns and the like are fall and winter colors. We rarely go wrong when we follow Nature's lead as a key to colors for different seasons.

CUSHIONS IN NEW DESIGNS



A Bolster of Silk and Gold Lace

Embroidery Used in the Center

The Round Cushion of Figured Satin

[illegible] out of other [illegible] gone out of fashion, [illegible] longer see dainty, [illegible] once [illegible] of furniture. The [illegible] in keeping her [illegible] provide cushions for every room. These are easily made; the needlewoman can duplicate any of the attractive cushions displayed in the shops.

The bolster cushion of silk and gold lace is appropriate for the drawing room or boudoir. The bolster, filled with down, is first covered with silk of a rich Dubarry-rose tone. The ends are drawn together after the manner of a sack, with silk cords to correspond. Over this is smoothly fitted a layer of gilt lace in a simple design, and this is ornamented with bands of gold insertion. These materials are purchasable in the upholstery department of any large shop. If this color should not happen to harmonise with the color scheme of your room, use tones that will.

You have all noticed and admired the artistic medallions of Japanese embroidery which are on display in the shops. One of these can be used to form the nucleus of a handsome oval foot-cushion for your library, living room or den. Select one of the squares or oblongs embroidered on a background of black, dull blue or dark purple silk. The one selected for this design has a dull blue background and chrysanthemums embroidered in tones of pale pink, white and yellow. The oblong is mounted on black satin and bordered with dull blue braid. This is framed with dull blue silk shirred through the center with a blue cord to match. An edging of dull gilt braid is used to finish the inner edge of the shirred band and the outer edge is gathered with a heading, which forms a narrow frill about the cushion. This is a serviceable cushion and deserves a place in any home.

The circular cushion may be duplicated even by the woman who knows little or nothing about sewing. The cushion form may be purchased in any department store and all that is required for the cover is a piece of figured satin in bright, cheerful coloring. The cushion pictured here is covered with silk having a background of white, while the design is of black, red, rose and pale green. After the circular top and bottom have been joined in the usual manner slip the cover over the cushion and close the seam. As an additional finish make a narrow band of corded shirring and stitch it neatly over the seam and the cushion is complete. This is a practical cushion for whatever use you may demand of it and may be made in an hour or so. When purchasing the silk visit the remnant counter, for a very small amount is required.

The Crocheted Bag

THE crocheted handbag is a handy little catch-all that will take more bulky articles than the average leather handbag, and yet those of us who know how to dress rebel instantly at the thought of carrying the white linen or white cotton crocheted bag with the dark clothing that is worn in cool days. This objection, however, is soon overcome. Make the new fall and winter crocheted bag of dark materials, and see to it that both crocheting materials and lining are of silk. Tassels and cords or little ornamental balls are, of course, also in silk. If you wish contrast, the lining may be a different color from the crocheted mesh. If, however, you are contemplating a gift to an old lady, nothing would be more welcomed than a black silk bag with lining to match. See that in this instance both crocheting silk and lining silk are well-nigh lusterless, and that the mesh used is close and fine rather than one of those bold, "splashy" stitches that one finds in the crocheted bags for younger people.

These bags for old people can be prettily ornamented with jet or steel beads that are knitted into the bag. A particularly striking bag is monogrammed in jet or cut steel with either one or two initials. Three initials may be used if they are reduced in size.

Dresser Set

"SETS" of anything always seem a great deal more than a single article for a gift, even though composed of small things. This is especially so in embroidery. To the "dresser set" there are only two articles, although the two articles include three pieces. The dresser set may be, of course, as elaborate as you please. The set consists of a dresser cover and the front and back of an oblong pincushion for the dresser. The pincushion covers remind one of oblong breadtray covers. Indeed, they will bear a very close resemblance to breadtray doilies if you prefer having the cushion oval instead of oblong. The oval cushion would be odd and look quite as well as, if not better than, the more familiar oblong cushion. If you wish to make the set in as short a time as possible, a very handsome result can be obtained by simply scalloping the edges of white linen and placing a monogram either in the center or at one end of the cover. Do not forget that there are various ways of making scalloped edges, such as large scallops composed of from three to five smaller scallops, pyramid points composed of several scallops, or simply long sweeping scallops that make hardly more than a slightly waved line along the edge of the cover. The pincushion covers, of course, must be embroidered in smaller scallops. The top cover should have a monogram or initial embroidered in the exact center or in one end, while the under cover is without ornamentation outside of the scalloping. There must be eyelets in the cushion set, a row of them about the entire edge of each cushion dolly, so that they may be laced with ribbon about the cushion.

With this dresser set the cushion itself is not given. This is left for the recipient to supply. When placed in a pretty box the dresser set of two articles (three pieces) is most attractive.

Trimmings for School Hats

THE embroiderer can be in her glory these days, for on the hats that her little daughter will wear for school there can be put any amount of handwork, that will be inexpensive in the end and will contribute a great style and individuality to the headgear. How easy it is to do, and how lovely a hat embroidered in colors or white is! The high-priced models will serve for our lesson, and the woman who cannot follow simple directions is to be pitied.

One heavy linen hat on a mushroom type has a band of many-colored flowers in the thousand-flower stitch. This is merely a straight line from the center of each flower, each line forming a petal. The small asters in pink, blue and lavender, with pale green leaves, are beautiful on a child's hat. A garland of these flowers can be embroidered around the edge of the brim. This same stitch can be placed on a hat in a different arrangement. Draw bunches of flowers, the stems tied with a narrow ribbon that has its ends curved in graceful lines around the crown connecting the bunches. Make a large bow of the ribbon at the back.

French knots on a felt hat are not at all difficult to make. One hat of pearl gray has a buckle of French knots done in all pale shades. This is worked on the hat and holds down a bow of satin ribbon, the ends of which are passed through slots in the felt, which are buttonholed. That is all that the French milliner put on the hat, yet it has a distinctive style that is too great to be ignored by the wideawake mother.

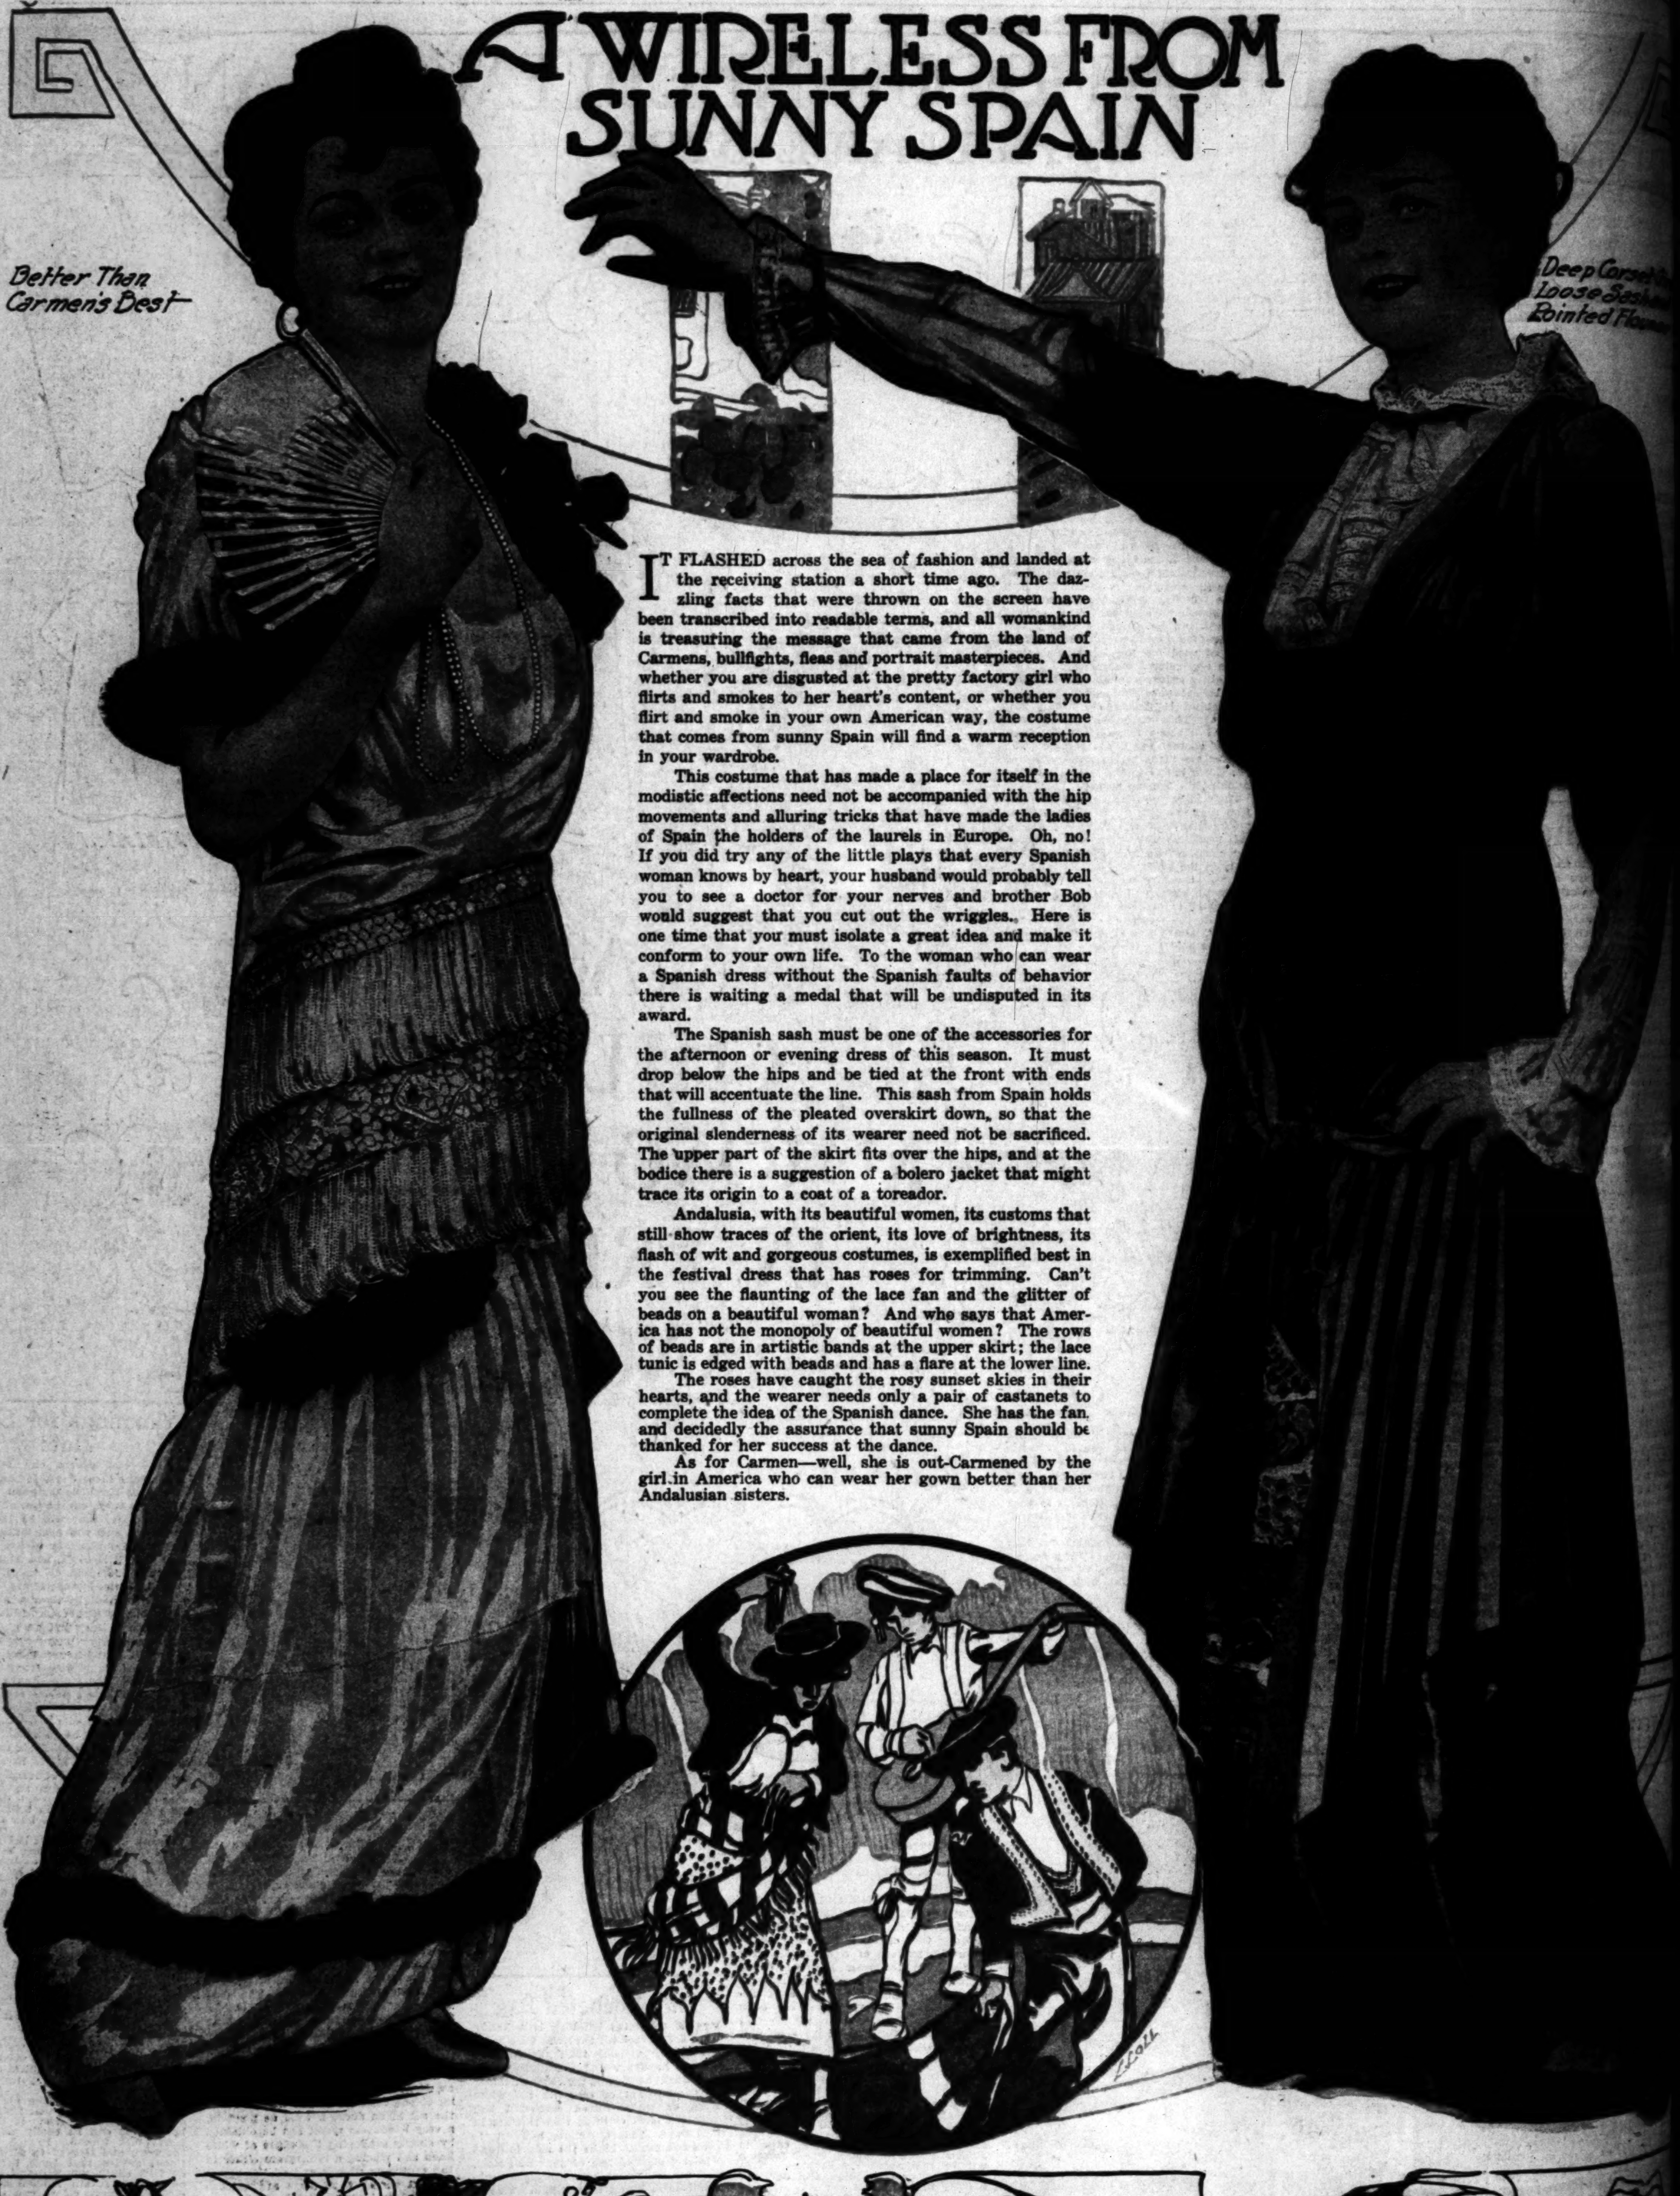
On a hat of black velvet there is an exquisite embroidery of beads and heavy floss. The silk thread is made to represent French knots, one alternating with every bead. The beads are applied in a conventional rose pattern. These are about three inches apart on the brim, scattered in a pointed line. The roses are two inches across. They are worked in the medieval pattern. This embroidery can be done over the velvet and the lining of colored silk applied afterward. You will never have your little girl without a velvet hat.

Velour in the becoming alpine shapes is amenable to treatment from the needle of the embroiderer. If the quality be soft, it can be easily worked with heavy silk thread. French knots are the best, and if used to fill in conventional spaces that have been marked off with chalk, you will find that a rich effect is the result. A band of this decoration in many colors can surround a crown. A buckle in oval or square form can be made of French knots at the front or side of the crown. The edge of a hat can be embroidered with a band of blocks that form a checkerboard design around it. There are many ways in which you can use the idea of decoration, and all that it needs is your assurance that the results will be satisfactory. Now begin on the school hats.

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

A WIRELESS FROM SUNNY SPAIN



IT FLASHED across the sea of fashion and landed at the receiving station a short time ago. The dazzling facts that were thrown on the screen have been transcribed into readable terms, and all womankind is treasuring the message that came from the land of Carmens, bullfights, fleas and portrait masterpieces. And whether you are disgusted at the pretty factory girl who flirts and smokes to her heart's content, or whether you flirt and smoke in your own American way, the costume that comes from sunny Spain will find a warm reception in your wardrobe.

This costume that has made a place for itself in the modistic affections need not be accompanied with the hip movements and alluring tricks that have made the ladies of Spain the holders of the laurels in Europe. Oh, no! If you did try any of the little plays that every Spanish woman knows by heart, your husband would probably tell you to see a doctor for your nerves and brother Bob would suggest that you cut out the wriggles. Here is one time that your must isolate a great idea and make it conform to your own life. To the woman who can wear a Spanish dress without the Spanish faults of behavior there is waiting a medal that will be undisputed in its award.

The Spanish sash must be one of the accessories for the afternoon or evening dress of this season. It must drop below the hips and be tied at the front with ends that will accentuate the line. This sash from Spain holds the fullness of the pleated overskirt down, so that the original slenderness of its wearer need not be sacrificed. The upper part of the skirt fits over the hips, and at the bodice there is a suggestion of a bolero jacket that might trace its origin to a coat of a toreador.

Andalusia, with its beautiful women, its customs that still show traces of the orient, its love of brightness, its flash of wit and gorgeous costumes, is exemplified best in the festival dress that has roses for trimming. Can't you see the flaunting of the lace fan and the glitter of beads on a beautiful woman? And who says that America has not the monopoly of beautiful women? The rows of beads are in artistic bands at the upper skirt; the lace tunic is edged with beads and has a flare at the lower line.

The roses have caught the rosy sunset skies in their hearts, and the wearer needs only a pair of castanets to complete the idea of the Spanish dance. She has the fan, and decidedly the assurance that sunny Spain should be thanked for her success at the dance.

As for Carmen—well, she is out-Carmened by the girl in America who can wear her gown better than her Andalusian sisters.
